The report of the Foundation makes one very pertinent suggestion to colleges and universities, which is that scholarships, too often treated as charity institutes, be abandoned and that student loans to students be substituted. This is at least worthy of serious consideration. The point is that boys and girls should feel all the time that they are personally responsible for what they have to spend, and that the obligation of starting life on the square should never be forgotten.

There are advantages and disadvantages about the assisting of students. Of course, many of us are inclined to think that in many cases college matriculants have mistaken their calling but on the other hand, there is an occasional genius who might be suppressed by the hard conditions of poverty, and one genius developed is worth a hundred unfortunate experiments.

THE FARMER'S BEST BET

In a keynote speech at the Iowa democratic state convention, Claude R. Porter, the democratic nominee for the senate in that state, made an attack on the republican protective tariff and urged the farmers to turn their backs on the G. O. P.

Many of the farmers of Iowa, not all of them by any means, are today disgruntled because the republican administration in Washington and the republican-controlled congress failed to enact the kind of farm relief legislation they wanted, the McNary-Haugen bill. Many of those Iowa farmers are sore enough to forget party allegiance when the time comes to go to the polls, provided they have another party to which to turn which offers them what they desire. But do the democrats make such an offer? They do not.

It is well understood that with sufficient democratic support the McNary-Haugen bill would have passed the senate. The democrats also were responsible for the failure of the administration's farm relief measure, the Fess bill. They have no constructive record to offer the farmers of the west. The only tangible thing the democrats offer is to tear down the republican protective tariff, in the hope that when the tariff is low enough the prices which the farmer pays for some of the things he has to buy will be lower.

Of far more importance to the American farmer is a domestic market for his crops than a foreign market in which at best he may expect to sell only a very small proportion of his entire output. The domestic market depends upon the ability of the consumers to buy, and this ability depends upon the condition of industry and business. A lowering of the protective tariff is not likely to stimulate American business or American manufactures. A lowering of the prices for manufactured articles is not calculated to increase wages but to lower them. Then what becomes of the domestic market?

Mr. Porter and other democratic leaders who are trying to win the western farmer away from his allegiance to the republican party must find a better argument. These gentlemen forget that the Iowa farmer and his brothers in Kansas and Illinois and elsewhere are asking for a system to bolster up agriculture, much as the protective tariff has bolstered up American manufacturing industries. While the democratic party continues to hold its opposition to such systems, how can the farmer expect to get from the democrats what he seeks?

LAWBREAKING CAUSES

Seven American lawyers addressed the recent annual convention of the American Bar association at Denver in the course of one day spoke on reasons for the crime situation. Mayor Dever of Chicago said liquor was of first importance in the problem. A former attorney general of Massachusetts said that the fault is in laws made in legislatures containing too many mediocre men. The Nebraska state crime commissioner said that the decline of home life has stimulated criminal activities. A Texas lawyer said that there were too many minority laws. A St. Louis lawyer's opinion was that excessive penalties provided in the statutes persuaded juries to acquit men against whom there was a fair presumption of guilt. George W. Wickersham, former attorney general of the United States, said that those who offer temptation and make crime easy should share responsibility with actual lawbreakers. And Chester I. Long, president of the association, said that the courts have become hampered with too much legislation and cannot do their part effectively.

None of the lawyers took the view that the people are more inclined to evil than formerly or that there is any relaxation of the desire for protection against criminal menace to life and property. The reasons given cover the whole range of the problem and all point to the possibility of a serious breakdown in the process of translating public sentiment into a device for apprehending and punishing those guilty of violating the rules of social order as understood by the people.

Communities in which any law is opposed by a majority of the people can hardly be expected to show strong respect for that law or to give substantial help towards law enforcement. Juries in such communities will not reach a verdict of guilty except under great pressure. The complaint of poor lawmaking has always been heard. There are too many mediocre men in every legislature. Democracy has been defined as the government of mediocrity, which it is probably bound to be if it is a true reflection of the thinking of average persons.

The courts are bound by rules in criminal cases which were devised many years ago when the punishments was wholly out of proportion to the offence and the theory of criminal courts was the assumption that they were the agents of vindictive justice. If many of the rules were cast out and courts were free to impose the punishment now prescribed, and not overridden by pardon boards and other criminal coddling institutions, it is possible that the deterrent effect of conviction and punishment would be increased. The discussion at Denver would seem to bring the country nearer to criminal court reform and to the day when law-breaking will again be regarded as a serious offense to society.

HARD LUCK

"I kind of hated it when they signed on the dotted line," offered the man who had just sold his house and settled down to tell about it.

"Nobody in my family from the first Pilgrim father down ever sold his house and made any money on it," he continued, "and yet in the face of that I built on the edge of civilization and somehow had a good time doing it. The manner in which that house endeared itself to me was insidious. You know a mother secretly is fondest of the child who causes her the most troubles, so I presume that was why wild horses couldn't have torn us away from the spot even though city friends who week-ended with us argued with tears in their voices that we were throwing away soot, concerts, human society and interfering neighbors all for a mess of cottage.

"Sometimes I agreed with them, for example, when I had to get up in the night and go out and sit on the ben house to keep it from blowing away. Funny thing about wind—if you live in town you never think of it any more than of sunsets and birds, but when you get out in the suburbs a bit it steps right in and becomes a member of the family. Why, the wind blew so we might just as well have been living in a sieve and so we put on blue-green blinds with half moons cut in 'em—and then we had to go out every morning and pluck the blinds from the flower beds and raspberry bushes and the front lawn where they had blown during the night. We nailed those blinds on and still they blew off.

"I had to get the electric light company to string a wire out my way and I'm telling you that staid peace conferences were a simple twist of the wrist to the diplomacy exercised on both sides. They took the ground that there was something sinister about my wanting electric lights so far from the beten track and wished to be informed about my grandfather's eyes and what my great-uncle usually had for breakfast. I stood firmly planted on the rock that whatever they did would be twice as expensive as it ought to be, so you can see we were all set for a number of jolly little conferences. When we finally achieved the lights we really had done something.

"We never lacked for conversation when we gave our small house parties either. Folks never could be convinced we liked being buried way out there. They wanted to know why we did it and if we were by any means going to keen on doing it and if so whether there ever had been any insanity in the family way back. It was a nice enough house of course, they admitted, and of course we had sunsets if any one remembered to look at them and, yes, it was peaceful. But who wanted peace when life was so short? Whenever we put on a new shingle or nailed a few boards the mournful chorus rose that of course we realized folks never got out of a house what they put into it. And I had put about $30,000 into the spot."

"How much'd you lose?" asked the man he was talking to. "Anyhow, you had all the fun out of it, and that counts!"

The man who had just sold his house coughed. "I'm ashamed to tell you," he confided. "You know the average running out my way has been sort of building up a lot the last few years and doggone if I didn't get exactly $60,000 — but wait! I tell you I never did have any luck because I just heard that the purchaser has resold for a $100,000! No, our family never had any luck with real estate!"—Chicago News.

TRAFFIC

By the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

Congestion Stops Home Growth. Prevents Territorial Expansion. Promotes Apartments Instead of Individual Homes.

The rapid increase in street congestion is tending to have an important and dangerous effect upon living conditions in the larger urban centers.

At the same time that it has tended to bring about an abnormal decentralization of business, it has tended to concentrate and congest population.

One hour is about the maximum time which an individual can afford to spend in going from his home to his work. Many are willing to spend only a fraction of this time.

It is clear that if the streets are free from congestion and motor vehicles and street cars can move over them at a reasonable speed, it will be possible for a greater percentage of the population to live comparatively far out in districts suitable for residential development.

On the other hand, where congestion reduces the speed of travel and increases the length of the trip, the citizens must live in a smaller radius from the center of the city.

A considerable proportion of the population in every city gains its livelihood from business activities connected with the central business district; professional men, salesmen and office workers must go each day from their homes to their work in or near the center of the city's business activity.

Moreover there is always a centralization of retail establishments and amusement facilities in the central district which draw thousands and hundreds of thousands each day from their homes.

Thus the street use in any city shows a great in-town rush of workers and buyers in the morning hours and a great out-town rush in the afternoon hours.

The distance which individuals will live from their business and amusement facilities depends not upon miles but upon the length of time and the convenience of the travel.

Continuation and increase in street congestion will always tend to bring about, therefore a tendency toward the concentration of population in the area closely adjacent to the center of business activities. This, of course, means the inevitable replacement of single family dwellings, by tenement structures for the poor and apartment and hotel districts for the more well-to-do.

The larger cities of the east have been forced to the expedient of rapid transit as a means for speeding up population movements. Elevated and subway structures for mass transportation free from street congestion have extended the residence range. Such an expedient involves large cost and brings complicated problems.

There are few of the smaller or medium sized cities that cannot postpone rapid transit by an effective handling of the problem of street congestion.

About the most helpless thing on earth is an automobile seven miles from a country store with its gasoline tank dry.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Beach Pond

Here is a pleasant trip for an afternoon and one which carries the party through beautiful country in eastern Connecticut.

Leaving Norwich one would go to Jewett City and then take the first right beyond the railroad crossing and follow the macadam road until Voluntown is reached. The drive from Voluntown is about a mile and a half when a left turn brings the party to the east shore of Beach pond, where there is an ideal spot for a picnic.

On the return one could proceed to Jewett City and take the Newent road back to Norwich, thus carrying the party through another section.

Except for the country road beyond Voluntown, which is under fair repair, the highways travelled are macadamized and afford excellent travel.

Beach pond is the site of the summer camp of the Norwich Boy Scouts and a number of local people have cottages or lodges along the shores of the pond.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Leonor F. Loree, who would form a $600,000,000 railroad combine by merging the Kansas City Southern and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas lines with the Cotton Belt system, has been president of the Delaware & Hudson Railway company for 20 years, and is generally conceded to be one of the ablest men of his calling. He was so recognized as far back as 1893, when he served as one of the judges on transportation at the Chicago World's Fair. He was chairman of the American delegation to the International Railway Congress in Paris in 1900. The secret of his ranking is to be found in an innate capacity, first-class training in engineering at Rutgers college, and the long disciplinary experience he had in railway building in Mexico as well as in the United States before he settled down to administrative duties.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Why Big Claw Doesn't Miss a Leg.

Why worry o'er a thing that's lost,
When to replace there is no cost?
—Big Claw the Lobster.

Reddy Fox was getting very much interested in lobsters. The very next night, when he saw Barker, the Seal haul out on a big flat rock close to shore, Reddy hurried down to bid him good evening. "You know that queer fellow we were talking about last night?" said Reddy.

"You mean Big Claw the lobster, I suppose," replied Barker.

"I had forgotten his name, but that's the fellow," said Reddy.

"Well, what about him?" inquired Barker.

"Does he ever lose one of those big pinching claws?" inquired Reddy.

"Why do you ask?" inquired Barker, "Because," said Redy, "I found a

"Who has ten legs?" demanded Reddy

big claw all by itself down on the beach."

"Yes, it happens quite often," replied Barker.

"What does Big Claw do then?" inquired Reddy.

"Grows another," said Barker in the most matter-of-fact way.

"Do you mean that he actually grows another claw?" There was almost unbelief in Reddy's voice.

"Certainly," replied Barker. "Or a new leg, if he happens to lose one. It's no trouble at all. Of course, it may be inconvenient for a while to have no leg, but it will soon be replaced. And after all, when one has ten legs, I doubt if you miss one or two."

"Who has ten legs?" demanded Reddy.

"Why, Big Claw, of course. Isn't that who we are talking about?" inquired Barker impatiently. "Big Claw the Lobster has ten feet, including those two big pincers."

"But those are not feet," protested Reddy.

"Of course, they're feet," replied Barker. "If they're not feet, what are they?" But this was something Reddy couldn't answer, so he let the question pass.

"If he has all those feet, why don't I ever see him walking out on the beach?" demanded Reddy. "Does he use them just for swimming?"

"Certainly not," replied Barker. "If you had half used your eyes you would see that those feet are not meant for swimming. He crawls around on the bottom of the ocean with them and at times he is quite a traveler. In winter he goes out in deep water. But in summer he likes to be in around the rocks, not very far off shore."

"What does he use those big pincers for anyway?" inquired Reddy.

"Oh, to tear his food to pieces," explained Barker. "You and I use our teeth, but a lobster uses his big claws. You see, he hasn't any teeth like yours and mine."

"But I thought you said that those big claws are feet," said Reddy, looking puzzled.

"So I did," replied Barker. "You can scratch yourself with your hind feet as well as walk on them, can't you?"

"Of course," snapped Reddy. "What has that got to do with the matter?"

"Well, do you see any reason why Big Claws shouldn't use a pair of feet for something besides walking?" inquired Barker.

Reddy looked a bit foolish. He felt that way.

NO WOMAN CAN KEEP HOUSE EFFICIENTLY

Without Good Health

Four Walls Can Make a House, but it takes a Woman to Make a Home

To be a successful homemaker, a woman must guard her health. When mother is not well, the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as these women did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lancaster, Ohio.—"For ten years after my marriage, I had poor health. I was on a visit to my sister in Utica, Michigan, and she had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Her husband got me a bottle and I took it and felt so much better that I got a second one. Now, whenever I feel run-down I take the Vegetable Compound and soon feel all right again. I have had three little girls in the last six years and do all my housework, sewing, washing, and ironing. My time is pretty well taken up, but I will answer any letters I receive."—Mrs. Frank Dindore, 623 Pierve Avenue, Lancaster, Ohio.

Sturgis, Michigan.—"I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and have recommended it to others. I took it to give me strength before my baby was born. I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work, and when my baby was born, my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest birth she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial."—Mrs. Edward Prasse, 208 Surprise Ave., Sturgis, Michigan.

Little Talks on Thrift

A SPLENDID LESSON IN THRIFT

The newspapers recently told of the exhumation of a jar, in the ruins of an ancient city, containing six small coins. Archaeologists are of the opinion that the coins were the savings of a child who lived and died 30 centuries ago.

As nearly as can be estimated these coins each had a original value comparable to our present day penny.

Here we have a splendid lesson in thrift. Aside from their value as curios, these small pieces of coin are worthless today. Through ages of idleness, they have, practically speaking, contributed neither to their own worth nor to the wealth of the world.

Had these coins been properly invested, instead of having been merely saved, they would represent a value today almost beyound the range of mathematical calculation. Someone has described the amount in dollars as a sum represented by 36 followed by 59 ciphers. These figures are too fantastic to mean much to us, but they bring out the point that there is a vast difference between hoarding your dollars and keeping them at work.

The secret of a successful executive lies in keeping everyone around him employed in the right way. One of the secrets of accumulating money and reaching the point of financial independence, is in keeping your dollars at work.

It is not enough merely to save money.

Every day in the year countless persons have their savings swept away.

An ancient proverb says—"Tis money begets money." But hoarded money begets nothing.

The value of thrift lies very much more in knowing how to use money profitably and rightfully than in just being able to save it. Keep your dollars busy.'—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Doing His Bit

The solemn-looking man dressed severely in black and smoking a black pipe, had been silent for many miles of the journey. From the moment they had pulled out from the city terminus until they were some eighty miles on the way he had been contemplating the luggage rack opposite, and never a sound passed his lips.

Suddenly, however he stirred, and turning to a man on his right, remarked:

"There is much unrest in the world just now, my friend; much unrest."

"You're right."

"I trust you're not unmindful of the fact that we each have a duty. We must combat this unrest, my friend!"

"I am doing my best," returned the other man.

"How?"

"Well, it's like this," came the reply; "I manufacture mattresses."

The Buttered Side

Doris already had eaten two slices of bread, the first with butter on it, when her instructions had been given to "put lots of butter on, so's it'll taste good." She had been even more explicit about the second slice.

"I want some bread and butter; put some jelly on, too, and put the jelly on top."

When Doris' little face appeared at the dining room door for the third time her demand was brief and to the point: "I want the butter on top this time."

Only three cases of yellow fever were reported in all North and South America during 1925, according to the Rockefeller Foundation.

BONTONS AND WARRIORS IN CLASH THIS EVENING

Tonight's game in the Twilight league will be between the Warriors and the Bon Tons.

Both of these teams are tied in the league standing with one victory and five defeats, and as each is determined to break the tie, with a win, a good game should be the outcome.

The Warriors have played good ball throughout the season, losing most of their games by one or two runs, while the Bon Tons have had a lot of hard luck trailing them in the way of players not showing up etc., and have had to play many of their games with a makeshift lineup.

Manager Wilbur however says he will have a team on the field tonight that will compare favorably with the best in the league and one that will make the Warriors travel some to win.

The Warriors will present the same lineup as in their previous games and all who have seen these boys in action know that they will give a good account of themselves.

Manager Winters of the Warriors announced last night that he had signed up Eli Segal to twirl in tonight's game. Segal is a former Academy pitcher and is one of the best of the younger twirlers in the city, while Jab Burns will do the catching.

Manager Wilbur refused to announce the battery for the Bon Tons, but stated that they were new men and would give a good account of themselves in tonight's game.

The game will be called sharp at 6:30 p. m. with Hank Morin and John Oney doing the umpiring.

EASTERN POWER TEAM TO PLAY TAFTVILLE A. A. TONIGHT

One of the outstanding attractions of the season is scheduled for tonight when the E. C. P. club crosses bats with the fast traveling Taftville A. A. on the Providence street grounds in the fourth game of a five-game series between these two clubs.

As the Powermen have the edge on the uptown boys, having won two games to their one, Mgr. Troland will start his ace, Lefty Buckland on the mound in a desperate effort to even up the series. On the other hand, Mgr. Holland is silent concerning his pitching selection, but it is a well known fact that the E. C. P. will make every effort possible to win tonight's game which will also give them the series.

The game will be called promptly at 6.30 p. m. Mueller and Roy will umpire.

The lineups for the two teams are as follows:

E. C. P.—Cimikoh! 2b; Whitney 3b; Goldblatt c; Dugas cf; Clabby lf; Murphy 1b; Barry ss; Smith rf; Simcox or Greene p.

Taftville A. A.—Leo Jarvis lf; Lloyd Jarvis cf; Yerington 3b; Cardid 1b; Dona rf; Eccleston c; Tombari 2b; Gauthier ss; Buckland p

CONSECUTIVE HITTING RECORD RECORD FOR CONSECUTIVE HIT

Eddie Sperber, former Boston Braves outfielder, who smashed the record held ointly by Shorty Long and Danny Murphy of hitting in 32 consecutive games in the Eastern league, and its predecessor, the Connecticut league, added one more game to that list Monday at Clarkin Field when he beat out two infield taps to run his record to 34 games.

The first record of consecutive hitting was made by Danny Murphy in 1902 when he played with the Norwich team. On that same team were Jack Tighe, at first base; Fred Parent, Hobe Ferris, Fitzpatrick and other hard hitters, but the slashing clouting of Murphy carried him for 32 games before he was stopped. Long made his record while a member of the Waterbury club five years ago.

Sperber has been to bat 122 times in his recent run of hitting, has scored 21 runs and made 48 hits for an average of .394. In this hitting streak he has pushed his way from the crowd of lowly .300 hitters and Monday morning was tied with Albert, of Springfield, for fifth place in the league's leading batters.

ROCK NOOK CHILDREN HAVE JOYOUS OUTING

The committee of the Rock Nook Home gave the children of the home a picnic at Mohegan park Tuesday. About 40 had an enjoyable afternoon. The shower did not interfere with the children's happiness very much, for the pavilion gave them shelter. The picknickers fed the park rabbits with lettuce and the monkeys with peanuts—and then the members of the committee fed the children with sandwiches, cake, etc.

Mrs. Frank L. Woodard provided the ice cream in generous portions and Francis Gilman furnished balloons to add to the children's pleasure.

Guest From Pomfret.

It is noted in New York society papers that Mrs. Frederick M. Davies had at Southampton, L. I., as week-end guests her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, G. Lawrence Perkins, of Pomfret, and John J. Whitehead, Jr., who came from Newport.

MERIDEN WOMAN HURT IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

MERIDEN, Aug. 3—(AP)—Following an automobile crash here tonight, Mrs. Fred Klett, 35, of 17 North First street, Meriden, was taken to the Meriden hospital. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband which collided with another driven by Anthony Arrigoni, 20, of Durham, who was also injured. Mr. Klett escaped unhurt.

The two cars came together almost head-on in Durham, as Arigoni was coming out of his driveway into the main highway. Each was badly damaged, the Klett car overturning and throwing Mrs. Klett into the windshield, where she was pinned down in the wreckage.

Mrs. Klett has several cuts about the head and face but the extent of her injuries could not be determined until an X-ray was taken. Arrigoni was taken to his home, where it was reported he was suffering internal injuries. State Police from Centerbrook barracks investigated the accident but no arrests were made.

SPRINKLER SYSTEM LET GO AT THERMOS PLANT

Damage to finished and unfinished products which will run into several hundred dollars was caused Tuesday afternoon about 2.30 o'clock when the intense heat in the manufacturing department of the American Thermos Bottle Co. plant caused the heads to melt off the sprinkling system and allow the water to pour out and flood one of the departments.

The break occurred on the upper floor of the building and the water, which could not be checked for several minutes, soaked through the floors and ran down into the second floor where large quantities of finished products were stored as well as many empty cartons. The water, oily and dirty, spread over the piles of cartons and many of them were drenched. A large number of cartons were completely destroyed by the soaking they received while many cartons containing Thermos bottles and other finished products were drenched and their contents stained.

As soon as the break occurred men in the shipping department and in the store room piled large pieces of cardboard over the piles of finished gaads.

The damaged cartons are to be discarded and cartons wet down will have to be reopened and their contents thoroughly cleaned before they can be repacked and made ready for shipment as the oily water streaked the finish on the bottles and other goods in the department.

The melting point of the sprinkler system in the manufacturing department is kept at a high point as gas heaters are used in the departments and the heat is necessarily high. Tuesday's intense heat brought the temperature above the melting point of a number of the sprinkler heads and the flood resulted.

The exact amount of loss could not be ascertained Tuesday night but it was stated that it runs into considerable money and that insurance will cover the loss. During the work of repearing the break Charles A. McIntyre, of 152 Broad street, boss mechanic at the plant, was injured when he fell and severed three tendons in his right wrist and forearm. Dr. John W. Callahan was called and treated Mr. McIntyre's injuries which, besides the severed tnedons, included deep lacerations on the right arm.

The accident happened when Mr. McIntyre was endeavoring to turn on the water after the break had been repaired. In some manner he lost his balance and fell to the floor landing in a pile of glass, the jagged ends of which inflicted the deep cuts on his arm. His injuries will make it impossible for him to have the use of his right arm for several weeks.

BOND RESIDENCE, PEQUOT, SOLD TO FRANK McGUIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 3.—Frank L. McGuire, of the law firm of Hull, McGuire & Hull, has purchased from Henry R. Bond and wife, of New York, formerly of New London, the handsome residence occupied by the Bond family, 411 Pequot avenue. Attorney McGuire and family, now residents of Vauxhall street, will move to the Bond mansion next month. The Bond property is one of the finest mansions at the Pequot, fronting on Pequot avenue and overlooking the Thames river. Mr. McGuire a year ago acquired vacant owned by Mr. Bond, adjoining the property now acquired. It was Mr. McGuire's intension to erect a residence on the property previously purchased, but he has abanooned those plans. Mr. Bond moved to New York when he resigned as treasurer of the New London Ship and Engine company, several months ago. He is now an office holder in an automatic refrigerator company, in New York.

The sale of the mansion has special Norwich interest, since Mr. Bond is of a poimnent Norwich Town family, while his wife was Mrs. Harriet Learned Howland, widow of Dr. George Howland and daughter of the late Major Bela Peck Learned, of Norwich.

PROF. CHAS. R. LANMAN TO RETIRE FROM HARVARD

Prof. Charles Rockwell Lanman, N. F. A., 1867, Yale 1871, Ph. D., '75, a professor at Harvard, is to go on the retired list of that university in September.

Professor Lanman has the unusual distinction of having to his credit 50 years of steady teaching, in addition to his success as a writer and a linguist. Of a prominent Norwich family, he has done much to glorify his town and his alma mater, the Free Academy.

His has been the gift of splendid health all his life, until last New Year's, when he broke down from overwork. Early in the season he left his home on Farrar street, Cambridge and is regaining his strength at Manset, Hancock county, Maine.

Professor Lanman always refers with affection and appreciation to Norwich Free Academy in his time as a student there, grateful for what the school did for its classes in the early years of its usefulness.

JAIL HILL CHILDREN TO HAVE OUTING

Today (Wednesday) is the day of days for the children of the Jail Hill playgrounds for they are to hold their first annual picnic at Ocean Beach. This outing is made possible by the proceeds from the recent carnival held at the Hill grounds, which was so successful.

The children will leave Franklin square this morning on a special car, in anticipation of one of the biggest days of their young lives. At the beach the children will enjoy basket luncheons prepared at home. Following this a program of sports is expected to be held, after which the children will enjoy a "duck" in the water.

The children will be in charge of Instructors Beatrice Ableman, Leslie Carroll and John P. Murphy.

ON CAMPING TRIP OVER MOHAWK TRAIL

Mrs. W. A. Richmond of Prospect street leaves today (Wednesday) for a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, of Lawrence, Mass. Next Monday Mrs. Richmond will leave Lawrence with a party of friends on a camping trip over the Mohawk Trail, through New York to Niagara Falls and Canada, returning through Vermont and Maine along the coast.

LIGHTNING BURNS SHOES OFF FEET OF BOY SCOUT AT GARDNER LAKE

During the height of a severe electrical storm that swept over Salem Tuesday afternoon, a bolt of lightning burned the shoes off the feet of Clinton Burgess, a New London Boy Scout who is in camp at Camp Wakenah, Gardner lake. The bolt struck about 3 o'clock and after shattering the tree near the camp, which is conducted by the New London, Y. M. C. A., ran down the tree, knocking to the ground seven or eight of the scouts and then shot down a nearby well. The boys, all of whom are New London scouts, were standing in a group near the tree.

All had a very narrow escape from death. The Burgess boy was given first aid treatment, and although stunned by the shock, quickly recovered and is little the worse for his harrowing experience. Scout Executive F. C. Burdick who is in charge of the camp, stated that beyond burning the shoes from the Burgess boys' feet and shattering the tree the bolt did little damage. The camp itself escaped damage.

A heavy downpour of rain, brilliant lightning and almost continuous thunder held sway in the Gardner lake section during the storm which lasted about an hour.

During the storm another place in Salem, near Gardner lake was struck by lightning, not much damage being done to the house, although the window sash was burned somewhat and some damage by fire caused to furniture.

This was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Whittle and the lightning entered the house by way of the lead-in wire of a radio set and set fire to a curtain, then jumped to a sofa nearby and set fire to pillows. The burning objects were picked up by members of the household and were thrown out doors. A search failed to reveal any other damage to the house.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS TO HOLD REUNIONS HERE

Comrades in blue, members of the 26th Regiment and the 18th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers of the Civil war are to hold their reunions at the Buckingham Memorial on the 17th and 18th of August. These two regimental associations have held their annual reunions in Norwich for many years and although the numbers diminish each year the vets make every effort possible to attend and enjoy the comradeship at the gatherings.

The 26th Connecticut Regiment association is to hold its reunion, the 63rd annual, on August 17th at the Buckingham, notice concerning the reunion having been sent out by H. Clift, president, of Mystic and B. B. Champlin, secretary, of New Haven, as follows:

Comrade:

Our 63rd annual reunion will be held at Norwich, Connecticut, on August 17, 1926, in the Buckingham Memorial. The meeting will be called at 11 a. m. daylight saving time. Dinner will be served at 1 p. m. daylight saving time.

We would like to see you at the reunion and ask that you please show on the enclosed card if you expect to be with us.

William L. Davies, president, of New London, and Arthur L. Peale, secretary of Norwich, have also sent out notices of the 58th annual reunion of the 18th Connecticut Regiment association, stating that the association reunion will be held Wednesday, August 18, 1926 at the Buckingham Memorial, and that dinner will be served by the members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps No. 16.

The letter also contains a cordial invitation to members and families of living and deceased veterans of this regiment to attend the reunion. The notice further states that "while our numbers are growing smaller each year, may we continue our interest in the annual reunion."

As in past years Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps is to have charge of the dinners to be served to the veterans and their guests at the two reunions and special committees have been appointed to look after this important part of the reunion program.

RESIGNS AS TEACHER AT HEBREW SCHOOL

The Norwich Hebrew Institute directors and picnic committee held a joint meeting Sunday evening with Jacob R. Slosberg presiding. The secretary reported that the picnic held recently was a success. Over 700 people attended the picnic which was held at Gardner lake and a net profit of $360 was realized.

A rising vote of thanks was given Louis Strongin on whose grounds the picnic was held. He and his family did all possible to make the picnic a success, donating the use of the grounds and making a substantial cash contribution. A resolution was passed to send a letter of thanks to Mr. Strongin and his family, to incorporate the same in the records of the school and to publicly thank him through the Yiddish press.

The main success of the picnic was due to the untiring work of Joseph Schwartzburg who was chairman of the arrangements committee. The Norwich chapter of Haddessah served refreshments at the meeting. Rabbi J. N. Rosenberg gave a short talk and thanked the committee on behalf of the board of education of the school. The committee's response was that this was only a beginning of the interest which they will take in the school work. The committee announced that they have plans for an unusually active winter to help the school financially and morally.

The meeting accepted the resignation of E. R. Siff of the teaching staff, who has accepted a position in Jersey City. The board of education of the institute was instructed to secure a teacher to succeed Mr. Siff. The school closed August 1st for the summer vacation and will reopen August 31st.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE TO SPEAK AT STORRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 3.—Muscle Shoals is another example of powerful industrial interests attempting to gain control of a utility that except for its war use, was planned as an aid to agriculture, said Andrew J. Felker, commissioner of agriculture for New Hampshire, in an address this evening that featured the first day of the annual farmers week at Connecticut Agricultural college. Farmers are now working hard to keep the Muscle Shoals plant from falling into the hands of private industrial interests he said, and only concentrated action on the part of agriculture will prevent such action from taking place.

Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine will be the principal speaker at the special program to be held tomorrow afternoon at which time E. E. Regan, superintendent of the New Haven railroad will also speak. Connecticut Agricultural college at the same time will award "honorary recognition" certificates to four people who have made outstanding contribution to the agricultural and rural life of the state.

THE MIDDLEMAN AND THE POULTRY INDUSTRY

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 3—The much maligned middleman, who is so often blamed for the high cost of foodstuffs, was warily defended by Alton E. Briggs of Boston, who spoke on "The Middleman and the Poultry Industry." Mr. Briggs is executive secretary of the Boston Fruit and Produce exchange, and as such spoke authoritatively on the subject at the Farmers' week programme here today.

"From the Producer to the Consumer" as a marketing condition is an absolute impossibility so long as the consumer demands not only the products of his own climatic zone, but in addition that the productions of the whole world be collected and brought to his door," Mr. Briggs declared. "Society is organized so that people are massed into great centers or cities that are unable to produce the required foodstuffs, and they must be brought from other sections of the country or countries. As a result of this situation, there has been brought into existence various kinds of middlemen, who in general exist because of public demand created by the society in which we live.

"The elimination of the unnecessary middleman is a perfectly normal process, for unless the public responds to the services they perform, such men cannot exist. The great body of retailers demand from the "middleman" a quality of service which the wholesaler will not furnish, and even if the latter chose to perform both wholesale and middleman type of service, the net result so far as cost to the consumer is concerned would be the same as under a separate system.

"Try as we may to place upon others than ourselves the responsibility for what seems the excessive cost of things close reasoning must show that we ourselves are the responsible ones, for we are a part of the present social structure and elect to live in it as it is, and further than that we are demanding and using to our fullest extent just that service which our great body of merchants are present prepared to furnish—a service placed upon the experience the public's expressed demand.

Discussing eggs, Mr. Briggs said that the freshness of the product—its high quality—does not depend upon the age of the egg so much as it does the temperature at which it has been kept since the time of its production. He claimed that it was possible for an egg one month, or even several months old, to be far superior to one only a week or a few days old. Too much stress cannot be laid on this point, he said, for the buyer too frequently deceives himself in thinking he is getting the best when he relies on the "youthfulness" of an egg.

As to whether a storage egg was better than a fresh egg, Mr. Briggs said he would be unwilling to answer "yes" to the question, but at the same time he declared there are frequent periods in a hot summer when the bulk of the "fresh" eggs arriving on the market is so poor that the storage reserve is drawn upon because of its superior quality.

"Prospects for Controlling Paralysis" was the subject or a talk by Dr. L. C. Dunn of the Storrs Experiment Station, and Dr. A. M. Rappenheimer of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia university. Describing paralysis as a disease which has been increasing throughout New England for several years, and which is almost always fatal, they said that no cure had as yet been found.

During the course of the lecture it was brought out that deficient nutrition or intestinal worms do not, as is frequently alleged directly cause paralysis; that chickens exposed shortly to the disease or inoculated with material from paralyzed birds do not develop paralysis until after they are twelve weeks old; and that there is a possibility of the disease occurring in a masked or hidden form so that many apparently healthy birds may act as carriers, which means all chickens from an infected locality should be looked upon with suspicion.

Three specific recommendations were made by Doctors Dunn and Rappenheimer, the first of which was that all paralyzed birds should be slaughtered, as they are a menace to the other fowls of the flock. The second was that no young chicks should be reared on ground on which paralysed birds have run. The third was that in rearing chickens in a locality in which paralysis has occurred, alternate ranges should be provided, each range to be tilled and cropped in alternate years. As an additional precaution, they recommended that young chickens should be kept off the ground for the first three to six weeks, which they said could safely be done if the proper ration was supplemented with cod liver oil, and if the birds receive direct sunlight.

That paralysis should be combatted by control methods directed against the spread of the disease, and particularly against the exposure of the young chicks to infection, was the concluding recommendation of this lecture.

How farsighted Connecticut poultrymen organized and are today conducting two cooperative marketing associations as a means of holding their markets against out-of-state competition was told by Frederick V. Waugh, economist for the extension service of C. A. C.

Instead of waiting until their market was demoralized befors organizing, Connecticut poultrymen recognized the possibilities and organized to strengthen their position, said Mr. Waugh in talking on "The Progress of Cooperative Marketing in Connecticut and New England." The egg producers of the state saw poultrymen of the Pacific coast and the middle west shipping eggs into Connecticut at such a rate that they would be able to under sell Connecticut producers if they could once gain control of the market. Hartford alone was receiving one carload of western eggs a day, eggs that were well graded and advertised, and put up in cartons.

It was when these eggs sold well that the more far sighted of the local producers realized that they would have to take steps to keep their market for nearby fresh eggs. They realized that the time had come when they would have to teach the consumer that the best egg in the world is the fresh, candled and graded egg which is produced near the market.

Mr. Waugh then went on to say that as a result of this belief, the Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers' was organized in 1923, and a year later came the organization of the Connecticut Poultry Producers'. A description of these associations that gave their history, methods of conducting their business and the financial results was given by Mr. Waugh.

In closing, he recommended that the volume of eggs handled by both associations should be increased as a means of cutting operating costs and increasing sales efficiency; that the associations should put all possible emphasis on getting and selling strictly fresh, graded and candled eggs, as the only way to hold consumer demand is to sell a reliable and superior egg; and that the sale of stamped and cartoned eggs should be pushed as a means of developing a special trade for their eggs.

Connecticut people would be limited to one chicken each during the year if they had to depend on the production within the state, according to Professor David E. Warner of the college poultry department, who said the number of chickens raised each year is approximately the same as the total population. These remarks came during the course of his talk on "Meat Production for Connecticut," in which he declared Connecticut poultrymen should study the possibilities in this branch of the poultry business. He said that already many poultrymen in the state are going into the winter broiler business to such an extent that since 1924, when 5000 winter broilers were raised, the production passed the 100,000 mark during the past winter. The possibilities in the production of geese, ducks, guinea hens and soft roasters was also stressed.

The ten-weeks old broier for which the consumer pays a fancy price in the city market cost only 35 cents to produce on the modern and well equipped poultry farm, Professor Warner said. He did not say how much of the price ultimately paid by the consumer went to the poultryman.

There was a large attendance throughout the day for the women's program in which problems of home making were presented. These everything from clothes making and home water systems to music and growing flowers. This afternoon an informal tea was held in the college Practice house, and these will be repeated each day of farmers' week.

The morning program included a demonstration on the making of hat blocks by Miss Mildred Annan, clothing specialist for the college extension service. This was followed by talks on "Laundering Fine Fabrics" by "Janet Read" of Colgate and company of New York, and "Canning and Preserving" by Miss Ina Lindman, educational director for Ball Bros. of Muncia, Ind. "The Perrienial Garden" was discussed by Prof. Roland H. Patch of the horticultural department of C. A. C., while "Home Water Systems" were described by Fred W. Knipe of the college engineering department. Miss Fannie Buchanan of the Victor Talking Machine company talked on "Music in the Home." An illustrated talk on "Oriental Textiles" by Miss Eliza Niblack of the Brooklyn Museum of Fine Arts attracted favorable attention.

Dr. J. H. Merrill of Raynham, Mass., whose work with bees when apiarist for the Kansas Agricultural college marked him as an authority in the field, gave two talks in today's program for beekeepers.

Discussing "Effect of Locality in Beekeeping" in his first talk, Dr. Merrill said a beekeeper's success depends more on the knowledge of the habits and needs of the bees than the locality in which he may engage in beekeeping. The habits of the bees cannot be changed, he said, and in general the locality can be changed but little. This means the only possible chance for change is with the beekeeper himself.

"Selecting Brooding Queens" was the second subject that Dr. Merrill talked on, and in this he advocated a study of the physical characteristics of the worker bees as a means of obtaining an early indication of the honey storing ability of a hive.

Others who spoke on the beekeepers' program included State Club Leader A. J. Brundage, who discussed "Junior Club Work, What It Is and What is Being Done"; Mrs. Adelade Roosevelt of Thompson, who talked on "Problems of a Woman Beekeeper"; and Prof. L. B. Crandall of the C. A. C.

THIRTY-NINTH WEEK IN STORRS EGG CONTEST

The hens in the Storrs egg laying contest held steady in egg production during the 39th week, laying slightly over 51 per cent and duplicating within four eggs the lay of last week. The score was 5,007 eggs, which is 109 eggs more than the lay for the corresponding week a year ago. During the first 39 weeks of competition, the contest flock laid a grand total of 181,961 eggs. This is an average of 130 eggs per bird.

The high score for the week was made by the White Leghorn entry of George B. Ferriss from Grand Rapids, Mich., with a total lay of 56 eggs. Another pen of the same breed entered by Adam Glass from Mobile, Ala., finished second with a production of 54 eggs. R. W. Colman's White Leghorns from Medina, N. Y., were third with a lay of 52 eggs. A pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Naacook Farm from Tyngsboro, Mass., and a pen of Leghorns entered by Wilgerodt Bros. from Red Bank, N. J., tied for fourth place with a score of 51 eggs each.

The entry of Toivonen Leghorn farm from Girard, Pa., is leading the entire contest, and their score up to the end of the 39th week was 1,838 eggs. Two more entries of the same breed follow close behind to take second and third place. These are the entries of R. W. Colman from Medina, N. Y., with a score of 1,811 eggs and Dudley Poultry farm from Webster, Mass., with a score of 1,802 eggs. The Rhode Island Red entry of John Z. LaBelle from Bellouville, Conn., which until recently led all pens in the competition, is now in fourth place with a production of 1,758 eggs.

Figures on production by varieties for the week shows the White Leghorns to be in front with a lay of almost 57 per cent. The Barred Rocks came second with a lay of almost 52 per cent, and the White Wyandottes were third with a production of almost 48 per cent. The Rhode Island Reds were fourth with a lay that was slightly over 45 per cent, and the "All Other Varieties" were last with a production that was slightly over 36 per cent.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes

The Locuts West Cornwall, Conn.	1569
Winlay White Wyandottes Colebrook, Conn.	1539

Food Prices Increase.

The retail cost of food in Connecticut cities was nearly ten per cent. higher in May, 1926, than in May of the previous year, judging on statistics compiled by the labor department for Bridgeport and New Haven. In Bridgeport, food costs rose 9.3 per cent. during the year and in New Haven 9.8 per cent. Only two other cities in the group of 51 reported by the department, Buffalo and Jacksonville, showed as high a percentage of increase for the year as did New Haven.

As compared with April, 1926, the cost of food in Bridgeport had decreased 0.9 per cent. in May and in New Haven 2.3 per cent.

Food costs in New Haven increased by 59.2 per cent. between 1913 and 1926. This was the only Connecticut city for which such comparison was made.

N. E. Conference at Hartford.

The second New England conference will be held in Hartford on Thursday and Friday, November 18 and 19. The sessions, which will be attended by approximately 2,000 delegates and guests from all parts of New England, will bring to Hartford a notable list of speakers from New England as well as from other parts of the country, who will discuss and study the industrial and commercial and agricultural of this section. Reports of committees named at the first New England conference, held in Worcester almost a year ago, will be made, and steps taken to promote the economic welfare of New England.

Governor Trumbul is expected to act as host of the meetings and will be one of the main speakers.

Perkins Boat at Weekapaug.

According to present records in the Weekapaug boat races, the Black Duck, owned by Mrs. J. L. English of Hartford, is leading in the number of points gained in Saturday races with a total of 34. The Mauguonna, owned by the North family of Moncalr, and No. 16, belonging to Edmund W. Perkins, of Norwich, are tied for second and third with 32 points each. Third and fourth places are shared by the Queen Ann, belonging to Robert Gadd of Hartford and the Lightning, owned by James St. John of Wallingford.

SAINT JOSEPH TEAM TAKES MEASURE OF TAFTVILL A. A. IN DECIDING GAME

Two big innings, the first and the third, with the St. Joseph's team indulging in a wild batting and scoring spree in which five runs were scored, featured the "rubber" game of the series between the St. Joseph's and Taftville A. A. hustling outfit at Duwall field last evening and brought the Saint's tossers through to a well deserved 5 to 2 victory. The Saints collected eight hits off Leo Jarvis, most of which coming at a time when hits meant runs. Two runs, for example, came across in the very first inning when Joe Gilbert, the midget lead off man came through with a pretty Texas leaguer, followed by a smashing two-base hit by Tony West, who in turn crossed the plate when "Chip" Dugas produced a nice single.

No more action developed until the third when two runs were scored by Taftville and three more by the Saints. In this stanza, Lefty Dugas, a boy who is certainly developing into a wonderful ball player, came through with a pretty single. "Chip" Dugas followed with another hit, which rolled past Yerrington. Bill Liberty singled to center, scoring two runs. Raille walked and while Yerrington was juggling Leo Gilbert's hit along third base line Bill Liberty slid safely into home for the third count.

The St. Joseph team played a wonderful brand of ball, both with the stick and in the field. Stanley, who pitch the three games against Taftville, certainly redeemed himself against his defeat of last week as he allowed but six hits. Joe Gilbert, Pete Raulle and Lefty Dugas in the outfield came across with several spectacular catches which apparently looked like long hits. The Taftville boys were only able to get six hits off Stanley, but his support was of the best as the Saints played errorless ball in back of him.

It was certainly too bad that the threatening rain had frightened so many of the fans away from a real game of baseball.

RICKARD AWAITS DEMPSEY BEFORE MAKING MOVE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—With his plans for the Dempsey-Tunney battle temporarily halted today by the state athletic commission, pending the issuance of licenses to the principals, Tex Rickard tonight awaited the arrival of the champion before making his next preliminary move.

Dempsey, speeding eastward from St. Louis, is expected to reach New York tomorrow afternoon to carry into the camp of the commission his skirmish for a license to box Tunney on September 16 at the Yankee stadium. Rickard plans to meet the champion and arrange for the latter to file his license application so that it may be formally acted upon by the licensing powers at their regular meeting next Tuesday. Tunney's application will be submitted at the same time.

Tunney and Dempsey also are slated to go through the formality of signing final contracts with Rickard for the fight before the end of the week. The promoter's agreements with them now are in the form of options on their fighting services for this year. Rickard attended the commission's meeting today with the idea of obtaining sanction for his proposal for a scale of ticket prices ranging as high as $50 for the battle but he has told no such details could be discussed until after Dempsey and Tunney have obtained their licenses. The present limit for fight tickets here is $27.50, including the tax.

"I've had the backs of my tickets—some 30,000 of them—printed, anyway," declared Rickard. "They have nice pictures of Dempsey and Tunney on them and say it's for the heavyweight championship of the world. Outside of that I don't know what else I'll have printed on them.

"The only thing I'm sure of is that I'll hold the fight this year, somewhere, even if I have to take it out in a desert."

HARD FOUGHT MATCHES FEATURE SEABRIGHT PLAY

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 3.—(AP)—A day of desperately fought matches under a scorching sun brought favorites successfully throughout the second round of play in the annual Seabright invitation tennis tournament today.

Helen Wills was content to win her way to the semi-finals of the women's singles without extending herself, despite the fact her contest with Mrs. Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., threatened to stretch over three sets. But the thrills that were missing in the triumph of the national women's champion at 6-4, 6-0, were provided in abundance by three exhausting battles in the men's singles.

The endurance struggles brought Takeiichi Harada of Japan, Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., and Francis T. Hunter of New York through to the quarter finals alongside William M. Johnston of California, whose progress through the first two rounds yesterday was less vigorously contested.

Three other favorites advanced to join this quartet without being closely pressed, while Vincent Richards, America's No. 3 ranking player, received a default from Percy Kynaston of New York. Tomorrow he will be pitted against Edward G. Chandler, intercollegiate champion, who vanquished George Lotte of Chicago today, 6-4, 6-1.

REDS BREAK JINX AND BEAT BRAVES TWICE

BOSTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—After losing six straight games in Boston this season, Cincinnati shook off its Boston jinx to take a double-header from the Braves here today, 1 to 0 and 3 to 2. Mays held Boston in check during the first game, with the only run coming in the opening inning after an infield hit, a bad throw by Pitcher Wertz and successive sacrifices.

The second game was without extra base hits. Two singles in the eighth inning, and error by Burrus and Pipp's sacrifice allowed two runs to give the Reds the lead, and the game. Moore, Brave's second sacker injured a leg; muscle during the second game, and was replaced by Gautreau. The score:

GIANTS SPLIT DOUBLE PROGRAM WITH CUBS

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The New York Giants split a twin program with the Chicago Cubs today, winning the opener by 5 to 4 and losing the closing game by 5 to 3. Catcher Paul Florence of New York was overcome by the heat and had to leave in the eighth inning of the first game.

Cooney won the second game for Chicago in the sixth, crashing a homer with two on base. Bush had shut the Giants out until the ninth when a misplay and a double paved the way for the New York Giants. Snyder caught his first game for the Giants since he broke a wrist in a fight with Coach Onslow of Pittsburgh early in June.

PIRATES POUND OUT EASY WIN OVER PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates slaughtered the Phillies here today, 14 to 2, and earned an even break in the four game series. The champions included eight two baggers and three home runs in their total of 22 hits, one of the homers being Wright's eighth for the season. Bush was touched for only five hits by Philadelphia, but both the local scores were homers.

KAPLAN WINS HIS FIRST BOUT AS LIGHTWEIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., retired featherweight champion, tonight scored an impressive 10-round victory over Tommy Cello of Los Angeles in his first appearance as a lightweight. Kaplan weighed 124 and Cello 130 3-4.

The contest proved that the Meriden boy had retained his speed in the new division. He forced the fighting all the way and ringside critics credited him with eight of the ten rounds, two being registered as even. In only the first and sixth did the Pacific coast boxer have anything like an even break.

In the eighth Kaplan opened the trip-hammer attack that gave him fame as a featherweight and had Cello nearly knocked out on the ropes.

Eddie Lord of Waterbury, Conn., gained a decision over Lou Guglielmini of New York in a 10-round bout. The weights were: Lord 129, Guglielmini 127 1-2.

Al Tripoli of New York, 125, outpointed Spencer Gardner of Newport, R. I., 130, in a 10-round contest. Gardner substituted for Jackie Snyder of New York.

RED SOX TAKE DOUBLE VICTORY FROM INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3—(AP)—Boston broke Cleveland's winning streak of seven straight today when it won both games, 8 to 7 in 10 innings and 3 to 0. The first game, unique in that Boston scored six in the fourth inning and Cleveland seven in the same round, went to Boston as a result of Wingfield's effective relief pitching and the timely hitting of Tobin.

The second game was a pitchers' battle between Zahniser and Shaute, but the latter did not settle down until after the first inning, in which he allowed three hits and passed a batter.

Burns made four two-base hits, increasing his total for the season to 48. Score:

GEHRIG'S TRIPLE WINS GAME FOR YANKEES

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—(AP)—Gehrig's triple in the ninth inning following Comb's double gave New York a 7 to 6 victory over Chicago in the final game of the series which the Yankees won three games to one. It was the first series the White Sox have lost at home this season. Lazzeri's home run in the fourth inning, his 14th for the season, with two men on base, overcame the locals' early lead. Combs led the attack for the visitors with five hits including two doubles while Kamm collected four singles for Chicago. It was Johnny Mostil day and a delegation of home town fans from Whiting, Ind., presented gifts and cheered the Sox outfielder. Score.

BUDDIES TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM THE CLEAVERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 3—The Buddies turned back the Cleavers in tonight's twilight game by a 3 to 2 score. Barnie scored the winning run in the fourth inning coming in on Gasloricki's sacrifice fly to left field after he had hit a triple. The game was closely played throughout both teams scoring two runs in the first frame making it an even battle. The Cleavers found Lagace for 5 hits while the Buddies touched Ashley for four hits. The game scheduled for Wednesday evening brings the Nail Drivers and the Kilowatts together. The Nail Drivers are making a strong bid for first place, having turned in six consecutive wins, and are now holding down second place.

Not a Forfeit Game

The Taftville Recordbreakers wish to know why the Versailles Buddies put such an account in the paper about winnin gby a forfeit. Before the game started it was decided to play only a seven-inning game and at the end of the seven innings the Recordbreakers led by the score of 3 to 3 and nothing was said about a forfeit game, therefore the Recordbreakers claim the

SUSIE IS ENGROSSED IN DECIDING WHERE SHE IS TO SPEND HER VACATION

Perhaps it is the hot weather and perhaps it is the effects of the dog day weather that causes the shortness of Susie's letter to the sports editor this week. She is busy planning her vacation which she is to take very soon. She writes of it as follows:

Dear Sports Ed:

Thanks for them kind words what you had in the paper Tuesday morning. You know what I mean, them words about me being young. Course I ain't as young as I was once but then again I ain't so old as what I need false teeth and switches. No I ain't ill either but this hot weather has just naturally made me lazy, so that's why I ain't sent no letter this week. Then again we is having quite a conflab regarding vacations up to my house and believe me Ed. there ain't no harmony round that shack.

When I broke the news to the family that my vacation was coming along pretty soon I sure did start something. You see when I takes my coupla weeks off its the signal for the whole kit and boodle to pack up and beat it from the city. The only ointment on the fly is that everybody wants to go some special place and usually it ends up with everybody staying at home or else each one going some different place. Well when I springs the glad tidings that my vacation was due the first couple weeks in September everybody from little Willie up to the boss, (that's Ma) pipes up with "let's go here."

There being five in the family there's five places what's got to be debated on, and believe me in this argiment there ain't no holds that's barred. Ma says we'll get a cottage at the beach but nobody seconds the motion and she starts to lay her facts before the house. She talks for about a hour when Pa pipes up and says, "Throw off the belt Ma, and give somebody what's got some brains a chance to say something." Ma don't like that much and says, "Listen here, you old fossil, if brains was doing the talking you'd be down in the Mystic Oral school talking with your fingers." All Pa says was, "Say that again and make it louder and funnier." That kind of shuts Ma up and then the "other half" suggests we take a two weeks' trip to Canada.

Of course when Pa suggests going to Canada nobody knew why he wants to go. But I heard Pa telling some of his friends the other night that his cellar was as dry as the Sahara. I don't know just what he meant but the fellers all laughed and said that was tough luck. If we should go to the Oasis of the North it ain't so much getting Pa there as it is getting him back. Ma looks at me and shakes her head so I guess we ain't going to Canada.

I suggests we go to them mountains which is a sort of classy place but sister Neil and little Willie says there ain't nothing to do places but kill mosquitoes whats all the time biting you. Course I didn't tell 'em that a certain feller I met last year was going to be there in September. Ma kinda of sides with me and maybe we'll go 'cause Ma always said she thought she'd look kind of nifty in them knickers and them high lace shoes what you see in the pictures of them mountain climbers.

Nellie she's set on going to New York where she says you can have a good time besides being able to pick up "some of the darlingest dresses" in them bargain basements. Well that suggestion don't register with nobody at all and Willie voices the sentiment of the family gathering when he says, "Aw Gee Nell, that's a hot place to go and spend a vacation. Ain't it hot enough at home without going to a hotter place?" So I guess there ain't much chance of Nell getting no bargains. Willie don't say much but he's doing a lot of thinking and finally he suggests that we all go on camping trip in an automobile. Well, the kid ain't so dumb at that for he says if we go on a camping trip we can stop at the beaches so's to please Ma and we can go to the mountains so I'll be satisfied" and maybe Nell can do some shopping in the cities what we go through. Pa don't say nothing but I can see he think's he's outa luck.

Well, nothing ain't decided yet but Willie's plan is meeting with no opposition except from Pa who is telling about a lotta folks what had all kinds of trouble on camping trips. We got a month to decide in but they will be arguing the matter from now till September.

Say Ed. to change the subject want it funny about that feller what goes to court with one yellow shoe on and one black one. That feller oughta have a valet or ought to dye his shoes all one color. Still being a lawyer covers a multitude of mistakes and most everybody says its the mental strain of great law cases what causes such absent mindedness. Still if my old man went out that way everybody would say he'd been hitting the old bottle again. Of course I ain't going to mention the lawyer's name but he's got a office in the Richards building and he fined the old man five and costs once. Maybe you can guess who it is. He's getting a great laugh out of it down to the Arcanum club because he thinks them fellers don't know who it is.

Say Ed. who was the feller what went to a Hartford fight and lost his hat out of the auto and didn't know it 'till some girl drove up beside the machine and handed it to him after he had gone about 10 miles. He thanked the girl but she said she had her family in the car with her, so he drove on. Somebody said his name was Yelsir. Do you know him?

Well, so long Ed. I gotta get back to the vacation argument or I'll be voted down.

Yours as ever,

SUSIE.

ROMMEL WEAKENS IN 8TH AND TIGERS TAKE GAME

DETROIT, Aug. 3—(AP)—After pitching shutout ball for eight innings, Rommel wilted before a ninth inning Tiger attack and Detroit defeated Philadelphia, 4 to 3, in the last game of their series here today. Entering the ninth inning three runs behind, the Tigers tied the score on singles by Heilmann and Wingo, Cobb's two-bagger, a sacrifice fly by Burke and a single by Bassler. The game was won in the tenth when, with the bases filled, Heilmann rolled a slow grounder to Galloway, and Blue, on third, reached home ahead of the throw. Simmons hit his 15th home run of the season in the sixth inning. Score:

DRINK GETS CENTRAL VILLAGE MAN INTO TROUBLE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 3.—Henry A. Murdock has been a weaver at Central Village. Then he obtained work in Worcester and got money enough together so that he bought an Overland roadster and he drove to New London. His car was found parked, with Murdock carrying a load he was in danger of spilling. He was arrested. Murdock was without any defense. He said he was intoxicated. That was not the least of his troubles for when he was fined he could not pay. He offered to sell his car for $50, but there was no buyer. One fellow who became interested looked over the car and then concluded that he did not want it at the price. So Murdock was committed to jail, his license taken away from him and he was left to arrange, if he could, with relatives to come to his relief financially.

Bernard Lognetto, a baggage man at the Griswold hotel, and William Glossenger, a restaurant employe, were charged with intoxication, and each admitted that there was no mistake made when he was accused. They were of the harmless sort of drunk, so they were released on suspended judgment.

GIRL AS BAD AS MEN COURT HEARING PROVES

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 3.—Zachary Korn, James Gorra and Hilda Jansen, may consider themselves fortunate that they are at liberty today instead of being in custody for crimes that might send them into confinement for a considerable time. The Jansen girl is 20, while the young men associated with her are a little her senior. They were dance hall habitues and there it appears they established relations that led to their troubles. The young men were accused of statutory rape when arrested a week ago, but the facts as brought out did not warrant pursuing them on that ground. Miss Jansen represented, when she was brought to the police station in an automobile at the time their experience became known, that she was attacked in the highway on Glenwood avenue by Korn. She said she came from a dance hall at the beach and that her escort, Korn, became jealous of her. She claimed her clothing was torn from her and that she was abused. Today, in court, Prosecutor Hollandersky put a phase upon the matter which showed the girl to be a bad one and to have been a party to circumstances that made her an offender in a way that lessened the offense for which the men were held. The complaint against Korn was amended so that simple assault was alleged. He admitted that he was guilty of that for he had struck the girl. The complaint against Gorra was nolled. The prosecutor represented that Miss Jansen was a girl to be put under restraint. Korn was fined $25 without costs.

An automobile owned and driven by Frank Houck, of Bartlett's road, Uncasville, struck Eleanor Damico, six, of 61 Shaw street, this afternoon on Shaw street near Hobron street. The child ran from the sidewalk in an effort to reach the opposite side of the street and before Houck could bring the automobile to a stop she was struck by the fender and knocked down. Patrolman John Foley was near at hand and had Houck convey her to Lawrence hospital where an examination revealed that she had sustained only bruises.

The heat in New London today was most oppressive and the mercury reach one of its highest points of the season. At 2 o'clock the mercury registered 91, where the sun's rays had not fall upon the thermometer at any time during the day. The registration today was not the highest of the season for ten days ago the same thermometer registered 93 at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

At a meeting of Nameaug Engine company held last night it was voted to secure the services of the Scotch fife and drum corps, Hartford, for the parade to take place the morning of the annual firemen's convention and field day. The company also voted to hold open house during the two days' celebration.

An automobile driven by a chief petty officer named Usher, stationed at the submarine base, and a sedan owned by a New London Greek merchant, collided on the military highway, Groton at 1:30 o'clock this morning. Usher's auto was overturned and completely wrecked, but neither he nor another chief petty officer was injured except for bruises. The New London automobile suffered the loss of a front wheel. Usher was arrested by State Police Officer Henry Albright charged with reckless driving and will be presented in Groton town court next Monday morning.

Harry Libby has sold a house and lot on Gorton street to Isaac and Fannie Resnikoff.

Mary E. Herlihy has sold a building lot on West street to Leroy M. Darrow.

John D. and Jane Murray have sold to Thomas Murray Anderson and Duncan Silver a house and lot, corner of Maple avenue and Wightman street.

Aldo Giustic, 50 Smith street, complained to the police today that his operator's license and his union card had been stolen from a pocket of his coat, which he had left upon the seat of his automobile.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today approved of the right to drive of Ernest Guterman, submarine base.

A Dodge sedan owned by Homer W. Cornwall, 579 Ocean avenue, was stolen from in front of 10 Winthrop street last night and a half hour later was found wrecked in Groton. Cornwall parked his auto on Winthrop street early in the evening and when he returned to take possession of the car he discovered it missing. Complaint was made to the police that the auto had been stolen and this morning it was found abandoned at the corner of Broad and Cottage streets, Groton, in a damaged condition. It then developed that the auto in passing through Thames street, Groton, had collided with a Groton and Stonington Traction company trolley car. After the collision the auto was driven to where it was found and the driver was forced to abandon it, the mechanism having been disabled. In the car when the collision occurred were two men and a woman.

Michael Berou, 8 Elizabeth street, was arrested on a warrant by Patrolman Clarence Maryln this afternoon charged with reckless driving. He furnished a surety on his bond of $50 for his presentation in the police court tomorrow morning.

Patrolman John Foley has resumed his duties after having been confined to his home, Williams street, a week by illness.

Robe Kidler, United States Coast Guard section base, state pier and Douglas Mahloy, United States Coast guard destroyer Henry, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

There is no change tonight in the condition of Building Inspector Benjamin R. Linicus, 622 Bank street, who is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from a paralytic stroke. His death, in fact, is expected hourly. Mr. Linicus has been unconscious since entering the institution and he is weaker tonight than at any time since he was admitted there Sunday night.

An automobile owned by Mrs. E. R. Gorman, 45 Latham street, Groton, and driven by Miss Mildred Fitts, 68 Phillips street, this city, and an automobile driven by Humberto Castenda, 32 Vauxhall street, collided this evening on Ocean avenue, corner of Glenwood avenue. Both cars were damaged and following the crash the cars collided with a traffic beacon at the intersection of the avenues, resulting in the beacon being put out of commission. The street department caused a temporary light to be set on the beacon for tonight. The automobile driven by Miss Fitts was proceeding through Ocean avenue when it was about to pass Glenwood avenue, the automobile driven by Castenda emerged from the latter avenue. Both drivers attempted to bring their automobiles to a stop, but were unsuccessful. None of the occupants of the automobiles, however, were injured.

The police tagged a number of automobiles again today because of the owners parking in restricted areas. None of the owners of the automobiles had been violators of the parking laws before, except Samuel Cherkesky, 104 Squire street and he was ordered by Traffic Officer John Courtney to present himself in the police court tomorrow morning. The other owners were released with a warning to heed the city's parking laws in the future.

Fred Soight, for whom the police have been requested to maintain a watch by the Providence police, has not been located, but the police here have obtained knowledge of Bright having been in New London as late as last Sunday. It is believed that he has left the city since that day.

The funeral of Alfred P. Howland was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Howland residence, 51 Church street, Groton. Private services were conducted by Rev. Henry W. Hulbert, pastor of the Groton Congregational church. The bearers were Henry E. Marquardt, Frank Searph, Alvan B. Cone and William A. Asplund. Burial was in Colonel Ledyard cemetery, Groton.

Henry Doyle, 95 Blackhall street, who has been a patient at the contagious ward of Lawrence hospital for a brief time, was transferred to Norwich State hospital, today. Oother patients dismissed from the contagious ward were Edmund Lauara, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lauara, Brooklyn, N. Y., and William King, United States coast guard destroyer Shaw, state pier.

Edward F. Murray, son of Thomas R. Murray, 99 Jefferson avenue, and Miss Ellen Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Davidson, Blackhall street, were married at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The wedding was largely attended. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, the rector, who also sang the nuptial mass. Robert F. Murray, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Emma Davidson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The church choir, of which both the bride and groom are members, sang during the mass. Mr. and Mrs. Murray are on a wedding trip by automobile through the Berkshires and upon their return to New London will reside on Jefferson avenue.

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson, has returned to her home in New York, having spent several days as the guest of Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson at Hotel Mohican.

Mrs. George Whittlesey of the Crocker house, wife of Assistant Treasure Whittlesay, of the Savings bank of New London, is a patient at Home Memorial hospital, following an attack of grip. Mr. and Mrs. Whittlesey recently started on a trip of three weeks and when they arrived at Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Whittlesey was stricken with grip and was admitted to a hospital there. When her condition had improved to such an extent as to permit her discharge from the institution the trip back to New London was made, but upon her arrival here she suffered a slight relapse, resulting in her being taken to the Pequot avenue hospital. Her stay there, however, it is believed, will be of short duration.

Willis R. Dart, 65, of 12 Union court, who suffered a shock last Friday, is considerably weaker tonight than at any time since he was stricken. Mr. Durt had been unemployed for about a year.

The referendum petition, which requested the calling of a special city election that the voters of New London might decide by ballot whether the present form of city manager government, which has been in existence four years, should continue to function after Oct. 1st, or whether the former municipal form of government should be adopted, has turned out to be a fizzle. It was learned this evening that the circulators have failed to procure the necessary number of signatures to make the petition valid and have decided to wait another year before causing a petition for the reversion of the form of city government to be attempted. The petition was originally started two years ago by Elmer E. Kenerson, former alderman, now caretaker of Riverside park. Mr. Kenerson suddenly stopped obtaining signatures and about eight months ago Peter Loiscano and Matthew Keenan picked up the task where Mr. Kenerson left off. Since then the petition has been in circulation and about three weeks ago it was filed with City Clerk Julian D. Moran and contained 2800 signatures. 750 more than was necessary to compel the calling of the election, provided that the signatures were valid ones. When a checkup was completed by City Clerk Moran it was determined that the petition was invalid because of the disqualification of over 1200 names, which made in mandatory by charter provision that the petition must contain an additional 937 valid signatures to insure the calling of the election. The petition was returned to the petitioners that the added signatures might be attempted and with ten days in which to obtain them. The tenth day will expire at midnight tonight and at 9:30 o'clock it had not been field with the city clerk. From two of the circulators it was stated this evening that the added names had not been obtained and that the committee of four, appointed at a public meeting several weeks ago to further sponsor the obtaining of the necessary signatures, had decided to refrain from obtaining the balance. Consequently no further attempt to obtain the calling of the election would be made until next August or September.

No Eyes—And Eyes, was the theme of Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton, in the M. E. church, in his Sunday morning talk, to the boys and girls, urging them to see the good, and beautiful in nature, and every thing in life. This preceded his sermon from Matthew 6:10. "Thy Kingdom Come, Thy Will be Done on Earth, as it is in Heaven." He urged high ideals, making the world better, with one's head above the clouds, and feet on solid ground, enthusiastic and sacrificing and keeping up to date. The duet, Quit You Like Men, sung by D. R. Povey and C. E. Colver, followed the invocation. The announcements for the week, included the meeting of the Ladie's Aid Society, Thursday afternoon, and a followup meeting of the picnic committees.

The altar flowers, were a basket of snap-dragons of many beautiful colors, arranged by Mrs. Harlan A. Pierce. The offering was for the permanent fund of this church, and the amount, for the day and evening was $26.50.

At the church school at noon, the banners, for both attendance, and offering, were awarded Miss Jeanie G. Perkins' class of girls.

Under the ispices of the Country club, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, president. A vaudeville program, preceded the well attended, Saturday evening dance at the Club house. The program follows:

Overture, Roamer's orchestra of Norwich. Father Time's Art Gallery, illustrating the twelve months of the year, in effective tableaux, by children, with Walter M. Buckingham, leader; interpreting each month as it appeared:

January, Bernice Coman, Doris Coman and Margaret Parker. February, Enid Latimer. March, Barbara Irvin. April, Ruth Hurlbutt, Carol Renton. May, Ensemble. June, Alice Frink. July, Margaret Parker. August, Ruth Hurlbutt, Doris Coman. October, Anna Mae Duffy. November, Alice Frink. December, Ensemble.

Lena and Fatima, Mrs. Walter T. Clark, Mrs. Joseph Reynolds, Henry J. Harpsicord, piano selections, Henry J. McLeer, The Dancing Girl, Marjorie Bulcock, Bertie's story of the Pancake, recited by Miss Gladys Russell; dressed as a boy, encore, A Puzzled Dutchman. A Game of Bluff on the Ridge, the parts taken by Misses Grace E. Povey, Ethel Frost, Dorothy Wulf, and Elisabeth Renton, was the closing number. The children taking parts in Father Time's Art Gallery, were coached by Misses Dorothy Frost and Elizabeth Renton. Dancing followed with music, by the orchestra. Ice cream was on sale.

Nathan A. Gibbs left Saturday, to spend his vacation on his annual cruise to Cape Cod, in his yawl, May. He was accompanied by J. H. Larrabee of Newburyport, Mass., and William Leonard of Brooklyn. Mr. Gibbs' daughter, Miss Natalie K. Gibbs left Friday, to visit in Onset, Mass.

Mrs. Richard Ames, and son Richard of Yonkers, N. Y., motored here Saturday, and opened the Marguerite cottage for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. Lucius Brown of Norwich spent the week end, and Sunday, at the summer home of her son Carl L. Brown, at Brown's Crossing.

The attendants at the Gales Ferry library, for Tuesday and Friday afternoons for July, were Mrs. Emma S. Bennett, Miss Adelina Povey and Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Ernest D. White, who has been with The Norwich Motor Sales Co., local Hudson-Essex dealers, since it was taken over by The Leonard Bros. Garage, Inc., about a year ago, has severed his connections with this concern as of August 2, 1926. Roderick Jodoin of Baltic has accepted a position selling Hudson and Essex cars in the Norwich territory for the above mentioned concern.

Broadway Theatre.

One of the past season's successes in New York was "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" at the Sam H. Harris theatre. This attraction has been booked by the Broadway theatre for Monday evening, Aug. 9. The sub-title for this amusing drama, "A Comedy in American," recalls that John V. A. Weaver is also the author of three volumes of poems, "In American." Mr. Abbotto, the co-author with Mr. Weaver, was a collaborator of "The Fall Guy" and "A Holy Terror." In "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" they have produced a comedy that in action, humor and depiction of character faithfully represents a phase of New York life. Let not the flippant and farcical title, nor the boisterous, constant mirth of the audience, nor the fact that the characters never knew grammar, blind the onlooker to the fact that here is a veracious holding of the mirror up to nature. Here is a picture of New York working life, of department store culture, a play which, though written to amuse, is handled with an instinct for reality. These people, with their amusements, their passions, their finances, are always within the limit of their world, a domain bounded by the vague greatness of "Ginsburg's Department Store."

The cast assembled for this tour is an admirable one. Headed by Louise Price, as "Mamie," to which role she brings the verve and vivacity of her exceptional art, Miss Price is accorded splendid support by the original New York cast which comes here intact. The complete production from the Sam H. Harris theatre, where "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" played for one entire season, is carried.

The New York World of June 13th, under the caption "Recommended," says: "We would particularly recommend the following: 'Love 'Em and Leave 'Em,' 'The Great God Brown,' 'Craig's Wife,' 'Lulu Belle,' 'The Wisdom Tooth,' 'The Last of Mrs. Cheyney,' 'Bride of the Lamb.'"

The Broadway theatre has several of these attractions coming this season, particularly "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em."

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic.

A new comedy, "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," which carries with it the prestige of an entire season's run at the Sam H. Harris theatre, in New York, is coming to town and will be at the Capitol theatre on Tuesday evening, Aug. 10. The play is the joint product of George Abbott and John V. A. Weaver. It is about occurrences of department store folk, the chief characters being two sisters, one a good sort and the other of an unscrupulous nature. In a love spat over a fellow employe, "Billingsley," the sisters are separated and a near-tragedy occurs. This makes up the dramatic thread, while Lem Woodruff, husband of the boarding house mistress, and the rehearsal of the pageant for the benefit of the store's welfare association, contribute the raging comedy that is so cunningly intertwined throughout.

Breed Theatre.

Paris, with its sparkle, its gaiety and its life, and Venice, with its lagoons, gondolas and moonlight, form the background of "The Far Cry," a new First National picture, slated for a showing at the Breed theatre on Wednesday as the main picture of a double feature attraction.

The plot reveals how an American girl, lured by title, marries and as quickly divorces a French marquis in Paris and then goes to Venice to meet the American sweetheart whom she should have wed.

"The Far Cry" is a Katharine Kavanaugh adaptation of the Arthur Richman play of the same name and was filmed under the direction of Balboni, the young Italian screen genius who has just been made a director. Its leading roles are interpreted by Blanche Sweet, Jack Mulhall, Myrtle Stedman and Hobart Bosworth. June Mathis acted in an advisory capacity during the filming.

The Regal picture, "The Mirage," starring Florence Vidor, which comes to the Breed theatre as the second feature, shows Miss Vidor as a young girl who comes to the city and sees, allegorically, a mirage. Other girls who play in the same show wear pretty clothes and live in cozy apartments. She sees in this existence great happiness. However, when she attains what she has before envied she finds that it was all a mirage, the joyousness was not there at all . . . it just seemed that way.

Playing with Miss Vidor in this production are Clive Brook, Alan Roscoe, Vola Vale and Myrtle Vean.

HOPKINTON

George B. Crandall returned home from the Westerly hospital Monday and is getting out of doors some.

Alonzo P. Kenyon helped at haying on the farm of his brother, William C. Kenyon of Yomaguag last week.

The funeral of Nancy Partelo, 83, was held at her home Friday afternoon, Rev. William L. Burdick, D. D., officiating. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway. Mrs. Partelo was born in Ireland and was the widow of Charles H. Partelo, a veteran of the Civil war, who died several years ago. She is survived by two sons, Charles and Joseph and three daughters, Mrs. Lucy White, Mrs. Charles Pierce and Mrs. Bowen Maclear. She was a member of the First Hopkinton S. D. B. church and led a quiet, exemplary life.

Hogs easy; packers inactive.

MARKET WAS BROAD

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—(AP)—Featured by another sensational advance in General Motors, which soared 12 3-4 points to a new record high at 212 3-4 and closed near the top, the stock market broadened out today in an impressive demonstration of strength. Total sales of 2,715,300 shares were the largest since the famous "three million" share days which accompanied the drastic break in prices last March.

While numerous earnings and sales reports furnished striking testimony to the usual mid-summer expansion of the business in many lines, Wall street generally was inclined to attribute the sudden reawakening of public interest to the unusual statement credited to Thomas Cochran, a partner of J. P. Morgan and Co., forecasting good business during the second half of the year and predicting an advance of 100 points in General Motors stock, which already has climbed 22 3-4 points since the statement was made. In the absence of any denial by Mr. Cochran, who is on his way to Europe, or the members of the Morgan firm in New York, this statement was accepted at its face value, and undoubtedly was responsible for much of the recent speculation in the stock.

General Motors opened with a block of 5,000 shares at 205, up four points, quickly advanced to 211 3-4, broke to 202 1-2 when scores of "stop loss" orders were touched off around midday, rebounded to 209 by early afternoon and was then whirled up to a new peak in a frenzied last-minute outburst of buying. Total sales in this one issue reached the gigantic total of 341,300 shares.

Other high priced industrials followed in the wake of General Motors and attracted widespread interest. U. S. Steel common was lifted nearly 6 points to a new top for all time at 153; Dupont touched the best price in its history at 298, an extreme gain of 9 1-4 points; Allied Chemical was whirled up nearly 6 points to a new top at 143 3-8, and American Brake Shoe and Foundry Kelsey Wheel, United Drug, Yellow Truck and Youngstown Sheet and Tube scored extremes gains of 5 to 12 points, but some of them yielded a point or two on realizing.

Fixing of the renewal rate on call money at 4 1-2 per cent which figure was maintained all day failed to dampen bullish enthusiasm. Wall street was surprised to learn that brokers' loans reported by the Federal Reserve bank had shrunk last week despite the marked increment.

In the quoted values of many of the leading stocks time money and commercial paper rates also were unchanged, indicating that recent speculation for the rise has not as yet had any effect on the credit situation.

Railroad shares failed to keep pace with the industrial although New York Central touched a new 1926 peak at 137. Net declines of a point or more were recorded by Lackawanna, the Erie preferred issues, Louisville and Nashville, Missouri Pacific preferred and a few others, but there was no pressure to sell, the reaction merely reflecting a temporary withdrawal of buying interest.

Commodity prices showed little change. Wheat was under pressure in the early trading but recovered most of its loss. Cotton closed 5 to 7 points net lower, with trading confined largely to "scalping" operations, pending publication of the next government report. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound and the futures were slightly firmer. Coffee rallied 4 to 10 points.

Another sharp rally of 10 points in French francs, which carried them close to 2 3-4 cents, the highest level since the Poincare government took office, featured the firm foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm around $4.83 3-4 and the principal continental currencies rallied in sympathy with the Paris rate. Japanese exchange was strong despite earthquake reports from Tokyo.

Among the specialties, Celotex was again the star performer, mounting 15 points to a new high level at 198 and closing at 194 7-8. Celluloid preferred gained 6 points.

After the close of the market it was announced that the "when issued" contracts in shares of the new "Nickel Plate" railroad company had been declared null and void because of substantial modifications in the merger plan.

FAIR TODAY AND PROBABLY TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

1776 1926

NORWICH, CONN., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 4, 1926

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Wednesday, August 4, 1926

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was over western Quebec Monday night has advanced to the mouth of the St. Lawrence. Father Point 29.66 with a trough extending south and southwestward to the Virginia coast. Pressure is relatively lower over the middle plains states and western Montana. High pressure prevails from Bermuda westward to the East Gulf states.

The outlook is for mostly fair weather Wednesday and Thursday in the middle and North Atlantic states. Temperatures will not change materially although it will not be quite so warm on Wednesday in portions of the mid-Atlantic states.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh southwest and west; weather partly overcast Wednesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh southwest; weather partly overcast Wednesday.

Forecast

For New England: Fair Wednesday and Thursday: Not much change in temperature.

CONNECTICUT BUILDING PERMITS TOTAL HIGH

That the twelve largest cities in Connecticut issued building permits totaling nearly three and a half million dollars during the month of June 1926 is shown in figures published by the industrial development committee of the New Haven railroad from the monthly reports of S. W. Straus and company. Building permits issued by the city of Hartford in June exceeded by nearly a million and a half dollars the volume of permits issued by any other city in the state, its total being $2,051,984. West Hartford, although not comparable in size with any of the first twelve cities, is enjoying a large building boom, having issued permits valued at $503,600 in June.

New Haven was second on the building list for June having issued permits valued at $594,586, but was only slightly ahead of Bridgeport with a total of $590,706. The list of the twelve largest cities together with the total value of building permits issued in June is as follows:

New Haven $594,586; Bridgeport 590,706 Hartford 2,051,984, Waterbury 599,700, New Britain 493,218, Stamford 484,545, Meriden 122,200, Norwich 21,740, Norwalk 244,403, New London 90,156, Danbury 99,530, Greenwich 355,137.

BOYS LAUGH AFTER CRIES OF "HELP, HELP"

A kid's prank which may lead to dangerous consequences was worked Tuesday evening by a gang of youngsters in swimming in the Shetucket river near the battle grounds. Cries of "help" were heard coming from the vicinity of the river and no less than 50 older people, mostly men, ran to the river bank expecting to see some boy in danger of drowning.

When they arrived at the river a boy was seen out some distance from shore, dancing up and down and shouting "help, help." As the would be rescuers came nearer they were greeted by laughter by a gang of boys in swimming, the lads being highly pleased with the success of their joke.

Although pleased that no one was in danger of drowning the crowd which gathered would have like to use a piece of rawhide on the boys who had participated in the poor joke. A complaint was made and warning was given that parents of the children should take special pains to instruct them that a call for help is not something to be joked about.

That a continuation of such pranks may some day lead to a real drowning in the Shetucket river if people are tricked, is the belief of many people in that vicinity.

SWAHN'S BAND TO GIVE PARK CONCERT

Music lovers of Norwich are promised another delightful treat for next Sunday afternoon, when Swahn's military band is to give a concert program at Mohegan park. These Sunday afternoon concert programs are anticipated by hundreds of local people who make a practice of enjoying the shade of the trees in the beautiful park owned by the city, and listening to the concerts.

The program for the concert, as announced by John M. Swahn, director of the band, will be as follows:

WOMAN SUES AUTO DRIVER FOR DAMAGES OF $10,000

Claiming damages of $10,000 Mrs. Nicholas Christine of Groton has filed suit in the superior court against James H. Smith of Stonington. The plaintiff claims that on November 12, 1925, as she was alighting from a Groton and Stonington trolley car, near the corner of Allen street in Groton, she was hit and knocked down by an automobile driven by Mr. Smith. The auto was being driven in the same direction in which the trolley car was headed. The plaintiff alleges that the driver was negligent and failed to bring his machine to a full stop when the trolley car stopped.

The accident happened about 10.20 o'clock at night. As the result of the accident the plaintiff claims injuries to her left arm, left shoulder, left hip and also permanent injuries. The papers in the suit were filed Tuesday afternoon with the clerk of the superior court in this city.

Clementine Marshall Bailey of Groton has filed suit in the superior court for a divorce from Albert J. Bailey formerly of Groton now of Cranston, R. I. The couple were married December 24, 1926. The divorce action is brought on charges of a statutory offense and cruelty. Petitioner asks permission to resume her maiden name, Clementine Marshall. The papers in the case were filed in the court office in this city Tuesday.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE—IS RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 3—Joseph Stenkiswicz, 38, shot himself this morning at his former home on Brown avenue. He fired two shots into his body from a 32 calibre, six shot revolver, worn and rusty, and of a make of some years ago. One bullet entered his head just below the right ear, the other penetrated the left breast, missing the heart by a hair. Police Officer Henry Vegiard, who was at court, and Dr. F. E. Rainville were hurried to the house, the Backus hospital ambulance made a record run to Jewett City, to which the man was taken where an effort was made by the surgeons of the institution to save the man's life, although Dr. Rainville declared that either wound might prove fatal, when the ambulance left here The story is this. Stenkiswicz a few months ago was divorced by his wife, because of intolerable cruelty and drunkenness. After a visit in Ohio he came back to try and fix things up She would have nothing to do with him, and intended to dispose of her property here. Then later at intervals he came to his former home, where he has tried to make up domestic differences. Tuesday morning, some the worse for liquor, he came again, displaying the loaded revolver suspended about his neck by a black cord.

Be it said to his credit, he didn't threaten to shoot his wife, but declared to her, that unless she made up he would kill himself. His wife, much frightened ran to the yard shouting. Stenkiswicz, evidently as the bloody quilts seemed to prove, lay upon the bed when he fired the shots.

When Policeman Vegiard arrived she cried out to him not to enter the house or he would be killed. Meanwhile a great crowd began to gather and stand much excited in the nearby yards. The officer and Joseph Manceau, entered and found the man on the floor, with his knees drawn up to his chin and the revolver clutched in his hand. Four chambers were empty in the weapon, and two were loaded, with evidence of but two shots being fired in the room. Strangely, of the four exploded shells and the two which had not been fired, there was to be noted three different makes of ammunition.

STATE TO BUILD CONCRETE ARCH BRIDGE

Bids for the construction of the proposed new ornamental concrete arch bridge over the Naugatuck river at Reynolds Bridge in Thomaston have been received by the state highway department from four contractors. In addition, eight bids have been received for the construction of the concrete approaches to the bridge.

The department also announces the award of a contract for the construction of an asphalt over concrete pavement on West Center street in Manchester to the Edward Balf company of Hartford for $137,594 for a length of 8,233 feet forty-five feet wide.

For the construction of the Thomaston bridge, having two 100-foot spans and one 173-foot arch span with concrete girder and approach spans, the following contractors submitted bids:

Charles A. Haggerty, Webster, Mass. $138,736.50; Daniel O'Connell & Sons, Holyoke, Mass., $140,629; Luke S. White, Inc., Kingston, Mass., $132,985; C. W. Blakeslee & Sons, New Haven, $210,347.20.

For the construction of 3,312 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the approaches to the new bridge, the following contractors submitted proposals:

John DeMichael & Bros., Torrington, $65,669.62; Patterson & Rossi, Torrington, $67,349.42; Conn. Nat'l Pavements, Inc., New Haven $75,403.39; A. DiMarco, Plainville, $75,813.06; Daniel O'Connell & Sons, Holyoke, Mass., $79,212.57; C. W. Blakeslee & Sons, New Haven $81,344.85; Thomas J. Fleming, Waterbury $84,778.48; Chas. A. Haggerty, Webster, Mass., $90,350.-80.

The book, "Alice in Wonderland," is sixty years old.

"OLD SCOUTS" GO INTO CAMP TODAY

After the most successful camp in the history of the Norwich Boy Scouts the last of the boys will return home today (Wednesday). It has, in many respects been an unusual year due to changes effected in the camp by the placing of the tents in the shade among the trees, by the liberal opportunities for the boys to swim, fish and row, the introduction of a wider programme of handicraft work in the production of brushes, napkin rings, bows and arrows, etc.

While routine has been adhered to to maintain discipline, Scout Executive Bielefield has looked on the camp life as a recreational period for the boys and by constant personal supervision has had first class order among the boys who maintain that while they missed the Maine guide, they felt that they have had a fine vacation. They have come to regard their chief not only a good scout but a good fellow. There hasn't been a single case of sickness in camp and at one time 49 scouts were in camp for the same period.

John Jencks reports it the most enjoyable period in his camping experience and the boys have voted John a "whale of a good cook." Every one of the boys wants to return to camp next year. The Norwich Boy Scout council is deeply indebted to Mrs. Thomas M. Shields, Dr. R. R. Agnew, Weston C. Pullen, L. M. Carpenter, Mrs. Bottomley and Dr. Thompson for their kindness in transporting the boys and supplies to the camp.

Tonight the first delegation of the old scouts start their period in camp. Among these are Mr. Bottomley, Arthur L. Peale, Charles Browning, Dr. Donahue, George Gingras, Frank L. Rinella, E. V. Ross and Scout Executive Bielefield. Others who will be at the camp some time during the week include Charles W. Taggart, Earl Taggart, Dr. B. R. Agnew, Harry Prentice, E. A. Harris, Joseph Curtis, Louis Young, Arthur E. Story, Mr. Anderson, Walter Clark, L. M. Carpenter, Frank G. Aubrey, W. B. Frisbie, Arthur Brown, Donald Bullard, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Thomas Savard, Henry G. Peck, Frederick Craven, Charles I. Smith, Dr. Thompson.

As a guide to those who intend going to the camp the old scouts committee suggest making the trip by way of Jewett City and Voluntown, straight through Voluntown to the right of the Voluntown cemetery on the oiled road and then taking every left hand road to the foot of the pond. Turn to the right at the store and follow the road running along the lake. Arrows indicate the path at all cross roads and are plainly marked "Camp Tippecan."

Those intending to fish should take bait as well as rod, line and other equipment. Flashlights, bathing suits, bedding, towels, etc., are other items that will add to the comfort of the campers. Full sized army tents are all ready with good comfortable beds.

It is hoped by the scout council that this year's experiment of introducing the men to the camp life at the pond will result in a permanent organization to further the aims of Boy Scout activities.

MAN FINED FOR PROWLING ABOUT HALLWAY

Prowling about in a hallway looking for a girl friend, proved costly for Stephen Patterson, 27, of New London who paid a fine of $10 and costs, a total of $18.50 in city court Tuesday morning after judgment had been passed by Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis. Patterson was late in arriving at court and except for the good graces of the court would have lost the $100 bond he had deposited Monday night.

Patterson was arrested between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock Tuesday morning by Sergt. John Casey, who found the youth in the hallways of the Gilbert block on Broadway, formerly the Y. M. C. A. building. Complaints that prowlers had been seen in hallways of the building had been made to the police and a watch was kept. Patterson testified that he was in the building looking for a girl friend who lived in one of the apartments.

The cases of Mary Kowal and Pauline Renkiewicz, Polish, both of Yantic, charged with fighting, were continued until Friday as the Renkiewicz woman could not appear in court, it being alleged that she still suffers from a blow from a washboard in the hands of the Nowal woman. The bond of the Kowal woman was raised to $2,000 by the court.

One man charged with intoxication paid a fine of $5 and costs for his drunk.

OVER 600 ATTEND FARMERS' WEEK OPENING

STORRS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—More than 600 men and women were present at the program in poultry husbandry, home economics and bee keeping that made up the first day of farmers' week at the Connecticut Agricultural college today. The programs will be continued through Friday.

Commissioner of Agriculture Andrew J. Ferker, of New Hampshire, speaking tonight, said that Muscle Shoals "is another example of powerful industrial interests attempting to gain control of a utility that, except for its war uses, was planned as an aid to agriculture."

Farmers are now working hard, he said, to keep Muscle Shoals out of the hands of these private interests.

The problems of rural education and the improvement of social conditions are two of the greatest encountered in country life, he continued, and they must be solved to make rural conditions more attractive.

Sent Body to Providence

The body of Sarah Marx Plumb, whose death occurred Monday in Preston, was taken in charge by Undertaker Charles A. Gager and on Tuesday morning at 11:55 o'clock was sent by train to Providence, where burial took place in the afternoon in Lakewood, R. I.

Norwich Produce Market

(Furnished by the commissioner of agriculture of Connecticut).

Currants and gooseberries are practically off of the market but blackberries are beginning to take their place. Apples are being offered in larger quantities and of better quality at $1.25-$2.00 per bushel. Georgia peaches are plenty and of good quality and the same is true of California pears. Melons of all kinds are abundant and reasonable.

Cabbage, beets and carrots are plenty and cheap. Locally grown peas are gone and those on the market are being brought in from the outside and string beans are less plenty and a little higher. Native corn, cucumbers and tomatoes are being offered in larger quantities and at a slightly lower price.

Good native fowl are scarce but broilers are plenty. Eggs, especially the better grades, are scarce with a tendency to advance in price.

Dressed meats remain steady except a little easier tone on prime beef and veal.

The grain market is uncertain with a tendency toward higher prices.

NORWICH CHILDREN HAD PICNIC AT BEACH

Miss Eleanor Counihan, instructor of the Laurel Hill playgrounds, was in charge of a picnic held at Ocean Beach Tuesday for the children of the playgrounds. Parents and guardians accompanied the children on their outing. The party was carried to and from the beach in a large truck of the American Thermos Bottle Co.

The children of the Jail Hill playgrounds of Norwich will have their picnic at the beach today (Wednesday). Leslie Carroll and Beatrice Ableman instructors of the playgrounds, will be in charge of arrangements for the outing. The expenses of the trip are being covered by the money which the children obtained from their recent carnival.

SAMOWITZ AND WIFE NO. 2 BOUND OVER

(Special to the Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Aug. 3—John G. Samowitz, 26, of Worcester, former attendant at the Norwich State hospital, who brought home a second wife to his Worcester spouse, according to the police charges, was held in $500 bonds for action of the grand jury in central district court today on a complaint alleging polygamy.

Alice Strom, 22, of 18 Summer street, Southbridge, Mass., wife No. 2, was also held in $500 bonds for grand jury action on a charge of living illegally with Samowitz.

Both pleaded guilty to the respective charges and no testimony was offered as they were bound over to the superior court.

Samowitz, the police stated today, met Rebecca Miller while he was connected with the Norwich hospital, and after they were married there on Feb. 12, 1925, they came to Worcester. It was in January of this year that Samowitz disappeared from home for a few days and returned with "wife" No. 2, it is charged.

The trio lived together in King Solomon style for some time up to a few days ago when they were ejected from their Bridle Path cottage. Mrs. Miller-Samowitz then went to the police for advice and the arrests of the other two followed.

LOCAL MARINE AMONG FIRST IN DANGER ZONE AT DOVER

(Special to the Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3—Among the U. S. marines who were first to rush to the aid of their stricken comrades, after lightning and fire had destroyed the naval ammunition plant, near Dover, N. J., was Fredrick Carlson, of Norwich, Conn., who went from Quantico, Va., to assist in rescue work in the stricken area.

Carlson was on duty with the 8th company at Quantico, when a call was made for volunteers to enter the danger zone at Dover. He was among those selected and arrived at the scene while fire was still raging and menacing nearby powder magazines. It was largely through the efforts of Carlson and his comrades that further disaster was averted.

High praise was given the marines by both President Coolidge and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur for their conduct. Carlson is 23 years old and was born in Norwich. He is a brother of Raymond E. Carlson, 16 St. Regis avenue, Norwich, and joined the marine corps last December.

WILL SUMMON TAX DELINQUENTS TO COURT

Notices have been sent out by Miss Nellie V. Harrington, personal tax collector for the town of Norwich, that after August 16th all delinquent personal tax payers will be compelled to go before the city court and explain why they have not paid. Demands for the collection of this tax have already been sent out by Miss Harrington and the final day for payment of the tax, according to law, is August 16th. After that date Collector Harrington is to turn over the list of delinquents to City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins and extra costs will be imposed on those failing to pay their tax.

Although no statement concerning the number of personal taxes not paid has been made it is understood that the list is a large one.

TELEPHONE EMPLOYEES HAVE PICNIC AT MOOSUP POND

Employes of the Southern New England Telephone company exchanges in Norwich, New London, Putnam, Willimantic, Mystic, Lyme, Saybrook, Jewett City, Danielson and other places, numbering over 250 enjoyed a picnic Tuesday at Moosup pond, as guests of the company. The employes were accompanied by relatives and friends.

Only skeleton forces were left at the various exchanges to carry on the work of the day. Officials of the company from New Haven also enjoyed the outing at the pond, which has become one of the popular bathing places in upper eastern Connecticut during the past few years.

Besides athletic events, dancing, swimming and boating were enjoyed and the employes were served a shore dinner. The day was excellent for the outing, a cool breeze in the park surrounding the pond being a great relief from the heat of the city. Arrangements for the outing were made by Henry Lyons, manager of the Norwich exchange.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, took for the text of his sermon, Matthew 11: 28-29-30, "Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take My yoke upon you and learn of Me, for I am meek and lowly of heart, and ye shall find rest unto your souls; for My yoke is easy, and My burden is light."

Beginning Sunday and continuing through August, the session of the church school will open at 11:45 (D. S. T.) immediately following the morning worship.

Burton Jopson was leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service, Sunday evening, when the topic assigned was Wise and Unwise Decisions—1 Ku. 3: 5-15 Gen. 13: 5-13 (consecration meeting).

The Congregational mid-week service for conference and prayer, Thursday evening will have for its study lesson, a continuation of the book of Isaiah.

Rev. Albert E. Whitten, pastor of the Norwich Town Methodist church, chose for his text, Sunday morning, John 3:16, "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Rev. Mr. Whitten spoke from the same text at the Gardner Lake Methodist church, Sunday afternoon, he having charge of the religious service at this church, each week during the summer.

At the meeting of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society of the Norwich Town Methodist church, Sunday evening, the leader was Mrs. John Rogers. Wise and Unwise Decisions was the topic used, with several Scripture references.

At the lawn fete held last Wednesday evening on Huntington Green, under the auspices of the Methodist Y. P. S. C. E., about $60 was cleared.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Guttman and daughter, Miss Marjory Guttman, of Cleveland, Ohio, were recent guests for several days of Rev. and Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey, at the Congregational parsonage, on Elm avenue. Mrs. Guttman is a cousin of Rev. Mr. Bailey.

Having been absent from town for a month on a delightful trip abroad, visiting England, Belgium, Switzerland and France, Misses Marion L. and Louise P. Bailey, returned Sunday evening to their home on Elm avenue.

Walter Haun and Arnaud La Pierre, Jr., left Sunday evening to spend the next few days camping at Beach Pond, Lee Haun and family conveyed the boys to their destination to remain until Wednesday.

The net proceeds of the lawn fete given during July, by the parish of the Sacred Heart, which was held on Huntington Green, amounted to $327, as announced recently by the pastor, Rev. Charles W. Brennan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, of Brooklyn, Conn., spent Sunday with Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. Jonathan Smith of Town street. Their son, Albert, returned with them, after a visit of a week with his relatives here. Miss Beatrice Smith also accompanied them to Brooklyn and will remain for a visit at her uncle's home.

The mass of roots of a sunflower were weighed and measured by an eighteenth century naturalist, and found to be 1,448 feet long.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE AMID SCENES OF BOYHOOD DAYS

With Mrs. Coolidge, the Chief Executive is Back in the Vermont Farmhouse Where He Took the Presidential Oath Three Years Ago This Week—They Had Previously Stopped at the Country Cemetery Where are Buried Their Son and Col. John C. Coolidge, the Father of President Coolidge—Warm Greetings and Popular Receptions Were Accorded Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge During Their Six Hour Train Ride.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 4.— (AP) — President Coolidge came home today to the little village and the farmhouse that knew him as a boy.

With Mrs. Coolidge he arrived in mid-afternoon from the Adirondacks for a visit of several days among familiar scenes but not until they had stopped at the country cemetery and stood alone at the graves of their son, Calvin, Jr., and Col. John C. Coolidge, father of the president, did they go to the house which is known throughout the land as the place where Mr. Coolidge took the presidential oath three years ago this week.

The native undemonstrative people of this hill country were out in numbers to give Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge a cordial welcome while they were accompanied to Plymouth by Attorney General Sargent, who is spending a vacation in this, his native state, and met at Burlington the special train on which the trip was made from the summer white house in the Adirondacks.

Slowly Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge approached the old farmhouse and paused on the porch while news photographers recorded the scene. Then they entered the house for a quiet rest among old surroundings. The attorney general soon after their arrival returned to Burlington.

The warmth of the greeting here was characteristic of popular receptions given the president during his train ride of more than six hours today across northern New York state, along the shores of Lake Champlain and in Vermont. Crowds were gathered at every station and were rewarded repeatedly by the appearance of both Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge on the observation platform to acknowledge the applause, while at Burlington, the birthplace of Mrs. Coolidge, the greetings swelled into an ovation for the first lady of the land with the president standing at her side smiling in delight.

Hundreds were gathered on the station platform, including many young women students at the summer session of the University of Vermont, the alma mater of Mrs. Coolidge. The city officially presented Mrs. Coolidge a bouquet through Mayor C. H. Beecher while the students sang their college songs and Mrs. Coolidge joined in the singing.

Leaning over the car rail, Mrs. Coolidge grasped the hands of many and greeted them by name. Others in the crowd gave attention to the president and shouted "Speech, speech," but he declined with a good natured shake of the head.

Similar crowds were gathered at Rutland when the train made a brief stop there and their applause was acknowledged by Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge who were at lunch in the dining car by their first going to the windows and then stepping to the observation platform of their private car and waving a greeting.

John Coolidge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, who is a student at the summer school of the University of Vermont, was unable to go to the train at Burlington, being detained by classroom work. He is taking special courses in economics to obtain credits for his regular course at Amherst college which he could not obtain last year because of a condition in French the year before.

Not all the attention of the president, however, was taken by responding to popular receptions, as he discussed for more than an hour during the trip, agricultural conditions in this state with J. F. Carrigan, superintendent of the Ogdensburg division of the Rutland railroad.

Mr. Carrigan, who is a native of Springfield, Vermont, told Mr. Coolidge that farm conditions in this state were never more favorable than at present. All crops are in good shape, he said, particularly hay and potatoes, and the people are contented.

The special train of six cars left Gabriels, N. Y., near the summer white house, at 8 o'clock this morning and ran through Malone and Rouses Point, N. Y., close to the Canadian border, to Burlington, Rutland and Ludlow, where the presidential party entered automobiles and drove 12 miles through the hill country to Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were accompanied only by Major James E. Coupal, physician, and Captain Wilson Brown, Jr., naval aide to the president. Others in the party were secret service men and newspaper correspondents. Edward T. Clark, personal secretary to the president, remained at Paul Smith's, N. Y., in charge of the summer executive offices.

Mrs. Coolidge brought her favorite white collie, Prudence Prim, with her and one of her first tasks was to provide a leash for it in the front yard of the old farmhouse. Then she joined the president on the porch.

Before supper Mr. Coolidge walked about the farm, inspecting the gardens, trees and shrubs, with an approving eye.

This evening he and Mrs. Coolidge planned to spend alone at home.

PONZI GIVES DETAILS OF ARREST IN NEW ORLEANS

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Charles Ponzi at a habeas corpus hearing in district court here today told the story of his arrest on June 26 last in New Orleans as a fugitive from Massachusetts justice. He was sent on an errand to the New Orleans custom house by the second officer of the Italian steamship on which he was working his passage to Italy, he said.

The second officer this name was Albervera) went with me to the custom house" he told the court. "A man whom I learned later was your deputy sheriff, Lacey, stopped me at the door and told me that I was under arrest. Albervera interfered and tried to take me back to the ship. A night watchman, whose name I do not remember, pushed me toward Lacey who grabbed me and held me in the customs house while a taxi was coming. Lacey is a bigger man than I, and I was afraid to resist.

"Then Lacey took me to the Monte Leone hotel and locked me in a room for four or five hours, then he took me to the railroad station in a taxicab locked me in a stateroom and brought me to Houston."

Ponzi's attorney, as part of the proceedings, put into the record sections of the treaty between Italy and the United States dealing with extradition of criminals. Ponzi contends he is an Italian citizen and that his arrest while a member of the crew of an Italian steamship violated the treaty of 1869, the lawyer said.

Tom Branch, one of Ponzi's attorneys announced that if a habeas corpus writ is denied, the case will be taken to the Texas court of appeals which meets at Austin on the first Wednesday in October.

CONTEST IN OHIO FOR DEM. NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR

TOPEKA, Ohio, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Jonathan M. Davis, dirt farmer who rose to the governor's chair and later was accused and acquitted of abusing his pardon power, and Donald Muir, a youthful lawyer of Anthony, contesting for the democratic gubernatorial nomination, held the stage tonight when more than half of the 2,641 precincts in the state had reported from yesterday's primary.

Muir was leading former Governor Davis by 267 votes when 1,338 precincts had been heard from. The vote: Muir 12,692; Davis 12,425.

RESULT OF CONGRESSIONAL PRIMARY IN WEST VIRGINIA

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 4.—(AP)—All of the present members of the national house of representatives from West Virginia with one exception, were renominated in yesterday's state primary.

Representatives Bachman, Bowman and Wolverton were republican choices in the first, second and third districts. Rep. Strother was unopposed in the fifth district for the republican nomination and Hart, Taylor, democrat, sixth district ran far ahead of the opposition candidate.

TO GIVE ANOTHER CHANCE TO DEFAULTING PAYMASTER

OTTAWA, Ont., Ont., Aug. 4.—(AP)—P. E. Berry and Company of Boston, is willing to give another chance to its paymaster, Harold O. Williams, who was arrested in Montreal on the charge of appropriating $600 with intent to defraud. As a result Magistrate Joynt today allowed the charge to be withdrawn.

Williams last Saturday received a cheque for payment of wages to the company's men working in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's new building. He is alleged to have cashed the cheque and taken a taxi for Montreal. When arrested he had less than $200 left. Mr. Berry told the magistrate that the firm was willing to take the accused back to Boston and retain him in its employ.

FILES $100,000 SUIT FOR DEFAMATION OF CHARACTER

DEDHAM, Mass., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Rev. Fred A. Wiggin, a Brookline spiritualist leader, today filed suit for $100,000 in the Norfolk superior court here against the B. F. Keith theater of Boston, alleging defamation of character.

The suit apparently was based on the appearance at the theater last fall of Harry Houdini, who, in connection with his performance, characterized mediums as "fakes and frauds." While the Rev. Mr. Figgin's suit does not mention Houdini, it asserts that "certain ticksters and buffoons" hired by the defendants "caused to be published certain false statements which the plaintiff claims were scandalous and have injured his good name and reputation." He further alleges that he was accused of larceny and obtaining money under false pretenses.

MELLON VISITED ITALIAN MINISTER OF FINANCE

ROME, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury today visited Minister of Finance Volpi at the latter's office, in a strictly private capacity.

The finance secretaries conversed cordially for a half hour and recalled many incidents during the Washington negotiation of the Italian debt settlement. No appointment has been fixed for Secretary Mellon to meet Premier Mussolini.

GERTRUDE EDERLE IN FINE SHAPE FOR CHANNEL SWIM

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Gertrude Ederle is going to surprise the world in her English channel attempt this month, her trainer, William Burgess, the channel veteran declared tonight.

Burgess plans to start Miss Ederle on Saturday morning about 8 o'clock if the weather is favorable.

He said tonight she is in fine condition and that given good weather he hopes that she will be able to beat all channel records.

LONDON, Aug. 4—(AP)—Parliament adjourned yesterday until Nov. 9, unless a continuation of the coal strike compels an earlier meeting. In that case the members will meet Aug. 20 for a renewal of the emergency regulations, and, if necessary they will sit again on Sept. 27 for a further renewal.

LONDON, Aug. 4—(AP)—The chancellor of the exchequer, Winston Churchill, states in the house of commons today that Premier Poincare of France had informed him he would ask the chamber of deputies to ratify the Anglo-French debt agreement as soon as possible. At the latest it would be when the chamber met in the autumn.

LITHUANIAN PRELATE SPEAKER IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Aug. 4.—(AP)—"The little nation of Lithuania has attained its independence and something of its ancient glory and even today it is starting on a new ear of religious progress as a distinct province of the church," declared His Grace the Most Rev. Archbishop George Matulavicius, Lithuania's representative to the apostolic visitor to that Slavic country, speaking tonight at Holy Trinity church before a congregation that completely filled the edifice.

The distinguished churchman entered the church at the end of a procession from the rectory. The American flag and the red, green and yellow flag of Lithuania were displayed from the porch of the rectory, while three small boys with red, white and blue cashes and three with the red, green and yellow sashes immediately preceded the archbishop and attending priests in the procession.

The procession was headed by a crucifier and acolytes in red cassocks and white surplices. These were followed by small girls dressed in white and carrying flowers of the same color. Then came the six boys with sashes followed by Rev. John J. Ambot, pastor of Holy Trinity church; Rev. Ignatius Abromaitis, M. S., of La Salette novitiate, Bloomfield; Rev. John Tarasiewicz, M. S., professor at La Salette college, Parkville; Rev. Dr. P. Bucys, professor at the University of Gaunas, Lithuania, and acting secretary to the archbishop who was master of ceremonies and Rev. Anthony Bruzas, M. S., professor of philosophy at La Salette seminary, Altamont, N. Y. Finally came the archbishop, colorful in the purple robes.

FAVORS BOBBED HAIR AS A MEANS OF COMFORT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A woman one hundred and one years is not too old to have bobbed hair, said Mrs. Katherine Ricketts, who observed her 101st birthday anniversary today. "But," added Mrs. Ricketts smilingly, "I advocate bobbed hair for old women like me as a means of comfort, and not for style."

"If girls want short dresses and enjoy smoking cigarettes, they should be granted those privileges," Mrs. Ricketts said. "Women smoked pipes years ago and there was nothing thought of that. While I don't see any harm in it, I never smoked a pipe or cigarettes."

Speaking of her long life, Mrs. Ricketts said: "It is God's will that He has spared me so long. I do not diet, but eat ice cream three times a day and drink plenty of coffee."

Mrs. Ricketts is said to be the oldest widow of a Civil war soldier. Today she was surrounded by her seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. She spends her idle moments reading when she does not have any embroidering and crocheting to do.

CAMPAIGN FOR RE-ELECTION OF WADSWORTH IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(AP)—Opening his campaign for re-election Senator Wadsworth briefly reviewed tonight the Coolidge administration and then discussed at length his stand on prohibition.

He branded the 18th amendment and the Volstead act as "sumptuary laws" in an address before the republican business men and said that "no matter what our views may be we must admit the question is more alive than ever before and presses insistently for an answer."

Senator Wadsworth did not mention the New York referendum directly. He asserted "it is high time we accord to every man the right to entertain a conviction on the subject and speak out in all sincerity."

DIVORCE SUIT FILED AGAINST H. F. DAY

BOSTON, Aug. 4—(AP)—Suit for divorce against Holman F. Day, Maine author and editor, was filed in Suffolk probate court here today by his wife Agnes B. Day. She charged him with desertion in 1922.

Mr. Day, who was born in Vassalboro, Me., has written fiction and poetry on life in the Maine woods and was said to be at present engaged in writing for moving pictures at Hollywood, Calif. He married as his second wife Agnes Bearce Nevens of Lewiston, Me., on September 12, 1903. His Boston home for several years has been at 103 Mount Vernon street.

FLED AFTER FINDING WEDDED LIFE ALL BLISS

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 4.—(AP)—An appeal by Al A. Accido today to the newspapers and police to find his 20-year-old wife, Ida May Fairbain, who disappeared Sunday, was answered tonight by Mrs. Accido in person. The husband told the police that his wife vanished after three years of wedded bliss. Mrs. Accido said it was not all bliss and made her whereabouts known to the police with a request that her husband be not enlightened as to her location.

France Working On Financial Situation

Finance Committee of Chamber Has Approved Two Important Measures.

PARIS, Aug. 4—(AP)—Working according to the schedule which he has mapped out for himself in his efforts to rehabilitate French finances, Premier Poincare today succeeded in having the finance committee of the chamber of deputies approve two of his most important measures.

These were a bill creating a sinking fund for the retirement of the national defense and treasury bonds and a bill authorizing the turning over of the government tobacco monopoly to a private company.

The committee stood twelve in favor of the bills to seven against, the socialists abstaining. The bills will now come up for open discussion in the chamber tomorrow and Premier Poincare expects to have them adopted by tomorrow night.

During the course of the committee's deliberations, the premier announced that as soon as the situation permits probably at the end of September, the government will launch a great internal loan with the purpose of consolidating the internal debts and stabilizing the franc.

The franc rose steadily today, gaining ten points against the pound and more than two and a half against the dollar. This recovery was attributed in financial circles to a gradual return of confidence. In some circles there was surprise at the strength of the franc in view of the government's third bill now before the finance committee authorizing the bank of France to issue notes for the purchase of foreign currencies.

Premier Poincare was still non-committal today regarding ratification of the Washington and London debt agreements. Thus far he has refrained from making any official announcement on the matter. The general impression now is that the accords will not be ratified until October.

THREE FAIL IN FIGHT TO ESCAPE ELECTRIC CHAIR

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Three men convicted of murder tonight lost the last step in their fight to escape the electric chair when Governor Fuller declined to interfere with the death sentence imposed on John J. Devereaux, John J. McLaughlin and Edward J. Heinlein for the murder of James H. Furneau, a night watchman, during a holdup in Waltham last October.

The men are now in the death house at the Charlestown state prison and are scheduled to go to the chair "some time during the week beginning August 8." Failure of their appeal for clemency to the governor through signed petitions closed the last avenue of escape, the state supreme court having overruled exceptions two months ago.

Heinlein and McLaughlin based their appeal on the fact that they were merely present and took no actual part in the murder. The supreme court ruled that intent to kill or maim if resisted has been proved against them and that the trial judge rule correctly in ordering the found guilty in the same degree as Devereaux, the confessed slayer.

Devereaux asked for clemency on the ground that his mentality had been impaired by war wounds.

"There is no sufficient justification for my intervention," said Governor Fuller tonight in a statement making public his decision. His refusal was based on the adverse reports of the chairman of the state board of parole, the supreme court, and alienists who examined Devereaux today, he said.

FOR AMITY BETWEEN BRITAIN AND AMERICA

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Chamberlain today voiced the hope that the mutual respect and regard which Great Britain and the United States bear for each other will not be impaired by ill advised or bad tempered public controversy.

Sir Austen's statement was made during an impromptu debate in the house of commons on the Anglo-American debt settlement. At the same time the foreign secretary strongly supported Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill with regard to the latter's recent statement on the debt problem. The foreign secretary said the statement was a "very courteous and very temperate explanation," that it was necessary to make in the interests of those good relations which it has sought to maintain and strengthen.

The entire question came into discussion at the initiative of Captain William Wedgwood Benn, liberal, who called attention to certain newspaper attacks on the American debt position that had appeared in England.

Sir Austen appreciated the "ill tempered or injudicious public controversy," that might engender ill feeling between the two nations whose warmer and closer cooperation he hopes would continue long for the peace and advantage of the world.

TRUCK DRIVER ARRESTED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Reckless driving on the part of a truck driver tonight who nearly wrecked an automobile carrying two state troopers, caused his arrest and his helper's also on charges of illegally transporting liquor, and later was instrumental in four other arrests, when police learned where the load of illegal beverage was obtained.

Those arrested are Walter Stanton, 32, of 973 Howard avenue, truck driver, charged with illegally transporting liquor, bonds $1,000; William JJ. Lockwood, 40, of 700 Howard avenue, Stanton's helper, who is held on a similar charge under a same bond.

Richard J. Coughlin, 32, of 360 State street, proprietor of the bottling works where the beer was dispensed is held on a charge of violating the state liquor law, under bonds of $5,000. Three employes of Coughlin's, Joseph Coughlin, 17, and James Coughlin, 16, brothers, and Vincent rennan, 20, were also arrested.

DOVER, England, Aug. 4.— (AP) — Clarbe Bell Barrett of New Rochelle, New York, undaunted by failure in her attempt to swim across the English channel plans to make a new attempt some time this month.

Walter Brickett, her coach, made this announcement this evening.

No Armed Uprising of Catholics in Mexico

Archbishopric of the Roman Catholic Church There Will Oppose Hostilities.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4—(AP)—The Archbishopric of the Roman Catholic church will never approve of armed uprising, but the church will "go to Calvary" if necessary, in the present religious struggle in Mexico, Monsignor Pascual Diaz, bishop of Tabasco and secretary of the National Episcopate, today told the Associated Press.

Monsignor Diaz said: "The church, being outside and above any political party, can never approve that religion be used as a banner by any political party. Much less will the church approve armed uprising because it would be detrimental to the people and to the country.

"Armed uprisings are headed by ambitious politicians who pursue worldly gains. The church only approves peaceful, orderly and social action like that undertaken by the league for the defense of religious liberty." (Presumably the economic boycott.)

STATEMENT BY THE R. C. EPISCOPATE OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4—(AP)—In a general statement to the press tonight, the Roman Catholic Episcopate declares that a settlement of the religious situation may be accepted by the Episcopate only if it includes recognition of the rights of Catholic priests as Mexican citizens. This recognition also must include recognition of the principle slaid down in a formal letter of the Episcopate demanding that the government withdraw its religious regulations.

Recognition of the priests' rights as citizens is construed in some quarters as including a demand for the right to vote in civil elections which is denied in the present religious clauses of the constitution.

CONDITIONS IN MEXICO REMAIN UNCHANGED

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4—(AP)—The impasse which has developed in the controversy between the Mexican government and the Roman Catholic church tonight remained unchanged after a day of rumors concerning the success attending the efforts of various volunteer intermediaries or would-be mediators in the situation.

The archbishopric remained unaltered in its attitude that it wants a settlement but that it cannot accept the regulations of the government.

Many prominent Mexicans, who are devout Catholics or influential in the counsels of the government have expressed willingness to serve as intermediaries. Among these are Augustin Legorreta, merchant, banker of Mexico City. This has caused rumors that the bankers' group is making a special effort to bring about peace. The bankers deny this and also deny that the banking business thus far has been affected by the situation.

The movement among Roman Catholics to exert the pressure of an economic boycott against the attitude of the Mexican government in enforcing the new religious regulations is being watched with keen interest in Mexico.

Business circles are plainly worried over the consequences of an economic boycott or even a slowing down in purchases by the public under the plans of the league for the defense of religious liberty. Although there have bee nno serious outward evidences of an economic boycott in Mexico City, reports from elsewhere in the republic show the volume of business has been tanibly reduced.

Meanwhile both the government, with its supporters in its present stand on the religious laws, and the Roman Catholic Episcopate, as well as Catholic leaders, are both standing firm in their respective positions.

DRY AGENTS ACT AGAINST MEDICAL PRESCRIPTIONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.— (AP) —The government today struck a blow against alleged bootlegging under the guise of medical prescriptions.

Seventy six doctors, whiskey salesmen and agents, druggists and drug corporations were indicted by a federal grand jury for prohibition violations in this city. Seventeen indictments were returned naming 27 physicians, 30 druggists, and 15 whiskey agents. Four drug corporations also were indicted.

Fourteen of the indictments charge conspiracies to violate the prohibition law and to defraud the United States in the withdrawal of liquor from government warehouses through illegal doctors' permits. This liquor, it is alleged, eventually reached bootlegging channels. The names of fictitious patients were used in the permits, the government alleges.

WETS ARE LEADING IN THE MISSOURI PRIMARY

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4—(AP)—Rolling up plurralities ranging from approximately 60,000 to 85,000 candidates strongly opposed by the anti-saloon league and W. C. T. U. as wets, were nominated for United States senator by both the republicans and democrats in yesterday's Missouri primary election.

Returns tabulated tonight showed Senator George H. Williams of St. Louis, incumtent, had won an easy victory over his two republican opponents, David M. Proctor of Kansas City, an avowed dry and Blodget Priest of St. Louis, a "dripping wet." Congressman Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis, a wet, easily defeated his dry democratic opponents, Judge Ewing B. Cockrell of Warrensburg, Willis H. Meredith of Poplar Bluff, and Robert L. Young of St. Joseph.

ARRESTED FOR ROLLING HER STOCKINGS IN PUBLIC

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Rolling her stockings on 14th street just off Fifth avenue today cost Miss Frances Rathowitz three months in the workhouse.

The arresting policeman told the court Miss Rathowitz had caused a crowd to collect by her actions and when he had remonstrated with her she had called him various names.

"Women should not roll their stockings in public," the court ruled. "The scanty apparel they wear nowadays is sufficient to attract attention without their doing other things that will cause men o k— at them."

The workhouse was imposed after finger print records had revealed that the young woman had been twice convicted on other charges.

Mr. Plimpton was 72 years old and was a native of Putnam. At the time of his death he was president and treasurer of the Plimpton Manufacturing company, of this city and a vice president, director and division manager of the United States Envelope company.

PETITION CLAIMS CHARLES W. MORSE IS INCOMPETENT

Paper, Presented by His Stepson, Harry F. Morse of Noank, Was Filed Coincident With the Will of Miss Clemence C. Morse at Bath, Me.—Asks for Appointment of His Brother, Edwin A. Morse of Washington, and Himself as Administrators—Condition of Charles W. Morse Remains Unchanged.

BATH, Me., Aug. 4—(AP)—Coincident with the filing today of the will of Mrs. Clemence C. Morse, in which she names her husband, Charles W. Morse, as executor and asks his appointment without bond, was the presentation of a petition by her step-son, Harry F. Morse of Noank, Conn., declaring his father legally incompetent. The appointment of his brother, Erwin A. Morse, of Washington, D. C., and himself as administrators were sought by Mr. Morse.

The estate of Mrs. Morse who died here suddenly July 15, the same day that announcement was made in New York that Mr. Morse would be brought to trial on charges of fraud pending against him in federal court there, is estimated at $40,000 and is all personal. She directed that her only sister, Mrs. Mamie B. Long of New York, be paid $100 a month during the life of Mr. Morse and in event of his death $20,000 be set aside for continuing the payments.

On the death of Mrs. Long, the will provided that the remaining $20,000 be paid to Mr. Morse's only daughter, Mrs. John C. Geiger of Chicago.

She bequeathed $5,000 to her nephew Maurice F. Long of New York, and the residue to the executor in trust. On the death of her husband, she directed that the remainder of the estate be divided equally among the three sons and daughter of Mr. Morse. The will was dated Sept. 11, 1909.

The condition of Mr. Morse, former financier and ship owner, who had a second shock here Sunday, showed no signs of improvement today. He is confined to his room and is able to sit up only for brief intervals. The excessive heat has aggravated his condition. His daughter, Mrs. Geiger, is here with him.

MYSTERIOUS VIOLENT DEATH AT WALLINGFORD

WALLINGFORD, Conn., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Mystery surrounding the death of an unknown youth whose bullet-ridden body was found by the roadside here early today was deepened by the refusal of Coroner Eli Mix to divulge his name. No explanation for the coroner's action was given.

Contradicting his earlier statements, Coroner Mix tonight declared, "The identity of the man is known to me but I will not divulge it."

When the body was first found, a blood-stained identification card was picked up by a newspaperman, who later declared that the only thing on it that he had been able to read before it was taken from him were the words "Staten Island, N. Y."

It was also learned that the Wallingford police were trying to identify the man through an automobile license found on his person, which was reported to have been issued in Long Island City, N. Y. Clothing on the body bore marks of a Providence, R. I., store.

The body was described as being that of a man about 30 years of age, about 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighing 120 to 125 pounds. Both arms were tatooed. The right one had a sailor's knot near the wrist and a coat of arms above it. On the other arm was a nude woman between the wrist and elbow and a woman's head and bust surrounded by flowers between the elbow and shoulder.

Two bullets passed through the body, either of which might have proved fatal. One entered the left shoulder and passed out through the right abdomen, the other went through the left arm, pierced the heart and lodged in the right kidney. Both were evidently fired at close range from a .32 calibre revolver.

OPTIMISTIC VIEWS OF CONDITIONS IN EUROPE

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(AP)—President E. H. H. Simmons of the New York Stock exchange arrived today from Europe with optimistic views of conditions across the Atlantic. The economic and financial recieperation there, he said, is well under way. "There have been setbacks and possibly there will be more before the desired end is accomplished," he said, "but talks with the best informed men in London, Paris and other centers and a first hand view of what really is going on under the surface makes me quite optimistic and decidedly appreciative of both the greatness of the problems and the effectiveness of the work that is being done to meet them."

COCHRAN DENIES MAKING GENERAL MOTORS STATEMENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(AP)—A denial by Thomas Cochran, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., that he had made any prediction regarding the future price of General Motors stock, radioed back to Wall street from the Inner Olympic today, temporarily arrested the sensational advance in these shares which followed the publication of any alleged interview with the banker after his departure for Europe last Saturday.

In a statement issued through the Morgan firm, Mr. Cochran said he had authorized no statement of any kind as to the future price of the stock which obviously no one could foretell. He explained, however, that in response to inquiries he had spoken with enthusiasm of the earnings, management and prospects of the General Motors corporation.

FURTHER RETURNS FROM OKLAHOMA PRIMARIES

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 4.—(AP)—J. V. (Jack) Walton, deposed governor, was trailing Congressman Elmer Thomas by nearly 12,000 votes in the race for the democratic nomination for United States senator on returns tonight from about three-fifths of the precincts in Oklahoma.

The vote for 1,751 precincts out of 3,180 in the state gave Thomas 49,707 and Walton 37,883.

Henry J. Johnston, of Perry, reputed to have Ku Klux Klan support, held a lead of more than 10,000 votes over William M. Darnell, Texas county farmer, for the democratic gubernatorial nomination on returns from 1,898 precincts.

United States Senator J. W. Harreld, republican, was re-nominated by a large plurality.

ARREST OF MAN WANTED IN WATERBURY FOR HOMICIDE

NEW YORK, Aug. —(AP)—A man believed by the police to be Calo O. Diarano, 33, wanted in Waterbury, Connecticut, on a charge of homicide; was arrested here tonight and placed in jail.

Police said they recognized the man as Diarano from circulars sent out by the Waterbury authorities asking for his arrest in connection with the slaying there July 3 of John Costanzo in a bootlegger's feud.

SENATE CAMPAIGN FUNDS COMMITTEE DEFIED

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Defiance was flung at the senate campaign funds committee today by Samuel Insull, multi-millionaire public utilities executive of Chicago, and Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney for Cook county.

Both repeatedly refused toanswer certain questions concerning campaign contributions in the recent Illinois primary. After making the record, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the chairman, told Insull his case would be reported to the senate for such action looking to contempt proceedings as it might deem warranted.

Crowe was told the committee would take his case under advisement for the present.

Insull in refusing to answer his contributions to the campaign other than those made directly for Smith and Brennan and the money spent in a propaganda campaign against the world court, said he did so on advice of his counsel, who held the senate had not empowered the committee to go into anything except senatorial contests. Crowe took a similar position, saying that he had testified concerning money used in the general campaign but that he would not disclose the source of some $15,000 or $16,000 used directly to promote the candidacy of Joseph B. Savage for county judge.

Chairman Reed and Mr. Insull had a long good humored sparring match. The exchanges between the fiery Mississippian and the state's attorney were less jovial. Senator Reed plainly showed his displeasure as Crowe steadfastly refused to say whether Insull had given him any part of the money which he insisted had gone directly to the support of Savage and so was outside of the jurisdiction of the committee. The chairman made it a matter of record that all candidates were on the same ticket and that a majority of the Crowe-Barrett organization of Cook county supported Smith for the senatorial nomination.

LOS ANGELES FINDS THE RADIO STATIONS ACCURATE

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The navy's giant dirigible Los Angeles hollered about the air over Newport for four hours today and made the unofficial discovery that radio compass stations appear to be accurate from the land and air as well as at sea. Full reports on the calibration tests which the big aircraft will conduct in New England during the next few days will not be made public until they are sent to Washington.

Officially there was no report on the calibration tests when the big aircraft finally nosed into the mast ship, Patoka to which she will be anchored here through the night. Unofficially, however, it was stated that the tests had been "entirely satisfactory" and that the accuracy of the compass station at Price's Neck, on which the first tests were made, seemed to be assured.

Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, in command of the Los Angeles, and his crew of 14 officers and 26 men, remained aboard their ship tonight. With favorable weather conditions they expect to cast off early tomorrow for Boston, where the Deer Island station in the lower harbor will be tested.

The airship will return here for the night again and will leave the following day for Bar Harbor, Me., where final tests will be made before the return to Lakehurst, N. J.

ORDERED TO SUBMIT TO PASTEUR TREATMENT

DANBURY, Aug. 4—(AP)—William Donnelly, manager of the P. and Q. Clothing store and Charles Milles, of 4 Montgomery street, a newsboy, were ordered by James N. Ellis, state deputy commissioner of domestic animals, to submit to the Pasteur treatment, after having been bitten by a dog suffering from rabies. The dog was owned by Donnelly.

Twenty dogs quartered in the neighborhood of Donnelly's house have been quarantined and three other dogs have been shot recently that had been bitten by the diseased canine.

NORTH WINDHAM MOVES TO HAVE FIRE DEPARTMENT

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 4—A body of male citizens of North Windham, with Leslie F. Hartson chairman, met last night and voted that the village should have a functioning fire department. The plans are to purchase a machine at a reasonable cost and organize the department under the name of the North Windham fire department with the following officers: Chief, Richard E. Wright; assistant chief, Leslie F. Hartson; foreman, Orin Moseley; assistant foreman, Fred Bolduck. There are to be 15 volunteer members in the department. The work of organizing a fire fighting force, the methods of handling the organization and the type of equipment used were described to the meeting by James M. Larkham, chief of the South Windham fire department. South Windham now has a chemical truck which had its value realized by the North Windhamites recently in fighting the fire at the Septewitz home.

LET CHICKENS SUFFOCATE, CRUELTY IS CHARGED

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 4—An investigation by an official of the State Humane Society closed this forenoon about 11 o'clock, when Captain of Police Frank McLean notified Archie Berkowitz of Leonard Bridge that he must appear in police court Thursday morning to answer to a charge of cruelty to animals. Berkowitz was in this city when arrested. A bond of $50 was furnished by his brother, Jake Berkowitz, also of Leonard Bridge. Berkowitz is in the wholesale live stock and poultry business. He came to this city Wednesday morning and loaded an assortment of poultry into crates which were on his truck. A local man, noting that the fowl were cruelly packed into the crates and inspite of the intense heat of the day were without water called attention to the fact and was referred to Frank P. Fenton, local agent for the humane society. When Captain McLean and Agent Fenton went to the truck they found some of the fowl suffocated. Several other complaints had been received in the past against Berkowitz.

Benjamin Golensky, 19, of 1416 Groston street, Brooklyn, N. Y., was detected by Traffic Officer Hurley, driving a car owned by Solomon Chusa of upper Ash street, this city, without an operator's license. Golensky tried to get by on Chusa' license, but the trick failed to work and in police court Wednesday morning he was charged with violation of the automobile laws. The case was nolled on the payment of costs of $5.45.

Joseph McGarry of Moosup, who was given 24 hours to leave town after he had been tried for intoxication in the police court Tuesday morning was before Judge Foss again Wednesday morning, this time on a charge of vagrancy. He was taken into custody on the street about three o'clock in the morning by Officer Montie. The court sentenced McGarry to 30 days in jail.

George E. McCracken of 55 Mountain street, who resigned recently as master mechanic at the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company after 38 years of service, was tendered a surprise at his home Tuesday night by 17 former co-workers at the plant. Through Clarence Chamberlain, the guests presented Mr. McCracken a fine oak Morris chair. Miss Minnie McCracken, assisted by Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, Mrs. Charles Hartigan and Mrs. Lawrence Cogswell, served a delicious chicken dinner. Mr. McCracken will leave soon to spend a vacation in Nova Scotia. Present were: Bert Green, Leon Morton, Daniel Cremin, Charels Clark, Frank Russo, William Kingsley, Frank Hanover, William Fitzmendorf, Fred Tracy, John Lucy, Napoleon Maheu, Albert Fields, Fred Dawson, John Catlow, Frank Legace, Thomas Murray and Clarence Chamberlain.

GLAD TO SPREAD GOOD NEWS

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—The friends of Mrs. Helen M. Kowalczyk of 6819 Hope Avenue, were glad to hear that she has regained her health. For quite some time Mrs. Kowalczyk was quite ill and it was impossible for her to work. She took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build her up. After she had started taking it, she wrote to the Pinkham Company as follows: "I certainly boost Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel stronger already and sleep sounder. I am very glad to spread the good news of how it has helped me."

"Happy to Recommend Pinkham's"

Detroit, Michigan—"I heard of this medicine through an advertisement in the 'Detroit News' and wrote to Mrs. Grace Gillem, whose letter was published. Then I started taking the Vegetable Compound and got the best results. I used the Sanative Wash, too. I am really happy if I can advise women to take your medicines."—Mrs. M. E. Mowery, 12163 Washburn Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

JEWETT CITY

MUTILATED BY DEER STRANGER FEARS PUBLICITY

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 4—Several Jewett City people noticed a man sitting on the steps at J. H. Tracy's store this forenoon. His name was not learned, but it was noticed that his shoulder, inside his shirt which was open in front, was wrapped with bandages. He told of having been driving along through the woods down in the south part of the town, when a great deer sprang over the fence into the road. His horse shied and the driver was thrown out, breaking a bone in his shoulder. He was a man of some years and a stranger to the town. If he had received medical treatment, it had not done him much good, for he was much bent over. When asked his name, he said he didn't want "no stories wrote about him." Few in Griswold are being injured that way nowadays.

MYSTIC

DEATH OF MARY ELLA GARY WHO HAD REACHED 82

(Special to the Bulletin)

MYSTIC, Aug. 4—Mrs. Mary Ella Gary, 82, died this noon at the home of Miss Jennie Wolfe, on Grave) street, from a shock sustained Tuesday, July 27. She had been in failing health for a year and a half. When she was unable to keep her home she went to board with Mrs. Rebecca Nye, where she received excellent care and last March she went to the home of Miss Wolfe, who has tenderly cared for her.

Mrs. Gary was a daughter of Capt. John E. Williams and Mary Haley and was born in Mystic, March 25, 1844, and has always lived here. In early youth she united with the Methodist church and was the oldest member at the time of her death. She sang in the choir for 40 years and was secretary of the Ladies' Aid society for 30 years and active in every department of the church until her health failed. She was a member of the D. A. R. for many years.

Mrs. Gary leaves a sister-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Williams of Miami, Fla., and several cousins.

Mrs. Lois Bentley, 73, wife of Edward Wainright Bentley, died at her home, West Mystic avenue, Wednesday afternoon after an illness of several months. She had been seriously ill since last May, when the trouble in her throat became serious and the best of medical skill failed to give her relief.

Mrs. Bentley was born May 7, 1853, the daughter of Rev. Gilbert S. Bailey and Mary Delight Packer. She leaves besides her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Harry Anderson of Mystic and Mrs. John W. Pearson of Hartford, and two grandsons, John and Gilbert Pearson, a sister, Mrs. Gurdon S. Allyn of Mystic and a brother, George W. Bailey of Providence.

The Mystic Garden club met Tuesday at the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Gould, at Goat Point, West Mystic. Mrs. Gould served fruit punch. Mrs. L. P. Allyn president, called the meeting to order and presided. The minutes of the past two meetings were read and approved. Miss Lillian Miner, of Providence, read an article entitled Mysteries of Plant Life. A discussion followed about flowers and growing them. The club wants to continue to and in the preservation of the wild flowers that are becoming extinct. After the meeting closed an hour was spent in Mrs. Gould's flower gardens. This beautiful place is especially attractive. Mr. Gould bought the old house and six acres of land. The house has been thoroughly renovated and provided with modern improvements, hard wood floors, etc. It faces the water and the farm has quite a tract along the water. Mr. Gould has built a face wall. The old well has fine stone and cement surrounding it and the curb and posts are of native stone with an artistic top with the bucket and rope of many years ago. Stepping stones lead to the water front. He has many garden spots of flowers arranged artistically. The rose garden has choice varieties with several still in bloom. There are many kinds of gladioli that are just blooming. Nearly all kinds of choice flowers are found and the old fashioned ones, and he is also cultivating some of the wold flowers. Mr. Gould is a successful business man and one of the many who have gone from a country town and made good. Owing to the intense heat the attendance at the meeting was smaller than usual. Those present were Mrs. L. P. Allyn, Mrs. H. C. Cornwall, Mrs. Irving Haley, Mrs J. M. Phillips, Mrs. Eva Burdick, Mrs. Abbie Matthews, Mrs. Henrieta Stanton, Mrs. Justin Denison, Mrs. George H. Miner, Miss Lillian Miner, Mrs. Clara Wilcox, Mrs. L. M. Allyn, Mrs. W. A. Phillips, Mrs. Delia Swanson

"Camels"—the word of an experienced smoker

MILLIONS who've tried them all, who could well afford to pay a higher price, become wedded to Camels. Each year Camel wins the favor of a growing army of experienced smokers.

Camel leads because of Camel quality. No other cigarette made can match Camel goodness. Camel is made of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown, masterfully blended as in no other cigarette to give you all of their mild and mellow flavors.

In all tobacco time there has never been such a favorite as Camel, for Camel goodness has no equal. For sheer quality of tobaccos, for deep-down smoking enjoyment, for favor with smokers, Camel stands alone, supreme among cigarettes.

Camel is the world's favorite because Camel pleasure never palls. You simply can't smoke enough of them to tire your taste. No one ever smoked a Camel and regretted it. Camels never leave a cigaretty after-taste.

We believe that your first real smoking pleasure will come when you taste the smoke from the finest tobaccos nature produces. The world's largest tobacco organization invites you to try now the favorite of millions of experienced smokers.

Have a Camel!

DANIELSON

TAX COLLECTOR J. R. WALSH EARNS NICHE IN HALL OF FAME

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 4—As tax collector of the town of Killingly James R. Walsh has achieved during the fiscal year that closed last Saturday night a collection record never before equaled in Killingly, entitling him to a place in the tax collectors' hall of fame.

He has accomplished the seemingly impossible record of collecting more thousands of dollars than the last grand list called for on the established tax rate. In other words, his rate book called for the collection of $125,783.50, and Collector Walsh has collected $128,652.26, a really remarkable record.

This is accounted for by explaining that Mr. Walsh has been garnering back taxes as well as current ones and that the interest on the belated payments amounted to $1,305.19. Also included in the collections is an item of $743.97, paid in by property owners as their share of street oiling operations.

Not content with this fine record, Collector Walsh is constantly seeking payment of still other tax accounts that are due the town. His record of efficiency is being highly praised by the townspeople.

ANNUAL COUNTY FIELD TRIP GIVES PROMISE OF PROFIT

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 4—A vegetable farm and a poultry farm where excellent results are being obtained by their owners will be visited next Thursday by several hundred people, expected to go out on the annual field trip of the Windham County Farmers' association. The vegetable farm is that of C. B Jewett in Hampton and the poultry farm that of Oliver Brothers at Clark's Corner. The outing is to be held rain or shine.

At 9:15, standard time, those who are to make the trip will assemble at Hampton Hill, on the Danielson-Willimantic state highway. From there the cavalcade will proceed to the Jewett farm, where 20 acres of vegetables are under cultivation. Until three years ago this farm was largely devoted to dairying activities. Since then the growing of vegetables has been made a specialty and there has been an increased acreage for this work each year. This farm affords an illustration of how it is possible to gradually and successfully change from one line of farming to another. Fifteen varieties of vegetables are being grown this year and the visitors there will find an inspection of the fields very interesting. Something at the farm that will challenge attention is the 12 by 30 greenhouses where 42,000 plants were produced this year.

The field party is scheduled to arrive at the Oliver Brothers farm at 11:30. The poultry plant at this place has been built up in the past five years from a purchase of a setting of eggs and two hundred day-old chicks. At the present time 1,000 laying hens are in the flock. The Leghorns on this farm carry 50 per cent. Hollywood blood. A bird that made a record of 173 eggs at the Farmingdale Long Island Egg Laying contest will be on exhibition. Two hundred birds were trapnested at this farm last year. The field party will be shown various devices that are in use at this farm that help toward the fine success being achieved there.

Following a basket lunch at Hampton Hill at 12:45, there will be a program that will include an address by the famous Rush Lewis, called the Billy Sunday of the milk world. Putting Business Methods Into Agriculture will be his subject. Rush Lewis is one of the best orators on agricultural marketing subjects in the east.

The speaking program also includes Charles F. Brenn, president of the Windham County Farmers association and Whitman Danielson, secretary-treasurer of the organization; Frank L. Davis, county agent; Roy E. Jones, extension poultry specialist from Storrs.

The field day program has been arranged by a committee made up of A. H. Amidon, chairman, Abington; John Z LaBelle, Killingly; Clarence Salmon, Brooklyn; C. B. Jewett, Hampton; George A. Cook, Windham; Thomas Mara, Windham.

Wednesday morning the funeral of Emilian Boisse, who lost his life by drowning at Beach pond last Sunday, was held from the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs. J. B. Boisse, in Moosup, with services at All Hallows' church. Rev. Oscar Normand was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. The troop of scouts of which the dead boy was a member acted as an escort from the house to the church, also proceeded to All Hallows' cemetery. Taps were sounded as the body was lowered into the grave. The bearers were Henry Marcheseault, Theodore Teatreault, Roland Russell and Gerard Valiencourt, all Boy Scouts. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

For the third consecutive day the mercury climbed up to 100 degrees in Danielson Wednesday. This temperature was maintained for nearly three hours during the afternoon. Having lost much of its energy and vitality in the earlier part of the week humanity suffered even greater distress during Wednesday. In numbers of instances out door workers had to cease their labors. It was particularly hot in the plants of manufacturing companies and the workers were a wilted lot, at the end of the day's labors.

Out of town interests purchased as one lot, at auction at noon Wednesday, the stock and fixtures of the Armington store, a light truck being included in the sale. The price paid was $775. A number of men who make a practice of going about the country buying up such stocks were included among the bidders.

It was regarded as strange Wednesday that no cooling showers came to Danielson during Tuesday night, when rain fell in a number of places in this vicinity. For hours the sky was black with threatening storms and at times and in places these clouds, through which lightning darted, had an ugly look. Rain fell just beyond East Killingly early in the evening, but not a drop here.

Fans who have been following closely the games in the Twilight league have evolved an idea. Numbers of them believe that, when the league schedule is over, it would be interesting to see a special series between the Buddies and the Nail Drivers. The Buddies got off to such a fine start that it is not likely their lead will be overcome before the close of the season. In the meantime the Nail Drivers have developed into a smart playing team, and it is that thing that has a number of the fans wishing to see the two teams in a special series.

The extension by the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company of it slighting lines to Hampton Hill is going to make it possible for residents of the district along the state highway between West Brooklyn and Hampton, a distance of some five miles, to have lighting service and to install such electrically operated devices as they may need on their properties. It is a prospect that is interestin gand pealsing to many of them.

In observance of the feast of the Transfiguration, there are to be special services at St. Alban's church Friday.

Old Killingly pond has been attracting a quota of bathers every day this week over and above the number from among those who have camps on the shore of that body of water.

Letters from local men who are in camp with the National Guard at Niantic indicate that the heat is bringing no less degree of discomfort down there than right here at home.

And now the police are being asked to get after the boys who make a practice of playing baseball in the streets, this to prevent the youngsters from being injured by traffic, something they seem to care little about.

PUTNAM

A REQUISITION AGENT PROPOSED TO CITY COUNCIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 4.—Mayor Chapdelaine, who is spending the summer at Oakland Beach with his family came home yesterday to attend the August meeting of the city council, which was held last night at the council rooms in the municipal rooms.

Chairman Rogers of the committee on the water situation of the city reported that as yet Engineer S. B. Palmer of Norwich had made no report on the local situation.

The report of the captain of police showed 13 arrests for July, mostly for drunkenness. Seven prisoners were sent to the county jail at Brooklyn and fines and costs amounting to $227.63 had been paid.

Three building permits were granted; one to Helen M. Wheaton to build and operate an ice cream and soda stand at the corner of Ring and Grove streets; Rev. Juda Lemonivits, to build an addition to his home on Bridge street and to Felix Lizotte for an addition to his store on Woodstock avenue. Permission was given Charles Davis to move a building to School street from Lee street.

A list of taxes, which Archie Macdonald, Jr., tax collector, said should be abated for various reasons was read and laid over until the next meeting. A request for a silent policeman at the junction of Grove and South Main streets was made by A. Macdonnld, Jr., and this matter was also laid over until the next meeting.

All monthly bills were read and ordered paid.

The benefits that a tractor would be to the city highway department were presented by a representative of the Elmer Automobile company of this city. He pointed out the advantages that a tractor would have over the horse and motor truck in both efficiency and power. The matter was referred to the highway committee to investigate and report.

The suggestion of Fire Chief Thurston that the city needed a requisition agent to approve purchases before they were made, provoked a lively discussion, in which every one present participated.

TOTAL OF 120 DAYS IN JAIL—UNPAID FINE ADDS 62 MORE

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 4.—Judge Tourtelotte heard two cases in the North Grosvenordale court yesterday which are of interest to Putnam people. Orient Ethier was charged with an assault with three other men upon four girls from Dudley. The assault charge was nolled, but the young man had to answer to five other charges. The charges were two for drunkenness, breach of the peace, abusive language and escaping from an officer of the law. Ethier pleaded guilty to all five charges and Judge Tourtelotte imposed a fine of $7 and costs on each charge, making a total of $63.75. He also sentenced the young man to 30 days in Brooklyn jail on each of four charges, making a total of 120 days. The accused did not pay his fine and this will add 62 more days to the term. The girls did not appear against Ethier.

Frank Sheppard was arrested the night before, as the result of an accident in which three machines figured. He was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor to which he pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs, making a total of $110.85. A remittance was made to him with the understanding that he have his license revoked, and if Sheppard applies for another license the judge will oppose the granting of it.

Judge Tourtelotte stated that it was his aim to keep drunken drivers off the road and he will do it in this way in opposing any application for another license of a person once convicted of driving while under the influence of liquor.

At the recent swimming meet among the Y. M. C. A. camps held at Rau's, on Crystal lake, Rockville, Camp Woodstock was second to Camp Hazen's first. The swimmers from the Rock pond scored 40 points, Hazen 64 and Camp Mohawk but 36 points. The events and results follow:

Plunge for distance:
Junior: First, Bainard for Woodstock; Wetherbee for Hazen; Oppell for Mohawk.
Intermediate: First, Cowles for Woodstock; Czarris for Hazen; Vaughn for Mohawk.
Senior: First, Williams for Hazen; Loisel for Hazen; Abbott for Mohawk
Fifty yard swim:
Junior: First, Oppell for Mohawk; Willis for Hazen; Custer for Hazen.
Intermediate: First, Birely for Hazen; Barker for Hazen; Davenport for Hazen.
Senior: First, Loisel for Hazen; Williams for Hazen; Stacy for Woodstock
Diving:
Junior: First, Dayton for Woodstock; Oppell for Mohawk; McHale for Woodstock.
Intermediate: First, Markley, Woodstock; Birely for Hazen; Baker for Hazen.
Senior: First, Stavel for Hazen; Stacey for Woodstock; Bidwell for Woodstock.
220 yard relay:
Junior: First, Hazen, Mohawk, Woodstock.
Intermediate: First, Hazen, Woodstock, Mohawk.
Senior: First, Hazen, Woodstock, Mohawk.
The starter was R. J. Murphy; announcer, Gordon Robson and the judges were Tracey Redding, Lawrence Hawes and Dudley Burr.

Raymond Chandler a former resident of Putnam, who has been an instructor at the Berkshire boys' camp at Pittsfield, Mass., met with an automobile accident near Canton, Mass. While making a turn around a silent cop, his car was struck by a large truck and overturned. Mrs. Chandler who was also in the car, was badly cut and will probably lose two fingers of her right hand. She was taken to the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston. Mr. Chandler was not badly injured. The car was wrecked.

Miss Eliza Reid, money order clerk at the local postoffice and Mrs. Thomas Duffey of South Main street, patients at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester, suffering from serious injuries received in an automobile accident a week ago, are improved and considered out of danger. It will probably be some weeks, however, before either of them will be able to leave the hospital.

Miss Harriet Sampson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Sampson, is the author of a poem which appears in the current issue of a well known magazine and is entitled "Freedom Considered." One prominent critic describes Miss Sampson's poem as "Excellent and piquant, spirited and with a touch of modernity, but well controlled by tradition, finely phrased and nicely balanced between gravity and humor." Miss Sampson, who is a winter resident of New York, is spending the summer here with her parents.

Lawrence Backus and Tenner Peckham have returned from an automobile trip to Canada.

Misses Marion Merritt and Mildred Foley of Arlington, Mass., are spending their vacations with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fay, at Abington.

Miss Irene Johnson has returned home, after a visit with friends and relatives at Orange, Mass.

Charles K. Barry of Oberlin, Ohio, is the guest of Miss Boult and the Misses Stevens at Brick-to-high, in Pomfret.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swain of New York and Pomfret and Mrs. Grey, Mrs. Swain's mother, have returned from a trip abroad.

Mrs. F. H. Bigelow is again at Pomfret rectory after a serious operation recently at the Day Kimball hospital. Rev. F. H. Bigelow is still at the hospital where he is making a good recovery, after an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Helen Armstrong of Marblehead, Mass., has been the guest of Mrs. Thomas Chard at the Ben Grosvenor inn.

Courtland Hoppin, who has been spending the summer with Mrs. Joseph Clark Hoppin at Courtlands, in Pomfret, sailed on the Aquitania Tuesday and will again spend the winter there.

CATHOLICS OF NATION ASKED TO ORGANIZE

Former Judge Alfred J. Talley, of New York, president of the newly organized association for the protection of religious rights in Mexico, has announced that he has sent out appeals to prominent Catholic laymen in cities all over the United States to form branches in their cities.

At the same time Judge Talley made public a telegraph which had been sent to Senators James W. Wadsworth Jr. and Royal S. Copeland of New York. The telegram said: "The association for the protection of religious rights in Mexico, composed of 200,000 Catholics in the City of New York, desires to know what you propose to do with respect to the present attitude of the United States Government on religious persecution in Mexico."

Judge Talley said that he expected to see every Catholic diocese in the country follow New York lead. "The women's organizations," he said, "will be of tremendous service in this situation. Not only must public opinion in this country be guided aright but religious minded people of all denominations must be made to understand the falsity of the reasons given by the Calles Government for its attack upon the church.

"Mexican priests and hapless sisters are coming over the borders in great numbers. They are without homes or financial support. It may become necessary for some central agency to look after these victims of their adherence to their faith. The situation presents a challenge to Catholic people which cannot be sidestepped.

"We who enjoy the blessings of real freedom in our own blessed land must be ready to help the stricken people or Mexico to whom freedom is denied. We are sure that our call to the Catholic people or America will meet with a hearty response."

ASK CONNECTICUT TO JOIN REFUND MOVE

An effort is under way to have Connecticut join several other states of the Union in an attempt to obtain a refund from the federal government of direct taxes paid by the state during the Civil war. Former State Deputy Attorney General Burton Smith of New York plans to confer with Connecticut officials in connection with the refund movement. Mr. Smith is associated with George Grodon Battle, former Attorney General Charles D. Newton and Irving E. Burdick, all representing the state of New York in this effort and some twenty-one other states are cooperating through their attorney generals or special counsel.

If the proposal is successful, forty-five states of the Union will receive refunds totaling about $300,000,000 and representing money paid by the citizens of the several states as a direct tax just after the civil war. A joint resolution granting the states the right to bring suit against the federal government is before congress and has been favorably reported by the senate committee on claims. It is thought by those interested in obtaining the refund that the direct taxes paid in 1866, 1867 and 1868 will be held illegal and that, while the money cannot be returned directly to the persons from whom it was collected, it will properly revert to the states in which they lived.

Several weeks ago a search of Connecticut records was made at the capitol and the details of the situation as it affects this state were reviewed at a recent conference.

The tub's the thing!

Shaped right
Larger capacity
Keeps water hot longer
Strong cast aluminum
No seams to leak
No scouring necessary
Creates more effective water action

THE Maytag is the ONLY washer with a cast-aluminum tub — a tub cast in one piece of strong, thick aluminum! The Maytag tub keeps water hot for an entire washing! Keeps water clean because the dirt settles into the sediment trap beneath the gyratator!

Holds More Clothes

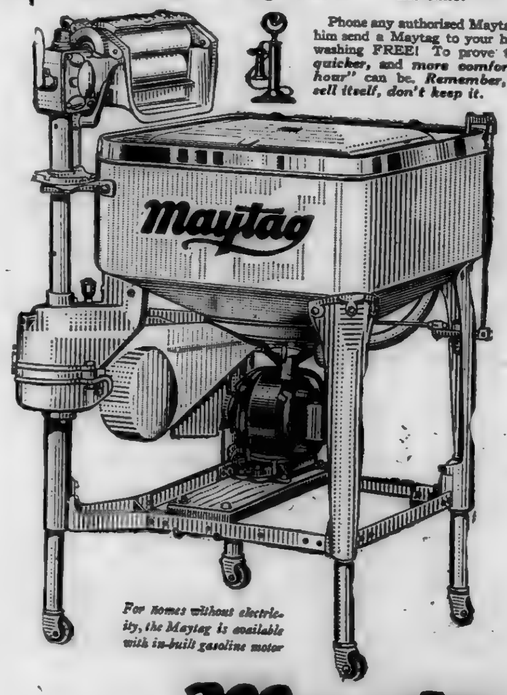
The Maytag tub holds more clothes than other washers—the capacity is 21 gallons instead of the usual 17. There is no machinery inside the tub to take up clothes space—the tub is all washing room! The quicker-washed pieces can be taken from the Maytag while it is running and passed through the handily-low, conveniently-placed wringer that instantly adjusts itself to a handkerchief or a blanket, and wrings both dry.

Tub Cleans Itself in 30 Seconds

After a washing is done, the Maytag tub automatically drains and cleans itself in 30 seconds. Nothing to scour or polish, no tiresome "cleaning-up" after a Maytag "wash-hour!"

More Cleansing Water Action

The scientific shape of the tub, together with the gyratator, produces a more thorough, more cleansing water action. Keeps the soapier, more turbulent water continuously active in every inch of the tub, all of the time!



For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor

Phone any authorized Maytag dealer listed below! Let him send a Maytag to your home to do a whole week's washing FREE! To prove to you how much easier, quicker, and more comfortable a Maytag "wash-hour" can be. Remember, if the Maytag doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

Gone from the shores of Black Pt., the tribesmen of the Nehantics — gone forever to the Happy Hunting Ground.

No more does the smoke from their camp fires beside the "big water" ascend to the heavens.

Looking down from their paradise in the sun, what a change would meet the distant glance of a Nehantic spirit!

Beautiful residences of the white men, where formerly stood the thatched dwellings of the aborigines.

Magnificent concrete roads going in all directions where in the dead years the red men stalked their game.

Yachts on the broad expanse of the sound in place of the primitive canoes of a race that is gone.

The great growth of this nation, which is now the richest in all the world, has taken place in less than a century.

Connecticut, with its 120 miles of coast line, is all developed with the exception of half a dozen good properties. There are less than 5,000 lots which can be purchased in future developments.

The state has over 300,000 families today. Less than 3% of these people own a shore cottage. The remaining 97%, or 291,000 families, have less than 5,000 lots to distribute among them.

Add to this the great population of New York city, which is gradually spreading this way and absorbing all available shore land and you can realize what the future holds forth.

What a great change is coming in future years. How rapidly prices will advance!

Will your children be barred from owning a "cottage by the sea"? Will the high prices of the future keep them from ever owning such a place?

You are the one to answer this question and the answer must be made now. This is not the time to hesitate.

Youth and life and laughter, boating, tennis, fishing, swimming — that's the seashore.

Today at Black Pt. you can buy lots for as low as $300, $400 and $500. And on very easy terms. Buy one or more of them now. Every lot faces a rocked and oiled road, has electricity and artesian well water is piped down every street. There is a club house for property owners — clay tennis courts and a 300-foot pier. Over $98,000 has already been spent on public improvements.

POINCARE MOVES FAST

The most speedy and possibly the farthest-reaching legislative action ever taken by France has been completed. Within a week after the formation of the cabinet of national union, the chamber of deputies has passed the first great measure of fiscal reform. The Poincare plan was accepted by the chamber of deputies by the vote of 293 to 118 and then was adopted by the senate by the vote of 250 to 12. This measure will add 2,500,000,000 francs to the national revenues this year and 9,000,000,000 francs in 1927. Delay in the passage of this bill would have cost France 16,000,000 francs or $600,000 a day.

The Poincare programme for the salvation of France and the franc has moved swiftly. The budget has finally been balanced, or will be, by the new taxes. These will lessen the load now being carried by the French treasury and will permit the creation of a sinking fund to take care of the tremendous internal debt of the country. It is this burden and not the obligations of France to Great Britain and America that is eating the financial heart out of the nation. It was not the outside debts of France but her obligations to her own people that were destroying her confidence in herself and driving French capital out of the country.

Poincare gives the pledge that the taxes now voted shall not be increased. This fiscal effort must be final, he says. The new taxes include heavy burdens on incomes, including agricultural profits, on motor transport, on wine revenues, on railroad fares. There is also a tax of 375 francs on each foreigner remaining in France more than a month. The premier declares his faith in the country and its persevering will to recover.

As in his first declaration of policy a week ago, Premier Poincare spoke guardedly before the deputies as to the outside debts of France. He contented himself with saying: "Let our foreign creditors know that France is resolved to acquit herself to the full extent of her capacity, and, let our internal creditors know that she is determined not to repudiate her obligations. Then confidence will be reborn."

To an amazing degree that confidence has already been reborn. The franc has recovered some of its lost ground, there has been an increase in savings bank deposits and a decline in withdrawals in the past week, while Frenchmen, moved by a new confidence, are making advance payment of taxes.

Ninety days ago such an increase in taxation as has been voted was considered impossible. Premier Poincare, in putting through the first real measure for stabilization, has done more than all his predecessors combined. So far his victory is complete but he is not yet out of the woods. The danger does France by her politicians in the nearly eight years since the armistice cannot be undone as many months.

INDIAN CLAIMS

No one who has pursued American history beyond the limitations of the school text book can deny a measure of justice in Indian claims for land withdrawals, broken agreements and other acts of the white man in territory once owned by the Indian or ceded to him by the government. For a nation setting out to be paternal sometimes ended in being ruthless in its treatment of a dependent race.

It is now estimated that such claims total more than $100,000,000. It is very definitely known that the record of the administration of Indian affairs half a century ago is replete with scandal. The files of the state and war departments will furnish evidence of this. The massacre of Custer; Indian raids immediately preceding the battle of the Little Big Horn and the general dissatisfaction of that period were largely predicated upon systematic robbery of the Indians by political cliques in Washington and their agents in the Indian territories.

The department of justice has again brought the Indian claims to public attention by listing the number of suits on file. There are nineteen in which Indian tribes are plaintiffs, one in which a citizen is the plaintiff and two Indian tribes are defendants. One typical complaint is that the government failed to educate Indian children as it had promised to do. Undoubtedly close examination of the briefs would reveal interesting historical detail. The department's action in making public the status of the suits is interesting. It could have added to this interest by indicating the course it proposes to pursue in respect to litigation which has been encumbering its files for generations.

THE HALL-MILLS MYSTERY

It is not often that a murder mystery four years old is revived and that a new departure by the prosecuting authorities is made in the effort to detect and punish the guilty. In that respect the action of the New Jersey authorities is unique in their present attempt to find the guilty in the murder of Rev. Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, his choir singer, of New Brunswick, N. J. Charges of slackness and inefficiency made against the methods followed in the previous investigation, which left the murder as an unsolved and unsolvable mystery, add definite interest to the case at the present time.

There were various circumstances about the first investigation, at the time when the tragedy first held public attention, that gave the public the outstanding impression that the case then had been badly bungled. Not until the bodies were exhumed, after weeks of burial, was it disclosed that in addition to being shot, the dead woman's throat had been cut, indicating how cursory and inadequate the first examination had been.

The very laxity and inadequacy of the first examination, which is probably brought fresh to mind by those who have carried in mind any of the details of the case, tend to establish in popular imagination fertile soil for present intimations that corrupt influences were at work at that time to prevent a thorough sifting of the evidence. Yet such intimations remain to be substantiated. Even law officials like the rest of humanity are more often stupid than corrupt, and it is sometimes amazing to what lengths such stupidity can go.

Because of the fact that two were murdered, because also of the fact that the conduct of the murdered pair had been such as to establish presumptive desires for retaliation, a strong public feeling persists apparently, that, even at this late date it will be a signal reflection upon the processes of law, and of detective processes under the law, if the guilty are not finally detected and punished.

SAVING SCENIC NIAGARA

Ever since power and drainage engineers found commercial usage for the stream that flows over Niagara, there have been times when fear was felt for the future of this world-famous spectacle. Increasing use of its marvelous waterpower might go on to such an extent that the falls might be practically obliterated. Some such result might have been achieved but for the unceasing efforts of the American Civic association in the last twenty years. Now that the power plants are diverting something like 27 per cent. of the average flow of the river, not to mention the draughts made by the Chicago drainage canal and other sanitary works upon the waters of the lakes that would otherwise go over the falls, it has become apparent that something must be done if Canada and the United States would save the cataract from becoming something more than a mere trickle.

Both governments have lately showed a renewed interest in the problem, which has resulted in Secretary Hoover and the Canadian authorities arranging for a joint engineering study to determine if further draughts of water may be made without hopelessly impairing the scenic beauty of the falls, and likewise to devise methods of so distributing the flow of the river that the present tendency to concentrate at the Horseshoe Falls may be overcome. So far as the effect upon the falls as a scenic spectacle is concerned, this concentration at one point of a great volume of the flow is regarded as a menace almost equal to that of the diversion for engineering purposes, for it has been found that the notch of the falls at that point is being eroded at the rate of seven feet a year.

Canada seems desirous that more water may be made available to the turbines on its side, but it is encouraging to know that Secretary Hoover takes the position that the scenic value of the falls as a tourist attraction exceeds its value as a further source of power. It is with this idea that he has made the appointment of Dr. J. Horace MacFarland, president of the American Civic association, as the American civilian member of the International body hitherto composed entirely of engineers. In making this appointment, Secretary Hoover says that it is "as a public assurance that the scenic value of the falls is the first consideration."

That the falls have been preserved in any substantial measure to this day is probably due in no small degree to the persistent battling and persuasive appeals of Dr. McFarland through twenty years. No man is more conversant with the subject in all its aspects than he, and his appointment to the board of control at this time gives promise that the aesthetic point of view will receive a greater degree of official recognition than it has in the past.

LAND PIRATES

"You don't see much of Mrs. Greely, do you, Alice?" asked Kildare as he lighted his after-dinner cigarette.

"Not more than I can help, Tom," replied his wife. "Why do you ask?"

"I met her on the train this morning and she was really charming and she seems so fond of you that I can't understand your grudge against her."

"I haven't a grudge, but I can't afford her society, charming as it is," laughed Alice.

"What do you mean—can't afford her society?"

"She's such a liberal borrower, Tom. She is always sending one of her children over for a cup of sugar or a half pound of butter or something or other which is never returned. As for books, she must have nearly a dozen of ours now. She's a land pirate."

"What's a land pirate?" inquired young Thomas.

"That's just a little joke of mother's, Thomas," said Kildare, and he looked at his wife reprovingly. "You're a trifle reckless in your speech, Alice."

"Perhaps I am, Tom, but if you can tell me that Mrs. Greely didn't borrow anything from you this morning I'll retract the term, land pirate. Ah, ah. I see from your guilty expression that you lent her something."

"Gosh, Alice, how did you guess it? She rode in town on my ticket and I let her have $5. She didn't exactly ask me for it, but she showed so much embarrassment about being without funds that I insisted upon her taking it."

"Charge it to experience, for it's farewell to that five."

"I think you're a little hard on her, Alice, I'm sure that she means to return it immediately"

"I do admire your trusting nature, Tom," remarked Alice with a teasing smile. "I could use that $5 for matinee tickets."

"Very well, you may have that five for matinee tickets," said Kildare grandly, and after that Alice asked him every evening at dinner if her matinee fund had been paid. One evening he threw up his hand with comic despair.

"I admit I'm beaten, Alice," he said. "Mrs Greely went in town on my train this morning. She was very smiling and friendly and she said as she sat down beside me that she would be so glad if I would let her have a look at my paper so she could see what the Friday bargains were. I handed her the paper and went into the smoking car. Thomas, my son, I take it all back; your mother knows a land pirate when she sees one. I am afraid your poor mother will never go to the matinee on that $5."

Thomas looked serious, but said nothing. His parents with understanding glances decided not to discuss the debt further in his presence. They were much astonished a week later when he inquired at a dinner what theater his mother was going to when she got the $5.

"Why, Thomas, I don't expect to go at all. That matinee plan was just a joke, dear," said Alice.

"It isn't a joke any more, mother, for here's the $5." Thomas triumphantly displayed five $1 bills.

"Good gracious, Thomas, where did you get those?" asked Kildare.

"Eddy Greeley and I were playing out in front of his house and he said to me he had to go in and get some cents to buy some yeast, 'cause his mother told him to before she laid down for her reg'lar nap, so I went in with him, and he got her pocket book out of the desk and when he was taking out the pennies I saw some dollars, and I told him that five of them belonged to my father and I'd just take 'em home. Aren't you glad I 'tended to that for you?"

"My feelings are considerably mixed, son." Kildare looked at his wife and groaned. "Talk about land pirates! Gosh! Alice, what's to be done?"

"You'll just have to telephone Mrs. Greeley and explain," grinned Alice, and then she pulled young Thomas' head down against her shoulder. "We'll have to talk this all over sonny, dear, but I will say that I expect some day to be the mother of a captain of finance."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Norwich Fire Chief

Mr. Editor: It is certainly good to hear that Chief Stanton is not to retire and will continue to supervise Norwich's public fire defense.

Your city is certainly to be congratulated upon having such a man as Howard Stanton as the chief of its fire department, and congratulated also should be those who prevailed upon Chief Stanton to continue on. Many of us in the general field of fire prevention and fire fighting engineering have known for some years past that Chief Stanton had a strong notion about retiring after 25 years service. It did not get any enthusiastic reaction whatever.

What Chief Stanton has been to the City of Norwich he has been to the progression of fire engineering throughout the entire country. He is so strongly entrenched in the minds and hearts of his fellow citizens that, no doubt, his influence at home is taken pretty much for granted and little thought given to what it is elsewhere.

His achievement in rearing Norwich's fire department from infancy and making it function the way he has puts him in the front rank of the nation's most able chief engineers of fire departments. What he has done for Norwich in this respect has been because of what he has done in co-operating with others to advance the profession of fire engineering. Chief Stanton did not allow his feet to become mired in the mud of the past but kept them moving on. The nature of his relations with such great organizations as the New England Association of Fire Chiefs, the International Association of Fire Engineers, the National Fire Protection association, the record of his useful service to them, the great esteem in which he is held, the respect he commands, all attest to the great benefit a city derives from having a progressive chief of a fire department who gets out of the confines of his city into the world of his craft and participates in development of a branch of applied engineering science that means so much to the security of our cities, namely fire fighting engineering.

Some cities may be as fortunate in this respect but many are not. Norwich may not be among the big cities but the chief of its fire department stands among the chiefs of the biggest fire departments of the country in ability and prescience. And I happen to know how highly some of them regard him.

More, much more, may be said in commendation of Chief Stanton, without running any risk whatever of overstatement, but I do not wish to trespass upon your patience in receiving what I, personally, have to say, therefore will conclude.

The city of Norwich has every reason to be very proud of Chief Stanton, not only because of his reputation at home but also what it is elsewhere in the country at large. And I know that I voice the earnest hope of many that he will continue for years to come as chief of the fire department of the great little city of Norwich, Connecticut.

Yours most cordially,
I. G. Hoagland.

New York, Aug. 2, 1926.

Two boys were burned to death and a woman and two children were injured early yesterday when a still exploded in a private house in Los Angeles in which they were sleeping.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Henry Wood, who has come from London to conduct a series of concerts in the famous Hollywood Bowl at Los Angeles, has been connected with the Queen's Hall orchestra for many years, and has done more, perhaps, than any other English conductor of the day to popularize the best music in London. Sir Henry began his musical career as a child of ten, when he acted as deputy organist at a church in London. He was indebted to his father for his earliest musical education, and later, when a lad of 16, he entered the Royal Academy of Music. Before commencing his long and fruitful connection with the Queen's Hall he had some years' experience as a conductor of opera. In 1918 Sir Henry declined an invitation to become conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra. He has conducted in Berlin, in New York, and in various other cities. He is also a well-known teacher of singing.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Crystal Lake

Crystal lake is the summer home of many people from Connecticut and also a goodly number from New Jersey and elsewhere and is located in Tolland county, a round trip of about 80 miles from Norwich and over state highways in great part.

Leaving Norwich one would drive to Willimantic and thence to the Rockville highway through Mansfield Depot to West Willington. At this point a left turn carries the driver to Tolland. About two miles beyond Tolland a right turn across the railroad tracks leads to Shenipsit lake, a beautiful body of water. Continuing on for about four miles one reaches Crystal lake, located about a quarter of a mile to the right of the highway.

On the return, continuing on the highway brings the driver to the highway from Stafford Springs to Somers, where a right turn carries the car to Stafford Springs when the return trip can be made back through Willimantic to Norwich.

More About Big Claw

If what I do seems strange to you
Remember the reverse is true.
—Big Claw the Lobster.

There is nothing really strange in the world. It is all in the point of view. It may seem strange to you that a lobster can get out of his shell, but it isn't at all strange to the lobster, or to the other people of the sea who are his neighbors. It probably would seem just as strange for the lobster to see you walking on two legs. That's why I say there is nothing really strange in all the Great World. It is all in the point of view.

But you couldn't tell this to Reddy Fox. He had learned a lot about Big Claw the Lobster from Barker the Seal and he was eager to learn more, and everything he learned seemed strange. That was just because he never had seen a lobster before he found the one on the beach and because he couldn't possibly know what it was like down on the bottom of the ocean. He had found out that Big Claw used those legs of his for crawling about on the bottom. It occurred to him now that all the crabs he had seen—and they seemed to him as if they must be sort of second cousins to a lobster—always went sidewise.

"Does a lobster travel sidewise when he is walking?" inquired Reddy.

"Does a lobster travel sidewise when he is walking?" inquired Reddy.

"Of course not. What put such an idea as that into your head?" exclaimed Barker. "He walks straight ahead just the same as you do."

"Can he swim at all?" Reddy was bound to learn all he could about Big Claw.

"Certainly he can swim," replied Barker. "He swims backward. What are you laughing at?"

"I was just wondering," replied Reddy, "if he was to be in a race which was to be walked for half the distance and the remaining distance to be finished by swimming, where he would be when he finished. Can he do anything else besides walk and swim?" asked Reddy.

"He can dig," replied Barker.

"Do you mean dig holes?" asked Reddy.

"Of course, I mean big holes," replied Barker. "He digs holes in the sand down under water and backs into them tail first, and there he is ready to grab anything that comes his way and looks good to eat."

"That reminds me," said Reddy, "what does Big Claw eat, anyway?"

"He isn't a bit fussy," replied Barker. "A dead fish is just as good as a live one to him. Now, Im a bit fussy. I want mine alive and fresh. But Big Claw will take his dead, and he doesn't care how long they've been dead, either. Once in a while he catches a little fish alive, or some of the other things that live in the sea. He manages to pick up a very good living altogether."

"How often does he change that shell of his?" demanded Reddy.

"Twice a year, I believe," replied Barker. "Mrs. Lobster only changes her's once a year."

"Are lobsters always the color of that one I found the other night?" inquired Reddy.

Barker shook his head. "No," said he, "usually lobsters are dark green with red and blue markings, but sometimes they are almost all blue or almost all red. Those two-legged creatures called men seem to be very fond of lobsters. I am forever finding their traps set to catch lobsters. If you ever get a chance to catch one out of his shell, do try it."

Reddy grinned. "I will," said he. He knew that that was a little joke of Barker's, for already Barker had told him that the lobster changes its shell only under water.

JAIL HILL CHILDREN HAVE BEACH OUTING

Wednesday was a big day for the children of the Jail Hill playgrounds for it was their first annual outing and the children were transported by special trolley to Ocean Beach where the day was spent in the enjoyment of various games and sports. The children left in the morning by a special trolley which was decorated with flags and banners, prominent among which was a large sign bearing the words, "Norwich Playgrounds." Upon arrival at the seashore the youngsters enjoyed a basket lunch which had been prepared at home by thoughtful mothers and guardians. After the hearty repast had been thoroughly digested the local youngsters proceeded to enjoy themselves in the water, where a full afternoon was spent.

The children arrived home in the early evening all expressing their appreciation of what was one of the biggest days in their young lives. Instructors Leslie Carroll, John P. Murphy and Beatrice Ableman were present to supervise the affair.

Today (Thursday) will be the day of days for the children of the Thamesville playgrounds when their annual circus will be held with afternoon and evening performances. The affair will be under the supervision of Instructor Madeline Thune.

A three ring circus will be presented. There will be the side shows with the wild man, fat lady, etc., besides the various other exhibits. There will also be booths where soda, pop-corn, hot dogs and last but not least, the essential pink lemonade will be dispensed.

A large crowd is expected to attend and help the youngsters of this thriving play center to make the day a huge success.

The circus will be held at the playgrounds in the Thamesville school yards.

Maj. Gen. Morris B. Payne has been chosen grand marshal of the parade which will be the feature of the two-day convention. The parade will be held in the morning of the second day with 37 companies already listed in the line of march and many more.

The New London fire department will have nearly 1,000 fire fighters in the parade on the 20th. Fire Chief Charles H. Rose is president of the State Firemen's association.

The first day of the convention will be given over to convention matters almost entirely. It is estimated that on this day more than 500 delegates will be in the city to attend the business session at the convention hall which will be at the Elks home in Washington street.

Details in connection with the two days' program have been practically completed.

The first day's program will begin at 10 o'clock at the Elks home. All hours will be observed on daylight saving time. At this time a committee meeting will be held. At 2 p. m. the convention will be called to order. An address of welcome will be made after which will follow a reply. Then will come the report of the committee on credentials, to be followed by reports of the officers and committees. Unfinished business will next be taken up and then will come the election of officers.

A county meeting of delegates to select a county vice president will come next, and that will be followed by miscellaneous business.

Then there will be a memorial service, conducted by the chaplain or the Connecticut State Firemen's association, the Revt M. J. Ryan. This will be followed by an adjournment of the convention until Friday morning.

At 6 o'clock Thursday evening the delegates will be tendered a clam bake at Ocean Beach at which City Manager William A. Holt, Mayor William C. Fox will be present. The delegates will for the most part be fire chiefs, captains, lieutenants and foremen of the various companies. A number of noted speakers will be on hand. At present these speakers have not been chosen. There will be a band concert or orchestra music.

The parade headed by a platoon of police will be in five divisions, to be later designated and the following companies will be in line, with many more expected to be heard from within the next week:

NORWICH VISITORS ARRIVE AT TACOMA, WASH

Word has been received in Norwich of the safe arrival in Tacoma, Wash of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley J. Moore after an eight weeks' trip through the west. In New England visits were made with relatives in Ellsworth and Bar Harbor, Maine, Boston, Norwich and Eastern Point. While in Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Moore were guests of Mrs. Moore's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher E. Boynton of Freeman avenue. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dygert of Eastern Point, Mrs. Dygert being a niece. In New York city they were guests of their son, Raymond T. Moore of West 80th street and Riverside drive. Mr. Moore left New York with his parents for Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.

In Philadelphia they attended the sesquicentennial and in Washington they spent several days sight seeing, taking in all points of interest, which included a sail down the Potomac river to Mount Vernon. Mr. and Mrs. Moore left Washington, D. C., for Chicago and Seattle on July 20th. Shortly after leaving the capital they were surprised to learn that Commander Richard E. Byrd occupied a compartment with friends in the same car with them. Mr. and Mrs. Moore were introduced to Commander Byrd and were greatly impressed with his personality, appearance, etc., and congratulated him personally upon his north pole victory.

MAYBE IT'S DONE THIS WAY DOWN IN NEW YORK

Several people at Franklin square Wednesday night enjoyed a laugh when a New York party came back with a "sure hit" when a local party came forward with a suggestion to the man who had parked in the five minute area.

Rather than have the New York party receive a tag for parking overtime word was passed to him that he was parking in a five minute zone and he immediately started to move his car. An officer at the square sensing that the man and his "girl friend" intended to stop for a few minutes politely asked, "Are you going to get a drink?"

Quicker than a flash the man turned and replied, "Yes, where can I buy One?"

The officer allowed the man to move into an alleyway where he could leave it long enough to drink to his heart's content at a nearby ice cream parlor.

LECTURE AT "SUNNYLANDS" FOR PLEASANT VIEW CHAPEL

Mrs. Dennis F. O'Brien was hostess for the Catholic Women's club of Pleasant View Beach at her summer home, Sunnylands, on the Watch Hill road, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock Rev. George B. Ford of New York gave a talk, dealing with the revolt of present day youth.

Mrs. O'Brien was assisted in her duties as hostess by her house guest, Miss Elizabeth Purcell and by Mrs. William Gallagher, Mrs. William Mulligan, Mrs. John H. Katt, Mrs. J. Lempache, Mrs. T. J. Foley, Mrs. John J. Power, Mrs. Ernest Rossie, Mrs. J. C. Dorgan and Miss Theresa Donavan.

An invitation had been extended all residents and guests at Westerly, Watch Hill, Pleasant View, Weekapaug and Quonochontaug. The affair was principally for the benefit of St. Clare's chapel at Pleasant View.

LOCAL MAN TRANSFERRED TO NEW LONDON

William F. Carberry of the plant department of the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company has been transferred to the New London branch and is to take up his duties there within a few weeks. Mr. Carberry had been with the local exchange for the past 12 years and has been with the telephone company since leaving school.

His many friends are sorry to learn that he is to leave this city but wish him all success in his new location with the company. Mr. Carberry is married and has one child. He is now residing at No. 23 1-2 Lincoln avenue.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE SPEAKS AT STORRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 4—No president in the history of the country has tried as hard as Calvin Coolidge to do something for agriculture said Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine in a talk that featured the Farmers' week program at Connecticut Agricultural college this afternoon. The great difficulty, he said, was to know what to do for the best interests of the farmers and the rest of the country.

Secretary Jardine's address came as the high light of the special program in which Supt. E. E. Regan of the New Haven railroad also spoke.

Cooperation was advocated by Secretary Jardine as a means of improving the position of farmers all over the country. The possibilities of sugar beets, lumber, and beef production in Connecticut was commented on, as well as the tobacco growers' problems.

"Farmers should practice cooperation in all their activities" Secretary Jardine declared; "We should establish our own merchandizing institutions so we as farmers have our own marketing machinery in our own hands, as well as the producing machinery. In this way we would be in the same position as all other businesses which are successful in America.

"Organizations of farmers should work together for the welfare of all. In some instances jealousy has cropped out between organizations of beef producers, or dairymen, or apple growers. This is the wrong attitude as all should become better acquainted and work together to obtain the results desired.

"The extent to which cooperative farmers' organizations have been grown may be seen in the fact that last year between twelve and thirteen thousand of them marketed, over two and a half billions of dollars worth of farm products. This is one-fifth of the total amount marketed for the country.

"California gives us a good example as to what extent cooperation can be carried. Producers of oranges, raisins, walnuts, grapefruit and the like—non essentials like these—are able to send their products 3,500 and 3,000 miles to market, and even control the selling machinery. They are able to do this only through their efficient cooperative organization.

"We run into difficulty if we try to plan an agricultural program for the entire country because it is so large and because the agricultural interests are so varied. The better plan seems to be to work out a program for each of the many sections, taking into account the needs of each according to its own peculiarities. Congress will act at any time in the interest of the farmers when the agricultural interests are united in what they want.

"One thing seems certain; the consumer is paying all he should pay at the present time for foodstuffs. Any increase to the farmer will have to come from a better system of distribution that will give the farmer a larger share of the ultimate cost.

"During the course of my visit in New England, I have seen better sugar beets here than I have ever seen grown in the west.

"Connecticut farmers are fortunate in having the cities and their markets so close at hand. Out in the west farmers have to contend with freight rates that cut deeply into their profits, and apparently that situation does not exist to anywhere near as great an extent here.

"Connecticut has been growing too much tobacco, in that there has been a falling off in demand for the cigar leaf stocks that this state produces. Connecticut grows the best tobacco produced—I know that from experience—but it is unfortunate that a shift from cigars to cigarettes in the habits of smokers has affected the market of Connecticut growers adversely."

Entertained N. T. D. Club

Miss Helen Marshall entertained 13 members of the N. T. D. club of Norwich at her cottage at Ocean Beach Monday night. Cards and dancing were enjoyed during the evening. The party held a dual significance. It served as a farewell party to one of the club's members, who is moving to New York Friday. It also was the occasion chosen for the informal announcement of the engagement of one of the members.

COAL, RAW MATERIAL AND TRANSPORTATION NEEDED

STORRS, Aug. 4—In direct opposition to the often repeated remark that New England had seen its best days and is retrograding industrially and commercially, Superintendent E. E. Regan of the New Haven railroad declared here today that New England is making a consistent and prosperous growth, and that in point of its relation to railroad mileage it was the greatest producing section in the United States.

These remarks came during the course of his Farmers' Week talk on "A Measure of New England's Productiveness and the Part the Railroads Are Taking in the Same." Mr. Regan said that coal, raw materials and transportation were the three things needed most in New England, as the section has the men and ingenuity to succeed in spite of competition from other parts of the world. He touched briefly on the relations between the railroads and the public in New England, stating that never before has the relationship been as cordial as at the present time.

"Outside of New England there is considerable extent, and inside to a lesser extent, it has been openly stated that decadence has begun in New England which will soon leave this section nothing but a summer resort." Mr. Regan said. "This brings to my mind a speech I heard some 30 years ago, when we were told this country had 'seen its best days,' and which at that time made me wonder not a little if we young men of that day would be able to employment. The situation was not as bad as pictured, however, and it isn't necessary to mention the wonderful strides made during the last 30 years.

"In the same way, persons making similar statements today apparently have not studied the economic and industrial situation in New England very thoroughly, for had they done so they would find from the standpoint of productivity, New England is constantly growing, and its demands for service are becoming greater each year.

"In spite of the migration of the people to western and southern districts, and in spite of new industries and new forms of agricultural pursuits that those vast areas make possible, it is surprising to note that the growth in population in the United States as a whole was 14.7 per cent. in 1920, at the time of the last census, compared with the preceding census of 1910, and for New England the increase was 15 per cent. Notwithstanding our geographical limitations, our increase in population has nearly kept pace with that of the balance of the country taken as a whole. The population in southern New England, the industrial section, increased 16 per cent or at a rate greater than the country as a whole.

"There are just three things New England needs—coal, raw materials and transportation, and in regard to transportation, I want to touch briefly on what the New Haven railroad, among others in this section, is doing to aid the progress of New England. There is plenty of coal and raw materials, so that the success of New England centers around prompt and efficient transportation, to get this coal and raw material in promptly and move out the finished goods promptly.

"The New Haven railroad undertook to handle its burden of work greatly handicapped when we went into the war. We were handicapped by the lack of facilities to care for the enormous business we were called upon to handle during those trying years, which brought about a congestion and personnel far in excess of what it should be required for the operation of the railroads. As a result we came out of the war, or out of the period of federal control not much better off.

"Headed by E. J. Pearson, the present management of the New Haven railroad has provided enlarged freight terminals, engine houses, shops for maintenance of locomotive and equipment, additional running tracks, and otherwise improved our system so that at the present time business houses know of this improved regular and dependable service. Now they know they need not carry large surplus stocks to guard against the non-receipt of goods currently ordered; their traffic managers know just how long a time it takes regularly to move goods from a given point to another given point, and as a result, the railroads have saved for New England industry and business men, millions and millions of dollars which previously had been tied up in stock.

"The relationship between the railroads and the public in New England was never as cordial as it is at the present time. Both sides have learned that they cannot get along alone, that they must have the active and sympathetic co-operation and assistance of the other.

"The railroads should be given every possible assistance from industry agriculture and business generally as long as they function properly, and their officers are endeavoring to give service to the public. Then with all hands working together, I have no fear that New England will suffer in comparison with other parts of the country, and I am not one of those who believe that we will sooner or latter see New England only as a summer resort, as has been so often intimated."

STATE FIFERS AND DRUMMERS TO COMPETE AT MANCHESTER

The annual convention of Connecticut Fifers and Drummers is to be held in Manchester Friday and Saturday and the local organizations are making big plans for the entertainment of the large number of organizations and visitors which will be there. The business session of the convention will be held Friday, and on Saturday there will be a big parade, two miles long a field day and various contests. It will be the biggest turnout of musical organizations ever assembled in that town. Silver cups and gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded the various organizations and individual members competing. The big parade will start shortly before noon Saturday and will end at the McKee street ball park. Saturday evening there will be a grand ball at the State Armory where the awarding of prizes will take place.

NIGHT CREW REPAIRS WATER MAIN BREAK

Wednesday night a break occurred in the water main on Main street in front of the Wauregan hotel. Men from the water department were at work all night repairing the break, the work of cutting through the cement and brick rendered consuming a large part of the night.

Laborers swinging sixteen pound sledges with unerring aim attracted considerable attention, the crowd expecting to see the men miss a shot now and then. In this they were disappointed for the men were experts in their line and the sledges came down true and square on top of the drill.

Don't Suffer With Itching Rashes Use Cuticura

What to Use and Avoid On Faces That Perspire

Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must perspire—must expel, through the pores, its share of the body's waste material. Certain creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing, especially during the heated period. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-ruined complexions. If they would use ordinary mercolized wax instead of cosmetics they would have healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unclogging the pores. Result: The fresher, younger underskin is permitted to breathe and to show itself. The exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality.

Obtain an ounce of mercolized wax from your druggist and apply at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. There's nothing better for an over-red skin, tan, freckles or pimples.

NEW WITNESS QUESTIONED ABOUT THE HALL MURDER

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 4—(AP)—Solution of the Hall-Mills murder mystery within 48 hours and "arrests all around" were predicted tonight by Special Prosecutor Simpson.

The state senator announced he had questioned a new witness, a woman who told him she had witnessed the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, and had recognized their slayers.

"I have every reason to believe this witness is telling the entire truth, and on the basis or her testimony I expect to solve the double murder and obtain the conviction of the woman and the man.

"The new witness assures me she knows both the woman and the man she saw bending over the body, and that she would recognize them and identify them instantly, and that she saw them tear up the Mills love letters and scatter them over the rector's body."

C. A. GAGER WINS ROTARY GOLF TOURNEY AND WILLIS AUSTIN MAKES HOLE-IN-ONE

C. A. (Bert) Gager with a net score of 67 won the annual Rotary club one day, tournament at the Norwich Golf club on Wednesday. Gager shot a 94 for the 18 holes and had a handicap of 27. His nearest competitor for the honors was three strokes behind him, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell getting a net score of 70.

The tournament was not devoid of thrills for Willis Austin, who recently set a course record at the Shennossett course, added to his renown by getting the first hole-in-one on the new course. This feat came on the 15th hole which although a short hole of 108 yards is one of the most unique of any golf course in the state. The 15th green is what is known as a plateau green and it requires a perfect pitch shot to reach the green in one as the elevation is almost 75 feet about the tee.

Mr. Austin used a spade-mashie on the shot and his ball went true to the pin, landing at the edge of the green and rolling gently across to the pin and came to rest in the cup.

In the driving contest which preceded the tournament play was won by E. A. Haris with a beautiful drive of close to 280 yards. The prize for the driving contest was a driver and for the tournament a dozen balls.

The scores of the first eight were as follows:

	Gr.	Hdcp.	Net
C. A. Gager	94	27	67
Dr. H. B. Campbell	96	26	70
E. A. Harris	95	15	80
J. H. Shannon	109	28	81
A. G. Bliven	102	20	82
J. L. Crawford	114	28	86
F. Jewett	116	29	87
J. N. Weymouth	123	36	87

About 50 Rotarians gathered at the golf club for luncheon preceding the tournament and enjoyed a delicious menu of chicken salad, rolls, sandwiches and peach short-cake and coffee prepared by the stewardess Miss Hilda Nicholson. President E. A. Harris presided at the luncheon meeting and W. Clayton Burgy was the song leader. The Rotarians were made welcome at the Golf club by C. Royce Boss, president of the Norwich Golf club. Mr. Boss spoke briefly of the club saying that today it was one of the best natural courses in the state and that in a few years more it would without doubt be the best. He spoke of the growth of golf in the past few years and said that Norwich was indeed fortunate to have such a wonderful golf course.

Willis Austin was in charge of the program for the day and took charge of the golfing events of the afternoon.

NAILDRIVERS BLANK KILOWATTS IN CLOSE PITCHING BATTLE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 4—The Kilowatts were shut out in a close game tonight by the Naildrivers with a 2 to 0 score. Both pitchers twirled in fine form and shared honors each striking out seven and allowing three hits. A. LaBelle singled and scored on Robitaille's double in the second and Joe LaBelle walked and scored on G. LaBelle's single in the third for the Naildrivers two runs. This Thursday evening the Paco team plays Connecticut Mills at 7 o'clock on the Paco grounds. The score:

PLAYGROUNDS SPORTS

Track

On this Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Academy campus track the three larger playgrounds, Elizabeth St., Lake St. and Greeneville will battle it out in the second of the preliminary track meets of the season. There is intense rivalry between this trio and a fast meet is to be expected from beginning to end. The meet will be run off under the supervision of Instructor John P. Murphy and a large crowd is expected to be present.

Baseball

On this Thursday morning at the Academy campus the final baseball game in the American league schedule will be played with the Hobart avenue and Falls grounds battling for supremacy. This game is scheduled to start at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

The Greeneville and Lake St. baseball teams will play a National league scheduled contest on Friday afternoon at the Academy campus and a fast game should be the outcome as there is intense rivalry between the two teams.

The Greeneville and Lake St. Midgets baseball teams will also play on Friday and this game also should be fast from start to finish.

Horseshoe Pitching

On this Thursday evening at the Lake St. grounds the Jail Hill and Lake St. horseshoe squads will battle for honors. As there has been much interest shown in this sport at both centers a large crowd is expected to attend.

TAFTVILLE TO PLAY ELM CITY GIANTS ON SATURDAY

The Taftville A. A. will clash with the Elm City Giants of New Haven on Saturday at the Providence street grounds. This is the second time these two clubs have met on the local diamond and as the previous game was a good one it is expected that Saturday's encounter will be equally as entertaining.

Manager Troland will use Lefty Buckland against the dusky ball tossers while Cannonball Smith will be on the mound for the Giants.

INDIANS TAKE OPENING GAME WITH YANKEES

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4—(AP)—Cleveland took the first of the series with New York, 4 to 2, Uhle winning his fourth victory of as many starts against New York this season. While Ruth made two singles in four times up he struck out with the bases filled and two out in the second and fanned with none on in the eighth. Both of Hoyt's passes were productive of runs. While New York made four errors, only one was costly, permitting Cleveland to score a run in the third inning. Score:

BARRETT'S HOMER HELPS WHITE SOX BEAT BOSTON

CHICAGO, Aug. 4—(AP)—Bill Barrett's home run with the bases loaded in the seventh broke a 3 to 3 tie score and enabled Chicago to defeat Boston 7 to 3, in the first game of the series. After Todt's homer with a man on had given the visitors a three run lead, Slim Harriss weakened and Chicago tied the count in the sixth by bunching hits, Barrett driving in two runs with a double and scoring the others on Schalk's single. The victory was the fourteenth for Ted Lyons this season. Score:

TIGERS AND SENATORS DIVIDE DOUBLE BILL

DETROIT, Aug. 4—(AP)—Detroit and Washington divided a double header here today both games going into extra innings. The Tigers took the first in ten innings, 5 to 4, and dropped the second 11 to 7 when the Senators fell hard on Holloway in the 11th.

Joe Harris hit a home run in each contest, the one in the second coming in the 11th as part of the Washington bombardment and accounted for three runs. Detroit leaped into a five run lead in the second game but Murray tightened and held them scoreless until the eighth while Wells got worse and finally had to be relieved.

The Tigers filled the bases in the 11th of the second game with two outs but Marberry called to Crowder's relief, fanned Manion just as dusk settled over the park. Score:

BRAVES AND PIRATES SPLIT DOUBLE PROGRAM

BOSTON, Aug. 4—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates fought through to a 5 to 2 victory over Boston in the second game of a double header here today, after dropping the first encounter by a crushing 14 to 0 score.

The Braves drove Vic Aldridge from the box early in the opener, and hammered four Pirate twirlers for a total of 19 hits. Poor infield play by Boston and the base running of Wright, Tyler and Waner, accounted for the Pittsburgh win. The Pirates came from behind to score three runs in the sixth, on three singles and a pair of errors by Andy High.

Jack Smith, Braves' centerfielder, made eight hits in ten trips to the bat as part of his afternoon's work. Score:

WESTERLY

ZONING COMMISSION RULES ON RATHBUN APPLICATION

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 4—At a meeting of the Westerly zoning commission held last night in the council chambers of the Westerly town hall there were present Arthur L. Perry, chairman; Frank A. Sullivan, Charles L. Fontana, D. Harold Rogers and secretary and Inspector Louis J. Rossi. Charles Rathbun was heard in his application for the erection of a billboard north of his filling station at Red Brook. In order to permit this, it was necessary for the commission to have under the zoning ordinance a hearing for the extension of the business district "B" 50 feet easterly on the Boston Post road into a resident district "B". The location of the district is on the southerly side of the Boston Post road about 400 feet west of the "Tom Harvey" or "Pond road," so called. As no one appeared to oppose the extension it was approved; Mr. Rathbun was voted a 5-year temporary permit for a billboard, to be erected under the supervision of the zoning inspector. The commission had an informal discussion on the location of a garage at Bradford, and the location of buildings on certain Pleasant View Beach lots, which although they had more than enough square area, were a few feet short on their frontage lines.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk:

Aug. 2. Katherine S. Anderson of Princeton, N. J., to Farquhar Smith a parcel of land about 2.05 acres, on the east side of East avenue.

Carolyn B. Pickering to Harold Q. Moore, a certain tract of land with dwelling house, barn, and other improvements, known as "India Point," at Avondale.

Aug. 3. Albert Langworthy to Clarence E. Peckham of Fishers Island, N. Y., a certain parcel of land on the west side of the highway leading from Dunn's Corners to Weekapaug.

Aug. 4. Erastus H. Benn to Alexander C. Thompson, a parcel of land on the east side of River View avenue, off Beach street.

Westerly friends were interested when Miss Helen E. Foley and David Roche, Jr., both former Westerly residents, were united in marriage Monday morning at 9 o'clock in New York. The marriage was solemnized by Fr. Connor.

The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Williams of Westerly, and the best man was George Roche of Providence, a brother of the groom. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Jerry Foley of Westerly. The ushers were Daniel W. Foley of Washington, D. C., brother of the bride, and George Sweeney of Troy, N. Y.

After the ceremony at the church, the wedding party went to the Hotel Brevort, where breakfast was served to 30 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Roche left shortly after for a trip to Canada and Nova Scotia. They will return to New York by way of the Thousand Islands and expect to arrive about Aug. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Platt, together with Jerry Foley, Miss Mary Williams and Mrs. Thomas Murray, motored from Westerly to attend the wedding. Daniel W. Foley of Washington, D. C., made the return trip with them and is in town for a few days.

Relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Roche were present at the wedding from Providence, Bridgeport, Worcester, Topeka, Kan., Westerly and New York.

The Westerly school committee held a meeting Tuesday when the following calendar was arranged for the school year of 1926-27: Schools open Sept. 8, close Dec. 23; open Jan. 3, close Feb. 25; open March 7, close April 29; open May 9, close June 29.

The following holidays are in the schedule:

Oct. 12, Oct. 28, 29, Nov. 11, the afternoon of Nov. 24, Nov. 25 and 26, Dec. 24, Feb. 22 and May 30.

Superintendent of Schools Willard H. Bacon has announced that the teaching force the coming year in both high and graded schools is practically completed. One of the appointments of interest is that of Joel P. Sherman as instructor of biology, physiology and general science in the high school. Mr. Sherman will continue as coach of the high school baseball team. Other appointments approved by the school committee are:

High school, Mary S. Endicott, stenography, typewriting, office practice; Elizabeth Ring, history, civics; Alexander P. Patton, bookkeeping, commercial geography, commercial arithmetic.

Elementary schools, Marion D. Bisbee, music and history, grades 7 and 8, Elm street; Eleanor S. Curtis, special teacher, Pleasant street; Eldred K. Mondale, English, grades 7 and 8, Elm street; Elizabeth M. Campbell, grade 6, High street; M. Grace Zebarini, grade 5, High street; Gladys M. Stott, grades 3 and 4, Beach street; Jennie Sunderland, grade 4, High street; Augusta L. Kenyon, grade 4, Bradford; Margaret P. Paul, grades 1 and 2, Pleasant street; Louise Frechette (transfer) geography and drawing, grades 7 and 8, Elm street.

W. BROAD ST. WIDENING PLAN IS VOTED DOWN

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 4. — A meeting of the residents of the town of Stonington who had a right to vote was called to order in Borough hall, Stonington, at 8 o'clock tonight by First Selectman John Fribance to act upon the petition of Lawrence C. Purtill, of Pawcatuck, and 31 others. This called for a special town meeting to take action upon the communication of the engineers of the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. Co. relative to the widening of West Broad street, Pawcatuck, under the railroad bridge. Mr. Fribance was elected moderator. The call for the meeting carrying an appropriation of $30,000, to pay for changes was read to the 200 assembled voters by Town Clerk Elias B. Hinckley.

Following the reading of the call Stephen E. Crouch of Pawcatuck presented the following resolution, which was read by the moderator.

"That the proposition of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company to the town embodying certain proposed changes to be made at or near the railroad bridge over West Broad street, Pawcatuck, does not meet with the approval of the electors of the town in special meeting assembled this fourth day of August, A. D. 1926. The reasons therefor are, that when the highway or street is improved under the bridge the abutments of the present bridge should be moved back, so that West Broad street could be widened at least one-third of its present width, so as to properly safeguard and meet future traffic conditions, thereby removing forever this menace and hazard to the traveling public."

After the resolution was read Joseph H. Hammond moved that it be laid on the table and postponed indefinitely. The aye votes prevailed; there were but a few scattering opposition votes.

Joseph H. Hammond then moved that the meeting adjourn and adjournment was taken after a three and one-half minute session.

Wednesday in Wakefield, occurred the death of a direct descendant of the Narragansett Indians, Mrs. Jessie P. Williams, 27, wife of Richard H. Williams of Charlestown, R. I. Mrs. Williams, who died in the South county hospital, was the daughter of Mrs. Charles Hazard, of Charlestown.

Held on a charge of manslaughter, John Roderiques, of Wallingford, Conn., who was unable to obtain the $4,000 bail, for his appearance in third district court in Westerly Friday next, was taken Tuesday night to Washington county jail at Kingston, by Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Westerly.

The arrest of Roderiques was made Saturday last when as the result of his automobile being driven off the Boston Post road in Charlestown, near Shelter Harbor, Anthony F. Guerra of New Haven either jumped or was thrown from the auto, sustaining injuries from which he died that Saturday night at Westerly hospital.

George E. Phillips returned to Providence Wednesday morning.

Returning to New York Tuesday on the White Star line steamship Majestic, which sailed from Southampton July 28th, G. V. Clay of the Bradford Dyeing association arrived in Westerly on Tuesday night and proceeded to his Watch Hill cottage, "The Wigwam," on the Westerly road.

Dr. and Mrs. C. Grant Savage have returned to Westerly after a three weeks' automobile trip and visit at Hyannis, Mass.

Henry G. Clark of Providence and South Kingstown, was a Westerly business caller Wednesday.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown was at Rocky Point, Wednesday, in attendance at the Rhode Island police conference of chiefs of police of Rhode Island cities and towns. From 2 until 4 o'clock a shore dinner was enjoyed and a business session followed.

A cool, refreshing treat awaits you at the soda fountain

"CANADA DRY!" Just say those two magic words to your cheerful friend behind the counter and he will serve you the coolest and most refreshing drink you've ever tasted on a hot summer's day.

You will like the wonderful flavor, of course, for there is no ginger ale in all the world with a flavor so supremely fine as this.

But there is an even more important reason why you will like "Canada Dry." It's a real ginger ale, made from real Jamaica ginger.

Because of this it lifts you up! Refreshes! Invigorates! Makes you feel keen and cool and cheery, no matter how hot the day.

Especially in summer-time you want a beverage that you know is good for you, and you get just that when you ask for "Canada Dry."

Substitutes can't possibly bring you the same refreshment because most of them aren't real ginger ales at all, but owe their "bite" to capsicum, or red pepper. There is no capsicum in "Canada Dry."

That's something to remember when you step up to the fountain and you're wondering what to order.

It's worth paying a little more just to be sure of the definite assurance of purity and quality that you get in "Canada Dry."

Imitations are never "just as good"

There are literally thousands of imitations of "Canada Dry" on the market today and you must be careful if you want the original. For your own protection, insist that the bottle comes to you with the cap on, and always look for the name "Canada Dry" on the bottle cap. That's the best way to be sure of the matchless flavor and quality that have made "Canada Dry" the sensation of Canada and of this country.

GAY MONTVILLE VISITOR STIRS UP TROUBLE AT A NEW LONDON PARTY

NEW LONDON, Aug. 4.—Thomas Gilespie of Montville was in New London last midnight and got into the section of John street where he passed a house where there was a party on the veranda, the group being made up of women and men. Thomas was invited to step in and have a good time. They couldn't stump Tom that way, so in he went. The party was composed of negroes, the directress, a girl of mocha hue, Alberta Johnson. Gilespie desired to do the gallant thing so he set 'em up, he said, and the drink was whiskey. To pay for that he handed the sunshine of the party a $20 bill. Gilespie anticipated change coming and he waited for it. The girl gave him change for a single dollar. That nearly took his breath away, but he hollered. He did more. He kicked like an army mule. That, however, did him no good. Richard Jones, who is now regarded as the bouncer for the place, a burly negro who came to this city from Bridgeport, shied up to Gilespie and told him not to "dare to pull that stuffy in the house, meaning that Gilespie received his right change and that no accusation of flimflamming would be tolerated. Gilespie declared that Jones [illegible] him out of the place. Gilespie said he met so many negroes who hustled about him that he decided to call on the police. So he secured three officers under guidance of Sergeant Patrick Murphy. They went to the Johnson house and stirred things up. Alberta was then in bed, but she donned a kimono and answered the knocking of the police at the door. She was invited to accompany the officers to the police station and Jones was also taken along as Gilespie had accused him of assaulting him. Gilespie told of the good time he had, but he didn't think it was worth all that it cost him.

In the court this morning the Johnson girl said she was a dressmaker and was occupying four rooms for her business. She represented that one of her patrons recently was a woman residing at 13 High street, Norwich. That woman, she said, paid her $16.50 to make a suit for her. Another patron was a colored woman from Hartford who had work done to the extent of $15.50. As Miss Johnson had resided here several months on her own admission and could recall but two patrons in the dressmaking business, the court naturally concluded that she could have got along with less room in a tenement and that there might be some mistake as to just what Miss Johnson was engaged in as a business pursuit. She was charged with maintaining a disreputable place and Jones was charged with being a frequenter there, though he represented that he was a chauffeur residing next door to the Johnson place. He was fined $10 and the Johnson woman was ordered to pay $50 into the court treasury. Jones settled for both fines handing over something more than $30. Jones said he had been a chauffeur in Bridgeport prior to coming to New London. The attempts of the pair to evade the answering of questions without faltering and stammering led the prosecutor to pin them down. He thus obtained what appears to have been the truth that would show the place and the people to be what they were charged with being. The police had intimation that the Johnson house was not what the department would tolerate, in testimony that was given in another case, but no movement had been made to "get" it till Gilespie made his complaint.

INSPECTOR BENJ. LINICUS DIES IN HOSPITAL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 4.—Benjamin R. Linicus, 71, of 622 Bank street, building inspector of the city of New London for ten years, died last night at Lawrence hospital. Death resulted from a paralytic shock which Mr. Linicus suffered last Sunday night. He is survived by two sons, Benjamin and George Linicus; two sisters, Mrs. Rudolph Siebler and Miss Bertha K. Linicus and a brother, Jacob Linicus, all of this city. He was a member of Niagara Engine company for many years.

Mr. Linicus was a republican in politics, but the only public office he ever held was that of building inspector, an office he filled with ability and efficiency.

Mr. Linicus had been in failing health about a year, but he had not been confined to the house. Sunday evening he went to the Niagara Engine company house and chatted with members and not feeling as well as usual he started for home. He had proceeded along Bank street but a short distance when he was stricken and collapsed. The flag on the municipal building is at half-mast as a tribute of respect to Mr. Linicus.

CLUMSY ATTEMPT MADE TO OPEN LIBRARY SAFE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 4.—A bungling attempt was made last night to burglarize the safe in the New London public library, corner of State and Huntington streets. From the nature of the break, it is believed by the police that the work is that of boys. Entrance to the library was gained by smashing a rear window, which permitted the crooks to enter the furnace room. There they took possession of a furnace bar and carried it to the floor above where the office is located and where they attacked the safe combination with the heavy iron implement. The combination was damaged, but the door could not be opened. The break was discovered this morning when the library was opened and a report of the break was made to the police.

WIFE OF ROBERT H. BYLES DIED FROM HEART TROUBLE

NEW LONDON, Aug. 4.—Mrs. Mabelle Hortense Byles, 40, wife of Robert H. Byles, died suddenly last night at her residence, 310 Thames street, Groton, death being caused by heart trouble, although Mrs. Byles had not been in good health for several months. Besides her husband, she is survived by four children, George Huntington, Robert Everett, Mary Lorine and June Elizabeth Byles; a sister, Mrs. J. K. Phillips of Lisbon; a brother, W. Everett Eagles of this city and her mother, Mrs. Mary Frances Eagles of 57 Federal street, New London.

Mrs. Byles was born in Sprague, the daughter of William H. and Mary Frances Eagles. When a young girl she moved to Norwich with her parents and there completed her education in the public schools. Upon the conclusion of her education Mrs. Byles was employed by the Southern New England Telephone company as operator and supervisor at the Norwich, Meriden and Stamford exchanges. Sept. 20, 1906, she married Robert H. Byles and a short time afterwards with her husband removed to New London and for the past 20 years she had been a resident of this city and Groton. Mrs. Byles was a member of the First Church of Christ, and served as a leader. She was a member of Buelah lodge, No. 238, N. E. O. P.

Joseph Crocker, one of the best known steam boatmen hereabouts because of long service on the boats of the New Haven road running through the sound, and to the eastward to Providence and Fall River, suffered a paralytic shock Saturday night while coming down the sound from New York. He is employed on the Ford steamers running to Providence and was stricken off Block Island. He was taken to the marine hospital at Providence where he will be for some time. His right side is affected. His brother Gilbert, of Brooklyn, was in New London today, having visited the patient at the marine hospital.

Louis Ramistella, Jr., found four sailors from the destroyer Ammen using the running board of his public taxicab as a sort of bar last night and asked for their arrest. The sailors were drinking alcohol and were pretty well under the influence of the liquor when they were ordered to move along. They didn't propose to go, so police were called to hurry them along. They represented that they were harmless, but admitted that someone threw a pear at them and that the fruit bespattered the car. Two of the four were fined $15 each while the others were discharged as not guilty.

Walter Congdon, a youth of 17, took the liberty of making a dressing place of the automobile of A. Rakowsky at Ocean Beach. Women complained that the youth was making an exhibition of himself. He was warned and then was released without further humiliation than arraignment in court.

Thomas E. Robertson, a sailor on a government ship, was charged with breach of the peace, in having struck Dorothy McCarthy. The latter was not in court to tell of what happened nor how it happened, but the accused man represented to the prosecutor that the girl was with another sailor. Something occurred and Robertson struck at the male escort of the girl. The blow did not go where it was sent, but stopped at the face of Miss McCarthy. The case will come up in court tomorrow, when interesting disclosure should unravel the mystery of why the blow was struck.

A woman was charged with intoxication, admitted that she was properly accused and then said she took two drinks in the heat of yesterday. She told the court she was unaccustomed to liquor and that the beverage went to her brain. A warning from the court as to future use of liquor was given and then judgment was suspended.

George Major was stripped of his title and was made a private when he was charged with intoxication. He was employed as an orderly at the city almshouse, but he became intoxicated and Supt. Donohue secured his arrest. The city's poor farm is no place for drunks and they are not to be tolerated there. Major said his home was in Providence so he was allowed to seek it, on a suspended judgment.

Samuel Charioff was fined $5 for violation of the parking ordinance. Two automobile violators were arraigned; Mike Barca for reckless driving, was fined $10. He hit a pace of 30 miles on Montauk avenue and Bank street and endangered other machines on the highway. Samuel Kalmanovitch was also charged with recklessness in having run down a girl who is in the hospital for treatment. That case went over for about six weeks, when it is supposed the girl will be in condition to appear and give her testimony.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today approved the right to drive of Peter J. Smith, Thames shipyard. Smith's license was suspended several weeks ago, following his automobile figuring in an accident, in which personal injury resulted.

An automobile driven by Joseph D. Powers of Cambridge, Mass., struck an unidentified child on Williams street, corner of Huntington street, last night. The child was crossing the street and was knocked down, but at the office of a physician where the child was rushed it was determined that only minor injuries had been sustained.

Mrs. Owen Coffey and infant daughter of 134 Ashcraft road; Mrs. Charles Brown, Westerly; Nelson White, Waterford; Mrs. Angeline Lanphere, Mystic, and Miss Arville Bittenhouse, Stonington, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Alice Stoltz, about 47, wife of Owen L. Stewart, 10 Georgiana street, died this morning at Lawrence hospital, where she had been a patient but a few days suffering from pneumonia. Mrs. Stewart was born in East Lyme and besides her husband, is survived by her parents, a brother and a sister.

The funeral of Laurent Poirier of 143 Thames street, Groton, former employe of the Connecticut Power company as electrician was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, and was attended by a throng of mourners, including practically the entire working force at the sub-station. A high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William J. Fox, pastor of the church. The bearers were associate employes of Mr Poirier, William Hairyes, Albert Everson, James Craig, William J. Bloomfield, Irving Gadbois and Walter Larson. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, New London.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie L. Grasse, of Los Angeles, Cal., was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 15 Masonic street. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

A specimen of the voting machine which City Manager William A. Holt recently recommended being purchased by the city for municipal elections, was erected in the main lobby of the municipal building today and is open to inspection by members of the council and the general public. A representative of the builders of the machine is in New London and will give demonstrations of the working of the machine.

Mrs. Leander Lewis, of Poquonoc; Abraham Kaimanovitz, 558 Main street; Mrs. George Lanphere, Mystic and Mrs. John Anderson and infant son, 395 Pequot avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Patients discharged at the Mitchell Ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital were John Streuber, United States Coast Guard, state pier, and Alphonse Lundrigan, seaman aboard the Edward McKeever.

Elmer M. Ethridge, United States Coast Guard, and Miss Mary Stone, daughter of Mrs. Henry Apes, 22 Maple avenue, were married last evening at the rectory of St. Joseph's church. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. William J. Stone, brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Helen Finnegan was bridesmaid.

In the probate court this morning several witnesses were interrogated in the contest over the admission of the will of Mrs. Mary Hicks, widow of William Hicks. Opposition to the admission of the will is made by Annie Crocker, adopted daughter of Mrs. Hick. The hearing was adjourned to tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Morris Bernstein, 73 Montauk avenue, had a close call from drowning at Ocean Beach this afternoon. When rescued she was in an exhausted condition. Mrs. Bernstein was among several hundred bathers that had gone to the shore to obtain relief from the heat for the mercury registered 89 throughout the afternoon. While apparently enjoying the cooling effects of the water, Mrs. Bernstein was observed to flounder and other bathers went to her rescue. She was quickly brought to the shore and taken to the Red Cross hut, where she was attended by a physician. After being revived, Mrs. Bernstein went to her home.

Joseph Librizzi, R. F. D., Waterford, complained to the police this evening that his Elgin watch was stolen last night at Riverside park. Librizzi did not state in what manner the theft occurred and because of the lateness with which he reported the theft, no questions relating to the theft were asked him.

City Manager William A. Holt was in Hartford today and attended the meeting of the police chiefs of the state. The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the advisability and practicability of police stations being equipped with radio devices tending toward the further prevention of crime and detecting criminals. Under the present form of government the city manager is chief of police.

WILL SAIL TODAY FOR VISIT IN ENGLAND

Among those sailing on the "Majestic" today (Thursday) is Mrs. Allen McGregor of Cliff street who leaves to visit her brother, Patrick White, in London, England. Mr. White and Mrs. McGregor plan to tour France and Ireland before returning to America. Mr. White will return with his sister.

Local Machine Rifled

While attending the California shows at Westerly Tuesday evening Arthur Disco returned to his Ford roadster and found that thieves had made off with a spare tire, rim, pump, jack, tail light and tools. The theft was reported to the Westerly police and an investigation was immediately started.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

A very attractive program has been put together for the last half of this week at the Broadway theatre.

The Keith-Albee five act bill is as usual the main attraction.

The story of a lone girl's fight against the traditions and gossip of her little world is graphically told in the picture at the Broadway theatre this week.

This drama, in which the uneven fight is won, after a powerful sequence of scenes, is "Lover's Island," adapted from the story of the same name by T. Howard Kelly, which appeared in the Smart Set Magazine.

Miss Hampton is not required to work alone, and James Kirkwood, handsome and virile idol of the fans, adds his excellent portrayal of the hero to the roster of "Lover's Island." To say nothing of that veteran actor, Louis Wolheim, of "What Price Glory?" fame, who has a splendid part in this drama, and could not be better cast.

"Lover's Island" concerns the simple life of fisher folk in a little hamlet on the Maine coast, and the love of a girl for a man not of her own people. She succeeds in defying her narrow-minded family in a tremendous climax, skilfully and artistically screened.

Others in the cast are Flora Le Breton, Ivan Linow, Flora Finch and Jack Raymond.

Broadway Theatre.

"Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," which recently closed an entire season at the Sam H. Harris theatre, aroused the blase critics of the New York press to ebullient enthusiasm which found expression as follows:

"Broadway liked this kind of a show, and we are inclined to agree. Funny, good acting, and a novel story."—National Business Review.

"In fact, all these people were so funny that you loved 'em and didn't want to leave 'em," was the comment of Alan Dale in the New York American.

Osborne, in the Evening World, said: "It just bubbles and bubbles laughter, . . . it is worth the price of any number of tickets to see 'Mame' in the second act, shooting craps for dear life with 'Lem.' "

While in the contemporary Morning World Woollcott, who usually differs with the current run of opinion, says: "A simple forthright, living performance—in the magnificently written quarrel scene between the two sisters, 'Love 'Em and Leave 'Em' expands to something spacious and important and beautiful."

This company of "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," now en tour, is cast with a rigorous eye to the type requirements of the play, all of which are adequately filled by Louise Prise as "Mame," Peggy Hastings, Mary E. Diehl, Lerline Turner, Harry L. Wayhoff, William Dean, Victor J. Bonvier, Arthur W. Rowe, George Spelvin, Rex Benware.

The Broadway theatre announces "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" as the attraction on Monday night, Aug. 9. Seats are now on sale at box office. Mail orders are also being filled.

Tea Drinkers Increase

Tea drinking as everyone knows is becoming more than a fad in this country. America is gradually becoming like England and Australia a "nation of tea drinkers." Here in America we drank more tea in 1925 and paid more for it than ever before, and yet, we are behind England, Australia and Canada. This is not surprising when we consider that Englishmen have been noted as tea drinkers for generations, and it is natural for them to call for a cup of tea at all hours of the day, preferring it to all other forms of refreshment. The same is true to an almost equal degree in Canada and Australia.

The question may well be asked, notwithstanding these facts, how it is that America is so slow in acquiring the tea habit, and the answer is difficult to find. One plausible reason is a lack of education in regard to the beneficial effects of tea upon the system, and the erroneous reports circulated that tea has an injurious effect upon the nerves. Nothing could be further from the fact, for tea, if taken in moderation, serves not only as a tonic, but it has a stimulative and bracing effect upon the whole nervous organization. Moreover, it is unlike other stimulants in that following its use there are no bad effects or depressing influences.

Primarily, of course, it is essential that we have good tea, and in order to be sure of getting this, it is always well to secure package rather than bulk tea. However good the bulk tea may have been at the source of supply, it becomes contaminated by exposure to and contact with odoriferous products. In the case of Salada, which is a standard package tea, the product is not only guaranteed positively pure, when blended, but its purity is maintained in air-tight packages all the way from the warehouse to the consumer.

Breed Theatre

"Tony Runs Wild," Fox Films latest Tom Mix production, will begin a two days' showing at the Breed theatre beginning Friday.

The setting for "Tony Runs Wild" is along the Apache trail in Arizona's land of wonderful scenery. The action of the story carries the picture to the exterior and through the interiors of the ancient Cliff Dwellings, homes of a race that vanished from America centuries ago.

Famous mining properities, one of the most highly developed ranches of Arizona's famous cattle country, and miles of the scenic roads through the district appear in the picture. The final scene is in the celebrated Box Canyon, a natural corral near the Cliff Dwellings.

The story gives Mix and "Tony" an opportunity to perform more of their feats of strength and skill, and thrills that are new even for this pair of film stars make this the most striking of Mix's long line of thrilling productions.

"Tony" is pictured as the leader of a band of wild horses. He is captured and tamed and then released. At the climax of the production in the final scene, he answers his master's call, leads his wild mates in a rush that saves the hero and the heroine from being shot to death by desperadoes. Mix himself says this is "Tony's" best picture and "Tony" says it's Tom's best production.

In addition to Mix the cast includes Jacqueline Logan, Lawford Davidson, Duke Lee, Vivian Oakland, Edward Martindale, Marion Harlan, Raymond Wells, Jack Padjen, Arthur Morrison and Marvin Faust.

BACKUS HOSPITAL PRESENTS OPPORTUNITIES FOR NURSES

With the increased bed capacity that the remodeling of the old nurses' home for the maternity department will give the Wm. W. Backus hospital, is allowed an opportunity to accommodate a much larger number of nurses than usual. The next class enters September first; and it is desired that its numbers may be such as to utilize all the opportunities which the hospital facilities provide.

Regarding this the hospital authorities say: "If you are interested in nursing and do not know the opportunities offered at the hospital, come and let us show you the hospital and our new nurses' home. This is arranged for the comfort of each nurse, with its class rooms much more completely equipped than many larger hospitals. Watch the paper for some of the interesting articles our nursing body has arranged for your benefit."

"Ut Prosimus." "That we may be of service." With this as our motto we stand ready to serve the community to the best of our ability, endeavoring to help others in finding their way to health, in keeping well, and to the furthering of hygienic measures in our community. If you are interested in joining us or if you are undecided what kind of work you wish to take up, why not send for one of our circulars regarding the course of training that we offer at the Wm. W. Backus Hospital Training School."

TWO GUARDSMEN COLLAPSE AT NIANTIC CAMPGROUND

At Camp Trumbull, Niantic, it was so hot Tuesday and Wednesday that the 102nd regiment postponed its championship ball game until Thursday evening, when it is hoped the weather will be more moderate.

So excellent is the work of the brigade headquarters and the signal company men that Captain Powers, divisional field signal officer, decided to spring something new. While the New London boys were enjoying their swim chosen as the command post of the 85th, orders were received to move forward to the regimental post commander.

This was accomplished, trucks loaded, unloaded and radio stations, telephone and message centers in operation, all within 22 minutes.

No casualties were reported in the battle, a skinned arm and a [illegible] up was all Sergt. Rogers received when he tried the parachute drop from the top of a 65-foot stick and the spurs failed to catch on the second drop.

The blistering rays of the sun made things difficult for the boys Tuesday and one infantryman, known to the buddies as Private "Red" Johnson of North Haven is on the hospital list as a result. Private Johnson, a member of Machine Gun Company D, of New Haven, keeled over as he and a comrade were qualifying for the 1[illegible] inch range gunnery trials.

Jolly Social Club Meets

The Jolly Social club was entertained Friday evening by Miss Louise Wunderlich at her home on Norwich avenue. After the sewing the hostess served sandwiches, mashed potatoes, pickles and coffee. The table was prettily decorated with flowers and fancy napkins were at each cover. Singing and Victrola selections were enjoyed and there were also piano selections by Miss Pauline Wunderlich. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Lee Hill of Boswell avenue.

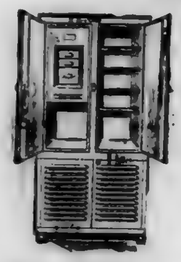
Frigidaire



The Name Means Everything

"This modern ice man" calls once—with Frigidaire—and the ice stays always

FRIGIDAIRE was given its name to distinguish it from all other makes of electric refrigerators.

Back of that name are the engineering resources of General Motors, and the guarantee of the world's largest builder of electric refrigerators.

Under the name Frigidaire more than two hundred thousand electric refrigerators have been sold to home owners and industrial users.

The nameplate is placed on every Frigidaire mechanical unit and every cabinet to identify that product—and all the inventive genius, the precise mechanical construction, the features that are exclusive to Frigidaire are represented by that one word—a trade-marked name that cannot be used on any other electric refrigerator.

When you consider an electric refrigerator and want those qualities that have won leadership and reputation for Frigidaire—be sure you get a Frigidaire.

MARKET FLUCTUATED

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary just before the close of today's market under a heavy volume of selling for both accounts. Previously, the market had fluctuated in a nervous and erratic manner with speculators for the advance making strenuous efforts to keep prices pointed upward. Although General Motors, U. S. Steel common and about a score of other stocks attained new peak prices for the year, most of them closed lower on the day.

From a stock market standpoint, the most interesting incident of the day was the publication of a statement by Thomas Cochran of J. P. Morgan & Co. denying that he predicted an advance to 200 points in that stock but admitting that he gave an interview prior to he departure for Europe in which he "spoke with enthusiasm of the earnings, management and prospects of the General Motors corporation." The stock opened at 214 1-2, a new high record, but broke to 205 1-2 as a savage bear attack before the end of the first half hour, quickly snapping back to around 211.

The general market followed the trend of General Motors during most of the session, but new leaders were brought forward by speculators for the advance during the afternoon in an apparent effort to increase public interest by broadening the scope of the market. Pool operations were aided by the lowering of the renewal rate on call money from 4 1-2 to 4 1-4 per cent., the lower figure being shaded a bit further in the "outside market" by the publication of another series of earnings statements, and by the declaration of an extra dividend of Standard Oil of Indiana.

Rails were sluggish in quiet trading despite the announcement that car loadings in the week ended July 24 established a new high record for the year.

Favorable earnings and dividend news from the oil industry was counteracted by the announcement that the daily average gross crude oil production increased over 44,000 barrels last week.

Cudahy packing was whipsied up 4 points on reports of unusually large earnings in the first half of the year, accompanied by predictions of a higher dividend at the September meeting.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A sharp break of 42 to 49 points net in cotton prices, based on improved weather reports, featured the mixed commodity markets. Wheat futures closed practically unchanged after fluctuating erratically throughout the session. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee advanced 10 to 15 points.

Another sharp rally in French francs, which brought them close to the 3 cent level, was the outstanding development in the firmer foreign exchange market. Most of the continental currencies advanced in sympathy with the Paris rates while demand sterling held steady just above $4.85 3-4.

TAFTVILLE

Wednesday being one of the hottest days of the season, all roads led to the swimming holes in the Shetucket river and the Lisbon pond. In the former place, it is estimated that the number of bathers far surpassed any record thus far this summer. Those who owned boats and canoes carried large numbers of passengers to the "sand bank" for a cooling dip.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hartley of Pawtucket, R. I., former Taftville residents, were in the village Wednesday.

Paul Picz has resigned his position with the No. 1 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

The members of the choir of the Taftville Congregational church are to enjoy their annual outing today (Thursday) at Rocky Point, R. I. The trip is to be made by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ducharme of South C street have leased the house at 23 South B street and expect to occupy it in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Davignon and family have moved from South Third avenue to a house on South A street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Grimshaw have returned to their home in Fall River, Mass., after spending the past few days at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grimshaw and family of North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lanois and family have moved to the village and have taken a house on North B street.

The regular monthly business meeting of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society was held Wednesday evening in the society's rooms on Providence street. There was a large attendance, much business being transacted. The president, Miss Mary Hanlon presided.

President Allan Bogle was in the chair at the regular monthly business meeting of the Taftville Social and Football club, held Monday evening in the club rooms at the Ponemah house. The committee on rules and by-laws, Fred Ince, George Mudderman and George Kinder, reported that the new constitution had been drawn up and adopted by the club members. Copies will be made and posted in a prominent place in the rooms.

The Independent Order of Foresters held a meeting Wednesday evening at their rooms on Merchants avenue.

A number of cases of ivy poisoning have been reported about the village.

Frederick Stevens who is employed at Lyons-on-the-Thames spent Wednesday with his family in town.

Attended Shade Tree Conference

Hans A. Bauer, landscape architect of the Connecticut highway department attended the third national shade tree conference in Philadelphia, Pa., on Aug. 2nd and 3rd. Mr. Bayer was impressed with the activities of the conference and was greatly interested in the landscaping in the environs of Philadelphia. He believes the shade tree conference to be essential to the progress of the science of forestry, landscaping and tree surgery. Mr. Bauer was particularly impressed with the highway plantings throughout the state of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

In the absence of Dr. Haven Metcalf of the bureau of plant industry, Washington, D. C., W. A. McGubbin, assistant director of plant industry, Harrisburg, acted as chairman, W. O. Filley, of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station, New Haven, Conn., acted as secretary.

Attended Telephone Outing

Among those present at the outing held Tuesday at Mooscup pond by the employees of the S. N. E. Telephone Co., were C. E. Rolfe, executive assistant, New Haven; E. L. Simonds, superintendent of plant, New Haven; F. S. Moore, traffic superintendent, New Haven; E. L. Baker, general auditor, C. H. Holt, auditor of receipts; R. A. Grant, E. R. Bradley, plant department, New Haven; Edward Dejon, superintendent of safety, New Haven; R. H. Gray, district commercial superintendent, New London; A. L. Osborne, district traffic superintendent, New London.

The committee that arranged the outing was made up of Norman Shaffer chairman, Norwich; Henry S. Lyon, treasurer, Norwich; Henry O'Brien, Leslie Beebe, Miss Margaret Coyle, Miss Grace Murray, R. H. Gray, A. L. Osborne, all of New London; F. D. Fraser, Hartford; Harry Emmerich, Norwich; Miss Helen Jones, John Fraser, Willimantic; Mary Smith, W. H. Jones, Miss Effie Danielson, Putnam; Miss K. D. Aylward, Danielson.

FORMER NORWICH WOMAN TELLS OF HURRICANE DAMAGE AT NASSAU

A story of buildings unroofed, streets flooded with water, roads obliterated, and people literally washed out of house and home during the recent hurricane at Nassau, is told in a letter received by Mrs. Idelle Babcock of R. F. D. No. 6, Norwich, from her son's wife, Mrs. Charles Babcock. Mr. Babcock is an engineer employed by the Fred T. Ley Co., and is working on the construction of a new hotel at Nassau. The hotel was nearly completed when the hurricane swept over Nassau and Mr. and Mrs. Babcock expected to leave the Bahamas the middle of this month for a month's vacation during which they planned to come north.

Mrs. Babcock in her letter says:

Some news this time! This bunch of islands was hit by a hurricane Sunday night, which lasted until Monday night. Since then it has been showered with a little lightning.

The wind blew hard Sunday afternoon and then blew harder at night-fall with a very hard rain, worse than any cloudburst I have ever seen. The rain came in through nearly all the roofs and soaked the upper floors at least. Some people were literally washed out of house and home. Many roofs were lifted off and carried hundreds of feet.

We were fortunate, one room stayed fairly dry. It was Charlie's room and we moved in there and lived there while the storm lasted. The floors upstairs were like little rivers and needless to say it came down here in torrents for a while. We are just getting dried out. Baby was in the one dry spot.

It soaked carpets, curtains and everything. It came down in two or three places in Charlie's bed room, so we put a rubber on the bed.

The storm lived Monday afternoon enough so Charlie could go out and see the sights. Some sights! Houses blown over, some lifted off their foundations and moved over six feet. Nice large trees laying uprooted all about and flat places were lakes. Roads near the beach were gutted right out or existence.

Then when Charlie saw the hotel, which was nearly completed, roof ripped off, etc., he felt quite disheartened. He says the damage which the storm did to it amounts to $10,000. The gutters and drains were ripped right off the roof and so much water got in on the sixth floor that much of the plastering, etc., will have to be done over. The plate glass windows and the blinds were smashed.

My heart goes out to the poor families that were so exposed to that terrible storm. There were many small craft at sea around here when the hurricane came up and before they decided to come to port they were caught. I was told that over forty dead bodies have been washed in here on the beaches.

There were over thirty missing craft so there were some that went down in the deep sea. One man washed ashore had a little child clasped in his arms. It made me feel for the people who fought the seas. It seemed so pathetic.

Buildings of concrete were smashed to slivers in some instances. There is wreckage all over the town and it will be weeks before all the debris is cleaned up. They will report it as being worse in the U. S. newspapers than it really was. They generally do. Anyway, it was some hurricane. It blew for 24 hours so hard that people who tried to go out in it were blown back and over and the water was so deep all around that it hindered a person getting around.

There is no electricity so we can't pump water. The maid has to dip it up into pails. We are using candles now and getting quite used to them. We are all well, didn't even catch a cold from the dampness.

WEEKLY LIST OF LICENSES SUSPENDED

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are thirty-three names on the list. The case of one was appealed. Two were Connecticut operators convicted in another state. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

SESQUI CERTIFICATES FOR BULLETIN AND COURIER

The Norwich Morning Bulletin and the Norwich Courier have received sesqui-centennial international exposition certificates. The certificates, signed by W. Freeland Kendrick, mayor of Philadelphia and president of the sesqui-centennial exhibition association, E. J. Caffery, vice president and chairman of the executive committee, Asher C. Baker, director-in-chief and Odell Ranger, director, department of publicity, read as follows:

This is to certify that The Bulletin, Norwich, Conn., has rendered conspicuous service in assisting the directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition to bring the message of the exposition before the public and has devoted time and effort toward making it a success. This certificate is presented as an expression of appreciation and commendation for assistance in the celebration of one hundred and fifty years of American independence.

Crash on Military Highway

A serious automobile accident in which six persons narrowly escaped injury, occurred on the military highway, near Long Cove bridge at 1.30 Monday morning. An automobile operated by Alexander Gianocopoulos of 107 Broad street, Groton, was proceeding along the military highway towards Norwich, when a coupe operated by Sidney Usher, chief water tender on a destroyer stationed at the state pier, proceeding toward New London collided with Gianocopoulos automobile.

Following the crash, the coupe operated by Usher turned turtle, but the driver and two other occupants who were in the automobile with him at the time, escaped without a scratch. There were two other occupants in the Gianocopoulos automobile besides the driver, but they also escaped injury.

FREE COOKING LESSONS CONTINUE WELL ATTENDED

Fifteen ardent housewives rose superior to the heat and attended the free cooking demonstration of the Norwich Gas & Electric department's home service expert, Miss Gladys L. Peckham, at the G. & E. lecture room, Wednesday afternoon. Those attending were instructed how to make raspberry bar-le-duc and prepare sweet pickled peaches. Mrs. Clarence D. Sevin assisted Miss Peckham.

This class will have two more lessons before vacation; the last lesson of the course will come on Wed., Aug. 18th, following which Miss Peckham will suspend classes till after Labor Day.

Forty-five were present Tuesday evening at her class in St. Joseph's Community house, the members receiving a lesson on making brownies and sour milk gingerbread. This snappy and ambitious class has two more lessons before the award of diplomas, which ceremony will probably be at a special public meeting to which friends of the class will be invited. For their two remaining lessons, Aug. 10th and 17th the class will be taught how to make doughnuts and iced desserts.

The raspberry bar-le-duc recipe given to the Wednesday class called for 1 qt. perfect red raspberries; 1 cup currant juice; 1 cup red raspberry juice; 3 cups sugar. Combine fruit juices; add sugar and let boil until very thick, almost jelly. Then drop in the raspberries, a few at a time. Cook for two or three minutes then remove with a skimmer to small glasses. When all berries are cooked, the syrup will be quite thin; so boil it down until jelled again. Pour it into sterilized glasses containing raspberries, and seal.

HORSE DROPPED DEAD ON WEST MAIN ST.

The intense heat of Wednesday claimed the life of Billie, the old reliable horse of the Loose-Wiles Sunshine Biscuit company of this city, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The horse had left the stable only a short time before his death and had reached a point just above the First Baptist church on West Main street hill when it suddenly stopped, faltered, then dropped dead.

Frank Hanrahan was driving the horse but he escaped without injury. It was stated that the horse was being used only four days a week and that it had left the stable that afternoon hauling a light load. A passing veterinary stated that death was due to excessive heat.

The dead animal was taken away shortly after 5 o'clock in another of the trucks owned by the company.

RHODE ISLAND WOMAN FINED IN LOCAL COURT

In the city court Wednesday morning Eveline Robidoux of No. 148 East Hooper street, North Tiverton, R. I., was fined $15 and costs by Judge H. H. Pettis, on a charge of driving a motor vehicle without having an operator's license. The fine and costs which totalled $28.03 were paid. The car was owned by Fred Richards, who according to the accused, resides at the same address in Rhode Island.

The accused was summoned into court here by State Policeman Williams of the Danielson barracks following an accident at Taft's station Tuesday afternoon, when she evidently became confused at the Jewett City turn and drove her car into a Cadillac car operated by Mrs. Alex McNicol of Jewett City. Both cars were slightly damaged.

A local man charged with intoxication had his case settled on payment of a fine of $5, plus costs of $9.50.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR ANNA PERINGER

Tuesday evening, Miss Anna Peringer of No. 85 Dunham street was pleasantly surprised by a number of her friends, it being her eighteenth birthday.

Refreshments were served by Miss Mary Peringer and games were enjoyed.

Those present were: Clara Born, Elizabeth Falman and the members of the M. M. C., including Celia Cook, Julia Cook, Louise Courbois, Anna Gresser, Anna Peringer, Terry Peringer, Julia Ulrich and Mae Ulrich.

Miss Peringer received many beautiful and useful gifts including a silver bracelet given by the M. M. C.

THERMOMETER TOUCHES 105 AT BALTIC

The thermometer touched the hundred mark at Baltic Tuesday and as a result the outside workmen, about 15 in number, of the Baltic Mills Co., had a half holiday through the consideration of the mill officers. In the afternoon the mercury stood at 105 in the sun and 99 in the shade in several places of the town.

THREE GIVEN HONORARY RECOGNITION CERTIFICATES

STORRS, Conn., Aug. 4.—Miss M. Estella Sprague of Templeton, Mass., formerly of Storrs, Charles A. Bacon of Middletown, George A. Cosgrove of Willington Hill, and Wilson H. Lee of Orange were awarded certificates of "Honorary Recognition" by Connecticut Agricultural college here this afternoon.

"Connecticut Agricultural college inaugurated the custom of awarding 'honorary recognition' to leaders in agriculture and rural life three years ago, during farmers' week," said President Charles Lewis Beach, who presented the certificates. "The purpose was to emphasize the dignity of agriculture and to bring to the public attention the activities of men and women who had rendered exception service in the improvement of rural conditions."

Mary Estella Sprague is a native of Massachusetts. She was educated at the Bridgewater, Mass., normal school, and for a number of years was a public school teacher. Later she studied home economics at Simmons college and went from there to become house director and teacher of home economics at "Caroline Rest" on the Hudson in New York state.

Miss Sprague came to Connecticut in 1914 as assistant state leader in boys' and girls' club work. Later she became state leader of girls' clubs. She was the first woman extension worker in Connecticut and a pioneer in work with boys and girls in this section.

In 1917 Miss Sprague was made state leader of home demonstration agents, in charge of the rapidly growing extension work for women. At the same time she was made dean of women at Connecticut Agricultural college. With the entry of the United States into the war, Miss Sprague became state director of home economics for the food administration.

George A. Cosgrove, Willington Hill, Connecticut, was born at Newark, N. J., Feb. 6, 1837. He was educated in the public schools of New Haven, Conn., where his father later engaged in the carriage making business.

His first job was as a pressman for the New Haven Daily Palladium, leaving to join his father in the carriage business. On the outbreak of the Civil war he went to the gun shop at Whitneyville, remaining for 20 years. With the advent of the electric lighting industry, he returned to Newark, N. J., to help in the manufacture of electric lamps, later moving to Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Cosgrove has always been interested in poultry and kept chickens as a sideline. He came to Willington Hill, purchased a farm, and for 33 years has exerted a marked influence on the Connecticut poultry industry.

At 57 years of age, in poor health, expected by his doctors to live but five more years, Mr. Cosgrove plunged into farming with characteristic energy. Now, at 89, he retains a keen memory and an active mind and is consulted on poultry problems by many persons who have followed his judgment for years.

For 30 years Mr. Cosgrove has written poultry information for the Rural New Yorker and other journals. In 1907 he was a member of the Connecticut general assembly, drafting the bill granting an annual appropriation to the Connecticut Poultry association. He has served on the state board of agriculture, and as president of the Poultry association. For years he was American representative of Tom Barron, famous English poultryman. Mr. Cosgrove is author of "The Old Blue Hen," which has been recited by two generations of schoolboys.

Charles E. Bacon, Middletown, Connecticut, was born in Westfield District, Middletown, Feb. 4, 1851. He attended the district school at Westfield and was graduated in 1867 in the first class, consisting of three girls and one boy, from Middletown high school.

For three years after high school he taught school, working in summer on his father's farm. After spending some months in Texas and other western states he returned to Connecticut and entered Sheffield Scientific school at Yale, from which he was graduated in 1876.

In 1877, Mr. Bacon located on his present farm near Middletown, the seventh generation of Bacons to own and work this farm. His son, C. Marsden Bacon, now has active charge of farm operations and a grandson, who has made an enviable record in 4-H club work, will, if he succeeds to the farm, represent the ninth generation.

He has been active in grange work and for 11 years was secretary of the Patrons Fire Insurance company. He has been a member of the Middletown school board and a school visitor since 1880. He served two terms as town assessor, one term in the general assembly, and for 19 years has been chairman of the board of county commissioners in Middlesex county.

Since 1917, Mr. Bacon has been a director of the Middlesex county farm bureau, is treasurer of the Middlesex county 4-H club fair, and has given generously of his time and energy to promoting boys' and girls' clubs.

Wilson H. Lee, New Haven, Connecticut, was born at Hardwick, Mass., May 4, 1852. His education was obtained in the public schools of Athol, Mass.

In 1902 Mr. Lee became actively interested in farming, starting Fairlee Farms, in Orange, with 100 acres of land, two cows and two horses. He now conducts a large dairy business with 300 head of stock, 800 acres of land, and 300 additional acres under lease.

Mr. Lee helped found and has been president since the beginning of the New Haven milk exchange. He started and for a number of years was president of the New Haven county farm bureau. For years he has been chairman of the agricultural committee of the New Haven chamber of commerce. He is chairman of the agricultural committee of the State Manufacturers' association, vice president of the eastern states exposition and is a trustee and director of the Junior Achievement league. He has served on the state board of agriculture and as a trustee of the Connecticut Agricultural college.

POETRY

Remote

The farthest country is Tierra del Fuego,
That is the bleakest and the loneliest land;
There are the soaring mountains of felspar,
The salt winds walking the empty sands.

This country remembers the birth of the moon
From a rocky rib of the young earth's side;
It heard the white-hot mountains hollow
Against the march of the first flood tide.

I lifted a shell by the glass-green breakers
And heard what no man has heard before,
The whisper of steam in the hot fern forest
And slow feet crunching the ocean floor.

I saw the slanted flash of a seagull
When a sheaf of light poured over a cloud,
I heard the wind in the stiff dune grasses,
But I saw no sail and heard no shroud.

To a promontory of Tierra del Fuego
I climbed at noon and stretched my hand
Toward another country, remoter and bleaker.

—Robert Hilyer in The Dial.

The Eagle of the Blue

Aloft he guards the starry folds
Who is the brother of the star;
The bird whose joy is in the wind
Exulteth in the war.

No painted plume—a sober hue,
His beauty in his power;
That eager calm of brave intent
Foresees the Sibyl's hour.

Austere, he crowns the swaying perch,
Flapped by the angry flag;
The hurricane from the battery sings,
But his claw has known the crag.

Amid the scream of shells, his scream
Runs shrilling; and the glare
Of eyes that brave the blinding sun
The volleyed flame can bear.

The pride of quenchless strength is his—
Strength which, though chained, avails;
The very rebel looks and thrills—
The anchored Emblem hails.

Though scarred in many a furious fray,
No deadly hurt he knew;
Well may we think his years are charmed—

The Eagle of the Blue

—Herman Melville.

K. OF C. COMBATS STAND OF MEX. GOV'T ON RELIGION

The Order Calls Upon President Coolidge and the State Department to "Put an End to the Ignominious Contempt That Has Been Shown by President Calles for American Appeal"—Statement Warns American Citizens That They Cannot Endure the Russianizing of Mexico—Order is to Raise Fund of $1,000,000 for a Campaign of Education to Eliminate the Policies of Soviet Russia From American Life—Requests Cooperation of the American Federation of Labor—Religious Situation in Mexico Continues Deadlocked.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Asserting that Mexican officials had "invaded, degraded and expelled American citizens, men and women, under circumstances that are abhorrent to our conception of constitutional government," Supreme council, Knights of Columbus today called upon President Coolidge and the state department to "put an end to the ignominious contempt that has been shown by President Calles for American appeal."

The American Federation of Labor and affiliated organizations were urged to cooperate to safeguard "not only American rights, but the hard won victories of labor itself to protect it from servile submission to destructive powers of a militaristic and communistic form of government. Labor in this country is free and devoid of military coercion, and should ever remain so, and the situation for a free people desiring to work out their salvation as a labor organization is impossible under the present system in Mexico. * * *"

At the same time the convention authorized the supreme board of directors to assess the membership of the organization $1,000,000 for a campaign of education, "to the end that the politics of soviet Russia shall be eliminated from the philosophy of American life and the ideals of liberty, of conscience and democratic freedom now extend to our afflicted fellow human beings beyond the Rio Grande."

The religious situation in Mexico as it affects the Catholic church was considered one of the most important questions before the convention and had been under consideration since it convened last Monday.

Statement in Part

The text of the statement in part is as follows:

"The Knights of Columbus in antecedent supreme convention assembled * * * having viewed with deliberation and care the present political situation in the neighboring government of Mexico, hereby solemnly aver that it would be neglectful of our duty if we did not register an unqualified protest against the policy of President Calles upon his recent destruction of the armed forces of his own regime in oppressing the vast majority of the people of Mexico, who are struggling for the right to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience.

"We call the attention of the American government to remind it that the representatives of Calles have insulted and degraded and expelled American citizens, men and women, under circumstances that are abhorrent to our conception of constitutional government.

"* * * when our fellow American citizens * * * they cannot endure at their very doorsteps, with impunity, the Russianizing of Mexico. The soviet power * * * controls the military power of Mexico. The family to them is * * * and marriage a degradation. * * * is robbed if of its sanctity. * * * conception of God is contempt * * * religions. Ministers of all religions denied the right to exercise their sacred functions; professions and vocations are prohibited; * * * to take sacred vows for the service of God is denied; freedom of conscience is illegal, freedom of the press, freedom of petition, freedom of speech, lawful assemblage to petition * * * members of the people are denied * * * freedom of education * * * suppressed and abolished; * * * spiritual liberty is impossible; intolerance is defied; confiscation and confiscation of property are justified; * * * political liberty and orderly government are unknown; liberty * * * and right have been assassinated * * * the self rulers of Mexico. * * * to in principle, precept and * * * made the order of the day. * * * on the other hand, as enunciated in the declaration of independence and the constitution of the United States, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is the ideal and principle * * *

"This system in Mexico has been created under American auspices, sustained by American executive authority, which, in the first place, while refusing to recognize Lenine and Trotsky, have, by executive order of recognition, accepted Calles and Obregon who are the enthusiastic supporters of the bolsheviki concept of government. We further point to the encouragement of the patronage bestowed upon these military despots by the * * * of such recognition, and particularly, by the discriminating favoritism shown to Calles by the continuance of the embargo, which makes the Calles ascendency possible.

"We call upon the president and the state department to put an end to this ignominious contempt which has been shown by Calles for Americans' appeal and to resolutely demand protection for American citizens and that they be treated with the same consideration and respect which is shown to Mexican citizens in this country. On occasions less acute than this, and where the circumstances were more remote from American contracts and far removed from our borders, geographically and otherwise, the American government has expressed its sympathy for the struggle of oppressed people to realize their ideal of liberty, and the stories of Cuba, Ireland, Kishineff and Hungary and other similar historical incidents testify to the warm sympathy of the American people with the downtrodden and oppressed of any nation to throw off the yoke of despotism.

"The period of 'watchful waiting' or any other such procedure is over. We, as American citizens, demand of our government that this action be taken forthwith. * * *

"We particularly call upon the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated organizations to heed this appeal to cooperate with us to safeguard not only American rights, but the hard won victories of labor itself to protect it from servile submission to destructive powers of a militaristic and communistic form of government. Labor in this country is free and devoid of military coercion, and should ever remain so, and the situation for a free people desiring to work out their salvation as a labor organization is impossible under the present system in Mexico. * * *"

RELIGIOUS SITUATION IN MEXICO DEADLOCKED

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The religious situation in Mexico continues deadlocked. Peace fecters by would-be intermediaries have been futile.

The government's intention to go ahead with strict application of the religious laws, has again been emphasized by President Calles in his reply to a communication from the president of Peru requesting re-establishment of harmony between the government and the Catholic church.

The boycott, called by the league for defense of religious freedom in an effort to bring the economic situation to such a state as to force the authorities to rescind the regulations, is becoming a dread specter throughout the republic. Constantly increasing fear is being shown in Mexico City despite an attempt to minimize the results of the boycott.

To observe the central business section of Mexico City, one would think nothing was wrong. There is every outward appearance of normal life; streets are crowded as usual, but there is more than the usual proportion of window shoppers who do not enter to buy.

Attendance at motion picture performances has slumped, and numerous small shops in the suburban residential sections and outlying villages are reporting decreased sales. Apparently the poor and middle-class people are the ones who are obeying the boycott.

Government officials think that the fears of the boycott and the assertions of its present seriousness in some sections, have been exaggerated. The secretary of the treasury, Alberto J. Pani, has denied reports of large withdrawals from the Banco de Mexico and other banks. At the same time he took occasion to say that the report that he had been approached by the bankers' spokesmen with regard to the economic boycott likewise was without foundation.

On the other hand Catholic leaders assert that the present effectiveness of the boycott is much greater than is indicated by information reaching the capital.

Foremost foreing business men, as well as foreign official observers, attempting an impartial appraisal, think the situation is serious, although to what extent they cannot say. They see every prospect of it becoming much worse unless some understanding, which is not in sight at present, may develop.

While belated reports of disturbances at Guadalajara, one of the strongest Catholic centers in the country, and at Torreon, Cuernavaca and Irapuato, have come to hand, for the most part the people of the country are calmly attending to their every day affairs, and awaiting developments.

BOYCOTT IS AFFECTING ALL LINES IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The boycott in Mexico growing out of the religious situation is affecting virtually all lines, the commerce department was advised today by Acting Commercial Attache Wythe at Mexico City.

Although business conditions were unsatisfactory before the boycott, the cablegram declared its effect on luxuries had been pronounced. Motion picture house receipts were said to have fallen 40 per cent and department and drug store trade curtailed, although mining continued active.

RETURNS FROM TENN. DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 5—(AP)—Returns from 677 of Tennessee's 2,195 precincts in today's democratic primary, tonight showed Governor Austin Peay, candidate for renomination, leading his nearest opponent, Hill Callister, by 2,302 votes. Peay had 31,368 votes; McAlister 29,066 and John R. Peal 2,915.

In the contest for the democratic congressional nomination in the Ninth district W. W. Craig had a lead of 1,580 votes over Representative Finis Garrett, on the face of returns from 113 of the 205 precincts in the district. Craig's total was 6,715 and Garrett 4,129.

Meagre returns from the republican primary in the First district, the only other congressional contest in the state, gave Representative Carroll Reese 603 and Joel N. Pierce 613.

HUNTING FOR MAN WHO SHOT AND KILLED FRIEND

BURLINGTON, Mass., Aug. 5—(AP)—A man, who shot and killed a friend here today was being hunted by state and local police tonight—not for prosecution, but to save him from himself.

The fugitive is Salvatore Pinera who killed Frank Gentile of Woburn while target shooting. Scores of witnesses convinced the police that the killing was entirely accidental, but Pinera, apparently crazed by the shock of the tragedy, attempted to turn his weapon on himself

CABLED PARAGAPHS

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Now that the mission of Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews, American prohibition enforcement chief, has been concluded, the British government is preparing for the reception of the next American emissary, who is expected in September.

TOKYO, Aug. 5.—(AP)—More than 75 persons are dead, and several thousand acres are inundated by floods in Kogendo province, Korea, says a dispatch to the Tokyo newspaper Jiji. The floods are the result of recent heavy rainstorms. The advices give no details.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—An intensive campaign to poularize the new liberal land policy is being organized by the land and national league, of which former Premier Davis Lloyd George is president. A newspaper will be published by the league and 2,500 public meetings will be held.

COWES, England, Aug. 5.—(AP)—King George's dislike for sleeveless gowns and short skirts as summer fashions for women is said to be responsible for a remarkable reversion to former styles by the exclusive set here for the regatta season. The younger women of the social set have suddenly taken to the long sleeves and longer skirts.

SANTANDER, Spain, Aug. 5.—King Alfonso has sent a dispatch to President Coolidge, thanking him for a message which was conveyed to him by the commander of the United States cruiser Memphis, which is visiting this port. The king in his message congratulated President Coolidge on the wonderful condition of the Memphis and the splendid appearance of her crew.

ROME, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The cabinet acting as a legislative and executive body and under the presidency of Premier Mussolini approved 55 decree laws in less time than the ordinary legislature would take to discuss and pass one bill. The most important of the new laws so far as the fascist state is concerned, is that covering public education. Thirty five hundred rural school houses are ordered built as well as a number of secondary schools to be established "in conformity with the laws."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE AT ODD JOBS OF FARM WORK

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Cares of the farm occupied President Coolidge today.

Here for a visit of a few days at the Coolidge homestead and farm of 275 acres for the first time in many months, he turned his attention to the condition of the place and all through the day worked at odd jobs.

In a business suit of dark gray and wearing a straw hat, Mr. Coolidge frequently took up a saw, an axe, a sledge hammer or a crow bar and repaired places that close inspection revealed needed attention.

The fence caught his eye at one time, and with the aid of a crow bar and sledge hammer he pulled out a decayed post and set another in its place. Again he entered the wood shed with an axe and cut wood for ending a weak spot about the house. At yet another time he went into the orchard and with a long saw cut off a huge limb of an apple tree which had outlived its usefulness. Then he went into the garden with a hoe and attacked weds for an hour.

The day, however, did not pass without both him and Mrs. Coolidge visiting the hillside cemetery, not far from the house, where are buried four generations of the Coolidge family, including the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and the father of the president.

WOMAN BUYS RESIDENCE OF LATE COM. E. C. BENEDICT

GREENWICH, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The residence of the late Commodore E. C. Benedict, one of the show places of Greenwich, together with Tweed Island and a portion of the mainland, comprising about 12 acres was sold today to a woman whose name has been withheld. The sale was made through Thomas N. Cooke for the owner, Mrs. Clifford B. Harmon. The purchase price was $500,000.

In addition to the palatial residence the property includes a large guest house and a large stable and garage. It is opposite the Indian Harbor Yacht club.

TO ASK FRENCH PARLIAMENT RATIFY DEBT AGREEMENT

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A report was current in the lobbies of the chamber of deputies tonight that the government had practically decided to ask parliament to ratify the debt agreement with the United States before the session closed next week. The same report was also current with respect to the debt agreement with Great Britain.

IS GENTLEMAN FARMING BUSINESS OR HOBBY?

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The question of whether gentleman farming is a business or a hobby was left undecided today by the U. S. tax board of appeals, which today concluded a three day session here. The issue was raised in the case of Thomas Sheridan of Chicago, who deducted losses suffered on his New Hampshire farm from his income tax report. Decision was reserved by the board.

NINE PERSONS KILLED WHEN AUTO SKIDDED

PARIS, Aug. 5—(AP)—Nine persons were killed and three seriously injured when an automobile skidded near Wildbach, Germany, and fell to the railroad tracks just as a train was passing, according to a Havas dispatch. Not a single person in the automobile escaped either death or injury.

THREE MEN KILLED IN BATTLE WITH DRY AGENTS

HOMESTEAD, Fla., Aug. 5—(AP)—Three men were shot and killed this afternoon in a pitched battle with seven federal prohibition agents on the Cape Sable road, 13 miles from Royal Palm State park. None of the federal men was injured.

Wets Win in Miss[illegible], Klan Loses Kansas

Closely Contested Races in Oklahoma and Kansas in Tuesday's Primary Elections.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5—(AP)—Interest in Tuesday's primary elections centered tonight on several closely contested races in Oklahoma and Kansas, with indications that an official count may be necessary in some cases to determine the winners.

Incoming returns accentuated the victory of the wets in Missouri and the defeat of the Ku Klux Klan in Kansas.

The contest between former Governor Jonathan M. Davis and Donald Muir, of Anthony, for the democratic gubernatorial nomination held the spotlight in Kansas. Davis held a lead of 275 votes on returns from 2,332 precincts out of 2,541 in the state. The winner will oppose Governor Ben S. Paulin, republican, in the November elections.

Charles Stephens of Columbus, maintained a lead of 2,000 votes over George McGill of Wichita for the Kansas democratic senatorial nomination as the count neared the completion and it appeared that he will oppose Senator Charles Curtis, majority leader in the senate, in November.

All of the anti-Klan candidates in the republican contests for state office in Kansas seemed assured of nomination by good majorities.

In Oklahoma, Congressman Elmer Thomas was leading J. C. (Jack) Walton, deposed governor, by 13,000 votes for the democratic senatorial nomination with the count two thirds complete, and Henry S. Johnston, of Perry, reputed to have the support of the Ku Klux Klan, held a lead of 6,197 votes over W. M. Darnell, former candidate, in the race for the democratic gubernatorial nomination on returns from 2,260 precincts out of 2,179 in the state.

Omer K. Benedict, Tulsa postmaster, jumped to a lead of more than 2,000 votes over State Senator W. J. Otjen, in the Oklahoma republican gubernatorial contest with 1,625 precincts reported. United States Senator J. W. Herreld, republican, was renominated.

United States Senator George H. Williams, St. Louis and Congressman Harry B. Hawes, St. Louis, will be the Missouri senatorial candidates on the republican and democratic tickets, respectively, in the fall election. Both won easily over their avowed dry opponents.

CAPT. W. R. D. IRVING OF BERENGARIA RESIGNS

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—(AP)—"The Rajah" of the Cunard line, Captain W. R. D. Irvine, R. N. R., commander of the Berengaria, has resigned because of ill-health. He plans to spend the rest of his days in southern France with his American wife.

Captain Irvine, 56 years old and a hero of the World war, earned his regal nickname because of his unwavering enforcement of authority under all circumstances. He once held the Berengaria in quarantine for 36 hours during a gale, despite the fact that J. P. Morgan was a passenger and anxious to get to New York, and that Sir Ashley Sparks, also a passenger, had arranged a dance for 200 guests aboard the liner shortly after the hour she was scheduled to dock.

When the Laconia went down off the Irish coast in 1917, Captain Irvine succeeded in saving all but three of his 291 passengers and crew. He left his ship last and was picked up from the sea unconscious. When he revived, crowds on the shore were cheering him.

"What's the noise?" he inquired, and when told it was applause for him, replied, "Nonsense!"

NEW ENGLAND GOVERNORS HAVE RETURNED HOME

BOSTON, Aug. 5—(AP)—The New England governors' party which left Boston two weeks ago to attend the conference of governors at Cheyenne, Wyo., returned home tonight after a tour of the states west of the Mississippi.

In a statement made public on his arrival Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, who headed the delegation, said the governors were "impressed with the industrial opportunities of New England in serving that great territory and impressed also with the vital interest of New England and the east in the purchasing price of the agricultural dollar."

DECREASE IN ACREAGE OF CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES

Smith admitted that he testified falsely regarding his navy record during the trial

Sec'y Mellon Received By Premier of Italy

They Conversed for More Than Half an Hour in the Presence of Finance Minister Volpi.

ROME, Aug. 5—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, was received by Premier Mussolini in the latter's private apartment at the Chigi palace today.

The secretary conversed in an informal fashion with the Italian premier for more than half an hour in the presence of Finance Minister Volpi and Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs Grandi, who joined in the conversation at times.

Although today's meeting was purely a private visit, another meeting between Secretary Mellon and Premier Mussolini will occur within a few days when it is expected that a more detailed conversation will take place, particularly with reference to financial matters.

Unofficial as today's visit was, it has confirmed the belief in official circles that important matters will be discussed before Secretary Mellon's departure from Rome. It was asserted that the nature of the conversation closely resembled that during the first meeting of Premier Mussolini with Benjamin Strong, Jr., governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, which was followed by others of a more official character.

In his talk with Premier Mussolini Secretary Mellon's discussion touched upon general conditions in Italy and the United States. Since the visit was strictly a courtesy one and without official significance, neither Premier Mussolini nor Finance Minister Volpi made any remarks or explanations concerning Italy's financial condition and aspirations, nor did Secretary Mellon ask any questions concerning these matters.

The Italian American debt settlement was mentioned, but in a purely "historical fashion." Secretary Mellon told the fascist premier that he was favorably impressed by what he has seen thus far in Italy while the premier thanked him for the honor of his visit. The rest of the talk ranged from the weather to general remarks concerning political conditions and the fascist regime.

CONCLUDE INVESTIGATION OF ILLINOIS PRIMARY

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Winding up its inquiry into Illinois' recent million dollar primary, the senate campaign funds committee today heard some frank statements and serious charges and had set another witness challenge its authority.

In announcing adjournment of the committee subject to his call, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the chairman, said it probably would be some time before the investigators assembled again, but added that they were ready to go into any serious charges of primary irregularities.

Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, Daniel J. Schuyler, counsel for Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities magnate, who contributed heavily to Smith's successful campaign for the senate; George F. Stafford, superintendent of the state Anti-Saloon League and Morris Eller, republican boss of Chicago's 20th ward, were the principal witnesses at the final session.

Schuyler told of disbursing $32,925.19 for Insull on behalf of Smith's candidacy and of giving $3,500 of his own money to the Smith campaign fund, but he declined to say whether he had distributed large sums for Insull to candidates other tha nthose in the race for the senatorial nomination.

Upon Schuyler's flat refusal to answer, Senator Reed told him the committee would report his case to the senate with a view to contempt proceedings. Similar notice had been given to Samuel Insull's State Attorney Robert E. Crowe of Cook county, and Thomas W. Cunningham, treasurer of the republican state central committee in Pennsylvania, all of whom declined to answer certain questions.

470 AUTO ACCIDENTS IN THE STATE LAST WEEK

HARTFORD, Aug. 5—(AP)—Bridgeport led the state last week in the number of automobile accidents reported to the state motor vehicle department, Bridgeport's total was 43. New Haven was second, with 47, and Hartford, third, with 43.

The state total for the week was 470, an increase of forty nine over the corresponding week last year when 421 were reported. Three fatalities, one in Waterbury, one in Meriden, and one in East Portchester, were reported, as against seven a year ago.

Accidents in the fourteen cities of the state last week totalled 243, as against a city total of 227 during the same week, 1925.

WILLIMANTIC MAN IN BREAK FROM MILITARY BARRACKS

John Bicknell of Thread City, One of Three Men Who Escaped From an Outside Stockade at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas—Bicknell Has Served Many Sentences for Desertion, Attempted Escape, Destroying Government Property and Other Offenses.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Aug. 5—(AP)—John Bicknel, 26, Willimantic, Conn., Franic L. Rost, 33, Westfield, Mass., and Vernis H. Moore 25, Lawton, Okla., escaped from an outside stockade at the disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth yesterday. It became known today. They were still at large this afternoon.

Bicknell has served many sentences for desertion, attempted escape, destroying government property and other offenses. He was one of five prisoners who overpowered a sentry and escaped last June. Rost was serving a five year sentence for forgery, attempted escape and larceny. Moore was serving a 10 year sentence for larceny, escape, desertion and assault.

SALE BY CONNECTICUT VALLEY TOBACCO ASSN.

HARTFORD, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Tobacco was sold at the rate of $1,100 a minute at America's first broad leaf tobacco inscription held today at the offices of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco association. The association's entire holdings of one grade of tobacco, short seconds, were sold out in three hours for $198,248.94, one quarter of which, $49,562.33, was paid on the spot. The balance is to be paid within 30 days. It was perhaps the biggest volume of business done by the association in any corresponding period of time.

The average price paid for 1925 short seconds was 56.56 cents a pound, which was 11.98 a pound more than the price independent packers have been receiving in "the street" during the past week for the same grade of 1925 tobacco, according to association officials. The average price received in today's inscription for 1924 short seconds, 44's, was 26.43 cents a pound and the price for 1924 short seconds, 43's, 16.06 cents a pound.

At least 50 buyers from various parts of the country, including many shrewd traders who have made international reputations in the famous Amsterdam inscriptions, attended today's event in this city. The competition was keen. Fred Singer, representing Singer and Mayer, well known New York tobacco jobbers, told friends that he had lost out by twelve one-hundredths of a cent in the bidding on a lot (known as 34) of 16,509 pounds of 1925 Hockanum type tobacco, which went to William R. Israel of the American Cigar company, Hartford, for 54.11 cents a pound, or a total of $8,391.92 for the lot.

FRENCH CHAMBER STILL SUPPORTING POINCARE

PARIS, Aug. 5—(AP)—The chamber of deputies is losing no time in giving its assent to measures which Premier Poincare, who also is the finance minister, believes will bring financial strength to the country.

After his success at today's session in having the chamber adopt the bill establishing a sinking fund to cover the floating debt, made up largely of national defense and treasury bonds, M. Poincare tonight received a favorable vote on his measure designed to effect stabilization of the currency.

This measure, which was adopted, 365 to 181, authorizes the Bank of France, with the object of increasing its gold and basic currencies to purchase gold bullion and stable foreign currency with French francs at the current exchange. In order to do this, the bank would be permitted to increase its bank note issue.

Although the franc has shown a favorable trend the last few days, it lost slight ground today, but recovered somewhat at the closing of the day's trading. Opening at 33.93 to the dollar, an hour later it had dropped to 34.23, and, later with the information contained in the Bank of France statement that the government had to resort to further borrowing, the French unit dropped again to 33.62. The closing quotation was 34.05.

CONTEST OVER SUNDAY AT SESQUI-CENTENNIAL

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Closing of the sesqui-centennial exposition on Sundays, in which is invested more than $100,000,000, would result in the "complete ruin and disintegration" of the whole project, counsel for the sesqui-centennial association declared today in their reply to the state attorney general's writ of quo warranto which seeks to prevent the operation of the exposition on the Sabbath.

In their answer the lawyers contend that the exposition and the corporation directing it are exempt from the stipulations of the Sunday blue laws of 1794, "because the corporation is not in existence for profit and is a patriotic celebration of educational, uplifting and even charitable purposes."

$100,000 ALIENATION AWARD HAS BEEN REDUCED TO $10,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The $100,000 damages awarded Mrs. Elsie Hinman Dula in her alienation of affections action against her mother-in-law, widow of Robert E. Dula, tobacco magnate, was reduced to $10,000 today.

Supreme Court Justice Crain ruled that if the younger woman would not accept the reduced sum a new trial would be ordered, as he considered the original verdict in excess of any damages.

Today's action was on a motion by counsel for the elder woman to have the verdict set aside and a new trial granted.

TO ENDEAVOR TO HAVE WOMEN SMOKE CIGARS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5—(AP)—Cigars will be smoked by women, if the National Cigar Box Manufacturers' association can bring that about.

"Men have favored cigarettes instead of cigars because their women companions have preferred to use them," said Mr. Buckley.

"The women of European nobility have been using cigars since the days of Queen Elizabeth," said Harry Ungar, New York, director of the N. C. B. M. A. He advocated the popularization of "all-tobacco" smokes in America.

Mr. Buckley predicted a "come back" for 5-cent cigars.

WALLINGFORD MURDER VICTIM "DIXIE KID", A BOOTLEGGER

WALLINGFORD, Conn., Aug. 5—(AP)—After revealing today that the murdered man found here yesterday was Robert Demolin, 31, of Jackson Heights, L. I., Coroner Eli Mix declared that the authorities were "in possession of very important information" which he hoped would disclose who committed the murder and hid the body with its several bullet wounds in the bushes on a vacant lot. The coroner would not go into the "very important information."

Reversing his policy of yesterday when he refused to discuss the case, the coroner today gave to newspapermen a written statement disclosing, in part, the things he had learned so far in his investigation.

Demolin, the coroner declared, was known to the police as the "Dixie Kid" a bootlegger and gunman who had become prosperous in his chosen career. Last year he had been arrested for a murder at Great Neck, L. I., but was later tried and acquitted. He was identified by an automobile license found on the body.

Demolin's automobile, a new, high priced coupe, was located today in North Haven, several miles from here and taken to police headquarters in New Haven. The coroner found evidence which would indicate that the shots which killed Demolin were fired at close range. Also he found telltale marks indicating that the man was shot in the car.

A bullet found in the body of the machine was flattened as though it had pierced the man's body and then, spending itself, dropped to the floor.

There were at least four bullet wounds in the body, the coroner said. Three of them were fired into the back. Three of the bullets were recovered when an autopsy was performed. It was believed the fourth wound was caused by the one picked up in the automobile.

After Demolin was killed, it was coroner's opinion that the car had been driven close to the spot where the body was found and that the body had been "dumped out" there and dragged to its hiding place, several years from the street. Then the car was driven to North Haven and abandoned.

A man purporting to be Demolin's father came here today to claim the body. He denied that the slain man had been a bootlegger or gunman. He declared Demolin was a cigarmaker and that he lived peacefully with his wife and three children.

The elder Demolin was unable to explain his son's presence in this state, admitting, however, that he had not known where the latter had been the last few days.

HOUDINI IN SUBMERGED COFFIN HOUR AND HALF

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Fear and not poisoning by carbon dioxide causes the death of miners and others trapped in airtight compartment in the opinion of Harry Houdini, who had himself sunk in a sealed coffin in a hotel swimming pool for an hour and a half today to prove his contention.

Dr. W. J. McConnell of Philadelphia, a physiologist of the United States department of mines, who examined the stage magician and opponent of spiritualism before and after the experiment, reported that physical reactions from the test were not marked. Houdini said he felt only a slight dizziness when he was released from the coffin.

"Anyone can do it," said Houdini after he had been freed from the compartment. "The important thing is to believe that you are safe, don't breathe deeply and don't make any unnecessary movements."

It was computed that there were 34,398 cubic inches of air in the coffin. The oxygen in that air, according to physicians, should have been all used up in three or four minutes, so that Houdini breathed "close" air, filled with carbon dioxide, for 86 minutes. He emerged smiling.

RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD BRINGS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Aug. 5—(AP)—Richard Washburn Child, former U. S. ambassador to Italy and a well known writer, is suing his wife, Maude Parker Child, for divorce. Reports have been current that a legal separation was being sought but confirmation was not had until today when the records of the Monroe county common pleas court released the fact.

The suit was filed June 26, when Judge Samuel E. Shull granted a subpoena upon Mrs. Child, returnable on the fourth Monday in September.

The grounds for the divorce were not made public.

Mrs. Child was formerly Maude Parker. She was married to Mr. Child in August, 1916. She is a well known writer.

PONZI LOSES HABEAS CORPUS PROCEEDINGS

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 5—(AP)—Charles Ponzi, former Boston "financial wizard" lost the second round in his legal fight against return to Massachusetts today, but succeeded in delaying a final show-down.

Judge Charles Ashe in district court here refused Ponzi's plea for his release on a writ of habeas corpus, whereup attorneys for the fugitive gave notice on an appeal which will serve to keep Ponzi in Texas at least until October when the state court of criminal appeals will hear the case.

A charge of cruelty to animals, brought against Archie Berkowitz, of Leonard Bridge Wednesday, when it was alleged that he exposed chickens owned by his truck to the hot sun, in this city, was dropped, after further investigation when it was found that the fowl had been crated but a few minutes and were to be taken directly to Berkowitz farm and there liberated. Upon receiving a complaint Frank E. Fenton, agent for the state humane society called for the arrest of Berkowitz by Capt. of Police Frank McLean. It was found that chickens in the crate which appeared in bad condition were suffering from the intense heat of the day. When Berkowitz agreed to take the chickens directly to his home and complied with the order the charge was dismissed.

A couple of dozen iron pickets of the fence which borders the property of Police Court Judge Frank H. Yeo, on the sharp corner in South Windham were snapped off, about eight o'clock Thursday morning, when a Ford touring car owned and driven by Jacob Ohlstein of Copley Hill, town of Franklin pitched into the fence, adding one to the long list of mishaps for which the curves in South Windham are responsible. Constable Alfred P. Abbie investigated the accident and found that one of the wheels in the car had become wedged in the trolley rail in rounding the curve. This caused the driver to lose control. Ohlstein agreed to settle for the damage.

John Dowod of Manchester and John Peterson of 38 Jackson street this city were charged with violation of the fishing laws, before Justice of the Peace E. Grant Trowbridge, in Eastford town court Tuesday. Dowod was charged with fishing at Crystal Lake with three lines, two from the side of a boat and one with a pole. He pleaded guilty and was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $11.22. Deputy Fish and Game Warden John Brecka of Ashford was the complainant in both cases. Grand Juror Edward Green prosecuted.

NOANK

TRIED T LIFT 300 LB. GIRL BUT CROWELL FAILED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NOANK, Aug. 5.—Alfred Crowell has been rated Noank's strong man and in several cases won prizes and bets through his manager, Edward Moran. He had announced to lift a girl over 300 pounds, pick her up in his arms and, and signs were put around the village about the contest. Last evening at Groton Long Point a crowd went over to the board walk to watch him in action and to cheer him to victory. The event took place and in three lifts he failed to raise the girl. A large crowd of people watched the strong man work and cheered when he failed his friends lost a large sum of money on him. The girl is Annie Landy from Hartford who spends the summer at the Point. Crowell claims he will try it again later in the month and will train hard for it.

JEWETT CITY

HONEY BEES GET UP EARLY— NOT ON UNION HOURS

(Special to the Bulletin).

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 5—A local man reported this morning what he deemed to be a remarkable sight. The man has in his garden 60 hills of green corn just in full tassel. Going into his garden shortly after sunrise Thursday his attention was arrested by a humming sound. He found the new tassels of corn, literally swarming with honey bees. There were thousands of them he said, and knowing that there was no honey in a corn tassel he drew near, then to discover that each bee had two little yellowish bundles on each hind leg.

Curiosity caused him to report what he had seen to P. L. Kanahan, bee expert in Lisbon. The man learned that the thousands of busy workers he saw were collecting pollen from the corn tops, which was to be taken home, mixed with honey, and placed in the cells to feed the young bees.

Although the mercury reached the lower 80's Thursday, but with the humidity at normal, Jewett City people now fairly accustomed to 98, and 100 degrees, went about with high collars on, declaring that it was the finest day ever!

The big radio set at Carey's, where customers any day and evening are privileged to listen to what is going on, picked up the big air ship Los Angeles, broadcasting, as she rode over Newport, during the compass calibration tests, Wednesday afternoon. The orders were distinctly audible as the dirigible's engineers issued directions, to move 1,000 feet east and 500 south, southwest, during the Pricer Neck tests at Newport. The code communications and technical terms, although unintelligible, were of much interest, because of the peculiar wonder it caused as the listeners contemplated what things were going on, thousands of feet up in the blue.

The Quinebaug camps the hot sticky nights of late, have had their sleeping accommodations taxed to the limit. The site is ideal, and on the quiet cool banks of the upper river, there was comfort to be found, if anywhere. Wednesday night, at retiring hour, with the silver flirting in the nine stretch, the colony sought the downy with but little top layer.

Along toward morning, the freak temperature man did his stunt, and the mercury dropped to 65, with a sharp breeze coming into the camps, off the river to the west. Lights twinkled, matches sputtered, and 'tis said that the search for bed clothes, of late of little use, was something touching to see.

P. W. Chase is making arrangements with the state champion diver to appear at the water carnival. The date has not been set yet.

The change in weather from torrid heat to normal summer temperature came just in time to favor the merchants' half holiday Thursday. All sorts of amusement were on the calendars. Some tried the bass fishing, other went looking for a shore, while some enjoyed automobile trips along the country roads.

Miss Susie Armstrong arrived at her home Wednesday evening from Foo Chow, China. She has been teaching in the college there for five years, and has a year's leave of absence. She has brought many beautiful curios and souvenirs of the country, one room in the house being filled with them.

J. P. O'CONNELL COMING TO ADDRESS ROD & GUN CLUB

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 5—Secretary Harold E. Atwood of the Danielson Rod and Gun club, has sent all members notice of the coming here Tuesday evening of next week of Joseph P. O'Connell of Bristol, who is to address the club relative to the field day and outing of Connecticut Fish and Game clubs, to be held at Lake Compounce September 4. There will also be a showing of motion pictures dealing with fish and game life. The notice advised the members to "bring the ladies" to the meeting, which is to be held in the Majestic theatre.

NEW FIRE ALARM SOUNDS, BUT MERELY FOR A TEST

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 5—The new fire alarm horn, blown by compressed air on the roof of the Central Fire station, turned in its first alarm just before 10 o'clock Thursday night from Box 18, in the Riverview section. The alarm proved to be a test of the efficiency of the new apparatus and it happened to be working alone, as the siren on the Paco Manufacturing company plant is temporarily cut out. The horn blew the box perfectly and the firemen were quick to respond to the alarm. The recall was sounded with five minutes.

FREAKY STRANGER GOES THROUGH FROM NEW YORK

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 5—A bewhiskered individual, with a long black coat and of strange demeanor, started something up on the Providence highway beyond the end of Reynolds street Thursday morning when he stopped at a house and asked for a drink of water. He snatched for the water offered him by a housewife, guiped the most of it down at one swallow, then set the glass down on the doorstep and started to run. Out in the highway he hopped around like a fandango dancer and otherwise conducted himself in such a unusual manner that a telephone call was sent for the state police to check him up. An officer responded and found the strange one sitting on a wall reading a book. He explained in broken English, that he was a teacher, on his way from New York to Providence. That he might not be disappointed in his ambition to get over to the Rhode Island capital, the officer stayed about until the teacher of religion was safe aboard a bus, bound east.

Cut rate accident policies are being offered local people through a circularization system using the mails. The proposal comes from a company doing business in a middle western state. It so happens that Connecticut has some excellent insurance companies, offering attractive policies and with such substantial security back of them as it is safe to have in case an accident happens.

After a long illness Owen L. Lenehan, 30, died Thursday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lenehan, on the West Side. Mr. Lenehan had been confined to his bed since June 7. He was a native of Waterbury and lived there until big business moved to Danielson a few years ago. For a number of years he was employed here as a journeyman painter. Mr. Lenehan is survived by his parents and by a brother, Edward, resident in California.

Mrs. Georgianna Havens, 62, died Wednesday afternoon at her home in Brooklyn. Mrs. Havens had been an invalid the past four years. She was a native of Riverhead, L. I., born October 17, 1863, a daughter of Spafford and Mercy Raynor Edwards.

With her husband, Daniel Havens and members of their family, Mrs. Havens had lived on Long Island, as did generations of her people, until 15 years ago. Then the family moved to Brooklyn. Mrs. Havens leaves her husband and the following children: Leslie W. of Brooklyn, Mrs. Henry White, Athens N. Y.; Everett E. of Bethel, Conn.; Mrs. F. R. Perry of Jacobus, L. I.; Mrs. Arthur Young, Saco, Me.; Mrs. Wilbur P. Stacey, Merritt, L. I. She also leaves 15 grandchildren.

Distribution through the business section by the S. N. E. Telephone company Thursday of huge reels of cable forecasts an important replacement operation that is to be undertaken at once. The new cable is large than that in present use and will be run through underground conduits as does the cable it will supercede.

For the Thursday half-holiday the weather man provided a very comfortable period, and many were those who were thankful.

Major E. L. Darbie and the local headquarters detachment of special troops will return here Sunday on completing a 15 days' period of field service at Niantic.

Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Liner have returned from a motor trip on which they visited at Oak Bluffs, at Boston, Brookline and Hartford.

Among those mentioned as likely to receive a nomination for selectman at the Democratic caucus next month is A. E. Hall of South Killingly.

Incidentally, while he was in town Thursday, Patrick Riley, of Dayville, a former selectman, said he would not be a candidate for a nomination this year.

Arthur C. Stearns of Providence visited with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

Samuel Marchessault of Dayville is in Chicago for a visit with friends.

Members of Windham County Guernsey association made a trip to West Warwick, R. I., Thursday to visit Greyhedge farm and Quindesset farm. A shore dinner at Rocky Point was made a feature of the trip.

Included in the inventory of a stock recently sold at auction were two United States flags. Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, as trustee handling the sale, withdrew them and offered the inventory price of the flags to whoever might buy. "I have never sold a United States flag at auction," the sheriff remarked, "and I certainly am not going to begin today."

Berry pickers, driven out of the fields by the intense heat of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday were back on the job Thursday. Berries have ripened slowly this season, but are plentiful right now. As a North Sterling correspondent has pointed out, many farmers are posting their berry fields against trespassers, for the berry pickers are as numerous as the berries.

At Dayville, while work is being done on a bulkhead, the plant of the Assawaga company is closed for a few days.

A line of 4-inch main is being taken out by the Crystal Water company in Academy street that it may be replaced by a new 10-inch main. The undertaking will be complete in another week.

Miss Mayme Dunn has returned from a vacation spent in New Hampshire.

Luther Pilling, Miss Emma P. Pilling, Mrs. A. H. Armington and George Wilson are on a motor trip to Montreal.

So many solicitors for various purposes have appeared in Danielson of late, that there are those who have cogs to question by what authority they canvass, as the state has strict regulations as to this. Of late the demand has been for contributions of money.

Miss Eliza and Miss Rose L'Heureux are visiting in Stoneham, Mass.

Mrs. Theodore E. Hammett and son, Francis, have gone to Northfield for a visit.

Rev. and Mrs. Roger C. Stimson and daughter, Nancy, have returned from a vacation spent in Maine.

The Greene, R. I., camp meeting, now open, will continue until August 8. There will be an attendance from this territory on Sunday.

Antonio Lomgo, recent graduate of Connecticut Agricultural college, at Storrs and a powerful linesman on the football team, has set out to organize a football team here and the first practice will be held next Monday evening, that the squad may get into condition by early fall. There are from 15 to 20 candidates for the team, mostly former college or high school players and they should develop into a nifty team.

Brooklyn people are interested in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Marion H. Pike to Arnold P. Brown, of Boston.

The registrars of the town of Killingly are to be in session Saturday for the purpose of perfecting an enrollment of voters and will again be in session on Friday of next week.

Samuel A. Dinsmore of Bridgeport is in town to spend the week end with friends.

At St. Francis hospital in Providence, where she recently underwent a surgical operation, Miss Dora Varieur is improving.

Donald Field of Rochester, N. Y., is visiting Dayville relatives.

PUTNAM

OTTO E. WULF RETIRING FROM FIRM OF BUGBEE & WULF

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 5.—Ralph X. Bugbee and Otto E. Wulf, owners of the department store of Bugbee and Wulf, have dissolved partnership, Mr. Wulf retiring. The notice of dissolution will be published tomorrow.

Byron D. Bugbee founded the store more than 35 years ago. Some six years ago he sold it to his son and Mr. Wulf; the latter at that time lived in Norwich. Neither Mr. Bugbee nor Mr. Wulf was here to be questioned today, as the stores are closed in the afternoon, so no statement could be secured from them.

GOLF CLUB IMPROVEMENTS PLEASING TO MEMBERS

PUTNAM, Aug. 5.—When improvements at the Putnam Country club are completed, the local golf course will, in the opinion of experts, be the equal of any course in the state, unless it be one of the richly endowed clubs.

At the meeting of the board of governors recently, it was announced that every one of the $5,000 bonds has been sold and that double that amount could have been disposed of. They are 20-year bonds, bearing six per cent interest. The issue was oversubscribed without personal solicitation on the part of any one.

Of the $5,000, about $3,500 will be used for laying of pipes for the watering of the greens. A motor-driven pump supplies water to a pressure tank of 1,000 gallons capacity and from this tank two inch pipes are being laid to every green. A hose is to be attached to each service pipe at every green and by this means the grass can be kept in perfect condition, regardless of the irregularity of the rainfalls. Several hundred feet of pipe have been laid from the river to reach the greens with a shut off valve at each green.

The greater part of the remainder of the money is to go to the improvement of some of the fairways where the grass has not been growing as well as could be desired and to provide grass tees instead of clay ones. With all of these improvements made, the Putnam Country club will have a course to be proud of.

The membership has been steadily increasing as well as the number of players. The links are thronged almost any fair day and even on some days that are not fair or ideal for golfing. Several days this week, with the temperature up and the humidity hovering around the century mark, the grounds were well dotted with enthusiastic sharks—and they must have been enthusiastic!

Misses Katherine and Rachael Brady entertained Frank McGlynn who played the title roel in Abraham Lincoln at Chautauqua last week. William Brady, brother of the Misses Brady played in the cast of Abraham Lincoln with Mr. McGlynn when the play was having its long run in the first class theaters of the country.

Victor Chapdelaine, mayor of the city of Putnam, is spending the summer at his cottage at Oakland Beach with his family, but came to Putnam this week to preside at the August meeting of the city fathers.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Elsie Della Norcross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Z. Norcross, former residents of Pomfret and Kenneth Hammond Ramsdell of Somerville, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bonneville and daughters, Misses Claire and Cecelia have returned from an automobile trip to Montreal, Sherbrooke and other places in Canada, also through New York state.

Henry Brousseau of Watertown, Mass., is spending this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Brousseau of Wilkinson street.

William E. Rogers has purchased a six-room bungalow on Vandale street from the Child Lumber company. He expects to move to it about the first of September.

It was believed that the curtailing of train service between Putnam and Willimantic would insure sufficient patronage to justify the daily three hour bus service, but the results proved otherwise. There was a fair number of passengers between Putnam and Pomfret but very little between Pomfret and Willimantic. Those who used this service were well satisfied. The cars were big and comfortable, the hours were convenient, but with an automobile owned by every group of eight in the state, the most of the trips were made in that way. Pomfret people were beginning to like and make use of the bus service but they will now have to adopt other means of transportation.

About 40 members of Putnam lodge of Elks attended the clam bake at Chop Mist Hill, R. I., Thursday. The bake was held under the auspices of the Providence lodge of Elks.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will hold his clinic at the Day Kimball hospital Friday afternoon, August 13. Dr. Campbell usually makes his visits at the hospital Tuesday but this time is coming Friday.

Captain of Police and Mrs. Jarvis are home, having spent two weeks on a motor trip through Canada and the White Mountains.

Robert Laird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laird of School street is visiting relatives at New Bedford, Mass.

Delbert Perrin of Providence, a former resident of Putnam, has been the ercent guest of Marry E. Morese of School street.

Postmaster and Mrs. Archie Macdonald have gone to visit relatives and friends at Sidney, Nova Scotia and adjacent points.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitman and son George, Mr. and Mrs. George Laird and Philip Wheaton are on a motor trip through New York state.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Bennett and children of Mansfield, Ohio, are the guests of Mr. Bennett's mother and sister, Mrs. D. M. Bennett and Miss Grace Bennett of Oak Hill.

Miss Cora Duffey of Philadelphia is the guest of her brother, Edward Scott Duffey and family on School street.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin S. Greene and Mr. and Mrs. Gerige Tefft and daughter Adeline, have returned from an outing at Charlton Beach.

George Lewis of the Bugbee and Wulf shoe department is having two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Abbie Quinn of Philadelphia has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Nora Burrill, at East Putnam.

Miss Alta Hawkins and Miss Emily Steers have been visitors at Providence.

Mrs. Mary Cutler, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hawkins, has returned to her home at Brockton, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rich, who are spending the summer at their cottage at Quonochontaug, R. I., have been at their home in the city for a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Kent have been attending camp meeting at Palmer, Mass.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

FARM PRODUCTION ABOUT AVERAGE

ture, according to its August report on production of major food or feed crops this year, partly as a result of unfavorable weather, is seen by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Indications are for a corn crop the agricultural situation.

Indications are for a corn crop probably somewhat below last year's, and below average, the report says. The same is true of hay and oats. The total wheat crop also is apparently below average. Even potatoes, contrary to all the predictions of overproduction, were increased only 2 per cent in agreage this season, and must do very well to make an average total crop. Latest forecasts on cotton, however, indicate a probable crop of more than 15,000,000 bales, which might make supplies burdensome.

"One of the most significant effects of this season's developments," the department says, "is likely to be in the Corn Belt. A corn crop above average or slightly less will almost certainly be followed by a readjustment in the familiar balance between corn and hogs. If history repeats, pig production will be increased and the relative price effect next year will be in the direction of lower hogs and higher corn.

It is precisely in such cases where future developments can be fairly well foreseen that farmers can exert some stabilizing influence upon production."

The report states that the livestock industries are in general "in relatively strong position," adding that they "may continue so for some time if production is not overdone. The sheep industry has enjoyed prosperity, but continued expansion as indicated by a 10 per cent increase in lamb production over 1925 raises a question as to the probable limits to which sheep production can be increased with profit."

SEEKING BLIGHT-RESISTANT CHESTNUT

The widespread destruction of chestnut in the United States by the chestnut blight has stimulated efforts to find blight-resistant species, both native and foreign, for partially replacing the rapidly disappearing stands of chestnut timber.

The numerous commercial uses to which the native chestnut is put, says the United States Department of Agriculture, makes it very difficult to find a tree that will adequately take its place. Great interest has developed in substitutes for our native chestnut that may prove blight-resistant and be utilized in breeding work, looking to the supplying of timber, tannin, and food.

Representatives of the department have searched for blight-resistant species of chestnut in China, Japan, Siam, India, and other foreign countries. Department Circular 383-C, "The Search in Foreign Countries for Blight Resistant Chestnuts and Related Tree Crops," has been issued by the department to make available data bearing on the species of chestnut or related trees already introduced or that may be introduced with a view to clearing up any misunderstanding as to the real merits of previous introductions.

The bulletin gives considerable information concerning foreign species of chestnuts and related trees and calls attention to possible breeding experiments with introduced species. A copy of the new publication may be obtained free, as long as the supply lasts, by writing to the United States department of agricultural, Washington, D. C.

HOUSING PULLETS FOR WINTER

It is none too early to talk about housing pullets for winter on the average form. The pullet eggs usually begin to appear before they are expected and, although scratch grain is increased, whole corn added to the mixture, and some corn meal is added to the mash, it is impossible to convince the pullets that they should keep on growing rather than maturing for production. Pullets will usually lay larger eggs, lay heavier, and continue to lay longer if housed in winter quarters soon after production starts. This is probably due very largely to the fact that pullets kept in confinement have ample opportunity to get at feed and water at any time of day, whereas the pullets on range are travelling over a large area and picking up feed that may be just as palatable and just as satisfying to them, but which does not contain as much actual food value. Better results can be obtained if the pullets are segregated according to maturity and housed as they start to lay, rather than attempting to house all of any particular flock or brood at one time.

The popular way of managing room for early-hatched pullets on a great many poultry farms is to build a new house each season.

This plan works out splendidly but cannot be continued indefinitely. Rigid culling of the old hens is often required in order to make a place available as rapidly as possible. The poultryman is placed in a position where he wishes "to eat his cake and have it, too". This emergency can be taken care of by temporary roosting houses or by practicing what is termed as "The Barracks System" which involves a combination house used for early brooding, finishing broilers, and transferring hens which are not to be carried over as breeders.

HIGH JUNE EGG PRODUCTION

The average production for the seventh Connecticut home egg-laying contest for the month of June, 1926, is 15.60 eggs per bird. This is a drop of .31 eggs per bird as compared to May, which was 17.91 eggs. The June production is 2.40 eggs per bird below the standard, which is 18 eggs. It is however, the highest June production that has ever been attained, the next best being 15.30 eggs per bird in June, 1924.

This month the backyard flocks are leading the flock classifications with Little likelihood of more than average flocks are a close second with 15.80 eggs per bird; while the farm flocks are third with 15.33 eggs per bird.

ROCKVILLE

Rev. Jay W. Crofoot, a Seventh Day Baptist missionary from Shanghai, China, who is home on a furlong, spoke in the S. D. B. church here Saturday morning.

Mrs. Elmer E. Kenyon returned home last week from the Rhode Island hospital. She was conveyed in the Westerly ambulance.

Mrs. Harry D. Lewis and infant son, came from the Westerly hospital last week and are at the home of the former's parents at Woodruff.

Mrs. Alice Whitten or Utica, N. Y., has returned to the home of her brother, Clarence Beebe, near Westerly after being the guest of Miss Lena Saunders for ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burdick of Providence, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kenyon for a few days.

Mrs. Lydia Church and Mrs. Phebe J. Crandall are reported ill.

Two hundred and eighty-nine Boy Scouts were at the Scout farm last week and over two hundred this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Smith, were callers at Kenyon farm, Sunday.

MINISTER'S HANDIWORK STARTED BEE INDUSTRY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5—(AP)—The man whose inventions are credited by beekeepers with having revolutionized the industry was taught and became a Congregational minister.

He abandoned the pulpit, his life's work, for beekeeping. He died at the age of eighty-five, obscure and virtually penniless.

Little known incidents in the life of the Rev. L. L. Langstroth, whom his biographer asserts made possible the commercial apiary industry of today, are being brought to light as preparations go forward for a memorial in his honor at Medina, O., September 21.

Perfected Movable Frames

Miss Florence Naile, secretary of the Ohio Beekeepers' association, is in possession of rare, original records of Langstroth's career. According to her, his principal invention was the movable frame for hives, which he brought out in 1851. That gave the beekeeper absolute control of his insects, a thing never before possible.

Up to that time, when it was necessary to take honey from the hive, the bees were smoked out, and most of them killed in the process. With Langstroth's invention, all that was necessary was to lift out the frames, made in sections.

Enlarged "Bee Space"

Langstroth discovered the "Bee space"—he learned that bees would not deposit propolis in a space approximately three-eighths of an inch in width—and his frames were based on that principal. Before that time, the bees had deposited their secretions, sealing tightly the hive.

He also either helped or himself introduced into this country the Italian bees, which, she said, were far superior to the German black bees, or common bees, here up to that time.

A Cornell Scholarship

The gathering at the memorial also will mark the completion of the first year of a national campaign to establish a Langstroth memorial section in the library at Cornell university, which has the only graduate school of beekeeping in the world. Eventually, if funds permit, a Langstroth fellowship also will be established there.

Langstroth is said to have written the first text-book on beekeeping in this country, in 1853.

ACTRESSES BARRED FROM COURT PRESENTATIONS

LONDON, Aug. 5—(AP)—Lillah McCarthy's presentation to King George and Queen Mary at one of the recent courts has revived the old discussion as to whether actresses are welcome in royal circles.

Miss McCarthy is now Lady Keble, the wife of Sir Frederick Keble, an Oxford don. She formerly was the wife of Granville Barker, the actor-manager, whom she divorced eight years ago.

In semi-official circles it has been explained that Lady Keble no longer is professionally on the stage and as the wife of a distinguished educator is entitled to recognition at the court.

The policy of the court officials, apparently, is not to have actresses presented when they are still actively engaged in stage work.

Scores of actresses have been received at court after their marriages to men whose position entitled them to recognition, but only after they had given up their stage careers.

One young actress whose family position entitled her to be presented at court, and who did not understand fully the attitude of the court toward the sage, was presented many years ago and appeared on the stage immediately afterward.

Court officials, it has been explained, did not know the young woman was professionaly on the stage and were embarrassed by the incident.

NEW HOUSEKEEPER FOR PRESIDENT VERSATILE

IPWICH, Mass., Aug. 5—(AP)—"Fried Clams like mother made" may be part of the menu of President Coolidge's family with the advent of Miss Ellen Riley as housekeeper.

While her duties are not directly with the preparation of food, Miss Riley, in twenty years residence in Ipswich, has acquired an expert knowledge of the preparation or clams, for Ipswich is noted for its dunes and its clams. She has a preference for the clams as prepared by her mother.

Lover of Outdoors

Although her father, William J. Riley, is secretary of the Ipswich chamber of commerce, Miss Riley is so averse to publicity that as soon as she learned that she was likely to receive the appointment as housekeeper for the Coolidge family, she carefully hid her only photograph and declined to tell reporters anything about herself.

Among her friends this unassuming woman, who is tall, sturdily built and has black hair and grey eyes, is known as quiet, genial and efficient, a lover of the outdoors and of animals and an accomplished pianist and singer. Walking in her principal recreation.

Trained As Dietitian

Miss Riley was trained for the work of a dietitian at the Women's Educational and Industrial Union in Boston. At different times during the World war she was in charge of government canteens and cafeterias at Princeton and Hampton Roads. For the last seven years she has managed the employes' restaurant of R. H. Stearns and company, the Boston department store with which Frank W. Stearns, close friend of President Coolidge, is connected.

She has always assisted in the household work but has left most of the cooking to her mother. She has not had her hair bobbed. She does not dance.

Keeps Old Hat

For years her favorite companion on her hikes was an Irish terrier which she had raised from a puppy.

"She was broken up when that terrier died," said her father. "That is, he didn't up and die. He was too old and one day I took him along with me and never brought him back."

REPUBLICAN ECONOMY

In the attempt to minimize the advantage accruing to the republican party by its handling of national finances, the publicity bureau of the democratic national committee has issued a statement pointing out federal government costs for the year ending June 30, 1926 and the appropriations by the last session of congress. Based on these figures the wail is made that Coolidge economy is no economy.

According to this statement the cost of the federal government is given as $56,541,427 more than a year ago, and the congressional appropriations $470,856,651.15 more than the previous year. These figures, the democratic statement declares, are taken from reports made by Chairman Warren of the senate appropriations committee and Representative Madden, who heads the house appropriation committee both staunch republicans.

The truth of the matter is that these bald figures of expenditures and appropriations, so gleefully emphasized by the democrats, fail to present a correct picture. No mention is made of the fact that taxes were reduced by the republican congress, acting at the behest of President Coolidge, to the tune of nearly $400,000,000 a year. Nor is it mentioned that President Coolidge insisted upon having some $300,000,000 of surplus revenues applied to the retirement of the national debt when the democrats strongly urged that this sum be used for other purposes and for the further reduction of taxes. Neither is mention made of the notable achievement of the administration when some $400,000,000 of short term certificates were retired by the government out of surplus revenues and no new issues were made to take their place.

The cost of government is on the increase in this country, due to the expansion of the government to meet the needs of the people.

What of the increases required for the air service? What of the increases needed for the more adequate pay of postal employes and others? No mention is made of such matters by democrats seeking to discredit Coolidge economy. Nor in discussing the appropriations do they speak of the fact for the first time in 15 years a public buildings bill was put through by congress authorizing the appropriation of $165,000,000. Such little things are airy trifles.

The truth of the matter is that under the direction of President Coolidge a record for economy and efficient handling of the country's financial obligations has been made that has not been equalled for many, many years, if ever before in this country.

NEW STATUTES FOR OLD

It is a novel suggestion that is made by Herman L. Ekern, attorney general of Wisconsin, who is seeking the republican nomination for governor in that state. Taking account of the healthy public sentiment against overlegislation and unnecessary governmental meddling in private and business affairs, he is advocating on the stump "a requirement that a law shall be wiped out for every new law that is enacted." That simple rule, he says, would put an end to the piling up of useless or vicious statutes.

The rule is simple enough, no doubt indeed, it is too simple, because, unfortunately, the problem with which it deals is complex, and requires more complex solutions. A legislature might repeal as many measures as it enacts without in the least improving the situation complained of by the opponents of over legislation. The statutes repealed might be obsolete and futile, while those enacted in their places might be detrimental and unjust.

A far sounder proposal by Mr. Ekern is that the next governor of Wisconsin recommend an examination of the statute books and a careful listing of the laws that work harm and ought to be repealed. From such a study real good should result.

In addition to repealing all unnecessary and injurious statutes, Wisconsin and the other states need a self-denying policy in respect of future legislation, a policy of opposition to all hasty, ill-considered, emotional and tyrannical statutes not backed by enlightened public opinion and responsive to present conditions and present problems.

ADOPTING AMERICAN IDEAS

Some time ago a distinguished old-world economist declared in a lecture in an American university that what most impressed him in this country was the wide use of credit, particularly as exemplified in the instalment plan of payments for articles of comfort and necessity. America, he said, having already taught Europe mass production, standardization, elimination of waste, utilization of by-products, shop and factory organization on an efficient basis, was engaged in teaching Europe the art of safely expanding credit to consumers and thus finding broader markets for commodities.

A New York business man, recently returned from Europe, said in an interview that the American plan of selling on credit and collecting by instalments was working in the countries he visited and on a constantly enlarging scale. A few years ago European business men gave a dozen reasons why selling on credit could not succeed in the old world. Now they know better.

It is extension of credit, for example, that accounts for the growing use of motor cars in Europe. Before the world war the automobile was a luxury to Europeans—a rich man's toy. Now it is generally employed. Europeans are also learning to use the radio and the mechanical piano, very commonly paying for them on the instalment plan.

The old idea that quantity production and standardization are inimical to quality and to culture still may be encountered in European academic writing, but European manufacturers, merchants, engineers and financiers are rapidly abandoning that idea. They perceive that improvement in the people's tastes and standards of living and the wide employment of conveniences cannot fail to promote culture. Better homes, more beauty in them, better roads, larger publics for the articles that make life pleasant and save time and labor most certainly cannot be morally or intellectually detrimental. Thus the Americanization of Europe is synonymous with the diffusion of civilization in Europe.

OUTLOOK FOR BUSINESS

A bulling stock market which began last week and has been continued through this week carried the price average of both rail and industrial issues to within speaking distance of the highest figures of the year. In other words on the basis of average prices, the stock market has practically recovered the severe losses of last spring which in most circles were believed to be the beginning of a long decline. The extent of the recovery, however, is not fully reflected by the recent average prices; it is better accomplished by the character of the buying which has resulted in the higher prices for all time for two well known market leaders and the highest values in recent years for the best grade of investment railroads. Aside from spectacular interest, the stock market of late has been characterized by the confident buying which in the past has almost invariably preceded an active period of trade.

Two financial agencies see signs of business improvement. Active buying of winter wheat has speeded up in the wheat states, reports one well known agency, which also says that the steel business is better and that automobile manufacturers are increasing their output. Raw cotton and cotton manufactures have apparently reached the end of the long decline and the cotton industry is more cheerful. Conditions are the brightest of the year. Bank clearings last week were practically on a parity with a year ago and time money rates are slightly easier.

In its monthly letter the National City Bank of New York says: "The spread of business during the summer months has continued even the pessimistic circles that 1926 is destined to be another record year. The crops are now moving forward the beginning the culmination of their capabilities sometime in 1927. The political season did not come in the spring, the mid-summer decline has [illegible] and now all signs point to a large volume of business in the fall."

A NEW WAR LORD

Some one rate, Europe may be going to give more attention to General Von Seeckt, chief of the German military staff. He is busy building up an ideal army. The Von Seeckt idea is to have every soldier in the small army trained competent to command a regiment or at least a battalion. He will have extensive maneuvres at Wurtemberg in September and he is the proud and adored darling of the old Prussian war machine. He carries out its traditions both in letter and in spirit. Outside of Germany little is known about him, but inside the German frontiers his powers are well understood. The inter-allied control commission supposed to be watching German armaments and military moves, seems to be paying less attention to this new war lord than he may deserve. With millions of rifles in the hands of opposing republican and monarchist semi-military elements, something rather disquieting could happen in Germany if a man such as Von Seeckt wanted it to happen. It might be well for some of the allies to pay a little less attention to war-debt protests and a little more to General Von Seeckt and that perfect army of his.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Summer White Houses may be all right but there is nothing like the old Vermont home.

The man on the corner says: About the only American who could expect an ovation in Europe now would be a movie star.

Much of the difficulty that arises between church and government is caused by people who have little respect for either.

British miners are coming to America to ask help in winning their strike but will probably pass up the coal consuming public.

Not that Chile wants a plebiscite on the Tacna-Arica question but it just won't stand for anyone saying that it shan't have one.

Johndee's grandsons give away more money in tips than he does, which is the logical thing to be expected of the third generation.

The warden of a Chicago jail resigned, probably to look for a job in the zoo, where all the custom favors keeping the wild animals inside.

The United States now has an anti-rum treaty with Great Britain which will compel the British rum trade to begin bootlegging before it ships the stuff across.

Farmers have complained since the first field was plowed. The complaint does not end until the farmer changes his title and becomes a great agricultural land holder.

A prominent Illinois campaign contributor gave money to primary candidates in both parties, which is one of the world's best methods of being right, anyhow or somehow.

CHASING THE GLOOMS

"I think," announced Annette, "that I am going to be a color psychologist."

"Sounds mysterious. What do you do with it?" begged Geraldine. "Also why?"

"The 'why' is easier to answer," Annette laughed, dipping into her ice cream. "Remember I told you three weeks ago that my new job could be as temporary as it pleased? Of all the gloomy places! Why, when I first stepped into that office I felt like I was entering a handsome undertaking office. And say, when I saw the boss I wanted to weep! He had a face as long as last years income-tax blank. And as solemn. I expected him to break out with a funeral march any minute.

"Well, I figured I'd take the place for a few weeks anyhow, till I solved the mystery of the awful gloom that hung over all, as the novelists say. Then me for some place where I could burst out laughing once in a while, providing I didn't forget how to crack a smile by that time.

"At first I thought it was just my imagination, but it seemed that every one who came in subsided right away. Even the office boy whistled things like Those Awful Blues and You Stole the Sunshine."

"What a cheerful atmosphere," giggled Geraldine.

"Wasn't it? The first thing I knew I was breathing softly and wearing black dresses. Sort of dignified, you know. And then last week the boss left for a short trip, and who should come along without a minute's notice but the decorators!

"Of course they were in a terrible rush—"

"They always are," murmured Geraldine. "I suppose they have to be, so as not to give the lady of the house a chance to change her mind about the color scheme."

"Well, anyway, they wouldn't wait for the boss to get back. It was a case of now or never, so yours truly had to choose the paint and everything. I'm the only girl in the office, so it naturally fell to me.

"'What's this place?' one of the painters asked me, gazing around. 'A morgue? Don't you ever get no sunshine here a-tall?'

"'Can't very well?' I told him. 'Inner office, you see.'

"'Gosh! Then you oughta put some decent color on them walls. You'll all be dying of the melancholy pretty soon if you don't,' he warned me.

"So we went ahead and picked out a beautiful soft yellow, with a stencil border of bright blue. Say, Geraldine you should've seen the difference! I didn't know the place myself. Of course the old heavy purple drapes didn't fit in at all. And I didn't dare go to a lot of expense for new ones.

"But I had to have something. So I lined me to the store and bought a supply of cornflower-blue voile and I made it up into curtains. You've no idea how lovely voile looks when it hangs in those soft folds.

"I was afraid to buy anything more. You know how a man is. If he wants it gloomy he wants it. And Mr. Hayden is one of those elderly conservative gentlemen who wear their glasses on black cords and wouldn't dream of going to a directors' meeting without a pearl-gray vest and gray spats.

"But I had to have some flowers in the office. So I just took one of our pretty bowls from home—a darling gold-looking thing with cunning handles. And a few sprays of pinks that I found living about the house. That was the morning of Mr. Hayden's return."

"What did he say?" asked Geraldine gathering up her gloves. "Was he angry?"

"Angry? Say, he looked completely knocked out for a minute. And then he grinned—a great big grin that took in everybody—the office boy, the bookkeeper, the bill clerk and me! And he's been that way ever since. That's what a change of color'll do for you," finished Annette, as she rose.

"I'll try that out myself," Geraldine laughed as they left the lunchroom. "But I'll begin on little me. I saw a wonderful red silk blouse in Plain's—"

"Let's go!" Annette seized her arm. "I need a few shrieking dresses myself."—Exchange.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Moosup Pond.

During the present summer several local parties have enjoyed picnics at Moosup pond and this place is rapidly growing to be a popular pleasure place for people living within miles of the pond. At the pond are ample facilities for swimming and sports and nearby is an ideal grove where parties may enjoy their basket luncheons.

Another beauty of the ride is that the entire trip takes less than three hours for going and return home and practically the entire distance is over improved state highways.

Leaving Norwich two ways are open to proceed to Central Village, Route No. 12, directly to Jewett City, or the Newent road into Jewett City. From it is point on Route No. 12 is the best (one section at Bishop's Crossing where the overhead bridge is being constructed, being the only poor section of the road, this for a very short distance only), this bringing the party into Central Village, where a right turn carries the party to Moosup. Continuing out Route No. 12 to a point about a half mile beyond the turn in Moosup, a left hand turn carries one past Almyville and to a cross road which runs along the south shore of Moosup pond, the pond being visible when the turn left is made.

The entire trip covers a mileage of only about 50 miles.

Stories That Recall Others

Wanted to See Action

At this home an unusual number of callers had come to the door one afternoon, most of them agents. The door bell rang again.

"Where's a gun? I'll shoot him," Mrs. X exclaimed in desperation.

"Use a shotgun, mother," the elder son suggested.

"So we went ahead and picked out a beautiful soft yellow, with a stencil border of bright blue. Say, Geraldine you should've seen the difference! I didn't know the place myself. Of course the old heavy purple drapes didn't fit in at all. And I didn't dare go to a lot of expense for new ones.

Mrs. X, however, talked quite mildly and in an interested fashion when she opened the door. After she had turned the caller away and closed the door, the youngest son, who had been watching with a good deal of interest said:

"Why, mother, you didn't shoot him at all."

Definitions Don't Count

A certain girl who permitted attention by a very affable young man who she suspected of imbibing too freely at times, had been told that persons who had "one drink too many" were unable to pronounce resonant sounding words distinctly.

On this particular evening she decided to make the test, and when her friend called asked him to pronounce "sesquicentennial."

The young man, ignorant of the purpose, but willing to oblige, moved his lips silently in a struggle to form the word and then quietly said:

"One hundred fifty."

The girl is still wondering whether the test was satisfactory.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

It is an unusual and interesting mission on which Dr. William W. Peet has sailed from New York for Athens. He goes to the Greek capital in the capacity of an Ambassador of Good-Will under appointment by the federal council of the churches of Christ in America for the purpose of promoting mutual understanding between American and eastern churches. This is to be the first step toward a possible formation of a world council of Christian churches. No one better qualified than Dr. Peet could have been chosen for this delicate mission. For many years he has been the fiscal agent of the large American missionary and educational interests within the Ottoman empire. Upon his counsel and discretion the administrators of the missionary boards in the United States have relied for decision as to policies, and to him for guidance have gone successive diplomatic representatives of many nations.

PARADISI GLORIA

There is a city, builded by no hand,
And unapproachable by sea or shore,
And unassailable by any band
Of storming soldiery forevermore.
There we no longer shall divide our time
By acts or pleasures—doing petty things
Of work or warfare, merchandise or rhyme;
But we shall sit beside the silver springs
That flow from God's own footstool, and behold
Sages and martyrs, and those blessed few
Who loved us once and were beloved of old,
To dwell with them and walk with them anew,
In alternations of sublime repose,
Musical motion, the perpetual play
Of every faculty that Heaven bestows
Through the bright, busy, and eternal day.

Little Talks on Thrift

"Opportunities are more powerful than conquerors and prophets," wrote an old philosopher, and he might have added that most opportunities come as the result of thrift.

"I have a fine opportunity offered to me for bettering my conditions in life but cannot take advantage of it because I have no money saved up." How often have we heard this sentiment expressed by those who all too late have seen some golden opportunity pass out of their lives because they were not able to take advantage of it.

A few hundred dollars laid away in the bank or safely invested often has meant the turning point in the life of many a man and woman.

One of the greatest values in saving money lies in the fact that our savings often constitute opportunities for enlarged activities and more successful employment of our time.

Disraeli said, "The greatest secret of success in life is to be ready when your opportunity comes."

To those who are drifting along from day to day without getting ahead and apparently are making no effort to do so, this advice should come with special force.

Money should not be saved merely with the object of being ready for some great opportunity in life, but we should not forget that without saving and getting ahead there will never be opportunity for any material progress.

It also is to be borne in mind that opportunities for great self-advancement often come to those who, because of their thrifty habits, have gained the good will and confidence of some person who is in a position greatly to advance their interests.

Thrift and opportunity are always on friendly terms.

MAKE CHRIST'S SPIRIT DOMINANT IN CHURCHES

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, August 5—"The cure for rampant, wasteful sectarianism does not at present seem to lie in the direction of some uniform creed, worship or government," declared the Rev Dr. L. H. Dorchester, president of the Connecticut Federation of Churches, in his talk on "The Future of the Country Church" which was delivered here today as a part of the community program of Farmers' Week. "Rather we are to seek to make Christs spirit dominant in all our churches; to be cosmopolitan Christian. Every church and every member should be as big and broad as Christ, which will lead us to make less and less of our sects and more and more of the Master.

"When we enthrone His spirit, without which we are none of his we can loosen our bonds, lengthen and broaden, we shall cultivate tolerance of differences, and fellowship in worship and service. Unity in unity is to be excommunicated, let it be on the ground adopted by a certain Georgia Baptist synod, not for failure to subscribe to some sectarian creed, but for failure to show the spirit of Christ and practice the Golden Rule.

"Surely we must not forget that we do not all see and believe alike in politics or business or religion, and it is nature' with all such varying tastes to have certain church preferences. Hence we are not to expect, in our day at least, all sects done away with and all Church people brought together in one great inclusive church.

"The future of the country church, like the farm or the child, is wrapped up in the present and is also conditioned somewhat by the past. Whatever form the future church may take it should always provide for the community religious nature and ideals.

"The church is not a changeless ecclesiastical institution but a growing organism. Consequently, while its attention will always be the same its form and method will necessarily vary from time to time. It must needs adapt itself to its changing environment if it would be effective in its religious ministrations.

"The United States census shows that we have in this country 138 different religious sects, among which are seventeen varieties of Methodists, seventy-one branches of Lutherans, fourteen branches of Baptists including such refinements as "The Old-Two-Seed-in-the-Spirit Presbyterian Baptists and another called "The Duck River Baptists." Now whatever good may have been done by the different denominations during the past 400 years, it is evident that our multiple church divisions today do not make a favorable Christian impression. Nor do they make for the highest efficiency in many a place where there are more churches than the population can support, and where many a struggling church strains every just to keep its seat alive in the village, to the neglect of the unseemly rivalries and bickerings engendered.

"Today in many a country town our churches working separately lamentably fail to accomplish what they should. A recent investigation shows that the villages of the United States have more ministers per capita than the cities, and that there are more clergymen in the villages than professional men of any other class. Why should a thousand men, women and children require three, four or five ministers, and only one doctor and one lawyer?

"The time has arrived to bring home to our individual towns and churches the question—'Is my church needed to advance God's kingdom: in my town?' Could all the people be served as well or even better if some of our churches united or became federated? What beneficent service could we render our town if we came together, which we now fail to render because our churches are too numerous and live too much apart?

Dr. Dorchester gave examples of the practical benefits in communities of Connecticut from the Federation of Churches operating in more than a dozen localities. In this direction the church of the future must move if it is to render the service which the community has a right to expect, he said.

WEDDINGS

Jerome-Ungerer

A pretty wedding took place Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ungerer of Uncasville when their daughter Irene became the bride of Benjamin S. Jerome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jerome.

The bride was gowned in white crepe and bridal veil. Miss Margaret Ungerer, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a gown of pink taffeta. Herman Ungerer, broth of the bride, was best man. The Rev. Charles Smith performed the ceremony on the lawn under an arch of wild flowers, asparagus and smilax.

The bride is a graduate of Williams Memorial institute, class of 1926. The groom is a graduate of Chapman Technical high school, class of 1918. After a brief wedding tour they will be at home to their friends in their new home in Waterford.

Buchanan-Tonon

The marriage of John MacDougall Buchanan of this city and Miss Emma Mary Tonon, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Tonon of Stafford Springs, took place at 5:30 on the afternoon of July 24 at Essex, this state, the ceremony being performed by Rev. B. C. Chandler at the rectory. Attending the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Suesamuth of New London. The groom is the son of Mrs. Sara MacDougall Buchanan of 156 Laurel Hill avenue and is employed at the Connecticut Machinery and Sales Co., of this city.

The bridal couple have returned from a honeymoon trip to Atlantic City and are residing at the groom's home on Laurel Hill avenue.

Viggers played the wedding march. Miss Viola Figgie was maid of honor and Harry Gilligan was best man. The couple will spend their honeymoon at the beaches near Boston. Mr. Barrett is employed with the local Westinghouse factory.

OBITUARY.

Harris Aaronson.

The death of Harris Aaronson of New York occurred Thursday morning at Preston City where he had been staying for the past several months. Mr. Aaronson had not been in good health for some time and began to fail rapidly several days ago.

The body was taken in charge by Hourigan Brothers and on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock was sent from New London by train to New York. Burial is to be in that city where Mr Aaronson is survived by his wife and several children.

ZENS TO HAVE PICNIC AT LAKE

Members of the former Xens society of the First Baptist church, are to have a reunion today (Friday) when a picnic is to be held at Gardner Lake. The members will leave in the morning and remain at the lake for the day. Basket lunches will be enjoyed as well as boating and swimming at the lake. Over a score of the former members are expected to attend the reunoin.

NORWICH PEOPLE ON TRIP TO CANADA

Mrs. Harry Ford, Mrs. J. H. Ford and Mrs. James Fitzpatrick of Norwich and Mrs. John Fitzpatrick of Hartford are on an automobile trip to Canada, where several days will be spent. Several stops will be made en route to view the beautiful scenery and interesting spots for which New England is noted.

Preston Bridge Caught Fire.

At 4.30 oclock Thursday afternoon a call was sent in to the fire department for a small fire in the planking at Preston bridge. Squad A responded and the blaze was extinguished by chemicals, practically no damage having been done to the bridge.

EXPECT TO COMPLETE BOSWELL AVE. IMPROVEMENT BY SEPT. 1

The Boswell avenue improvement is going ahead by leaps and bounds and Street Commissioner John C. Donovan said Thursday night that he expects to have the new macadam street laid and opened to traffic by September 1st. An appropriation of $35,000 was voted by the annual city meeting last June to lay macadam on this street from Franklin street to Hickory street.

Work on the street was started shortly after the city meeting by Street Commissioner Donovan and is being pushed right along. The street has been graded with the exception of the right hand side from Roath street to Hickory street. The first application of stone has been laid from Franklin to Roath street and the upper section will receive its first application of stone by the middle of next week. The second application will be laid as soon as the stone is available from the quarry.

On the Asylum street improvement the grading has been completed and the street is ready for the first application of stone.

To date 70,000 gallons of oil have been sprayed on the city streets by the street department. The remaining half dozen streets that have not will be attended to as soon as more oil, already ordered, arrives.

The street department has just completed cement patching on West Main, Thames, West Thames, Main, North Main streets and Laurel Hill avenue and what is known as K. P. patching has been put on Central avenue, Broadway, Williams street, Sachem street, Lincoln avenue, Warren street, Broad street, North Warren, West Main, Washington and Church streets.

FARMS PRODUCE OVER HALF OUR PREACHERS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 5—"Our farms produce more than fifty per cent of our preachers while our banks and law courts combined produce less than one per cent," said Dr. Dallas Lore Sharp, lecturer and author of Boston university, in his Farmers' Week talk here last night on "Plowing Fathers and Preaching Sons."

"How does it happen that the imagination and the sense of spiritual values breeds more abundantly in the barns than in the courts and counting houses?" he asked. "It is because farming always has been and always must be the most religious work in the world. Plowing is an act of faith. To cut up a potato, with an eye in every piece, is to divide life and multiply it—a tremendous creative act. Hoeing is cooperating with earth and Heaven and fighting hell! Harvest time, reaping not what you sowed, but thirty and sixty and a hundred fold more, not wheat but bread, not corruption but incorruption—that has ever been a high religious festival.

"The open fields, the arching sky, contact with real things, not their symbols, like money, quicken the imagination and provide the elemental vocabulary and matter for sermon and song.

"Especially is this true in the creative years of the childs education. Whatever advantages the city child has in the way of getting better instruction and more facts, it is more than balanced by the advantages to the country child from his greater nearness to the source of things, his wider, more varied range of occupations that are creative, his handling of raw materials, his sight of original patterns, his consciousness of forces greater than his own, of meaning that he cannot understand.

"The city child will know more facts. The country child will do more things. The city child will acquire more knowledge. The country child will get more wisdom. The city child may come out with better manners. The country child with more imagination. The city child will see more and hear more and go more. The country child will think more and fell more and create more.

"Take all of the farm bred boys and girls out of the creative intellectual and spiritual life of New York city today and the pulpits and the editorial offices and the publishing houses would go out of business.

CHILDREN HELD CIRCUS AT THAMESVILLE GROUNDS

Thursday was the day of days for the Thamesville playgrounds when their annual circus was held with afternoon and evening performances. Everything took on a circus aspect at their grounds in the school yard on West Thames street. There was everything that goes to make up a circus, including the main show where the various daredevil feats were witnessed and other regular features of large sized shows.

In the corner of the lot was the big sideshow with the fat lady, sleeping beauty, wild man of Borneo, giant, etc., while grouped around the lot at various intervals were the booths where hot dogs and peanuts, and pink lemonade were dispensed to the large crowd in attendance.

Much credit is due Miss Madeline Thune, instructor at this ground, for the successful way that everything was run off and for the success that the whole affair proved to be.

The proceeds from this event will be used to help defray expenses for an outing for the children later in the season.

HEALTH REPORT FOR EASTERN CONN. TOWNS

The following cases of communicable diseases were reported from eastern Connecticut towns and cities for the week ending July 31st, according to the state department of health: Scarlet fever, New London 2, Norwich (c) 1; Measles, New London 2, Putnam (c) 1, Thompson 1, Typhoid rever, Plainfield 1.

With the exception of typhoid fever, which increased from 2 to 4 cases during the week, all other diseases showed a decline in cases reported, scarlet fever dropping from 21 to 16, whooping cough from 45 to 32, measles from 48 to 25, Diphtheria remained the same, nine cases being reported for both weeks.

CONFIRMED AS RECEIVER FOR MONTVILLE CONCERN

At a special session of the superior court in New London Thursday, P. LeRoy Harwood, treasurer of the Mariners Savings bank was confirmed as temporary receiver of the Fort Griswold Paper Board Co., of Montville by Judge Christopher L. Avery.

HASTEDT HAS HIGH SCORE AT EAGLES

At the weekly pinochle of the Eagles Thursday night, with a score of 7365 W. R. Hastedt took first prize, Geo. Nadolny second, 7325, and John Shegoda took third with 7140.

The scores for the evening: W. R Hastedt 7365, G. Nadolny 7325, J. Shegoda 7140, H. Marcus 6745, J. Dwyer 6710, H. Herring 6635, L. Milchette 6580, E. J. Mullins 6565, A. Hastedt 6510, T. Fields 6480, J. Lerich 6395, E. P. Mullins 5900.

Half Holiday Thursday.

Thursday marked another half-holiday for the local clerks and the day was really the first banner day they have had for their outings. Many of the clerks left the city during the early afternoon for shore resorts, others to Gardner Lake and other nearby places. With the stores closed the streets appeared somewhat deserted throughout the afternoon.

Ederle Read to Start Swim

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 6—(AP)—The tug Alsace left Boulogne for Cape Gris Nez at 4:30 oclock this morning to convoy Gertrude Ederle in her attempt to swim the English channel. Miss Ederle's father and her sister were on board the tug.

PREDICTS HIGH PRICES FOR POTATOES NEXT FALL

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 5—Sectional meetings in animal husbandry and livestock, forestry, home economics, rural community problems, and vegetable growing featured the third day of Farmers' week now under way at Connecticut Agricultural college.

Throughout the day large throngs of visitors were in attendance at the various meetings, and visiting the college departments and exhibits. WCAC, the college radio station was open for inspection this afternoon, and it drew many visitors. The new community house which was built with funds raised by the Connecticut Federation of Churches is open every day, and is proving a quiet place of rest for the many visitors.

Housewives and the consumer in general can expect to pay high prices for potatoes next fall and winter unless in the next two months we experience remarkably good growing weather. This was the inference drawn from the talk on "Possible Competition and Expectable Prices in the Connecticut Potato Industry," which was given by Frederick V. Waugh, economist in the college extension service.

"Because the Connecticut valley has greatly increased its potato acreage, and because last year's potato prices were very high, which ordinarily means a heavy production the year following many of our Connecticut potato growers feel that prices for their product will be very low this year," Mr. Waugh said.

"Present indications show a likelihood of good prices for the grower for this year, however. The acreage in the late crop states is about the same as the low acreage of last year. The southern and far western acreage was considerably increased this year, but in the late states of the north and middle west all reports indicates that the potato acreage is slightly less than last year's.

"Further, unfavorable weather conditions in the early growing season has resulted in a drop that on July 1 was considerably below average. And unless we do not have a change of weather conditions for the better, we will have another year with a potato crop about 20 per cent below normal.

"Virginia potatoes are now bringing $2.15 per hundred pounds in Boston. I would estimate a price of $2.20 in the same market for Maine Green Mountain potatoes throughout the fall and the winter, provided the crop is normal. If on the other hand the production of late potatoes is low, as now seems likely, we can expect a considerable increase over those prices. It is still a little early to forecast the market absolutely, yet reports are optimistic for the grower.

"It is true that the Connecticut valley has greatly increased its potato acreage, but this is a minor factor that will have little or no effect on the market condition. Connecticut imports half of its potato supply, and unless we produce twice as many potatoes as usual they will easily be absorbed by the local markets without disturbing prices. Potato prices will not be made by local production but by production in the big commercial potato states.

"Abortion Eradication" was the subject of a talk by Prof. George C. White, head of the dairy department at C. A. C. in which he termed the disease as one that had cost Connecticut farmers millions of dollars. The Storrs plan of abortion eradication, which is based on study of the disease for 15 years at Connecticut Agricultural college, was described in detail by Professor White.

"The special feature of the Storrs plan is that it provides for raising heifers born in the infected herd under separate quarters so that the replacements at the time of elimination of the infected animals can be made with clean, freshening and springing two-year olds," professor White explained. "From conservative calculations, it would seem that infected animals; those reacting to the abortion test, are returning $44 per year per cow less than uninfected cows. It is gratifying now to note that many secrets of the abortion disease are gradually yielding to the study of the many investigators who are devoting their attention to this great economic problem. Other disease of a widespread character are now well in hand and tuberculosis is steadily being eradicated from the herds of this state.

F. E. Bear, professor of agonomy at Ohio State university and an internationally known soils expert, gave an interesting address on "Increasing the Productivity of Solis."

"Two very good reasons exist why we are interested in increasing the productivity of our soils," Professor Bear declared. "The first of these lies in the fact that each year for the next 75 years our population is expected to grow at an average rate of one million people each year, which means a total population of 125 million people by the year 2000. The second is found in the increasing difficulty involved in making a satisfactory labor income on land that will not produce more than the average yield of the staple farm crops.

"Loking ahead for the next 50 years, we can predict with reasonable certainty that the following events will take place: The selling price of most farm products will gradually become relatively higher; that there will be a substantial rise in the market value of good land; that for any given crop there will be recurring cycles of high selling prices which will be sufficiently above the average cost of production as to make yields very profitable during those periods; that cooperative systems of marketing will be developed to the point that the prices of farm products will be better stabilized in the periods of excessive production; and that the cost of improving the productivity of the soil will be little less, if any, than it is today. The 50 year period is spoken of as it represents the life-expectancy of the young men of 25 who are gradually shouldering the responsibilities of farming these United States. The extent to which these men will succeed is determined in a large part by their ability to formulate long-time programs of farm management and soil improvement to carry them through the periods of depression that are sure to come.

"If agriculture is to continue on a competitive basis, then only two classes of people may be able to survive in the farming business. They include those whose standards of living are low and whose capacity for hard manual labor is prodigious, and those who keep pace with the advance of scientific agriculture organize their farming on a long-time basis, and make use of modern business methods.

Dr. L. H. Dorchester, president of the Connecticut Federation of Churches, spoke on "The Future of the Country Church," in a talk that featured the rural community programme this afternoon. "Homes For Rural Communities" was discussed by James Ford of the Better Homes association. "By-Products of Club Work for Juniors" was outlined by State Club Leader A. J. Brundage. George H. Hollister of Hartford talked on "Rural Recreation for Youth."

Among the speakers on the vegetable growers' programme, at which L. A. Rand presided, were M. F. Morgan of the New Haven Experiment Station, who spoke of "Potato Soils in Connecticut;" Louis Dagle of Marion, who discussed "Growing Potatoes for Profit;" F. E. Bear, professor of agronomy at Ohio State University who lectured on "Substitutes for Manure in Truck Farming;" Prof. A. W. Manchester of the farm management department at C. A. C., who spoke of "Desirable Practices for the General Grower;" Vegetable Specialist A. E. Wilkinson of the college extension service who talked on "Some Practical Suggestions;" and Assistant Agronomist B. A. Brown of the college, who spoke of "Potato Diseases."

The home economics programme for women began with a conference hour on infant care led by Miss Elizabeth MacDonald, specialist in rural health and sanitation at C. A. C. "Home Made Fireless Cookers" were discussed by Miss Gladys Stratton of the New London County Farm Bureau. Miss Lillian Shsbeen of the Miller Milling Co., of Minneapolis, spoke on the benefits of "Coarse Breads," and Mrs. Harriet Allard discussed "The Vogue of Painted Furniture." F. W. Knipe of the college engineering department lectured on "Home Water Systems," while Mrs. Marion E. Dakin, a nutrition specialist of the extension service lectured on "Food Makes a Difference." "Shoes, Feet and Health," was the subject of a talk by Dr. A. Elizabeth Ingraham of the State Board of Health. In the afternoon there was an informal tea in the college practice house.

Other speakers on the dairy and livestock programme for today included W. L. Slate, Jr., director of the Connecticut Experiment Station, who talked on "Newer Fertilizer Materials;" J. S. Owens, agronomist in the college extension service who discussed "Recent Fertilizer Results in Connecticut;" Dr. Leo F. Rettger, bacteriologist for the Storrs experiment station, who outlined "Principles and Methods of Disease Control;" Dr. E. K. Dow, lecturer in veterinary science at C. A. C., whose subject was "Before You Call the Veterinary;" R. E. Johnson, assistant dairy husbandman at Storrs, who gave a bull judging demonstration; and Prof. E. O. Anderson, who showed methods of testing milk.

This afternoon demonstrations were held in sawing lumber for quality, and of tractor power, as well as lumber grading and piling by A. J. Bowler of the Johnson Lumber Co., of Manchester, N. H. Prof. L. B. Crandall gave a demonstration in the college apiary in the proper methods of caring for bees.

JOHN C. HOWARD HAS BEEN RELEASED IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—(AP)—John C. Howard, of Los Angeles, who was arrested last night on a charge of assaulting his father, John F. Howard, a mayonnaise manufacturer of Haverhill, Mass., was released today.

Howard, who came to Mexico with his brother, Albert F., in an endeavor to have his father make a settlement upon their mother in Haverhill, was held incomunicado but was released today after United States Vice Consul McArdle went to the prison to investigate. Meanwhile Victor Velasquez, attorney for the sons, filed a petition stating that John's arrest, without a warrant, was unjustified and that the charges against him had not been substantiated.

The complaint was made by Mexican detectives who said they found John and Arthur beating their father at the latter's hotel. Charges and counter charges have been numerous among the Howards since the sons came to Mexico and filed charges that their father had committed perjury and bigamy in securing a Mexican divorce and marrying Mrs. Eleanor B. Phillips of Milwaukee.

An assault charge also was made against Albert Howard, but he was not arrested. Velasquez today reiterated his assertion last night that the arrest was a "frame up" for the purpose of having the sons expelled from Mexico.

EASTERN CONN. POWER TEAM CLASHES WITH SAINTS AT DUWELL FIELD TONIGHT

"Who will stop the Eastern Conn. Power?" is the question on the lips of every baseball fan in the city. For seven weeks the E. C. P. has met the different teams in the league, both the best and the poorest, and each time Jimmy Holland's boys have left the Duwell field with another victory under their belt. Players have been imported and teams strengthened whenever one of the other teams met the E. C. P. but the result has always been the same.

Not only have they cleaned up every thing in the league but now the Power Co. is handing some of the best semi-pro teams in these parts sound lacings.

Why is it that no one can stop these boys? Is it teamwork that pulls them through; is it their strong offensive attack which wears down the opposing pitchers, or is it just the fact that they are managed by Jimmy Holland who in the past two years has piloted two different teams to a pennant. It will be remembered that Holland managed the East Ends two years ago and again copped another pennant last year being at the helm of the Centrals.

Whatever it is that has kept these boys on the top, they well deserve to be there as they play both fast and clean baseball wherever they play, attracting huge crowds.

It will be remembered if the fans will stop long enough to do some tall thinking that the only time that the E. C. P. team was threatened was when they played the St. Joseph's team during the first round. It was in this game that the E. C. P. for the only time this season trailed their opponents and then staged the most sensational rally ever seen at the Duwell field, or any other field around, and scored the winning run in the last inning with two out, a man stealing home with the winning run. Since then both the Saints and the Power Co. have continued to clean up and have began to look forward to the day when these two teams would meet again. The schedule has been run off game by game until at last tonight the Eastern Conn. Power Co. and the St. Joseph's team will meet for the second and last time of the season.

Realizing that tonight they will attempt something that the best in Eastern Conn. have tried and failed, the Saints will take the field with every possible bit of strength on hand. Should they accomplish what the others have failed to do the race for twilight league honors will tighten up considerably, but if they are destined to come close then the E. C. P. will have almost put themselves out of the other teams reach. For the Saints either "Toney" West or Stanley will pitch, while either Simcox or "Lefty" Dugas will work for the Power Co.

ERRORS LOSE GAME FOR WARRIORS AGAINST TAFTVILLE

Taftville A. A. took a tight contest from the Warriors by the score of 2 to 1 at the Providence St. grounds on Thursday. The game was bitterly contested throughout and was one of the fastest seen in Taftville in quite a while, errors with men on bases lost the game for the Warriors.

Couture, on the mound for the Warriors, allowed the winners but two scattered hits but his inability to locate the plate, passing nine men, and errors at critical times by his teammates proved his undoing.

Lloyd Jarvis was on the mound for Taftville and he was touched up for six hits, three of them coming in the fifth inning.

Hamil and Edwards led in the hitting for the losers while Jackson furnished the fielding feature with a beautiful running catch in deep center field. The score:

PACO TEAM BUNCHES HITS TO BEAT OUT CONN. MILLS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 5—The Paco team bunched hits in the first and fourth innings to beat Conn. Mills 9 to 1 here tonight. Th Conn. Mills only score came in the fourth when Kelly reached first on an error and scored on Huberts triple. In the fourth inning Morin, a young school boy who has been playing ball with a local school team, was sent in to relieve Bonin. He fanned the first two but allowed Lagace to double and Samborski a scratch hit over second and retired the side by another strike-out. The Paco team touched Bonin for nine hits and Morin for two while the Conn. Mills was able to gather but two hits, both being made by Hubert. Thomas pitching for Paco struck out seven and for Conn. Mills Bonin fanned four and Morin three. The score:

JR. TWILIGHT LEAGUE CENTENNIALS VS. BRASSCOS

The Centennials and Brasscos are slated to clash in a Jr. Twi-league game at the Academy campus this (Friday) evening. There should be some fast baseball shown in this contest as both teams have some of the best in the city in their rosters.

Keenan will probably pitch for the Centennials with B. Labenski behind the bat while Segal or Rankin will without doubt be on the mound for the Brasscos with Tombri behind the bat.

The game is scheduled to start at 6:30 p. m. sharp.

As there are but about eight more games to be played in this league it is expected that the remaining come call 2182.

tests will all be exceptionally hard fought and prove very interesting.

A beautiful loving cup with cash prizes are to be awarded in this league.

ATHLETICS LOSE THIRD STRAIGHT TO BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns made it three straight from the Philadelphia Athletics today by winning, 7 to 5. MISS WILLS AND MISS RYAN IN SEABRIGHT FINALS

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 5—(AP)—Helen Wills today came through a crucial test of tennis form and playing strength with a convincing victory over Miss Eleanor Goss of New York in the semi-finals of the Seabright invitation tournament, 7-5, 6-4.

The triumph brought the national champion to a final round struggle against her most formidable rival on this side of the Atlantic, for while she was smashing her way to victory over America's fifth ranking player, Miss Elizabeth Ryan was conquering the former national titleholder, Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, with equal impressiveness at 6-4, 6-2.

Thus two products of the California courts won their way through a field which included seven members of the "first ten."

They will meet here for the second time since Miss Ryan's return to this country last year after a tennis campaign of twelve years in Europe. And another dramatic struggle, paralleling that of a year ago when Miss Wills went down to unexpected defeat, was promised for tomorrow.

Favorites also came through the semi-final matches of the men's singles, with Vincent Richards defeating his old doubles partner, Francis T. Hunter, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3, and Manuel Alonso of Spain vanquishing Takichi Harada of Japan, 6-2, 6-4. Richards and Alonso also will meet tomorrow, preceding the contest in the women's final.

MISS EDERLE TO START CHANNEL SWIM THIS MORNING

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 5—(AP)—Miss Gertrude Ederle, of New York, will start shortly before 7 o'clock tomorrow morning on her attempt to swim the English channel. She will take the water at Gris-Nez beach.

Miss Ederle, who failed last summer in her attempt to swim across the treacherous waterway, from Cape Gris-Nez to the English coast when about 6 1-3 miles from Dover, has been training here since mid-June.

CARDS TAKE OVERTIME GAME FROM BROOKLYN

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 5—(AP)—The Cardinals made it two straight over the Robins by winning a 10-inning battle today, 11 to 9. St. Louis launched a batting attack in the final session, scoring four runs. In its half Brooklyn scored two runs, one a homer by Wheat with none on base.

Manager Hornsby of the Cardinals became involved in an altercation with a fan seated behind the St. Louis dugout in the eighth and was prevented from climbing into the stands after his tormenter by Umpire Frank Wilson.

BOBBY JONES SAYS HE IS A BETTER GOLFER THAN HE IS A WRITER

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 5—(AP)—A young man who plays golf well enough to wear the American amateur and British open championship crown at one time doesn't think he can write about the game. So Bobby Jones' promises "story" on the Atlanta newspapermen's golf tournament appeared in the Atlanta Journal today simply as comment on the play under the title "Bobby Says," and preceded by an announcement from O. B. Keeler, golf expert of the Journal, that although many newspapers, had requested Bobby's story, that Bobby "couldn't very well write what he thinks of my golf for publication and in the second place he doesn't write for publication."

The tournament was played by Keeler, who has accompanied the champions to every big tournament for years, and by Morgan Blake, Journal sporting editor who sometimes signs himself "John J. Dubb", Bradford Byrd of the Journal staff and Fuzzy Woodruff, of the Atlanta Georgian.

Bobby's "comment" as made to Keeler follows:

"Well (said Bobby Jones mournfully) I got a fair exhibition though my nerves were pretty well unstrung when I left the course at the conclusion of the ninth hole on which Brad Byrd had rallied with a fine 13 and you had three drives out of bounds just when I thought you had a fine chance to break 50.

"The feature of the round, next to Byrd's double breasted knickers, was the way he settled down after a hard 17 on the first hole to finish the last eight in even 12s for 113.

"I always was deeply interested in seeing how John J. Dubb, world's heavyweight champion, and holder of the shotput record, would utilize his great physical power on the golf course. I found, however, that this immense strength was more in evidence on the putting green than elsewhere. I think he should now loy claim to the position of being the world's longest putter.

"Mr. Byrd showed unexampled gameness. He took more strokes in one round than I ever saw before, and his total looked like the serial number on the car the Sarasota folks gave me. He also set a record in perspiration. Toward the end, he resembled a lawn sprinkler in full career.

"The feature of Mr. Dubb's game was the topped approach, a shot of which he displayed complete mastery, frequently placing his ball close enough to the hole to get down in three putts, which had to be very close.

"Mr. Woodruff exhibited fine control of his long iron, but after the first hole showed a disposition to be short with his two-foot putts. Mr. Byrd also gave us a new wrinkle for golf, coming out with his hands taped like a pugilists', although I believe he omitted the Plaster of Paris, horse shoes and 'gimmicks,' now affected by the long haired profession.

"O. B. gave me a thrill on his second hole, when he holed a five foot putt for a fine birdie 3, and I thought he was coming through with a good round but I am afraid the strain of this machine-like golf was more than he could stand, and it needed a fine rally on the second nine, after I had given up, to get him under a hundred.

"On the whole, it was a highly exciting and enjoyable afternoon I found the West End club a delightful place and the course in good condition with greens as good as any around Atlanta."

LOCAL GOLF NOTES

No little interest is being shown in the "Ringer" tournament at the Norwich Golf club which will run through the months of August and September. To date there are 12 entries with more entering every day.

Willis Austin was receiving the congratulations of his many friends at the club Thursday on his hole-in-one shot made in the Rotary tournament Wednesday. He was the most popular man on the course and everyone asked to be shown how it was done.

The feature of the week end play at the club will be a four-ball-best-ball tournament for which a large number of foursomes and twosomes are entered.

John D. Moulton and Bruce Rogers are the finalists in the championship sixteen of the Fourth of July tournament and will play their match some time next week. Eddie McKay is one of the finalists in the first beaten eight, the other semi-final match not having been played. Bennett M. Gaines is one of the finalists in the second beaten eight.

The Norwich Golf club will be well represented at the invitation tournament at Shenecossett which opens next Thursday. About a dozen players from the Norwich club have filed entries including Willis Austin, who recently shot a 70 over the Eastern Point course for the course record. Sam Wilcox, Dr. F. S. Wilcox, Bert Gager, Bruce Rogers and a number of others.

The caddies at the club are making the most of every opportunity to practice, getting in trim for the caddy tournament which is to be held the latter part of the month. It has been suggested that members of the club do the caddying for the caddies during the tournament.

GIANTS POUND OUT EASY VICTORY OVER REDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—(AP)—The New York Giants batted three Cincinnati pitchers for 14 hits today to take the first game of a series by 7 to 4. It was the ninth straight victory for New York from the Reds. The hitting of Lindstrom and Tyson featured, each player driving out four hits. Lindstrom also scored four runs and drive in two.

Barnes was forced to retire from the box when hit in the leg by Pipp's grounder in the third.

Capt. Frank Frisch of the Giants was out of the game with a stone bruise. The score:

Walter Dietz is still carrying on the family tradition of making FINE BREAD

FORTY YEARS AGO some of the best bread makers in New England stopped baking at home and began buying Dietz Bread.

Because they recognized in the loaf made by Dietz the same choice of ingredients, the same honest care, which they gave to their own baking.

They found that they could delegate this time-taking task to Dietz with no lessening of their standards. Dietz Bread was at home with the other well-cooked foods on their tables.

Father and son, the Dietz family has carried on the tradition of making fine bread. Always they have had before them an ideal—a loaf perfect in appearance, in nutriment, in texture and in flavor.

A new opportunity for service

RECENTLY Walter Dietz purchased the Dolly Madison bakery. This bakery is now under his personal control and management.

He has spent the last weeks reorganizing it and equipping it to supply the homes of Springfield and neighboring towns with the fine bread so long associated with the Dietz name. For Mr. Dietz believes that only the independent, locally owned and locally managed bakery can supply the housewives of New England with the refinement of quality in bread which their particular tastes demand.

Among other improvements, Mr. Dietz has installed in the Dolly Madison bakery a wonderful new type of oven—the latest marvel of baking science. It insures a new uniformity and dependability in baking which gives added tenderness to the firm loaves, greater crispness of evenly browned crust.

TWO GENERATIONS of New England housewives have preferred Dietz Bread.

Better than ever—the new Dietz Bread

WITH this new oven two bakings a day are possible, so that the delicious new Dietz loaves now reach your grocer twice a day fresher than ever before.

A few years ago Mr. Dietz thought he had realized his ideal. For his bread had the perfection which only years of experience, the finest ingredients and a wonderful recipe could bring.

But new experience has brought him even further skill, taught him the secret of new improvements. Today Dietz Bread is better than ever—richer, crustier, more evenly browned, with a texture fine and firm, yet so soft and fresh it fairly melts in your mouth.

The same ingredients you use in your own kitchen

DIETZ BREAD is made of the same fine ingredients you would use in your own kitchen. But the flavor and texture of the loaf are even better, because instead of just the one kind of flour you use at home, several of the finest flours are blended in order to insure an unvarying quality of gluten strength and rich wheat nourishment. All the ingredients are constantly tested. They must measure up to a fixed standard of purity and wholesomeness.

Ask for Dietz Bread today. Your grocer has it. Its new green and red wrapper with the homey farmhouse and New England maples is an invitation to enjoy Mr. Walter Dietz's marvelous baking skill in the best bread he has ever made. Your husband will say when you serve it—"Where did your get that good bread?" Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

MADE OF the wholesome ingredients you yourself would use—rich in honest food value.

THE SCRUPULOUS CARE and skill with which Dietz Bread is made—from selecting ingredients to mixing and baking the loaf—give it its extraordinarily fine and elastic texture. Firm, so that it can be sliced thin without crumbling or tearing, yet so soft and fresh it fairly melts in your mouth.

THE RICHNESS of selected wheat with fresh milk and shortening shows in the evenly browned, crisp crust.

WIFE OF GEORGE INNESS, JR. HAS NORWICH RELATIVES

The noted artist George Inness, Jr., 72, whose death occurred last week at his summer home at Cragsmoor, near Kingston, N. Y., has relatives in Norwich, the Bacheler family of East Town street.

Mr. Inness internationally known painter and one of the three trustees of the Century Publishing Co., died suddenly from an attack of acute indigestion, he was passing his vacation at his summer home, having arrived there early in July, apparently in the best of health. His funeral was held at Cragsmoor, Friday last, with burial at Montclair, N. J. He was born in Paris in 1854 and was a pupil of his father, also a famous artist. Mr. Inness was the original of that artist story—which told of the son painting a sky on one of his father's unfinished canvases so natural that the father tried in vain to scare it away, then into brush it off, while the boy stood laughing, yet did not dare show himself.

Painting absorbed his entire life and he maintained studios in New York, Boston and Paris. In 1895 he became a member of the Associated National Academy or Design and four years later, an academician of the National Academy. He was made an officer of Beaux Arts, Paris, in 1902. In 1896, Mr. Inness received an honorable mention and in 1900, the gold medal of the Paris Salon. His canvas, "Shepherd and Sheep," is in the Metropolitan Museum, New York.

Among other honors which came to him were medal awards at the Pan-American exposition, Buffalo, and at the Charleston exposition. He was elected to life membership in the Artists' Fund society and was a member of the Lotos and Salmagundi clubs of New York. Just prior to Mr. Inness' going to Cragsmoor he was given an honorary degree, in June, by Tufts college. One of his paintings, "The Last Hope," which elicited widespread interest last year, was the subject of a dream by the artist, which depicted the ruins of a city, brilliantly flooded with light above, dominating the scene, was a dim face of the Christ-Child. In addition to his art work in many countries, he lectured, also taught, although his classes were not large.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Julia Goodrich Smith Inness, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Juliet Cox, of Grass Valley, Cal., and Mrs. Elizabeth Greenlee of New York, also a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Hartley, of New York. The following were cousins of Mrs. Julia Inness: T. H. Bacheler, Miss M. M. Bacheler of Norwich Town, Rev. Francis P. Bachelor of Talcottville, Ct., and Miss C. E. Bacheler of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and Norwich.

The Bacheler family members were present at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Inness a number of years ago, at which time Mr. Inness' sister, Rose, was married to Mr. Hartley, the sculptor.

Mr. Inness, who several times had visited Connecticut, was an ardent admirer of Norwich Town.

The Inness' winter home was at Tarpon Springs," Florida.

SEEING THE SOUL IN FARM LIFE

(Written Specially for the Bulletin).

There are two ways of looking at the farm and at farming.

One way is to regard the farm as a factory and farming as a manufacturing business.

The other way is to consider farming as a life and the farm as a home.

Just at present, our bald-headed and pot-bellied civilization inclines largely to the first view. In the west especially, the corn and wheat growing lands, it seems to be controlling and generally if not universally accepted.

For illustration, here's the leading editorial from the Kansas City Star of a recent date:

"Talk about your textile mills and your shoe factories! Here is an enormous factory all about Kansas City operated by sun power that just now is shipping more than a thousand carloads of its product into this city in a day.

"There is nothing insubstantial about wheat. It isn't a matter of bookkeeping profits. It is manufactured by the skill and hard work of thousands of business men who know how to make the wheels go round on the farm factory.

"Now they are cashing in at good prices that will enable them to add to the things they need for home and fields. The prosperity of Kansas and the neighboring territory will be reflected in the prosperity of the rest of the country.

"Behind the wheat are the corn and livestock still to be made and marketed. No wonder the spirit of the country is as cheerful as it is busy. It's a great west."

This glowing boast of cheerful prosperity is a pleasing change from the whining and scolding and bawling that has been coming from the editorial bowwows of the wheat belt for the last year or so. It's an all-sufficient answer to the boo-hooing which has seemed to be central in Iowa. And it is an answer not from the hated east, but from right next door in the middle west.

It isn't that, however, which chiefly interests me. It is the frank assumption that Kansas is just an 'enormous factory', 'operated by sun-power' and turning out wheat by the thousand car-loads, which wheat is 'manufactured' by the skill and labor of 'business men' making wheels go round on 'the farm factory.'

Curiously enough, the very next paper I picked up was 'The Country Gentleman, with an account of the 95,000 acre wheat farm of Tom Campbell, 'the world's wheat king, in southern Montana. This year 48,000 acres in wheat; next year 64,000 acres are planned. The average yield runs between ten and fifteen bushels per acre. In poor little worn-out Connecticut it was, according to the latest figures at my command, some 26 bushels per acre. But at a dollar a bushel and with ten bushels to the acre, Campbell makes a profit. He keeps 50 tractors going by the consumption of 4,500 gallons of gasoline per day. He plows disks, seeds and packs 640 acres a day of sixteen hours, and threshes with one outfit 4,321 bushels in another day of fourteen hours. His standard 'wagon-train' has a capacity of 2,400 bushels, and fireproof storage tanks hold 110,000 bushels. He has raised one 500,000 bushel crop and next year hopes to attain his ambition with one of a round million. His total investment for machinery, improvements, etc., amounts to about $13 an acre. Figure out for yourself how much this will amount to on 95,000 acres.

And again Mr. Campbell, rings in that word 'factory.' 'This farm is a factory,' he said to the Country Gentleman writer. 'I am more a manufacturer of wheat than I am a farmer. 'We are manufacturing wheat cheaper than it is made anywhere else in the world.'

The eastern farmer, accustomed to tucked-up little fields of irregular outline and uneven contour wherein a tractor would be as absurdly out of place as an elephant drawing a baby carriage,—the eastern farmer reads about these huge western ranches and their big figures with interest.

But with admiration and envy? Ah, that's another question about which there is room for difference of opinion.

Does the true farmer want to become a factory hand, or even a factory manager?

Does he want his work to be classed in the same order with the shoe-shop or the woolen mill?

There's a question in that which goes deeper than economics: one which probes the depths of human nature and touches close to the heart-springs of human life.

It is to be admitted, as a matter of course, that the farmer can't live unless he eats, and that he can't eat unless he earns his bread and salt.

Every tall building must have a solid foundation, deep set in rock and dirt. But no tenant wants to make his permanent home down in the dark subcellars, among the concrete or pile-driven foundations. His sun-brightened, air-winnowed rooms are held up by those subterranean supports, of course. But the ordinary man prefers to regard them as essential, perhaps, but too grimy and gloomy to make cheerful homes. They are necessary subaldiarles, but not desirable companions.

Just as the farmer, like all other men, must have a foundation of material and financial support on which to build. He must be self-supporting, and his first lookout must be to see that this support is firm and assured.

But that doesn't mean that he must spend all his life excavating for foundations and living in the cellar. Or that he ought to.

As has been said before this, some men are 'farm-minded,' i. e. they take to farming and the farm as the sparks fly upward. Others, lacking this inborn urge, seldom appreciate it and often fail even to comprehend it. To these latter I have nothing to say.

But I do want to appeal to my farm-minded readers, and ask them if, when once the sordid business of making a living has been attended to, there aren't from three to thirty-nine things which, right down at the bottom of their hearts, they feel more interested in than mere profit-getting?

For one thing: You can't imagine any factory hand choosing the factory for a home. He may have to work in one but he doesn't want to eat and sleep and live in one. He walks daily anywhere from a block to a mile to get away from the factory and into a home. That's just what the farm is, primarily and finally,—a home. Not merely the farm-house, but the entire holding to the last fence-corner. It is all home to the truly farm-minded man. He lives, not solely in it or on it, but with it. He knows it from A to Izzard, and he loves it from its lush intervales to its tree-tossing hill tops.

"I know I'm getting old. And my son wants me to give up the farm and live with him in town where I can take things easy and have them comfortable. But how can I bear to abandon that which is part of my life? I love every inch of the old place,—every stone and stump on it. My wretched body might, perhaps, be better off, but my heart would be homesick beyond endurance".

That, in effect, was what an old farmer said to me, more than 30 years ago. And it expressed a sentiment which, I feel sure, is deeply ingrained in the spirit of every real farmer.

Why should he want to make his farm into a factory? It is something vastly higher,—a home for both body and soul.

For another thing: The farm-minded man does not regard his farm as merely a tool, a machine, a make-shift, but as an active ally and almost companion. He comes to appreciate its real character. He learns how to jolly it into helpful assistance, and how to dodge its occasional fits of contrariness. He makes allowances for it and expects it to make allowances for him, sometimes. He gets into the habit of "team-work" with it. He humors it when it sulks, and puts it on the back when it smiles up at him. It comes to be a part of him, and he a part of it.

Why should he want to transform it into a set of whirring looms or clanking machines?

For another thing: The really farm-minded man doesn't regard his farm as a mere mechanism to be driven furiously until it wears out and then to be thrown on the junk-pile. Instead, he looks upon it as a trust to be guarded and fostered and improved from year to year.

He doesn't want to wear it out but to improve it. He doesn't look forward to its impairment and deterioration, but to its constant betterment. He plans to drain its bogs and transform them into garden spots of fertility; to clean up the stony areas and make them arable; to till and fertilize and rotate crops in such a way that every acre shall be a little more productive this year than last;—in other words, to leave the farm somewhat better than he found it. He is a builder up, not a destroyer nor even a mere user. He doesn't consider his stewardship successful if he only returns intact, the talent entrusted to him; he aims to double or treble it by wise use.

I confess that I look upon the mod-ern tendency to regard the farm as merely another form of manufacturing industry with small approval. There is a difference between the two which is something more than a distinction.

Manufacturing, mining, trading—all are necessary forms of activity. But all are necessary forms of activity. But all are devoted to one aim: Getting.

Farming means not only Getting but Giving. And it is still true that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

They are all means to life. But farming is a form of life itself.

It was once asked: "Is not the life more than meat, and the body more than raiment?"

That question can be answered no differently now from nineteen hundred years ago,—no differently on New England farms or Kansan prairies than on the hills of Palestine.

GROTON

(Contributed)

The older members of Anna Warner Bailey chapter, D. A. R., of Groton and Stonington read with sorrow the notice of the recent death of Mother Mary Alphonsa, Lathrop, Dominican Sister, friend of poor and incurable cancer sufferers.

When in April, 1894, the fair and gentle Rose Hawthorne Lathrop entered Anna Warner Bailey chapter as a life member and as unanimously and proudly elected to the office of poetess for life, little did the chapter imagine that within a few years she would die to us that she might live for others.

This gifted daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne was born amid the beautiful Berkshire Hills at Lenox in 1851, but passed her youth in historic Concord at "The Wayside," made famous through her father's genius.

After her marriage with the well known author, George Parsons Lathrop, she moved to New London.

Gracious in her personality and rich in intellect, Mrs. Lathrop attracted a wide circle of admiring friends to her charming new home on Post Hill.

After the death of their little son and only child, the Lathrops became converts to the Roman Catholic faith and both were active in charity work.

Following the death of Mr. Lathrop his widow joined the Dominican order, devoting her life to "Gods afflicted poor." She established a cancer cottage on Cherry street, New York, and with four other nuns cared for seventeen patients whose cases had aroused the sympathy of Mother Alphonsa.

Twelve years later we find her in a hospital with a hundred beds called "St. Rose's Free Home for Incurable Cancer". As the numbers of needy patients increased Mother Alphonsa and her sisters in the order organized "The servants of relief for incurable cancer," and opened Rosemary Hill home in Hawthorne, Westchester county, N. Y. When asked if the "servants of relief" received salaries for their work, Mrs. Lathrop replied, "Yes! Not in money, but wholly sufficient to the heart and soul!"

Last April Mother Alphonsa received the gold medal of the New York Rotary club for outstanding humanity during the previous year. The medal was presented by Pirie MacDonald in the presence of nuns of the Dominican sisters of the congregation of St. Rose of Lima, and fifty Rotarians.

Truly a magnificent record, and one that Anna Warner Bailey chapter delights to honor!

Watch Your Breakfast

Start every day with food that "stands by" you

HOW you feel all morning depends largely on what you eat for breakfast. Thousands have unenergetic forenoons because of wrong breakfast eating.

To feel right, you must have well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals — lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. It should start every breakfast in your home.

Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

To those who do not fear to ask.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy isn't a bit bashful. That is, he isn't a bit bashful where he is not sure. He had set out to find out about lobsters and he meant to find out all about them. Perhaps it is just as well that Barker the Seal was good natured.

"Is there only one kind of lobster?" inquired Reddy.

"There is only one kind around here," replied Barker, "but I am told that there is another kind of lobster that has no claws."

"I wonder if he has the same colors that Big Claw has," remarked Reddy

"Do you mean it hasn't any legs at all?" cried Reddy, opening his eyes very wide.

"I didn't say legs, I said claws," retorted Barker somewhat sharply.

"But a while ago you told me that the claws are feet, so how should I know?"

"Well, I meant those big pinching claws," exclaimed Barker. "This lobster I speak of is found away down south in the warm water, and I am told he is also found out on another shore called the Pacific coast. Instead of eight regular feet and two big pincers, this lobster has ten regular feet. I have never seen it myself, but I have been told about it."

Reddy thought this over for a few moments. Then came another question. "If he hasn't any big pinching claws, how does he protect himself?"

"He is protected by sharp spines on his shell, I hear. On account of these he is called the Spiny Lobster. He is a very good swimmer, and like Big Claw he swims backward," explained Barker.

"I wonder if he has the same colors that Big Claw has," remarked Reddy.

"They say he is quite a handsome fellow, as lobsters go," replied Barker. "He is blue and yellow and brown mixed together. He likes the rocks where there are places to squeeze into and so get away from enemies. Sometimes an enemy will get him by a leg and try to pull him out, but he can't do it."

"Why not?" inquired Reddy, looking much interested. "Is he so strong that he can't be pulled out? What does he do, hang on with all his feet?" "I don't see how he could hang onto a rock."

"He doesn't have to," replied Barker. "He just throws that leg off. The enemy gets the leg, but that's all."

"Say that again," exclaimed Reddy.

"I said he just throws the leg off," replied Barker somewhat sharply.

"I suppose you mean it gets pulled off," said Reddy.

"I suppose I mean just what I said," retorted Barker. "He doesn't try to keep it from being pulled off. He throws it off. Lets go of it. Gets rid of it." Reddy remembered a certain Lizard that could do the same thing with his tail. When he remembered this, it wasn't quite so hard to believe that the lobster could let a leg go. "Does he ever get that leg back again?" inquired Reddy.

"What a silly question!" snapped Barker. "Of course he doesn't. But the next time he changes his shell he gets another leg in its place, so what's the difference?"

Samuel Wallach, 29, president of a window cleaning company, was arrested in New York on the charge of burning out one of the eyes of his 19 year old wife and causing the death of Mrs. Sophie Blust, 69, a guardian of the Wallach's three year old child, by smearing the women with a corrosive poison.

Gain Firm Flesh This New Way

Graceful Figures for Women and Fine Physiques for Men.

To gain weight, to maintain weight and firm flesh and healthy muscle, your body must get the elements usually lacking in our daily food.

It has been proven that these elements are the wonder-working vitamines and the organic plant salts of phosphorous, iron, and lime, but only as they are found in Nature, like in fresh vegetables and Cod Liver Extract. In drug form they are not assimilated by your body and do you no good.

Everybody knows that Cod Livers are full of all these body and health-building food factors. But its nasty, fishy taste has prevented most people from enjoying its benefit.

But now science has found the way to include the life-giving elements of Cod Livers into pleasant-tasting tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

They have done wonders for thousands of thin, weak, run-down people everywhere. Many people have gained 5 to 20 pounds within a month. In fact they have been so remarkable in their results that you can get them at Lee & Osgood or your favorite druggist—60 tablets for 60 cents, with a specific guarantee that if you do not add at least five pounds of sound, healthy flesh after taking them for thirty days, your money is to be immediately refunded. Don't drug yourself in the hope of getting well. Give Nature a chance. Take McCoy's Tablets and see how much better you feel after just a few days' treatment.

Attorney and Mrs. John Keough and son, Jack, of South Norwalk, and their niece, Miss Margaret Hennecker of Bridgeport were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Howard Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Keough, who was Miss Nana Pearson of Bridgeport, taught the Mashapaug school 26 years ago.

Lawrence Moore is harvesting hay on the Moore farm in Woodstock. Charles Eaton drives down each day to assist in the work.

George Baker, president of Bowanee college, Bowanee, Tenn., was in town last week to visit his father's grave before sailing for Geneva, Switzerland. Prof. Baker is to embark next Wednesday with a group of educators, under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, for the purpose of making a study of International relations.

Miss Eleanor Lindsay, accompanied by her roommate at Harvard Summer school, spent the week-end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Lindsay, at the Lindsay cottage Lake Mashamang.

There will be a public illustrated talk at the church next Sunday evening, at 7:30 (standard time) given under the direction of Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay of Columbia university.

Last week, Mrs. Coolidge, president of the L. B. A. held a Bubble Party in the town hall for young children and their mothers. The afternoon was rainy, but Dr. Haskins came out from Hartford and gave an interesting and instructive address on Food and Clothes for the Child.

There was an attendance of 60 at the morning service last Sunday and 30 at Sunday school. The morning service opens at 10 o'clock (standard time) Sunday school follows. Last Sunday, Dr. Lindsay had a very interesting atlas to show the Bible class. Rev. H. A. Coolidge's class of boys and girls is growing in numbers, and the primary class, which is held in the library, is enjoying the work which Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Lindsay are carrying out.

Mrs. George W. Coolidge was at home from Yale Summer school for the week end.

A cool, refreshing treat awaits you at the soda fountain

"CANADA DRY!" Just say those two magic words to your cheerful friend behind the counter and he will serve you the coolest and most refreshing drink you've ever tasted on a hot summer's day.

You will like the wonderful flavor, of course, for there is no ginger ale in all the world with a flavor so supremely fine as this.

But there is an even more important reason why you will like "Canada Dry." It's a real ginger ale, made from real Jamaica ginger.

Because of this it lifts you up! Refreshes! Invigorates! Makes you feel keen and cool and cheery, no matter how hot the day.

Especially in summer-time you want a beverage that you know is good for you, and you get just that when you ask for "Canada Dry."

Substitutes can't possibly bring you the same refreshment because most of them aren't real ginger ales at all, but owe their "bite" to capsicum, or red pepper. There is no capsicum in "Canada Dry."

That's something to remember when you step up to the fountain and you're wondering what to order.

It's worth paying a little more just to be sure of the definite assurance of purity and quality that you get in "Canada Dry."

Imitations are never "just as good"

There are literally thousands of imitations of "Canada Dry" on the market today and you must be careful if you want the original. For your own protection, insist that the bottle comes to you with the cap on, and always look for the name "Canada Dry" on the bottle cap. That's the best way to be sure of the matchless flavor and quality that have made "Canada Dry" the sensation of Canada and of this country.

Character and Reputation

NO matter when or where you motor in Soconyland you will always be sure of finding Socony pumps. Every road and highway of importance displays them at frequent intervals.

This is a feature of Socony service that is unsurpassed by anybody.

But more than this—even more than the universal courtesy with which Socony Gasoline is dispensed—is the unsurpassed merit of the product itself.

No matter what the task, Socony Gasoline never fails you.

Day in and day out it just eats up the miles and makes the hills lie down.

Socony Gasoline is the preference of millions of satisfied motorists because anywhere, at any time, it gives the utmost in motoring satisfaction.

WESTERLY

CASE OF MANSLAUGHTER TO BE TRIED THIS MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 5—The session of Third District court before Judge Oliver H. Williams Friday morning at 9 o'clock, will be a busy one for a trial calendar of some length awaits disposition. A manslaughter complaint against John Rodriques of Wallingford, by Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Westerly represented by Assistant Attorney-General Louis V. Jackavony of Providence, is to come up for consideration. The charge grows out of an automobile accident near Shelter Harbor last Saturday, on the Boston Post road in the town of Charlestown. As a result of injuries sustained Anthony F. Guera of New Haven died at the Westerly hospital. A number of liquor cases in which Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown is the complainant following a raid at the Black Coffee House with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Liotta as respondents, have been set down for trial.

FIREMEN HONORARY BEARERS AT FUNERAL OF H. J. CLARK

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 5—Funeral services were held this morning at 8:30 o'clock for Harold J. Clark, financial secretary of the P. S. Barber Hose company, of Pawcatuck. The funeral was held from his home, 47 Garden street, Pawcatuck. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church. Rev. Michael Keating offered the mass also conducted the committal service in St. Michael's New Cemetery. Martin H. Spellman sang "Face to Face" during the service. The active bearers were Edward Keegan, Edward Ryan, Joseph Sullivan, Daniel Sullivan, Michael Shea and Joseph Moran. There were 50 honorary bearers under the leadership of Chief Francis J. McMahon of the fire company. Mr. Clark died Tuesday morning at the Westerly hospital, where he had been a patient for six weeks.

At the annual meeting of Westerly Fire district Aug. 25th. Moderator Lewis Stanton will call the meeting to order. As the election occurs bi-ennially, in the odd years, there will be no election of officers.

The annual outing of the Westerly Physicians' association was held Thursday afternoon at Weekapaug Inn, when the annual dinner was enjoyed by the members. No business session was held.

A surprise shower was given Thursday evening by Mrs. Clarence A. Vars at her home, 24 Summer street in honor of her cousin, Miss Jessie Aitken. Following the serving of refreshments, games and a social time were enjoyed. Miss Aitken in the early fall will become the bride of LaVerne Chafee of Potter Hill.

The Norwich Bulletin is in receipt of the following contribution, which is signed "True Pride":

The Westerly hospital is a purely Westerly institution: We want it to be that forever. We wish it to be clear of politics. Medicine and business politics never mix, never have, never will. We wish to support it ourselves. We raised four times what was first asked. Why wasn't some of that excess used for free bed purposes?

Do we now, having spent our money none too wisely, intend to make our Watch Hill guests furnish the cash for our free beds? Those who need them are our charges, not theirs. Our guests at Watch Hill have many of their own institution to support.

People of Westerly take pride in yourselves. Do not become Parasitic.

Today (Friday) the annual picnic of Grace Methodist Episcopal church will be held at Atlantic Beach casino. The party will leave the church at 2 o'clock and after a program of bathing, roller skating and other amusements at the casino, will eat supper around a campfire on the beach. The supper will be followed by an Epworth League meeting. The committee in charge of arrangements comprises Albert R. Bailey, chairman; Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, Paul W. Munsell, Mrs. W. A. Rook, Mrs. Grace Evans and W. Herbert Martin.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, Max Raithel of 41 Granite street, dove from the top of the bridge over the Weekapaug breachway striking the bottom and suffering injuries which confined him to his home Thursday. His spine and body were badly wrenched. The water was sufficiently deep for diving, according to witnesses of the accident, but the strong current forced the swimmer's body downward in such a manner that his head struck the bed of the breach. Two other swimmers, Ernest Mellow and Thomas Patton rendered first aid and brought the injured man back to Westerly. Dr. Edwin Lewis watched the case until 2 o'clock Thursday morning.

The death of Alexander Young, 70, occurred late Wednesday afternoon at his home, 21 Summer street, after a serious illness of five weeks preceded by several years of failing health. Mr. Young, a stone cutter by trade, was employed for many years by granite concerns in Westerly and various other parts of the country. He was a member of the local Granite Cutters' Union and Loyal Pride of New England Lodge, Manchester Unity, Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He was born in Annalong, County Down, Ireland, and came to this country as a young man. Surviving him in Westerly are his wife, Mary Jane Purdy Young, a son, J. Ernest Young, and a daughter, Mararet Palmer, all of 21 Summer street. A daughter by a previous marriage, Mrs. Francis Lane, resides in Manchester, England.

Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, Department of Rhode Island American Legion at a regular meeting Wednesday evening at their rooms in the Traggis block, Broad street, voted a gift of $25 toward the World War memorial fun dof Harley P. Chase Post, Veterans of Forein Wars, Pawcatuck. Five new members added to Merrill Post are Ralph Champlin, Porter Hoxie, Harold D. Critcherson, Ernest Boyington and Lindon Coombs.

Merrill Post also voted to provide the Public Library and the Westerly hospital with subscriptions to the American Legion Monthly. H. Russell Burdick presented the post a photograph of the Westerly hospital, showing in the foreground the flagpole and flag which the Legion gave to that institution last fall. After the business session, with Commander Walter F. Thorp in the chair, the Legionnaires were served ice cream and cake. The ice cream was donated by Edwin Barber, Jr., of the entertainment committee.

Andrew Menick of 196 Canal street, Westerly, was arrested by Police Officer George H. Champlin Wednesday evening on Broad street and is held for arraignment in the Third District court on a charge of operating an automobile when intoxicated.

Motorcycle Traffic Officer Robert M. Kessel began Thursday a week's tour of day duty following Police Officer Michael Curtin, who returned to night patrol.

Dr. Thurman P. Main of North Stonington, who has returned from a vacation was in Westerly and Pawcatuck Wednesday.

Dr. Edwin R. Lewis and John H. Farnsworth were visitors the first of the week at Beach pond and while swimming warned boys not proficient swimmers against venturing too far out in the pond.

A. G. Rossi left Westerly Thursday morning on the New England express for Montpelier, Vt.

L. Gourlay McLaren of Westerly has been engaged as teller at the Pawcatuck Bank and Trust company, in Pawcatuck.

Byron Wilcox, son of Judge and Mrs. William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck, in a recent letter to his parents describes the destruction which followed the hurricane in Alabama, which swept across Georgia from the Atlantic coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Pearson and daughter Mary left Westerly on Thursday for Holyoke, Mass., where Mr. Pearson, formerly with the Bradford Dyeing association, is now employed.

Dr. and Mrs. William A. Hillard of Pawcatuck leave Westerly the end of this week for Albany, N. Y., where they will be joined by their son, Paul N. Hillard, for an automobile tour of the Catskills.

During heavy floods on the west coast of the South Island of New Zealand, a racehorse was washed into a tree, and was rescued more than three weeks later, still alive. The owner, believing the horse to be drowned, was searching for the body when he found the live animal in the fork of a tree. It had fed on the leaves of the tree, and when found there was no foliage within its reach. The animal's rescue came too late. Despite careful attention, it died within a few hours.

The British navy has returned to the traditional naming of submarines in place of the letter-number method following the outbreak of the war. "The change in the method of naming submarines is the result of a growing sentiment in naval circles in connection with underwater craft," an admiralty official said. "It is felt that since submarines have increased in size and fighting power and have taken their place beside other types of warships, they should bear names as other boats do."

R. C. ROCKWELL, OF HARTFORD, JUMPS FROM A NEW LONDON HOTEL WINDOW

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 5—R. C. Rockwell, 35, married and residing at 114 Cleveland street, Hartford, committed suicide during the early hours of this morning by jumping from the window of his room on the ninth floor of the Hotel Mohican. The body was not found until shortly before 7 o'clock this morning when it was observed on the roof of an annex of the third floor. Rockwell was employed by the Dennison Tag company, Hartford, and came to New London yesterday noon for the purpose of calling on his trade. He went to the Hotel Mohican where he registered and was assigned Room 1041, on the ninth floor and overlooking the court. Rockwell then went out, the city soliciting business. He returned to the hotel during the late afternoon and so far as could be observed he was in good spirits. He was observed about the hotel corridor during the evening, but was not seen after 10:30 o'clock. It is presumed that he retired some time around midnight, as is known that he occupied his bed, for its appearance showed that it had been slept in. During the night Rockwell arose and went to the window overlooking the court. Like all others in the hotel, this is supplied with a heavy wire screen, which is fitted to the window. To raise it considerable strength would have to be exercised and each handle would have to be raised evenly or the screen would bind. However the screen was not only raised but was taken from the window and thrown out, crashing through a skylight of a section of the hotel that is used only during the day by hotel employes. Rockwell then climbed through the window and jumped, his body crashing to the roof of the annex addition. There the body lay until 7 o'clock when a hallman noticed it and reported that fact at the office. Employes went to the roof and there found Rockwell, clad only in his pajamas. The police were notified and so was Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman. The latter conducted an investigation and made an examination of the body, finding that Rockwell had suffered among other injuries a fractured skull and the crushing of the chest, which produced fractured lungs and other internal injuries from which immediate death would result. Medical Examiner Kaufman ordered the body removed to the undertaking establishment where it remained until this afternoon when it was claimed by the man's father. Upon the arrival of the elder Rockwell in New London he went to the police station, where he stated that his son was in the habit of walking in his sleep and a short time afterward. The intimate acquaintances of the young man also appeared at the police station from New Haven. They stated that the younger Rockwell was somewhat of a somnambulist. Rockwell was married four years ago today.

CLAIMED TO BE NEPHEW OF ADMIRAL GEORGE DEWEY

NEW LONDON, Aug. 5—Merrill H. [illegible] who claimed to be the nephew of Admiral George H. Dewey was in police court this morning charged with having been found drunk in the streets of this city. Dewey pleaded guilty. The prosecutor explained that he was represented that he was born in Cambridge, England, but that his home was in the United States. He said he was possessed of a fortune at one time, but that he had lost money through speculation in the stock market. He said he happened to be in New London because he had acquaintances here and through them was to seek employment. He stated that he had what he sought. He was found on Bank street when arrested by an officer who took him into custody. It was determined that Dewey was intoxicated beyond doubt. The complaint against him was nolled, that he might [illegible] city.

Thomas E. Robertson did not seem concerned when he was charged [illegible] assaulted Dorothy McGuire, young woman of this city [illegible] blow struck her. Indeed [illegible] said he did strike the girl, [illegible] she was on the receiving end of a blow that was intended for [illegible] sailor. Dorothy did not [illegible] what the circumstances were, but since the case was called yesterday, she had [illegible] prosecutor and told him [illegible] no wish to press any [illegible] against Robertson. Under the circumstances the prosecutor asked [illegible] complaint be nolled and the [illegible] was granted.

LAWNER TO FIGHT EXTRADITION, IT IS SAID

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 5—Benjamin Lawner, arrested in New York a week ago charged with the theft of an automobile from this city, is to fight extradition, it became known this afternoon, when Sergeant John Cavanaugh arrived in New York with the papers necessary to extradite the prisoner and cause his return to New London for trial. Sergeant Cavanaugh obtained the signature of State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown of Norwich to the extradition papers Tuesday and at once left for Hartford where he obtained the signature of Gov. Trumbull. Leaving Tuesday night for Albany, Sergeant Cavanaugh obtained the signature of Gov. Smith to the document Wednesday, and this afternoon he arrived in New York. Going to the Tombs to take charge of Lawner, it developed that the prisoner would fight the extradition proceedings. Lawner stole an automobile owned by James M. Miner from State street ten days ago.

All of the employes of the municipal building will attend the funeral of Benjamin R. Linicus, former building inspector, whose death occurred at Lawrence hospital Tuesday night from shock. The employes will assemble at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and will enter the church in a body. The municipal building will not open for business until 1 o'clock tomorrow morning because of the employes attending the funeral.

Antonio Andrews of 14 1-2 John street; Howard Smith, Groton; Mrs. Gladys Ronan, 20 Williams street; Mrs. Frederick Champion, Broad St.; Eva and Elizabeth Glaser, Blackhall; Mrs. Clara Chaney, 160 Broad street; Peter and Alfred Sheffield, Gardner avenue and Mrs. Robert Denatenna, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were dischargerd today.

Joseph Lawski, was arrested about the 10th of June for intoxication, and then was bailed out of the lockup in the sum of $50. He was to have appeared the next day for prosecution, but fearing the consequences he lit out and his whereabouts have since been unknown till today when he was arraigned. He said he was without funds and that he went to New York to secure money from his sister with which to pay his fine in court. That was a pretty fishy story for an intelligent man to tell, but it was accepted and the bond, which was called in June, was reopened today. He was fined $10 and ordered to pay the costs of his trial.

Gertrude P. Gray and John R. Gray have sold a building lot on Henry street to Patrolman Frank J. Philopena.

Fred Voight, 16, for whom the police of Providence have sought several days, was arrested on Bank street last midnight by Sergeant Patrick Murphy. Voight was arrested following making inquiry for a despatch at the office of the Western Union Telegraph company.

R. Feinberg of Hartford, residing temporarily at 1065 Ocean avenue, made complaint to the police this morning that two spare tires were stolen from his automobile while the car was parked in front of the Ocean avenue residence last night.

Miss D. E. Rademacher of 9 Prospect street, made complaint to the police this morning that while her automobile was parked in front of her residence last night a thief entered the automobile and stole a Westclox and three packs of playing cards, the latter having the owner's monogram on them.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driving licenses of Allich Hettles, 106 State street and Anthony George, 50 Denison avenue, suspended.

Funeral services for Mrs. Maria G. Chapman, mother of Rev. Edward M. Chapman, of Ocean avenue, were held this afternoon at 3 at her residence in Saybrook, and were conducted by her son. The bearers were three sons, Frederick, Howard T., and Robert Chapman, Jr.; and three sons-in-law, George H. Haynes, Dr. C. P. Bolsford and Albert D. Auransen. Burial was in Upper cemetery, Old Saybrook.

Frank Michell of Niantic, residing temporarily at the Morton house in that village, was painfully injured this afternoon when thrown from a horse which he was riding. Mitchell was brought to New London and admitted to Lawrence hospital, where several stitches were taken to close a gaping wound of the lip. Mitchell was riding a spirited horse near the Morton house, when the animal bolted, causing Mitchell to be thrown. In landing the rider struck upon his face and sustained a laceration of the lip. He was picked up by a passing autoist and brought to the New London institution.

Sergeant David Marks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad police, stationed at the union station, this city, has concluded his two weeks' vacation and tonight resumed his duties. Sergeant and Mrs. Marks spent the fortnight in and about New Hampshire and Vermont.

Max Fern, 1110 Ocean avenue, proprietor of the Star restaurant, State street, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy, charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance in parking overtime on State street. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

An automobile driven by Francis Redden, 232 Jefferson avenue and the car driven by Joseph P. Foley, 47 Longview avenue, Fairfield, this state, collided this afternoon on Bank street. Both automobiles were damaged, but not very badly.

Mayor and Mrs. William C. Fox and Michael L. O'Connell and wife, Montauk avenue, are on a week's automobile trip to Niagara Falls.

Privates Edward Hamilton and Lawrence Festa of Camp Trumbull, Niantic, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged this afternoon. Charles H. Randall, 3 Union street, is a patient at Lena hospital suffering from a fractured leg. Randall was engaged in assisting in loading a truck of the Gardner Storage company, at the New London Brass & Tube company plant, when a rope supporting the heavy machinery parted. Randall was thrown in such a manner as to produce the fracture. He will be a patient at the hospital several weeks.

The will of Mrs. Mary Hicks, widow of William H. Hicks, formerly janitor of Nathan Hale schoolhouse, was admitted, at a continued hearing in the probate court this morning. The admission of the will was allowed by Judge Arthur R. Calkins, but its admission will be fought in the superior court. Attorneys Lewis Crandall and Arthur T. Keefe, counsel for Annie Crocker, adopted daughter of testatrix, filed a notice of appeal. The testatrix bequeathed her entire estate, leaving all her property, real and personal, the former consisting of two houses and small parcels of land on Mercer street, to Shiloh Baptist church. The Crocker woman, who was adopted several years ago, was not remembered in the will and for that reason, she is contesting it through her attorneys.

Announcement is made of the marriage last Thursday of John Leo Murphy, son of Mrs. Mary Murphy, 29 Tilley street, and Miss Helen Weygant, daughter of Mrs. Rose Rothing, 403 Williams street. The wedding ceremony was performed at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. Timothy M. Crowely.

Harold Bitcliffe, formerly of 38 Tilley street, and Miss Margaret Jarvis, daughter of Mrs. Akroyd, 9 Pearl street, were married Saturday evening at the home of the bride's mother, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Philip J. Kerridge, rector of St. James' church. Upon their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mr. Bitcliffe will reside at 40 Pearl street.

Thomas M. Shields, Norwich attorney, spent the greater part of yesterday renewing acquaintances in New London.

Miss Ellen Feeley of Franklin, Mass., is spending a week with relatives in this city.

FOUND ROBBING HOUSE, JAMES DIXON ARRESTED

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 5. — James Dixon was arrested this evening charged with breaking and entering the residence of Morris Lubchansky, 77 John street and stealing a quantity of personal belongings of the Lubchansky family. Dixon, who has a long police court record, although but few with charges of robbery, was locked up and he will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

Dixon, it is alleged, went to the Lubchansky home about 2 o'clock this afternoon and in the absence of the family manager to gain entrance to the house. While he was engaged at his work of pilfering, Lubchansky's son, Isadore, returned home, and finding Dixon there, made the latter retreat. Dixon, who is colored, ran through John street to Main, with Lubchansky in pursuit. At the corner of Richards street Lubchansky overtook Dixon and succeeded in recovering a watch belonging to the elder Lubchansky. While he was wrestling with the thief, Dixon managed to break loose and escape. After losing his prisoner, Lubchansky went to the police station where he made complaint against the negro. Dixon managed to keep in hiding until about 7 o'clock, when he was located by Patrolman William Graham and arrested.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"Have You Made Your Future Plans?"

If you have not, why not consider fitting yourself for one of the following positions:

Superintendent of hospital, assistant superintendent of hospital, principal of training school, head nurse of department, instructors in training schools, resident nurse in schools and colleges, private duty nurse, army and navy nurse, infant welfare nurse, Red Cross nurse, district nurse, rural nursing service, office nurse, school nurse, social welfare worker, foreign missionary worker, tuberculosis nurse, sanitary inspectors, department store nurse.

"There are few, if any, group of women who have been more honored individually and collectively by society than those who have identified themselves with the profession of nursing. Every country and every age that has felt its benefits and been quickened by its example, has paid to it the recognized tribute of its day."

From Mary S. Power, R. N.'s article "Tributes to the Nurse and Nursing."

Nursing conditions today have been greatly improved, bringing with them more of the advantages and opportunities of other worth while professions. A nurse's life is no longer one of self sacrifice, a round of meanly duties; it is a course of study much the same as any vocational school work in a college or university having with it the social advantages and pleasures that other educational centers have.

Enter the W. W. Backus hospital training school in the September class and qualify for one of these "positions."

Breed Theatre

Unusual interest has been aroused by the announcement that the riggedly beautiful setting of the Apache trail is the background for Fox Films latest Tom Mix production, "Tony Runs Wild" which will be shown today and Saturday at the Breed theatre.

The settings in the mountains of Arizona have seldom been shown in motion pictures and the new Mix film shows even the exteriors and interiors of the Cliff Dwellings, home of a race that vanished from America centuries ago.

The film is full of thrills that are new in spite of the fact that Mix and his famous horse are supposed to have run the gamut in providing thrills for theatregoers.

Jacqueline Logan has the feminine lead and others in the cast include Lawford Davidson, Duke Lee, Vivian Oakland, Edward Martindale, Marion Harlan, Raymond Wells, Jack Padjan, Arthur Morrison and Martin Faust.

PRESIDENT THIRD TO SIGN N BILL AFTER CONGRESS OUT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — (AP)—By signing the Oregon land grant bill ten days after the adjournment of the recent session or congress, President Coolidge followed a precedent established by Abraham Lincoln and used by but one other president, Woodrow Wilson.

His action recalled the question that was raised when Lincoln established the practice, and the subsequent conflicting rulings on the subject. The constitution on this point read:

"If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress by their adjournment prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law."

The House Judiciary Committee in passing upon Lincoln's signature of a bill after congress had adjourned unanimously reported to the house that the president's action was unwarranted, and that the law had "no force or effect."

Half a century later Attorney General Palmer, in the Wilson cabinet interpreted the constitution as giving the president authority to sign bills within the ten legislative days following a long session of congress. It was upon this ruling that President Wilson signed the Federal Water Power Act and six other bills.

TODAY'S EVENTS

The festival of the Transfiguration will be observed today throughout the Christian world.

The republic of Bolivia today celebrates the one hundred and second anniversary of its national independence.

Mrs. Edith K. Roosevelt, widow of the late president and a former mistress of the white house, is 65 years old today.

University of Michigan alumni clubs of the western states will open their annual convention today in San Francisco.

The annual festival at Salsberg, one of the most notable events of the year in Europe, will open today and continue to August 29.

In celebration of the opening of her great harbor development program Milwaukee today will inaugurate an elaborate three-day marine carnival under the title of the Court of Neptune Pageant.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

We recommend to those who wish real entertainment, the program that opened at the Broadway theatre yesterday and which continues its run through Saturday.

The Keith-Albee five act vaudeville bill is a revelation in this line art.

Hassard & Spellman are two vigorous young men who put over a splendid routine of song and dance.

Winters and Fox strummed their banjos as experts do and were richly rewarded for their efforts. Their comedy is not to be overlooked.

Palmer & Huston are very apt comedians and with their little skit kept all in good humor.

Dick Ryan, has enough comedy for two acts. His jests and fun are all new and up to date.

Clarence Downey & Co. gave an exhibition of black art as it should be with a good mixture of comedy.

What would you do if someone put a gun to your head and demanded that you marry a girl you had never laid eyes on before?

Well now, if you can answer that question you have the foundation of the plot of "Lover's Island," but if you can't we advise that you go to the Broadway theatre today and learn how James Kirkwood handled the situation. It might help you decide the question a little if we were to tell you that the man who holds the gun is Louis Wolheim, just about the toughest looking individual in motion pictures, while the prospective bride is Hope Hampton, one of the most beautiful women on the screen.

Broadway Theatre

It has been said that modern feminine styles, from shorn hair to short skirts, make it impossible any longer to distinguish grandmother from mother or mother from daughter. But if one cannot judge by appearances, perhaps the discriminating ear can up modern slang as quickly as they do who speak within its hearing. Slang is the key.

Slang changes as fast as styles, but the elders of this day do not take up odern slang as quickly as they do modern dress. Hence Grandma will call a "charmer," the same person who mother calls a "vamp" and daughter calls a "red-hot mamma." "Hot air" is grandma's quaint way of expressing the same idea which mother expresses with "spoofing" and daughter with "apple-sauce." Grandma, though perhaps she shouldn't, sometimes says "beat it," which mother translates as "skiddoo" and daughter retranslates "ankle along." "The laugh" which grandma has on some on is "the merry ha-ha" when mother refers to it and "raspberries" in daughter's speech.

And so it goes. A short memory course in slang from Grandma's girlhood to the present day would enable anyone to tell instantly the age of any confirmed user of slang. To such we would offer the advice gratis, that they go to the Broadway theatre on Monday night, August 9th, and see "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em", a comedy in Americanese of the present day and date, by George Abbott and John V. A. Weaver, masters of the dialect and patois, current, and be brought up to the minute, and thus still further conceal the visits of "Father Tie."

Burns Mantle in the Daily News said: "Good fun, a snappy, racy character comedy which dismisses its crowd with a shout" and E. W. Osborn in the New York Evening World, remarked "the freshest, shiniest comedy which has come along the White Lanes of Mid-Manhattan in a lengthy succession or theatrical work days.

How I keep the kitchen cool on washday
NO hot, steaming washdays for me this summer! No more rubbing and scrubbing and boiling in the old-fashioned way.
Now I can keep the kitchen nice and cool. I just soak the whole week's wash in creamy Rinso suds—and boiling isn't necessary!
This Rinso soaking loosens the dirt. Then I rinse in clear water—and off come dirt, grime, stains, suds—leaving the clothes whiter and brighter than ever. Startling, too!
Rinso makes the water so soft and sudsy. Saves my hands, too. They don't get red and washworm any more. Ask your grocer for Rinso
The granulated soap that cooks clothes whiter—no scrubbing.

HISTORICAL ACCURACY IS SOUGHT BY MOVIES

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug 5—(AP)—Guess work has been replaced by knowledge in motion pictures until the department historical research for costumes and settings has become an integral part of production.

Starting some years ago with an effort to forecast fashions in modern pictures, the work has branched out until pictures dealing with the Roman days, Middle Ages, Elizabethan, Empire or any other well defined era are set with a certainty that makes the picture a pictorial representation of the life of the time portrayed.

Single Details Costly

Marian Fox of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions established herself as a research authority in the many "period" pictures recently produced by that company.

"Ben Hur" involved a study not only of the Roman but of the Hebrew costumes, streets, interiors and types while "Bardelays the Magnificent," and "The Scarlet Letter," brought her work into entirely different times. Sometimes great study is required for a single detail.

This company, along with many others, has collected relics and documents providing for every possible contingency in the future and the work continually is carried on throughout the world. Where studios cannot obtain material for their own archives, private libraries are borrowed. At times, priceless antiques and tapestries have been loaned to productions by private owners and public galleries.

Built 150 Trial Sets

In the production "Don Juan," Warners Brothers built 150 sets in miniature for study and remodeling before the sets actually were built.

There also entered into production the study of nine different episodes of the character's affairs in which costumes and actions had to conform to the types.

STOCK PRICES LOWER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.— (AP) —Stock prices drifted lower today as the market resumed the correction of the weekend technical position resulting from the recent rapid and sustained advance in many issues. While some bear selling and profit taking undoubtedly was inspired by the marking up of the call money rate from 4 to 4 1-2 per cent, the reaction was not generally associated with anything in the day's news, which, in the main, was again favorable. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,725,900 shares as compared with 2,518,100 yesterday and 2,715,500 the day before.

Despite the reactionary trend in the general list, active bidding continued for a few selected specialties. Case Threshing Machine scored an extreme gain of 22 points by touching a new high record of 169, as compared with a low of 1 1-2 earlier in the year. Wall street expects a stock split-up on Case before the end of the year. Remington Typewriter also developed outstanding strength, jumping over six points to 119 3-4.

Trading in General Motors continued in enormous volume but the range of fluctuation narrowed down to less than six points, the closing price of 204 1-2 representing a net loss of 2 points. Both buying and selling was of a cautious character, with brokers reporting the widespread utilization of "stop orders." United States Steel common received better buying support, the final quotation of 150 representing only a fractional loss.

Trading in copper shares was one of the most interesting incidents of the day. Anaconda, Cerro De Pasco and Kennecott duplicated its 1926 top prices of the year, the others advanced to within striking distances of their peak prices. Oils, as a group, were slow in responding to the excellent semi-annual earnings reports now being published although special buying is developed in General Asphalt, which closed 2 1-2 points higher at 72 1-4.

Sugar shares also were in better demand as a result of stiffening commodity prices. South Porto Rican Sugar jumped over five points to 116 and American Sugar Refining, Cuban American and Manati showed net gains of 1 to 3 points. Independent steels failed to make any response to the announcement that operations of the Bethlehem Steel corporation were running around 77.7 per cent of capacity as against 78 per cent a month ago.

Another outburst of buying in the local gas stocks sent Consolidated and Brooklyn Union to new peak prices for the year. Other stocks in which aggressive buying demonstrations were conducted included International Combustion Engineering, Underwood Typewriter and Union Bag & Paper. Profit-taking on the other hand, was particularly heavy in such issues as Durant, Hudson, Mack Truck, Pierce Arrow U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Yellow Truck.

Outside the sudden activity and strength in the St. Paul issues, the rails were devoid of interest.

Commodity prices moved within rather narrow limits. Wheat drifted lower on the upward revision of Canadian crop estimates. Cotton closed practically unchanged, with traders inclined to restrict commitments pending the publication of the next crop report. Coffe and sugar prices were slightly firmer.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent but advanced to 4 1-2 at banks called on loans. Time money rates were unchanged, but prime commercial paper was quoted 1-4 per cent compared with a previous range of 4 to 4 1-4.

Foreign exchanges were reactionary, French francs broke several points to new lows cents on publication of Bank of France statement showing reduction at a new maximum. Other continental rates were in sympathy, with demand sterling around $4.85 13-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.— (AP) —Rapid progress of harvest northward with some new wheat already loaded in Canada did a good deal today to give wheat values a downward swing. The wheat market closed heavy, 3-4c to 1 5-8c net lower, corn at 1-4c decline to 5-8c advance, oats 3-8c to 5-8c down, and provisions varying from 40c off to 12c gain.

With harvest nearing completion in the more advanced sections of the American northwest, the movement of the spring crop is increasing.

Corn rallied in the late trade, hot weather over the greater portion of the corn belt acting as a stimulus to buy. Oat traders took their cue from wheat.

Most of the provisions list was higher, helped by an upturn in the value of hogs.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Larger buying of a few special issues imparted a degree of activity to the bond market today, but as a whole it continued listless. An advance in the call money rate to 4 1-2 per cent seemingly had little influence on trading.

French government bonds continued to reflect the confidence of investors in the financial reforms of Premier Poincare. The 7s, 7 1-2s and 8s of that country were in demand with a small supply, the 7 1-2s rose 1 1-8 points and the other two mounted fractionally; trading in the 7s was very heavy.

Incidental to the French situation, it was declared today by bankers that talk of a loan of $100,000,000 to the French government in the near future is premature. No negotiations or discussions of any kind are under way at present, it was said.

High grade corporation bonds were generally firm although rather inactive. Atchison General 4s equalled their best price of the year on moderate sales, and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul bonds continued active. A single block of $200,800 St. Louis Southwestern Consolidated 4s went at 93, the same as yesterday's closing price.

United States government issues were steady in light trading.

TAFTVILLE

Joseph Lussier of North Fourth avenue has returned from Canada where he has been spending the past several weeks as the guest of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Kellner and children William and Virginia of Preston were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Axel L. Aberg and family of North Third avenue.

Fred Erlbeck of Norwich avenue has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the local mills.

Some of the members of the choir of the Taftville Congregational church enjoyed an outing Thursday afternoon. The party went to Rock Point, R. I. for a shore dinner, many of them afterward taking a dip in the pool. The trip was made in the automobiles of George N. Beardow and William C. Kendall. Those who went were Mrs. William J. McNally, Miss Dorothy Campbell, Mrs. Elsie K. Pingree, Miss Elsie Heap, Miss Flossie M. Meyer, Miss Nellie S. Howle, Richard Carr and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grimshaw.

One of the postoffice patrons on Thursday morning drew Assistant Postmaster Edward V. Murphy's attention to a queer looking insect which had alighted on the front plate glass window of the local postoffice. Later it was viewed by a number of people, some of whom amused themselves by shaving the ferocious looking bug snap at sticks and pieces of paper with its powerful pincers, until tiring of the sport, the insect took to its wings and gracefully sailed away. The bug was a female helgramite, and few who saw it recognized it as one of the parents of the common dobson which is used for fishbait in this locality.

Anthony Murphy, a student at St. Marys seminary, Baltimore is spending the summer at the home of his mother Mrs. Anthony Murphy and family of Merchants avenue. Mr. Murphy attended the Eucharistic congress in Chicago.

Some of the young people are planning trip to Rock Point, R. I. for the day Sunday. A truck has been secured and a committee has been appointed to attend to the "eats."

A subscription dance is to be given Saturday evening at the Naturalization club by Alexis Davignon of South A street.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Trembly have returned from their wedding trip and are at their home on South B street.

THOS. F. DORSEY, JR., SEEKS PARTITION OF PROPERTY

Thomas F. Dorsey, Jr., of New London has started proceedings in the superior court for this county against ten others and the Savings Bank of New London asking the partition or sale of property owned by the plaintiff and defendants in New London and a division of the proceeds. The papers in the action were filed Thursday with the clerk of the superior court in this city.

The defendants named in the action are Thomas F. Dorsey, Charlotte W. Dorsey, Valencia Dorsey, Loretta Dorsey, Leo Dorsey and Peter B. Dorsey of New London; Helen B. McDuff of Pawtucket, R. I.; Charlotte D. Morrison of Los Angeles; Edward Dorsey of West Palm Beach; Lillian D. Andrews of New London, and the Savings Bank of New London. The bank has a mortgage of $17,700 on the property. The petition besides asking a partition of the property, asks the appointment of a receiver to collect the rents until the property is partitioned or sold.

THREE COMPENSATION AGREEMENTS FILED

The following three compensation agreements were filed Thursday with the clerk of the superior court in this city:

American Woolen Co., Norwich and Bottista Piccino, Norwich; middle finger of right hand lacerated January 26; compensation for ten weeks loss of finger; amended agreement.

Glasco Finishing Co., Glasgo and Joseph Komiecko, Jewett City; left arm badly torn, palm and left hand torn, June 25th; compensation began July 2.

$5,000 ALIENATION SUIT AGAINST SPRAGUE MAN

Charging alienation of his wife's affections, Henry J. Fournier of Sprague has filed suit in the superior court for this county against Severin Pratt of Sprague asking damages of $5,000.

NORWICH MEN NAMED DEFENDANTS IN $10,000 DAMAGE ACTION

Claiming she has been permanently disabled, Martha J. Snyder of Hartford has brought suit for $10,000 damages against Nelson Grenier, Norwich Bert Grenier of Jewett City and Emilie Dubeau of Plainfield, as the result of an automobile accident in Jewett City, William E. Snyder, Hartford, husband of Martha J. Snyder has also brought suit against the defendants for $2,000, claiming his machine, worth $1,200, was demolished in the accident.

The writs claim August 14, 1925, while Mr. Snyder, accompanied by Mrs. Snyder, was driving his automobile in a southerly direction on North Main street, Jewett City, a machine driven by Mr. Dubeau, headed north on the same street and a machine driven by the Greniers, turning the corner at Belvidere avenue, collided. The two machines were negligently handled, it is charged and the Dubeau machine was thrown against Mr Snyder's machine.

Mrs. Snyder was thrown against the instrument board and then through the car door and onto the highway. She alleges she was permanently injured. The papers in the two suits were filed Thursday in the office of the clerk of the superior court.

CONN. LEAGUE BELIEVES IN PARTY SYSTEM

The voter who votes only at elections is using but a small part of his voting power. The Connecticut League of Women Voters though non-partisan believes in the party system. It urges its members to join the political parties whenever the opportunity is offered. The registrars of voters in most towns in the state have announced that they will be in their offices for that purpose August 6 and 13. In most towns this is the last chance given before the September caucus. Those who are to be out of town on those dates may enroll by mailing their names to the registrar of the party of their choice before August 13. By a law passed by the 1925 legislature a transfer from one party to another will not become effective until six months after application for such transfer is made.

Unless a party member, an elector has no voice in the choice of candidates. When he goes to the polls on election day he merely gives his approval to the selections made at the caucus. If he does not like them he may write in the names of candidates he would have liked to have seen nominated. His vote on election day is wasted, when it might have had some weight at the caucus.

NORWICH WOMAN SUES HUSBAND FOR DIVORCE

Charging desertion, Edith Mae Palmer Duro of this city has brought suit for divorce against Edward H. Duro, formerly of Norwich, now of parts unknown. They were married June 16, 1920, and desertion is alleged since August 3, 1924. There is one child, Edward H. Duro, Jr., aged five. Mrs. Duro asks a divorce and custody of the child. The papers in the suit were filed Thursday with the clerk of the superior court in this city.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Former Norwich residents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford M. Story, from Hackensack N. J., are guests at Weekaraug Inn for the rest of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Driscoll, of Washington street have taken a cottage at Groton Long Point for the remainder of the month.

Following a visit to the sesqui-Centennial exposition at Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Van Wagenen, Jr., of Jolliff Place have been at Atlantic City.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Eldred Brown and family have opened the rectory on Otis street having returned from Pleasant View where they had a cottage during July.

Mrs. Harold T. Robinson, of Williams street, was a guest Wednesday when the Hill Club was entertained at cards by Miss Elizabeth Hardman, of Windham Road.

Cards have been issued by Mrs. Alfred Avery Young, of Jewett City for the marriage at her home, Thursday afternoon, August 26th at 4:30 o'clock of her daughter Marguerite, and Charles Acors Barns Boss. Mr. Boss is the son of Charles Royce Boss, of 256 Washington street, Norwich.

IN SAME OFFICE FOR THIRTY YEARS

Thirty years ago, August 4, 1896, Dr. James J. Donohue opened his office in the Central building, which had just been completed and was considered one of the most modern buildings in the state. Since that time many tenants have come and gone, but Dr. Donohue remained in the building, adding other rooms for office space. At the present time there are none of the original tenants left in the building except Dr. Donohue.

The compensation office, of which Dr. Donohue is in charge, has been located in the building since the workmen's compensation act was passed in October, 1913. Dr. Donohue is also medical examiner for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, having been with that company for 25 years.

When Dr. Donohue first occupied his office John Lucas was caretaker of the building. His son, Bert Lucas, is now acting as assistant caretaker.

White Lines For Crosswalks.

The white lines at Broadway corner, marking off the spaces to be used as crosswalks, also as dead lines for vehicular travel when the red light appears on the traffic beacon, are doing their work nicely and have greatly aided in the work of keeping traffic moving more evenly. There has been less "jaywalking" since the lines were painted and the autoists have been quick to stop their cars before reaching the lines.

The use of the bell once again in connection with the beacon, has had the effect of making drivers watch the lights more closely. The bell is toned down but can be heard at some distance.

JUDGE AYLING TALKS TO LIONS ON TAXES

The meeting of the Norwich Lions club, Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel was one of those short and snappy meetings filled with plenty of "meat" for brain digestion. President William A. Anderson was in charge of the meeting and Abe Agranovitch officiated as song leader.

The speaker of the day was Judge Nelson J. Ayling, whose talk was on the Tax Question, more particularly regarding the reparation of war debts. During his talk Judge Ayling gave many figures to substantiate his claims. The club gave a rising vote of thanks to the speaker for his informing talk.

The meeting closed in the usual manner with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

JEWETT CITY MAN CONSIDERABLY IMPROVED

Early this Friday morning at the Backus hospital it was reported that the condition of Joseph Stenkiewicz of Jewett City was considerably improved and that he was resting quite comfortably. Doctors handling the case now report that unless complications set in the man will recover.

Stenkiewicz is suffering from two wounds, self inflicted, when he shot himself on Tuesday attempting suicide at Jewett City. The bullets remain lodged in the skull and left chest and it is not likely that attempts will be made to remove them unless it becomes necessary.

TROUBLE OVER DOG LANDS FIVE IN COURT

Trouble over a dog Wednesday landed five Baltic street people in the city court Thursday morning. After the court had heard the story that led to breach of the peace charges being brought against the five persons, the cases were continued for one year.

According to the story a dog owned by a Baltic street man has been bothering one of his neighbors and the neighbor and the dog owners got into an argument which led to invitations for a fistic encounter. A couple of brothers of the neighbor went to his rescue. There were no blows struck. Court action followed.

Taken to Hospital.

Mrs. Charles Preston of No. 16 Hedge avenue was taken to the Backus hospital Wednesday in the hospital ambulance, following an illness of several weeks. Her son, Charles Preston, of Philadelphia, has been notified.

Old Scouts Enjoy Camp Life

The "Old Scouts" camp at Camp Tippecan, Beach pond, summer quarters for the Norwich boy scouts, is taking on larger proportions every day as more men from the city join the camp to enjoy a taste of out door life. Plenty of activity makes up the average day for the "Old Scouts" and it is rumored that when Taps is sounded there is no complaining on the part of the campers.

MRS. SPALDING HOSTESS AT GOULD HOME, FAIRFIELD

Norwich King's Daughters and other friends of that brilliant woman and gifted writer, Mrs. Katherine Moody Spalding, are greatly interested in the work of which she is now making such a marked success. For a long term of years Mrs. Spalding was editor of the woman's page of the Bridgeport Post and later, with other papers there, wielded wide influence. Through changes in management, etc., she gave up her newspaper work and for a number of years has had charge of the beautiful Gould Homestead, a summer home for women, at Fairfield, Conn. As hostess there, she is making good, as she has in every field of activity.

The beautiful estate, with an endowment of $150,000 was left by Miss Elizabeth B. Gould, the last of her line, to perpetuate the family name. Her colonial ancestor came to Fairfield in 1647 and bought from the Indians the land on which the fine old mansion stands. The home is managed by a board of trustees and the house accommodates 11 guests at a time. It was the specific desire of Miss Gould that the place never become institutional—just a pleasant family home. Hence applicants for vacation privileges—free entertainment and maintenance for the period of two weeks—come with irreproachable credentials and after formal application to and approval by the board of five trustees.

The estate is only a mile from the shore, the house is set in beautiful flower and well tilled vegetable gardens, consequently makes an ideal vacation retreat for those who meet the requirements of the donor and the board of trustees.

The daughter of Mrs. Spaulding, whose husband, head of the Jones department store in Bermuda, died just before the close of the World war, remained in Bermuda for three years thereafter, but is now residing at the home of a cousin in Bridgeport. She is prominent in club work in that city, especially in the Bridgeport Art league. Mrs. Jones is a great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jedediah Spalding of Norwich, from whom Spalding street and Spalding's lake took their name, Jedediah Spalding having been a prosperous manufacturer and property owner in his time.

Welding Trolley Rails

Men in the employ of the Connecticut company are seen nightly along the local trolley lines operating welding machines. It is stated that the men will be in this city for several weeks welding the tracks and repairing breaks.

SEASON FOR SUMMER TYPHOID HAS ARRIVED

The season for summer typhoid is upon us, says the weekly health bulletin, issued by the Connecticut state department of health. The bulletin says although typhoid fever is much less common than formerly the disease still lurks in unexpected places. According to some writers, as many as four or five per cent of all persons who have ever had typhoid fever still remain carriers of the disease germs and are therefore potential dangers to those with whom they associate. These persons are the sources of summer typhoid.

Thus it behooves the happy vacationist to beware lest after going forth in joy to forget dull care, he returns in sorrow to go through a seige of typhoid fever. It is not possible for the casual visitor in a strange region to spot and shun all typhoid carriers, but it is possible for him to take certain precautions to protect himself from infection.

Three doses of typhoid vaccine given a week apart will render one immune from typhoid fever for two or three years. This is the one measure that will protect against all possible sources of typhoid infection. It is the one good trick that is worth a hundred poor tricks, if we are able to profit by the experience of the sly old fox in the fable.

Typhoid fever germs may be transported directly from the discharges of the human carrier to the food of the victim by flies. Vacationists are advised not to stay at a summer resort where flies are tolerated. Summer visitors can control the fly nuisance in any vacation resort. By registering strong "kicks" about flies and moving on to the next place, summer visitors can convince the proprietors of hotels and boarding houses that "fly presence" means loss of business. The proprietors will do the rest.

Everyone knows that the germs of typhoid fever may be carried by water. In order to be so carried the germs must reach the water from a human being. The vacationist should make sure that the water he drinks is either protected from contamination of human waste or is boiled before drinking. A rule of discretion would be, if in doubt, boil.

Cows do not have typhoid fever. Milk can become contaminated only by the human handler. As milk is an excellent food for typhoid germs they multiply in it so that the victim gets massive doses of infection. The vacationist who drinks pasteurized milk is safeguarded against typhoid fever and other diseases from this source.

Cooks, waiters, and soda dispensers are apt to dispense typhoid fever germs with their foods if they happen to be typhoid germ carriers. The casual visitor cannot know who may be carriers, but he can acquire some information as to who are so careless and uncleanly in their habits as to increase the likelihood of spreading infection if carried. A summer visitor can insist that hotels, restaurants and boarding houses which he patronizes are clean, that wash room facilities are afforded for cooks, waiters, and soda dispensers, and that they actually do wash their hands very carefully each time before handling foods. Such measures will go a long way toward protecting visitors from possible infection by carriers.

The summer visitor may himself be a carrier and not know it. For this reason he should take measures to protect others. He should use sanitary appliances provided and not scatter about promiscuously waste from his own body that may be infective. In other words he should take the precautions to protect others which he expects others to take to protect him.

GERTRUDE EDERLE SWIMS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL IN RECORD TIME, 14H. 31M.

Best Previous Time Was 16 Hours and 23 Minutes—Nineteen Year Old New York Girl the First of Her Sex to Accomplish the Feat—Left Cape Gris Nez, France at 7.09 A. M. and Landed at Dover, England, at 9.40 p. m.—Miss Ederle Was Strong and Fresh at Finish as She Walked Triumphantly Up the Beach—The Latter Part of the Swim Was Made in Bad Conditions, a Stiff Breeze Churning Up Heavy Seas.

KINGSDOWN, England, Aug. 6—(AP)—Gertude Ederle today conquered the English channel.

The 19-year-old New York girl, swimming the grim waters in 14 hours and 31 minutes, thus became the first of her sex to accomplish the feat which has been performed by only five men before her. She left Cape Gris Nez at 7:09 o'clock this morning and landed at Dover at 9:40 o'clock tonight.

Besides being the first woman to swim the channel, Miss Ederle set a new record for the feat, the best previous time being made by Sebastian Tirabocchi of Italy, who swam from Calais to Dover on August 11 and 12, 1923 in 16 hours and 23 minutes.

Miss Ederle walked triumphantly up the beach between the little village of Kingsdown and Walmer Castle. Deal, quite strong and fresh. The last few hundred yards of the swim were watched from the shore by thousands of visitors from all parts of the country sojourning at the seaside resort of Deal. They collected all available material to build a bonfire on the beach to guide the plucky American girl as she neared her goal.

Thus she finished the feat in a blaze lighting the coast for miles, as the accompanying tugs burned flares and displayed searchlights.

The swimmer refused all offers of help in landing. Waving all aside, she walked out of the surf unaided, amid tremendous outbursts of cheering which completely drowned the tugboats' sirens. She was so fresh she even wanted to plunge into the sea again to swim back to the boat lying some 200 yards out, but this was not allowed, and she was rowed back to the boat, and helped aboard for the return trip to Cape Gris-Nez.

The latter part of the swim was accomplished in bad conditions, a stiff breeze churning up heavy seas, and there was a slight rain. The scene as Miss Ederle finished the last few hundred yards was intensely thrilling. The blaze of light enabled the great crowd which had gathered, mostly women, to watch the swimmers strokes, and the enthusiasm among the women spectators over this triumph of one their sex knew no bounds.

MOTHER OF GERTRUDE EXPRESSES HER PRIDE

HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 6—(AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Ederle, mother of the 19-year-old conqueror of the English channel, tonight declared she was "a very proud mother," almost duplicating the words of her daughter when she walked up Kingsdown beach.

When found in her seaside cottage by an Associated Press reporter, Mrs. Ederle was yet without the details of her daughter's accomplishment and while she asked eagerly about Gertrude's physical condition after the swim, evinced no surprise when told the girl had left the water fresh and strong.

"We are all proud of her," the reporter said.

"Yes," was the reply, "I think we all ought to be."

"She is a wonderful kid and had all the confidence in the world in her own ability. She would undoubtedly have made it last year if they hadn't taken her out of the water. Gertrude was nowhere near collapse."

SIXTH PERSON TO SWIM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)— Miss Gertrude Ederle's record-breaking swim across the English channel today is the sixth time this turbulent stretch of water has been conquered in something over a half century.

The record of the five previous triumphs, all by men, follow:

August 24-25, 1875, by Captain Matthew Webb of Eastbourne, England, Dover Zanda, England, to Sangatte Beach, France. Time, 22 hours, 45 minutes. Estimated distance traveled, 39 miles. (Second attempt).

Sept. 5-6, 1911, by Thomas W. Burgess of London, England. Dover admiralty pier to Cape Gris Nez, France. Time, 22 hours, 35 minutes. Estimated distance travelled, 39 miles. (Nineteenth attempt).

Aug. 5-6, 1923, by Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass. Dover admiralty pier to Cape Gris Nez. Time 27 hours, 22 minutes. Estimated distance covered, 55 miles. (Third attempt).

Aug. 11-12, 1923, by Sebastian Tirabocchi of Buenos Aires, an Italian. Cape Gris Nez to Dover Sanda, England. Time 16 hours, 23 minutes. Estimated distance traveled 27 miles. (Third attempt).

Sept. 8-9, 1923, by Charles Toth of Boston. Cape Gris Nez to Dover Sanda. Time, 16 hours, 54 minutes. Estimated distance traveled, 28 miles. (Twelfth attempt.)

SKETCH OF THE CAREER OF GERTRUDE EDERLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Born and raised on the sidewalks of New York's west side, the daughter of a German butcher, Gertrude Ederle carried into her successful channel swimming attempt today the heritage of a sturdy physique and unswerving determination backed by training that has convinced experts she is the greatest woman swimmer of all time.

When Miss Ederle left amateur ranks a year ago for a professional career she left a record of achievement in speed and stamina rivalled by few feminine aquatic stars and unsurpassed by any in a generation which has seen women's swimming develop at an astonishing pace.

"Trudie"—as she is called by her family and friends—learned to swim as soon as she could toddle into the surf of the Atlantic ocean off Highlands, N. J., where the Ederles had a summer cottage.

At the age of about 15 she joined the Women's Swimming association of New York and developed quickly under the tutelage of L. De B. Handley, coach of that organization.

Broad shouldered, of strong, muscular build, Miss Ederle quickly mastered the famous crawl stroke, which has revolutionized speed swimming in the past few years. Her first bid for fame came three years ago in a three-mile ocean race for the Joseph P. Day cup, which she won by defeating such stars as Helen Wainwright, then the all-around amateur champion, and Hilda James, the English champion. She followed this by repeated victories at distances varying from 50 yards to a half-mile. She shattered world's records right and left, six of them falling to her credit in one day's performance.

In preparation for, her first attempt to swim the English channel last year she swam from the Battery to Sandy Hook, a distance of 21 miles, in seven hours, beating the men's record. Although frustrated abroad later, the American girl covered close to 30 miles in eight hours, in spite of rough water, setting a record for channel swimming before she was forced to quit.

Upon her return home Miss Ederle partially blamed her trainer, Jabez Wolff, for her failure, asserting he had her pulled out of the water when she was still able to go on. Wolff countered with the statement that Miss Ederle did not train properly for her try.

This year, however, the American girl put herself under the direction of Thomas W. Burgess, one of the five men who have succeeded in swimming the channel.

WALLINGFORD RESIDENTS HEARD FIVE SHOTS

WALLINGFORD, Conn., Aug. 6—(AP)—Five residents of this city in the section where the bullet-riddled body of Robert De Molin, "the Dixie Kid" of Long Island City, who was murdered on Wednesday, was found declared today that they had heard five shots fired about 10.30 o'clock the night before the body was discovered.

Coroner Eli Mix of New Haven, who is in charge of the investigation, declared tonight that all angles of the murder have been investigated in this state and that the rest of the case was in the hands of the New York and Providence, R. I., police.

The trail led to the Rhode Island city, when it was learned from the widow of the dead man that he had gone there on business last Tuesday in the company of a man named Tony. She also told the authorities that she had received a telephone call from her husband in that city about Tuesday noon.

Howard M. Cooke, a local automobile dealer, who motored past the probable scene of the murder, declared that he and other motorists on the road had heard five gunshots about

CABLED PARAGAPHS

BERLIN, Aug. 6—(AP)—The Morgenpost says America's control of the world production of zinc is already responsible for an increase of fifty per cent over the pre-war price levels for this metal.

LONDON, Aug. 6—(AP)—The British government refuses to become alarmed at the receipt of reports of ultimatums flung back and forth between Bulgaria and Jugo Slavia in consequence of border raids.

TOKYO, Aug. 7—(AP)—The far eastern flood situation is improving. The latest reports from Akita say the flood in the prefecture of that name is subsiding. The casualties were relatively few. The rice crop loss is placed at 2,000,000 yen.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 6—(AP)—A dispatch to "La Nacion" from Rio Grande Do Sul, says that Bernardo Duggan and his fellow aviators who have been missing since Monday on their flight from New York to Buenos Aires, have arrived at Rio Grande do Sul. If the weather permits the Argentine flyer will continue his trip tomorrow, hopping off for Montevideo.

ROME, Aug. 6—(AP)—Peasants in some parts of Italy blame Commander Nobile's north pole flight for the bad weather, which has been disastrous to their crops. Reports from the provinces quote them as insisting that the Norge's trip over the top of the world "scrambled the air currents" and brought about the intense storms which Italy has been suffering. The weather this summer has been the worst for the crops in many decades.

CREDITORS LOSE LEGAL FIGHT IN GILPATRIC CASE

HARTFORD, Aug. 5.—(AP)—United States District Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in a decision filed with the clerk of the court today, upheld the recommendation of Edward M. Leomans as special master in the matter of G. Harold Gilpatrick, bankrupt, and orders Trustee Arthur E. Howard, Jr., to turn over to the petitioner, George W. Gilpatric, certain capital stock of the Whipple and Gilpatric corporation, on payment of $6,000, together with accrued interest on that sum.

In the report of Trustee Howard, to Referee in Bankruptcy Saul Berman, on January 27, the value of the Whipple and Gilpatric stock was given as $61,064, and was included in the $70,-739.18 the trustee at that time hoped to obtain for the creditors. The court decision reduces the sum realized by the creditors by about $55,000. Judge Thomas ordering the petitioner (the estate of George W. Gilpatric) to turn over to the trustee $6,000, with interest, when the stock would be returned.

The $6,000 to be paid the trustee for the stock is the amount of a lien held by the City Bank and Trust company, which was for a pledge given by the bank on the stock.

The special master heard the petition of George W. Gilpatric, father of the bankrupt, for the return of the stock, and recommended that the petition be granted, to which the trustee took exception. In overruling the exceptions, the court points out that the special master had made 78 findings in his report, to most of which no exception was taken, definite exception being taken in but one instance.

HOSTILITY IN FRANCE TO DEBT RATIFICATION

PARIS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Hostility to Premier Poincare's proposed move to push for ratification of the debt agreements with the United States and Great Britain, expressed in the parliamentary lobbies this afternoon, has caused the government to postpone discussion of the pacts in a ministerial council tomorrow, as was planned. Instead, the ministers will meet Monday.

M. Bergener, ambassador to the United States, who negotiated the Washington debt agreement, has deferred his departure for the United States, set for tomorrow, until the situation is straightened out by ratification. He said today he expected ratification before the close of the present session.

M. Poincare's original intention, as sent out in the form of a trial baloon this morning, was to get the chamber and senate finance and foreign affairs committees, to frame "reporters," to bring in recommendations for ratification of both agreements as soon as the senate and chamber sitting at Versailles Tuesday as a national assembly had made the premier's sinking fund bill an organic law of the land.

However, the opposition of the chamber's so-called republican union group—remnants of the old national bloc—which is represented in the cabinet by Minister of Pensions Marin, caused the premier to change his mind.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Louis Sherry, restauranteur of international fame, who died last June, left an estate of approximately $1,000,000, it was revealed today with the appointment of a temporary administrator and executor. Among the assets were three notes, amounting to approximately $353,000, given by the late Frank A. Munsey, newspaper and magazine publisher.

Today's appointments followed action by Mrs. Dorothy M. Ingersoll, a granddaughter of the restaurateur, contesting the will on the ground her grandfather was not sound of mind when he executed the will and that he was under undue influence. She was not left any bequest. The Guaranty Trust company was appointed temporary administrator by Surrogate Foley and the bank and F. Herbert Wadsworth were appointed co-executors.

Mrs. Marie Bertha Sherry, the widow, was named chief beneficiary in the will, and the Presbyterian hospital was designated as residuary legatee. Mr. Sherry's property consisted of cash, stocks and real estate.

TO ESTABLISH A ZOO ON THE MILFORD TURNPIKE

HARTFORD, Aug. 6—(AP)—A privately owned zoo, housing foxes, chinchilla rabbits, white deer, bear, pheasants and numerous other animals will flourish this fall on a large farm bordering the Milford turnpike, half way between Milford and New Haven, Stephen F. Dunn, of New Haven announced tonight.

The farm will specialize in the buying and selling of silver black foxes.

Believing that the fox industry is on the decline in Canada, because of financial conditions, James H. Dunn, veteran fox farm organizer and manager, is behind the movement to launch the Milford project. Until recently, Mr. Dunn has been manager of a small fox farm at Bethany, the only other fox farm in the state.

Horrible Murder of Mother by Maniac Son

Act Perpetrated in a Frenzy When Mother Declined to Comply With Son's Demand for Money.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 6—(AP)—A night of horror for Mrs. Etta B. Bearse, fighting for life with her maniac son, ended at last early this morning with her death from the shock of the horrible attack. Tonight, Richard C. Bearse, the son, still able to tell only an incoherent story of his frenzied acts, remained in the care of the police. A plea of not guilty to the charge of murder was entered for him this afternoon and before August 13 alienists will retur na report of their examination.

Such a report is necessary for the court to send him to the state asylum at Bridgewater but it was at once apparent to the police when they burst their way into the kitchen of the home where mother and son lived, that the murder was the act of a madman.

The crime caused horrified surprise throughout the city. Fred S. Bearse, the divorced husband of the dead woman and father of the slayer, has long been prominent in the city and since 1913 has been treasurer of Hampden county. He had seen his son yesterday afternoon and at that time the 26 year old youth appeared entirely normal and spoke hopefully of being able to start in business for himself.

Police found a possible clue to the cause of the terrible rage which swept the son in this statement. Mrs. Bearse, although she divorced her husband in Reno in 1912, was still supported by her former husband and possessed in addition property she had inherited from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O. Bartholomew.

Young Bearse, although he never gave evidence of insanity, was known to have a violent and easily stirred temper. The theory has been advanced that he tried to secure money from his mother with which to set up in business and that the argument when she refused led to the unbalancing of his mind.

The torture of Mrs. Bearse apparently began soon after midnight. Her son returned home at that time from a visit to a girl friend in the city. It was about 6:30 when a woman neighbor, who did not make herself known, telephoned the police that something was wrong in the Bearse home.

The police investigated but found the house dark and silent. Being unable to locate the woman who had called them, they returned. An hour later the same woman reported again that she had heard screams. She added that the disturbance first attracted her attention at 3.30.

The police hastened back to the house and burst in. They were too late. Bearse sat on the kitchen floor, blood covered, holding the mutilated body that had been his mother.

"She died twice in the night and I revived her once," he said simply to the officers.

The first part of his tale seemed logical enough. "I arrived at my mother's house at about 11.30 or 12 o'clock last night," he said, "after spending the evening with my friend. Mother was not feeling well when I arrived so I got her a drink of water. She said her lips were burning. I got some cough drops and then I threw water over her. She had been sick for a long time and I wanted to relieve the pain."

Then her sense stopped and madness began. "Her eyes looked bad so I took them out," he said. And again, "to wash away her sins" was the reason he gave for his fearful mutilation.

The police believed the woman must have lived for some time after the attack began. Apparently no weapon was used, for none was found. After the first onset the woman fainted, the police believe, but later revived, which would explain the statement of the madman that he resuscitated her. Then the unspeakable attack continued until death relieved the torture. Shock was the cause of death, Medical Examiner Jones found.

Etta S. Bearse was born in Springfield about 55 years ago. Her parents are dead but her sister, Mrs. Bertram W. Smith, lives in Providence. She married on March 17, 18991, and her son was born Sept. 10, 1899. In 1912 she secured her divorce.

Her husband began as a newsboy in Springfield, where he was born in 1871. He served on the city council and board of aldermen and spent four years in the state legislature before becoming county treasurer, which office he has held since 1918. Although his wife had divorced him, he continued to contribute to her support beside allowing her to live with their son in the house where the latter was born. He made his home with his parents.

A check which he had sent recently to Mrs. Bearse was found in the house.

The son was a star basketball player while a student in the Technical High school. In 1924 he was graduated from Northeastern university in Boston as a mechanical engineer. Until July 1 he was employed by the Springfield Gas Light company. He spent last week at Grove Beach, Conn., with a school friend and returned to Springfield a few days ago to make arrangements for starting his own business.

Tilson to Open Rep. Headquarters in N. Y.

At Plymouth Congressman Tilson Discussed a Number of Subjects With President Coolidge

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 6—(AP)—President Coolidge was informed today by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, republican floor leader in the house, that joint eastern senatorial and congressional campaign headquarters would be opened in New York next week.

Mr. Tilson, who is to open the offices himself, came with Mrs. Tilson by automobile from Lake Sunapee, N. H., where he has a camp, and remained for lunch with the president and Mrs. Coolidge at the old homestead where the latter are visiting for a few days.

A number of subjects were said to have been discussed by the president and Mr. Tilson, but the political situation was not taken up in detail. After the eastern campaign offices have been opened, Mr. Tilson expects to go to White Pine camp in the Adirondacks and report on the situation at some length to Mr. Coolidge. At present, he said today, reports received from various sections of the country on the congressional campaign were "comfortable."

The visit of Mr. Tilson afforded the president the first opportunity since he has come here to discuss governmental conditions. But later in the day he followed his custom of receiving newspaper correspondents as he does every Friday in Washington.

President Coolidge plans to return to the Adirondacks Monday.

Keeping Tabs on Trade Opportunities

Whatever the line of business there is always something in connection therewith that the people want. They may or may not have the time to go in search for it, but they are nevertheless learning every day to rely upon the newspaper to tell them where such things are to be found. For that reason the advertising columns are not only rendering an invaluable service to the readers but they are providing the merchants with a salesman of the greatest importance, for such service can be obtained in no other way in such a satisfactory and thorough manner.

When consideration is given to the fact that The Bulletin is read every day by about 65,000 people, going into every nook and corner of Eastern Connecticut, it must be appreciated that if the merchant is to keep in touch with those who are seeking to have their wants filled, he cannot afford to overlook the opportunity offered by The Bulletin's advertising columns. The buyers have no better way of keeping close tabs on trade opportunities.

AUTO WITH FIVE PERSONS TOPPLED INTO A CANAL

MONTREAL, Aug. 6—(AP)—An automobile believed to have held five persons was toppled into the Soulanges canal near Coteau Landing, about 25 miles from here, tonight in a collision with another car.

The bodies of an unidentified man and woman were recovered from the canal three hours later by searchers who continued to dive for the bodies of the other persons believed to have been riding in the car.

D. M. STEWART NAMED TO SUCCEED SENATOR CUMMINS

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 6—(AP)—David W. Stewart, Sioux City lawyer, today was nominated by Iowa republicans as their candidate for the unexpired term of Senator Albert B. Cummins, who died a week ago today.

TRIAL OF W. C. GAINES FOR MURDER OF DAUGHTER

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 6—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Stokes testified today that a a man she and her husband saw near Sylvia Gaines, Smith college graduate, the night of June 16, when Miss Gaines was brutally slain on the margin of Green lake in this city was not Wallace Cloyes Gaines, father of the dead girl, who is on trial charged with murder.

Mrs. Stokes, who the night of June 16 was on her way with her husband from a theatre, testified that after meeting Miss Gaines walking briskly on a trail on the lake shore and near a grove where the body was found the next day, they saw a man whose appearance alarmed them.

Mrs. Stokes told the jury that she remarked to her husband: "That man will get that girl."

Other witnesses had related indications that the body of the girl was dragged from the margin of the lake into the grove and declared it was stripped of clothing except for a ribbon around the neck. Miss Gaines had been choked and had been beaten about the head. A stained rock was found nearby.

BRITISH REGULATION OF THE EXPORT OF RUBBER

LONDON, Aug. 6—(AP)—The British colonial office today announced it has been decided that the provisions regulating the rubber export from Ceylon and Malaya, officially announced on April 16, will apply to the current quarter and to future quarters, unless and until it may be decided to modify them.

In any case these provisions will be applied unmodified in so far as they concern an average price of 21 pence during the current quarter and the consequential percentage of release of rubber under the Stevenson plan, during the quarter beginning November 1 at the minimum rate of duty.

S. O. S. CALL FROM STEAMER SOMEWHERE OFF BERMUDA

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(AP)—The naval communications bureau tonight reported the receipt of an S. O. S. call from the steamer Antonio, somewhere off Bermuda. All broadcasting stations were ordered shut down until definite location of the distressed vessel could be established, naval officials said.

The call was picked up by the navy radio station here at 8.40 p. m. and broadcasting stations, which had been ordered shut down pending efforts to establish communication with the Antonio, were allowed to resume traffic at 9:05 p. m., when it was believed the vessel was in no immediate distress.

The Antonio, a British vessel of 31 68 net tons, sailed from Hampton Roads August 3, for St. Vincent, Cape Verde.

A gale of hurricane proportions was sweeping Bermuda today, interfering with all shipping. The steamer Fort St. George, due at Hamilton, Bermuda, today from New York, was hove to 40 miles away, unable to enter port because of the gale. Small pleasure craft in Hamilton harbor were swamped and ferry service between Hamilton, Paget and Somerset was stopped.

KEHOE FOUND GUILTY OF MILK GRAFT CHARGES

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)—William H. Kehoe, former assistant corporation counsel, was found guilty tonight of conspiracy in connection with bootleg milk graft charges, by a jury in general sessions court.

He was ordered committed to Tombs prison for sentence August 13 by Judge Leving, who denied application for release under $10,000 bail. Kehoe faces a maximum sentence of three years' imprisonment and a $500 fine.

Kehoe was indicted June 1, charged with conspiracy to bring milk and cream from unauthorized sources into the city.

CONTROVERSY IN MEXICO AN ENDURANCE CONTEST

Government is Conducting a Propaganda Campaign and Issuing Literature in an Effort to Convince the People That the Government's Attitude is the Proper One—Catholics Have Abandoned Debates in Fear of Clashes—Observers See Little Prospect of a General Uprising or Violence—Effect of Boycott Yet to be Revealed.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6—(AP)—Both sides to the religious controversy in Mexico, the efforts of would-be peace intermediaries having been unavailing, apparently are prepared for an indefinite endurance contest.

The propaganda campaign is being continued, but it is much more apparent upon the side of the government supporters who, under the leadership of the regional confederation of labor and political groups are touring the nation, addressing the people and issuing literature with the object of convincing the men and women of the country that the government's attitude is the proper one.

The newspapers are extremely cautious. They do not touch on the religious situation editorially, and print only meagre news items, the proprietors fearing arrest or closure of their plants.

Catholic leaders have announced they will not have a representative tonight at the Mexico City theatre when a government supporter will talk on the religious question. Heretofore these debates have drawn great crowds, government officials and leading Catholics presenting their respective arguments, and the government broadcasting the speeches of both sides. It is understood the decision of the Catholic leaders not to debate tonight was taken in fear of clashes. Government representations will speak, nevertheless, the "debate" becoming merely a presentation of the government's side.

Most observers have ceased to think there is any prospect, for the present at least, of general uprisings of violence, although belated dispatches, giving details of clashes in various parts of the country several days ago reveal that they were more serious than at first reported. One of these dispatches, telling of a clash at Guadalajara Sunday says that troops had to be rushed to battle with the crowd, five persons being badly wounded, including the assistant chief of police. Two policemen and a number of civilians received minor injuries.

The trouble began when the chief of the local secret service was insulted by a crowd while passing the Church of Jesus. When the chief remonstrated with the crowd, they attacked and killed him. His body showed seven stab wounds, a bullet wound and many bruises.

General speculation is centering on how long the economic boycott, designed by the league for the defense of religious freedom, can continue and how serious it can become. From many sections of the republic reports have come in that Catholics are making only the most necessary purchases in the hope of compelling the government to revise the religious regulations. Many business houses, whose business already was depressed before the religious situation developed, say that they are beginning to feel the reduction or cessation of purchases.

Another Catholic priest, Father Juan Marin, in charge of the church of Santa Ines, Puebla, is said by the military commandant of Puebla to have expressed readiness to adhere to the religious regulations and register with the municipal authorities. From Pachuca it is reported a priest there has accepted the regulations, while four other priests are expected to line themselves on the side of the government.

Previously Father Dimas Anguiano, of the state of Vera Cruz, was reported to have accepted the religious regulations, his church being returned to him by the municipal committee when he announced his intention.

About a dozen persons have been killed in recent clashes in various parts of the republic growing out of the religious situation, according to reports received by the Mexican episcopate. It is also announced by the episcopate it is informed the economic blockade is most successful in the state of Michocacan, wherein cities and villages the people are wearing mourning, and theatres, motion picture houses and stores are almost deserted.

The Episcopate's information is that five Catholics and several soldiers were killed at Guadalajara on Tuesday in a battle in front of a church which federal troops were occupying; that two persons were killed and another was wounded outside the Church of Jesus at Guadalajara in a clash between Catholics and police. At Tlajomulco, a small town near Guadalajara, there was a similar clash in which several persons were killed, but no details are given. In another village, Covula, it is reported that a crowd killed the district judge who was attempting to make an inventory of the treasures of the parish church.

U. S. SENDS NOTE TO MEXICO ON PETROLEUM LAND LAWS

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6—(AP)—Ambassador Sheffield has delivered a new United States note with reference to Mexico's petroleum and land laws to the Mexican foreign office, it was learned today from circles close to the foreign office. The American embassy has refused to affirm or deny the existence of the note.

In well informed circles it is believed that a revival of the discussion may make the last word of the United States before the departure of Ambassador Sheffield on Aug. 12 for a vacation in the United States. It is thought that the purpose of the note is to get the final cards on the table to put the ambassador in a position to take the matter up with President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg.

TO PLACE K. OF C. PROTEST BEFORE STATE DEPARTMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A committee of the Knights of Columbus is to place formally the resolution adopted by the supreme council of the K. of C. regarding the religious situation in Mexico before the state department at Washington.

Appointment of the committee was discussed today by James A. Flaherty, supreme knight, and leading delegates to the organization's annual convention. Definite decision as to how the matter would be taken before the state department will not be reached until next week, Mr. Flaherty said.

The resolution called upon President Coolidge and the state department to intervene in the Mexican situation, authorized a fund of $1,000,000 to combat communistic propaganda in Mexico and the United States and appealed to the American Federation of Labor to join in the fight to protect Mexican labor from "militarism and communism."

REBEL LEADERS ON WAR PATH IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Vidales brothers, rebel leaders of the state of Guerrero, are reported to be on the war path again. With 500 followers they are said to be in rebellion against the state government.

The Vidales for a long time have been carrying on armed opposition to the authorities. Late last month dispatches from Acapulco said that federal troops had defeated an outlaw headed by them in the state of Guerrero, killing six and wounding four of the rebels.

$500 REWARD OFFERED FOR RECAPTURE OF LEOPARD

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Spurred by the offer of a $500 reward a jungle hunt tonight was in full cry on the trail of an Indian leopard which yesterday escaped from Oliver W. Holton's private zoo at Middletown.

The search during the day led heavily-armed posses to the 135 acre estate near here of Robert Adamson, New York banker, and to the Harry Payne Whitney estate at Lyncroft.

At the Adamson estate, the hunters were rewarded with the sight of 50 prints in the soft earth, unmistakably feline. The only clue found on the Whitney grounds was a dog which appeared to have come off second best in anencounter with some animal.

The authorities today informed 40 applicants for pistol permits that they would not be prosecuted if found in the woods with firearms. The original reward of $100 offered by the zoo owners has been increased to $500 for the leopard, dead or alive. It is six years old and weighs 75 pounds.

Mr. Holton was of the opinion that the beast would harm no human. He said it would make a lair in the woods and prey on small animals, and if not captured would perish when cold weather sets in.

He turned a large farm into a zoo more than a year ago and has gathered there birds and beasts from all corners of the universe.

DAIRY INDUSTRY IN NEW ENGLAND NOT FLOURISHING

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Statistics covering two decades were cited at an interstate commerce commission hearing here today to show that the New England dairy industry was not in a flourishing condition.

Wesley H. Bronson, head of the research department of the New England Milk Producers' association, testified that there was now less young dairy stock on the farms than a few years ago; that there had been a material increase in five years in the number of mortgaged farms; that Boston milk dealers had been forced farther afield until now some milk was brough to the city from a distance of 300 miles, and some cream from Minnesota. The witness was opposing the petition of four New England railroads for an increase in milk transportation rates.

The hearing will probably close tomorrow until August 30.

MOTHER COMES FOR YOUTH WHO RAN AWAY FROM QUEBEC

HARTFORD, Aug. 6—(AP)—More than two years ago William Dukesta, Jr., ran away from home in Quebec, Canada, and, according to his story told to Hartford police last May when he was picked up on a charge of vagrancy, he toured the United States, visiting all parts of the country. At the time of his arrest he was 13 years old and had not heard from his family or written to his mother in the two years he had been away.

Today his mother came to Hartford where William is being held at the Hartford county jail, waiting deportation to Canada because when he came into the United States he neglected to conform to the proper inspection and "was in danger of becoming a public charge."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Emma F. Cook

Waterbury, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Emma F. (Cummings) Cook, 74, wife of Dr. Frank F. Cook, a lineal descendant of John and Priscilla T. Alden, for many years prominent in state and local temperance work, and at the head of the Waterbury Woman's Christian Temperance union, died at her home here this morning, as the result of a shock. She was a member of the Waterbury Women's club, of the Matticent Porter chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Second Congregational church. She was born in Portland, Maine, and lived in Cordova, Ill., until her marriage, in 1875, since which time she has lived in Litchfield and Waterbury. She is survived by her husband, two sons and a grand son. Another son, Dr. Frank C. Cook, a government chemist, died in Washington, D. C., three years ago. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at her home here.

GERTRUDE EDERLE SWIMS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL IN RECORD TIME, 14H. 31M.

Best Previous Time Was 16 Hours and 23 Minutes—Nineteen Year Old New York Girl the First of Her Sex to Accomplish the Feat—Left Cape Gris Nez, France at 7.09 A. M. and Landed at Dover, England, at 9.40 p. m.—Miss Ederle Was Strong and Fresh at Finish as She Walked Triumphantly Up the Beach—The Latter Part of the Swim Was Made in Bad Conditions, a Stiff Breeze Churning Up Heavy Seas.

KINGSDOWN, England, Aug. 6—(AP)—Gertrude Ederle today conquered the English channel.

The 19-year-old New York girl, swimming the grim waters in 14 hours and 31 minutes, thus became the first of her sex to accomplish the feat which has been performed by only five men before her. She left Cape Gris Nes at 7:09 o'clock this morning and landed at Dover at 9:40 o'clock tonight.

Besides being the first woman to swim the channel, Miss Ederle set a new record for the feat, the best previous time being made by Sebastian Tirabocchi of Italy, who swam from Calais to Dover on August 11 and 12, 1923 in 16 hours and 23 minutes.

Miss Ederle walked triumphantly up the beach between the little village of Kingsdown and Walmer Castle, Deal, quite strong and fresh. The last few hundred yards of the swim were watched from the shore by thousands of visitors from all parts of the country sojourning at the seaside resort of Deal. They collected all available material to build a bonfire on the beach to guide the plucky American girl as she neared her goal.

Thus she finished the feat in a blaze lighting the coast for miles, as the accompanying tugs burned flares and displayed searchlights.

The swimmer refused all offers of help in landing. Waving all aside, she walked out of the surf unaided, amid tremendous outbursts of cheering which completely drowned the tugboat sirens. She was so fresh she even wanted to plunge into the sea again to swim back to the boat lying some 200 yards out, but this was not allowed, and she was rowed back to the boat, and helped aboard for the return trip to Cape Gris-Nes.

The latter part of the swim was accomplished in bad conditions, a stiff breeze churning up heavy seas, and there was a slight rain. The scene as Miss Ederle finished the last few hundred yards was intensely thrilling. The blaze of light enabled the great crowd which had gathered, mostly women, to watch the swimmers strokes, and the enthusiasm among the women spectators over this triumph of one their sex knew no bounds.

MOTHER OF GERTRUDE EXPRESSES HER PRIDE

HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 6—(AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Ederle, mother of the 19-year-old conqueror of the English channel, tonight declared she was "a very proud mother," almost duplicating the words of her daughter when she walked up Kingsdown beach.

When found in her seaside cottage by an Associated Press reporter, Mrs. Ederle was not yet without the details of her daughter's accomplishment and while she asked eagerly about Gertrude's physical condition after the swim, evinced no surprise when told the girl had left the water fresh and strong.

"We are all proud of her," the reporter said.

"Yes," was the reply, "I think we all ought to be."

"She is a wonderful kid and had all the confidence in the world in her own ability. She would undoubtedly have made it last year if they hadn't taken her out of the water. Gertrude was nowhere near collapse."

SIXTH PERSON TO SWIM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)— Miss Gertrude Ederle's record-breaking swim across the English channel today is the sixth time this turbulent stretch of water has been conquered in something over a half century.

The record of the five previous triumphs, all by men, follow:

August 24-25, 1875, by Captain Matthew Webb of Eastbourne, England. Dover Zands, England, to Sangatte Beach, France. Time, 22 hours, 45 minutes. Estimated distance traveled, 39 miles. (Second attempt).

Sept. 5-6, 1911, by Thomas W. Burgess of London, England. Dover admiralty pier to Cape Gris Nez, France. Time, 22 hours, 35 minutes. Estimated distance travelled, 39 miles. (Nineteenth attempt).

Aug. 5-6, 1923, by Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass. Dover admiralty pier to Cape Gris Nez. Time 27 hours, 23 minutes. Estimated distance covered, 45 miles. (Third attempt).

Aug. 11-12, 1923, by Sebastian Tirabocchi of Buenos Aires, an Italian. Cape Gris Nez to Dover Sands, England. Time 16 hours, 23 minutes. Estimated distance traveled 27 miles. (Third attempt).

Sept. 8-9, 1923, by Charles Toth of Boston. Cape Gris Nez to Dover Sands. Time, 16 hours, 54 minutes. Estimated distance traveled, 28 miles (Twelfth attempt.)

SKETCH OF THE CAREER OF GERTRUDE EDERLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Born and raised on the sidewalks of New York's west side, the daughter of a German butcher, Gertrude Ederle carried into her successful channel swimming attempt today the heritage of a sturdy physique and unswerving determination backed by training that has convinced experts she is the greatest woman swimmer of all time.

When Miss Ederle left amateur ranks 6 year ago for a professional career she left a record of achievement in speed and stamina rivalled by few feminine aquatic stars and unsurpassed by any in a generation which has seen women's swimming develop at so astonishing pace.

"Trudie"—as she is called by her family and friends—learned to swim as soon as she could toddle into the surf of the Atlantic ocean off Highlands, N. J., where the Ederles had a summer cottage. At the age of about 15 she joined the Women's Swimming association of New York and developed quickly under the tutelage of L. De B. Handley, coach of that organization.

Broad shouldered, of strong, muscular build, Miss Ederle quickly mastered the famous crawl stroke, which has revolutionized speed swimming in the past few years. Her first bid for fame came three years ago in a three-mile ocean race for the Joseph P. Day cup, which she won by defeating such stars as Helen Wainwright, then the all-around amateur champion, and Hilda James, the English champion. She followed this by repeated victories at distances varying from 50 yards to a half-mile. She shattered world's records right and left, six of them falling to her credit in one day's performance.

In preparation for, her first attempt to swim the English channel last year she swam from the Battery to Sandy Hook, a distance of 21 miles, in seven hours, beating the men's record. Although frustrated abroad later, the American girl covered close to 30 miles in eight hours, in spite of rough water, setting a record for channel swimming before she was forced to quit.

Upon her return home Miss Ederle partially blamed her trainer, Jabez Wolff, for her failure, asserting he had her pulled out of the water when she was still able to go on. Wolff countered with the statement that Miss Ederle did not train properly for her try.

This year, however, the American girl put herself under the direction of Thomas W. Burgess, one of the five men who have succeeded in swimming the channel.

WALLINGFORD RESIDENTS HEARD FIVE SHOTS

WALLINGFORD, Conn., Aug. 6—(AP)—Five residents of this city in the section where the bullet-riddled body of Robert De Mojin, "the Dixie Kid" of Long Island City, who was murdered on Wednesday, was found declared today that they had heard five shots fired about 10.30 o'clock the night before the body was discovered.

Coroner Eli Mix of New Haven, who is in charge of the investigation, declared tonight that all angles of the murder have been investigated in this state and that the rest of the case was in the hands of the New York and Providence, R. I., police.

The trail led to the Rhode Island city, when it was learned from the widow of the dead man that he had gone there on business last Tuesday in the company of a man named Tony. She also told the authorities that she had received a telephone call from her husband in that city about Tuesday noon.

Howard M. Cooke, a local automobile dealer, who motored past the probable scene of the murder, declared that he and other motorists on the road had heard five gunshots about 10.30 o'clock on the night of the murder. He said that all traffic on the highway slowed up, but that to the best of his knowledge none stopped.

Willis E. Rose, a farmer, and his wife, Lettie, and Charles F. Edell, and his wife, Fannie, also testified to hearing shots at about the same time and in the same locality. The testimony of Cooke was offered independently or that of the other four.

TRIAL OF W. C. GAINES FOR MURDER OF DAUGHTER

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 6—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Stokes testified today that a man she and her husband saw near Sylvia Gaines, Smith college graduate, the night of June 16, when Miss Gaines was brutally slain on the margin of Green lake in this city was not Wallace Cleyes Gaines, father of the dead girl, who is on trial charged with murder.

Mrs. Stokes, who the night of June 16 was on her way with her husband from a theatre, testified that after meeting Miss Gaines walking briskly on a trail on the lake shore and near a grove where the body was found the next day, they saw a man whose appearance alarmed them.

Mrs. Stokes told the jury that she remarked to her husband: "That man will get that girl."

Other witnesses had related indications that the body of the girl was dragged from the margin of the lake into the grove and declared it was stripped of clothing except for a ribbon around the neck. Miss Gaines had been choked and had been beaten about the head. A stained rock was found nearby.

AUTO WITH FIVE PERSONS TOPPLED INTO A CANAL

MONTREAL, Aug. 6—(AP)—An automobile believed to have held five persons was toppled into the Soulanges canal near Cotsau Landing, about 35 miles from here, tonight in a collision with another car.

The bodies of an unidentified man and woman were recovered from the canal three hours later by searchers who continued to dive for the bodies of the other persons believed to have been riding in the car.

D. M. STEWART NAMED TO SUCCEED SENATOR CUMMINS

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 6—(AP)—David W. Stewart, Sioux City lawyer, today was nominated by Iowa republicans as their candidate for the unexpired term of Senator Albert B. Cummins, who died a week ago today.

CABLED PARAGAPHS

BERLIN, Aug. 6—(AP)—The Morgenpost says America's control of the world production of zinc is already responsible for an increase of fifty per cent over the pre-war price levels for this metal.

LONDON, Aug. 6—(AP)—The British government refuses to become alarmed at the receipt of reports to ultimatums flung back and forth between Bulgaria and Jugo Slavia in consequence of border raids.

TOKYO, Aug. 7—(AP)—The far eastern flood situation is improving. The latest reports from Akita say the flood in the prefecture of that name is subsiding. The casualties were relatively few. The rice crop loss is placed at 2,000,000 yen.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 6—(AP)—A dispatch to "La Nacion" from Rio Grande Do Sul, says that Bernardo Duggan and his fellow aviators who have been missing since Monday on their flight from New York to Buenos Aires, have arrived at Rio Grande do Sul. If the weather permits the Argentine flyer will continue his trip tomorrow, hopping off for Montevideo.

ROME, Aug. 6—(AP)—Peasants in some parts of Italy blame Commander Nobile's north pole flight for the bad weather, which has been disastrous to their crops. Reports from the provinces quote them as insisting that the Norge's trip over the top of the world "scrambled the air currents" and brought about the intense storms which Italy has been suffering. The weather this summer has been the worst for the crops in many decades.

CREDITORS LOSE LEGAL FIGHT IN GILPATRIC CASE

HARTFORD, Aug. 5.—(AP)—United States District Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in a decision filed with the clerk of the court today, uphold the recommendation of Edward M. Leeman as special master in the matter of G. Harold Gilpatrick, bankrupt, and orders Trustee Arthur E. Howard, Jr., to turn over to the petitioner, George W. Gilpatric, certain capital stock of the Whipple and Gilpatric corporation, on payment of $6,000, together with accrued interest, on that stock.

In the report of Trustee Howard, to Referee in Bankruptcy Saul Berman, on January 27, the value of the Whipple and Gilpatric stock was given as $61,064, and was included in the $70,-729 the trustee at that time hoped to obtain for the creditors. The court decision reduces the sum realized by the creditors by about $55,000. Judge Thomas ordering the petitioner (the estate of George W. Gilpatric) to turn over to the trustee $6,000, with interest, when the stock would be returned.

The $6,000 to be paid the trustee for the stock is the amount of a lien held by the City Bank and Trust company, which was for a pledge given by the bank on the stock.

The special master heard the petition of George W. Gilpatric, father of the bankrupt, for the return of the stock, and recommended that the petition be granted, to which the trustee took exception. In overruling the exception, the court points out that the special master had made findings in his report, to most of which no exception was taken, definite exception being taken in but one instance.

HOSTILITY IN FRANCE TO DEBT RATIFICATION

PARIS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Hostility to Premier Poincare's proposed move to push for ratification of the debt agreements with the United States and Great Britain, expressed in the parliamentary lobbies this afternoon, has caused the government to postpone discussion of the pacts to a ministerial council tomorrow, as was planned. Instead, the ministers will meet Monday.

M. Bergener, ambassador to the United States, who negotiated the Washington debt agreement, has deferred his departure for the United States, set for tomorrow, until the situation is straightened out by ratification. He said today he expected ratification before the close of the present session.

M. Poincare's original intention, as sent out in the form of a trial baloon, this morning, was to get the chamber and senate finance and foreign affairs committees, to frame "reporters," to bring in recommendations for ratification of both agreements as soon as the senate and chamber sitting at Versailles Tuesday as a national assembly had made the premier's sinking fund bill an organic law of the land.

However, the opposition of the chamber's so-called republican union group—remnants of the old national bloc—which is represented in the cabinet by Minister of Pensions Marin, caused the premier to change his mind.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Louis Sherry, restauranteur of international fame, who died last June, left an estate of approximately $1,000,000, it was revealed today with the appointment of a temporary administrator and executor. Among the assets were three notes, amounting to approximately $353,000, given by the late Frank A. Munsey, newspaper and magazine publisher.

Today's appointments followed action by Mrs. Dorothy M. Ingersoll, a granddaughter of the restaurateur, contesting the will on the ground her grandfather was not sound of mind when he executed the will and that he was under undue influence. She was not left any bequest. The Guaranty Trust company was appointed temporary administrator by Surrogate Foley and the bank and F. Herbert Wadsworth were appointed co-executors.

Mrs. Marie Bertha Sherry, the widow, was named chief beneficiary in the will, and the Presbyterian hospital was designated as residuary legatee. Mr. Sherry's property consisted of cash, stocks and real estate.

TO ESTABLISH A ZOO ON THE MILFORD TURNPIKE

HARTFORD, Aug. 6—(AP)—A privately owned zoo, housing foxes, chinchilla rabbits, white deer, bear, pheasants and numerous other animals will flourish this fall on a large farm bordering the Milford turnpike, half way between Milford and New Haven, Stephen F. Dunn, or New Haven announced tonight.

The farm will specialize in the buying and selling of silver black foxes.

Believing that the fox industry is on the decline in Canada, because of financial conditions, James H. Dunn, veteran fox farm organizer and manager, is behind the movement to launch the Milford project. Until recently, Mr. Dunn has been manager of a small fox farm at Bethany, the only other fox farm in the state.

Horrible Murder of Mother by Maniac Son

Act Perpetrated in a Frenzy When Mother Declined to Comply With Son's Demand for Money.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 6—(AP)—A night of horror for Mrs. Etta S. Bearse, fighting for life with her maniac son, ended at last early this morning with her death from the shock of the horrible attack. Tonight, Richard C. Bearse, the son, still able to tell only an incoherent story of his frenzied acts, remained in the care of the police. A plea of not guilty to the charge of murder was entered for him this afternoon and before August 13 alienists will retur na report of their examination.

Such a report is necessary for the court to send him to the state asylum at Bridgewater but it was at once apparent to the police when they burst their way into the kitchen of the home where mother and son lived, that the murder was the act of a madman.

The crime caused horrified surprise throughout the city. Fred S. Bearse, the divorced husband of the dead woman and father of the slayer, has long been prominent in the city and since 1912 has been treasurer of Hampden county. He had seen his son yesterday afternoon and at that time the 26 year old youth appeared entirely normal and spoke hopefully of being able to start in business for himself.

Police found a possible clue to the cause of the terrible rage which swept the son in this statement. Mrs. Bearse, although she divorced her husband in Reno in 1912, was still supported by her former husband and possessed in addition property she had inherited from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O. Bartholomew.

Young Bearse, although he never gave evidence of insanity, was known to have a violent and easily stirred temper. The theory has been advanced that he tried to secure money from his mother with which to set up in business and that the argument when she refused led to the unbalancing of his mind.

The torture of Mrs. Bearse apparently began soon after midnight. Her son returned home at that time from a visit to a girl friend in the city. It was about 6:30 when a woman neighbor, who did not make herself known, telephoned the police that something was wrong in the Bearse home.

The police investigated but found the house dark and silent. Being unable to locate the woman who had called them, they returned. An hour later the same woman reported again that she had heard screams. She added that the disturbance first attracted her attention at 3.30.

The police hastened back to the house and burst in. They were too late. Bearse sat on the kitchen floor, blood covered, holding the mutilated body that had been his mother.

"She died twice in the night and I revived her once," he said simply to the officers.

The first part of his tale seemed logical enough. "I arrived at my mother's house at about 11.30 or 12 o'clock last night," he said, "after spending the evening with my friend. Mother was not feeling well when I arrived so I got her a drink of water. She said her lips were burning. I got some cough drops and then I threw water over her. She had been sick for a long time and I wanted to relieve the pain."

There sense stopped and madness began. "Her eyes looked bad so I took them out," he said. And again, "to wash away her sins" was the reason he gave for his fearful mutilation.

The police believed the woman must have lived for some time after the attack began. Apparently no weapon was used, for none was found. After the first onset the woman fainted, the police believe, but later revived, which would explain the statement of the madman that he resuscitated her. Then the unspeakable attack continued until death relieved the torture. Shock was the cause of death, Medical Examiner Jones found.

Etta S. Bearse was born in Springfield about 55 years ago. Her parents are dead but her sister, Mrs. Bertram W. Smith, lives in Providence. She married on March 17, 18991, and her son was born Sept. 10, 1899. In 1912 she secured her divorce.

Her husband began as a newsboy in Springfield, where he was born in 1871. He served on the city council and board of aldermen and spent four years in the state legislature before becoming county treasurer, which office he has held since 1913. Although his wife had divorced him, he continued to contribute to her support beside allowing her to live with their son in the house where the latter was born. He made his home with his parents.

A check which he had sent recently to Mrs. Bearse was found in the house.

The son was a star basketball player while a student in the Technical High school. In 1924 he was graduated from Northeastern university in Boston as a mechanical engineer. Until July 1 he was employed by the Springfield Gas Light company. He spent last week at Grove Beach, Conn. with a school friend and returned to Springfield a few days ago to make arrangements for starting his own business.

Tilson to Open Rep. Headquarters in N. Y.

At Plymouth Congressman Tilson Discussed a Number of Subjects With President Coolidge

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 6—(AP)—President Coolidge was informed today by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, republican floor leader in the house, that joint eastern senatorial and congressional campaign headquarters would be opened in New York next week.

Mr. Tilson, who is to open the offices himself, came with Mrs. Tilson by automobile from Lake Sunapee, N. H., where he has a camp, and remained for lunch with the president and Mrs. Coolidge at the old homestead where the latter are visiting for a few days.

A number of subjects were said to have been discussed by the president and Mr. Tilson, but the political situation was not taken up in detail. After the eastern campaign offices have been opened, Mr. Tilson expects to go to White Pine camp in the Adirondacks and report on the situation at some length to Mr. Coolidge. At present, he said today, reports received from various sections of the country on the congressional campaign were "comfortable."

The visit of Mr. Tilson afforded the president the first opportunity since he has come here to discuss governmental conditions. But later in the day he followed his custom of receiving newspaper correspondents as he does every Friday in Washington.

President Coolidge plans to return to the Adirondacks Monday.

S. O. S. CALL FROM STEAMER SOMEWHERE OFF BERMUDA

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(AP)—The naval communications bureau tonight reported the receipt of an S. O. S. call from the steamer Antonio, somewhere off Bermuda. All broadcasting stations were ordered shut down until definite location of the distressed vessel could be established, naval officials said.

The call was picked up by the navy radio station here at 8.40 p. m. and broadcasting stations, which had been ordered shut down pending efforts to establish communication with the Antonio, were allowed to resume traffic at 9:05 p. m., when it was believed the vessel was in no immediate distress.

The Antonio, a British vessel of 31 68 net tons, sailed from Hampton Roads August 3, for St. Vincent, Cape Verde.

A gale of hurricane proportions was sweeping Bermuda today, interfering with shipping. The steamer Fort St. George, due at Hamilton, Bermuda, today from New York, was hove to 40 miles away, unable to enter port because of the gale. Small pleasure craft in Hamilton harbor were swamped and ferry service between Hamilton, Paget and Somerset was stopped.

KEHOE FOUND GUILTY OF MILK GRAFT CHARGES

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)—William H. Kehoe, former assistant corporation counsel, was found guilty tonight of conspiracy in connection with bootleg milk graft charges, by a jury in general sessions court.

He was ordered committed to Tombs prison for sentence August 13 by Judge Levine, who denied application for release under $10,000 bail. Kehoe faces a maximum sentence of three years' imprisonment and a $500 fine.

Kehoe was indicted June 1, charged with conspiracy to bring milk and cream from unauthorized sources into the city.

BRITISH REGULATION OF THE EXPORT OF RUBBER

LONDON, Aug. 6—(AP)—The British colonial office today announced it has been decided that the provisions regulating the rubber export from Ceylon and Malaya, officially announced on April 26, will apply to the current quarter and to future quarters, unless and until it may be decided to modify them.

In any case these provisions will be applied unmodified in so far as they concern an average price of 21 pence during the current quarter and the consequential percentage of release of rubber under the Stevenson plan, during the quarter beginning November 1 at the minimum rate of duty.

Keeping Tabs on Trade Opportunities

Whatever the line of business there is always something in connection therewith that the people want. They may or may not have the time to go in search for it, but they are nevertheless learning every day to rely upon the newspaper to tell them where such things are to be found. For that reason the advertising columns are not only rendering an invaluable service to the readers but they are providing the merchants with a salesman of the greatest importance, for such service can be obtained in no other way in such a satisfactory and thorough manner.

When consideration is given to the fact that The Bulletin is read every day by about 65,000 people, going into every nook and corner of Eastern Connecticut, it must be appreciated that if the merchant is to keep in touch with those who are seeking to have their wants filled, he cannot afford to overlook the opportunity offered by The Bulletin's advertising columns. The buyers have no better way of keeping close tabs on trade opportunities.

CONTROVERSY IN MEXICO AN ENDURANCE CONTEST

Government is Conducting a Propaganda Campaign and Issuing Literature in an Effort to Convince the People That the Government's Attitude is the Proper One—Catholics Have Abandoned Debates in Fear of Clashes—Observers See Little Prospect of a General Uprising or Violence—Effect of Boycott Yet to be Revealed.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6—(AP)—Both sides to the religious controversy in Mexico, the efforts of would-be peace intermediaries having been unavailing, apparently are prepared for an indefinite endurance contest.

The propaganda campaign is being continued, but it is much more apparent upon the side of the government supporters who, under the leadership of the regional confederation of labor and political groups are touring the nation, addressing the people and issuing literature with the object of convincing the men and women of the country that the government's attitude is the proper one.

The newspapers are extremely cautious. They do not touch on the religious situation editorially, and print only meagre news items, the proprietors fearing arrest or closure of their plants.

Catholic leaders have announced they will not have a representative tonight at the Mexico City theatre when a government supporter will talk on the religious question. Heretofore these debates have drawn great crowds, government officials and leading Catholics presenting their respective arguments, and the government broadcasting the speeches of both sides. It is understood the decision of of the Catholic leaders not to debate tonight was taken in fear of clashes. Government representations will speak, nevertheless, the "debate" becoming merely a presentation of the government's side.

Most observers have ceased to think there is any prospect, for the present at least, of general uprisings of violence, although belated dispatches, giving details of clashes in various parts of the country several days ago reveal that they were more serious than at first reported. One of these dispatches, telling of a clash at Guadalajara, Sunday says that troops had to be rushed to battle with the crowd, five persons being badly wounded, including the assistant chief of police. Two policemen and a number of civilians received minor injuries.

The trouble began when the chief of the local secret service was insulted by a crowd while passing the Church of Jesus. When the chief remonstrated with the crowd, they attacked and killed him. His body showed seven stab wounds, a bullet wound and many bruises.

General speculation is centering on how long the economic boycott, designed by the league for the defense of religious freedom, can continue and how serious it can become. From many sections of the republic reports have come in that Catholics are making only the most necessary purchases in the hope of compelling the government to revise the religious regulations. Many business houses, whose business already was depressed before the religious situation developed, say that they are beginning to feel the reduction or cessation of purchases.

Another Catholic priest, Father Juan Magin, in charge of the church of Santa Ines, Puebla, is said by the military commandant of Puebla to have expressed readiness to adhere to the religious regulations and register with the municipal authorities. From Pachuca it is reported a priest there has accepted the regulations, while four other priests are expected to line themselves on the side of the government.

Previously Father Dimas Anguiano, of the state of Vera Cruz, was reported to have accepted the religious regulations, his church being returned to him by the municipal committee when he announced his intention.

About a dozen persons have been killed in recent clashes in various parts of the republic growing out of the religious situation, according to reports received by the Mexican episcopate. It is also announced by the episcopate it is informed the economic blockade is most successful in the state of Michoacan, wherein cities and villages the people are wearing mourning, and theatres, motion picture houses and stores are almost deserted.

The Episcopate's information is that five Catholics and several soldiers were killed at Guadalajara on Tuesday in a battle in front of a church which federal troops were occupying; that two persons were killed and another was wounded outside the Church of Jesus at Guadalajara in a clash between Catholics and police. At Tlajomulco, a small town near Guadalajara, there was a similar clash in which several persons were killed, but no details are given. In another village, Covula, it is reported that a crowd killed the district judge who was atempting to make an inventory of the treasures of the parish church.

U. S. SENDS NOTE TO MEXICO ON PETROLEUM LAND LAWS

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6—(AP)—Ambassador Sheffield has delivered a new United States note with reference to Mexico's petroleum and land laws to the Mexican foreign office, it was learned today from circles close to the foreign office. The American embassy has refused to affirm or deny the existence of the note.

In well informed circles it is believed that a revival of the discussion may make the last word of the United States before the departure of Ambassador Sheffield on Aug. 13 for a vacation in the United States. It is thought that the purpose of the note is to get the final cards on the table to put the ambassador in a position to take the matter up with President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg.

TO PLACE K. OF C. PROYEST BEFORE STATE DEPARTMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A committee of the Knights of Columbus is to place formally the resolution adopted by the supreme council of the K. of C. regarding the religious situation in Mexico before the state department at Washington.

Appointment of the committee was discussed today by James A. Flaherty, supreme knight, and leading delegates to the organization's annual convention. Definite decision as to how the matter would be taken before the state department will not be reached until next week, Mr. Flaherty said.

The resolution called upon President Coolidge and the state department to intervene in the Mexican situation, authorized a fund of $1,000,000 to combat communistic propaganda in Mexico and the United States and appealed to the American Federation of Labor to join in the fight to protect Mexican labor from 'militarism and communism."

REBEL LEADERS ON WAR PATH IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Vidales brothers, rebel leaders of the state of Guerrero, are reported to be on the war path again. With 500 followers they are said to be in rebellion against the state government.

Tre Vidales for a long time have been carrying on armed opposition to the authorities. Late last month dispatches from Acapulco said that federal troops had defeated an outlaw headed by them in the state of Guerrero, killing six and wounding four of the rebels.

$500 REWARD OFFERED FOR RECAPTURE OF LEOPARD

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Spurred by the offer of a $500 reward a jungle hunt tonight was in full cry on the trail of an Indian leopard which yesterday escaped from Oliver W. Holton's private zoo at Middletown.

The search during the day led heavily-armed posses to the 135 acre estate near here of Robert Adamson, New York banker, and to the Harry Payne Whitney estate at Lyncroft.

At the Adamson estate, the hunters were rewarded with the sight of 50 prints in the soft earth, unmistakably feline. The only clue found on the Whitney grounds was a dog which appeared to have come off second best in anencounter with some animal.

The authorities today informed 40 applicants for pistol permits that they would not be prosecuted if found in the woods with firearms. The original reward of $100 offered by the zoo owners has been increased to $500 for the leopard, dead or alive. It is six years old and weighs 75 pounds.

Mr. Holton was of the opinion that the beast would harm no human. He said it would make a lair in the woods and prey on small animals, and if not captured would perish when cold weather sets in.

He turned a large farm into a zoo more than a year ago and has gathered there birds and beasts from all corners of the universe.

DAIRY INDUSTRY IN NEW ENGLAND NOT FLOURISHING

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Statistics covering two decades were cited at an interstate commerce commission hearing here today to show that the New England dairy industry was not in a flourishing condition.

Wesley H. Bronson, head of the research department of the New England Milk Producers' association, testified that there was now less young dairy stock on the farms than a few years ago; that there had been a material increase in five years in the number of mortgaged farms; that Boston milk dealers had been forced farther afield until now some milk was brough to the city from a distance of 300 miles, and some cream from Minnesota. The witness was opposing the petition of four New England railroads for an increase in milk transportation rates.

The hearing will probably close tomorrow until August 30.

MOTHER COMES FOR YOUTH WHO RAN AWAY FROM QUEBEC

HARTFORD, Aug. 6—(AP)—More than two years ago William Dukeste, Jr., ran away from home in Quebec, Canada, and, according to his story told to Hartford police last May when he was picked up on a charge of vagrancy, he toured the United States, visiting all parts of the country. At the time of his arrest he was 13 years old and had not heard from his family or written to his mother in the two years he had been away.

Today his mother came to Hartford where William is being held at the Hartford county jail, waiting deportation to Canada because. When he came into the United States he neglected to conform to the proper inspection and "was in danger of becoming a public charge."

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

WILLIMANTIC

Office, 864 Main St. Telephone 1121-2.

JOHN BICKNELL NOT YET 25—HAS WRITTEN HOME LATELY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 6—John Bicknell who escaped from Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, Thursday as told on the Bulletin's telegraph page today is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bicknell of 50 Meadow street. He will be 25 in September, according to his mother. For the greater part of the last five years he has been connected with the army his first enlistment being before he was of age, and for one year. He received an honorable discharge in July 1921, having been a member of Company E, 55th Regiment, Seventh Division, stationed at Camp Meade, Md. In September 1925 Bicknell stole away to his home here while he was A. W. O. L. from a military hospital in New York and has not yet recovered from an operation for appendicitis. He remained here a few days and several months later was picked up in Georgia as a deserter and sentenced to Fort Leavenworth. In June of that year he made his escape. He and his companions were captured a month later. Bicknell has often written to his parents to say that he liked army life. A letter received a few days ago by his mother stated that among liberties which he was permitted to enjoy was to play baseball. He was a star player on one of the Thread City amateur teams before he joined the army.

JOSEPH VARRIEUR, AGED 5, MAY HAVE FRACTURED SKULL

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 6—Joseph Varrieur, five year old son of Joseph Varrieur of 683 Main street, is in serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital with a possible fractured skull and fractured left knee, sustained when struck at Lincoln Square about 1:15 o'clock Friday afternoon by a Maxwell truck owned and operated by Max Rabinowitz, of 116 Main street. According to the report given the police the boy came out from behind another truck parked near the right curbing of Main street, just opposite the United Music store. He was struck by the right fender and thrown to the pavement, but not run over. After taking the boy to the hospital Rabinowitz came to police headquarters where he was placed under a technical charge of reckless driving. He was released under bonds of $200 furnished by Abraham Susman. Captain of Police Frank McLean conducted the investigation. An operation is to be performed on the boy's skull after which the extent of the injuries will be made known.

A new garage is to replace several buildings on the former Parker-Elliott lumber & Coal company yard on Main street which have been landmarks. The wooden structures being razed are recreded 60 years ago and up to a year ago when vacated by the Parker-Elliott company had always been used in the lumber and coal yards. In succession the following concerns did business there. Whiting & Hayden & Jon Loren and M. F. Lincoln, then Loren Lincoln, Chesbro & Elliott and the Parker-Elliott company. The property was purchased May, 1925, by John P Neilson of Hartford, and includes a two and a-half story wooden building fronting on Main street, 35 feet front and 125 feet deep; a two-tenement house just west, a long shed and a barn, 125 by 30 feet at the extreme rear. The tenement house will not be torn down.

A carload of pipe to be used in laying new piping as part of the general improvements being made to the water system, arrived here and the work of laying the pipe will start next Monday. According to A. W. Bryne who heads the firm to whom the contract was awarded, local workmen will be employed as much as possible in doing the work, which will take about 90 days to complete. Two twelve-inch mains will first be laid across the Willimantic river, under the Providence-New London railroad bridge.

Four cases were heard in police court Friday morning, liquor playing the leading role in three of them. Mary Kapino of the Stone Row was sentenced to 30 days in Brooklyn jail in spite of her plea of not guilty to intoxication.

Mrs. Clara Upton pleaded guilty to intoxication. She was already on probation for a previous violation of similar character and Judge Foss sentenced her to the county jail for 30 days.

William J. Maxwell, pleaded not guilty to intoxication and his case was continued until this Saturday morning to allow him time to secure counsel.

Claude Jones, who said he came from Milton, Ga., pleaded not guilty to vagrancy. He said that the fact that he only had 16 pennies to his name did not make him a vagrant and he was willing to work if he found a job. Judge Foss gave the man 24 hours in which to leave town.

The case of Leopold Rock who was arrested for reckless driving Thursday evening, did not come up for hearing.

From the family home, 29 Carey Hill, the funeral of John Pisker was held with a requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock Friday morning. Before the body was taken from the home, Rev. Paul Bartlewski, attended by the altar boys of St. Joseph's church, read the burial service. Upon entering the church the body was escorted to the sanctuary rail by Rev. Father Bartlewski and the altar boys. Mrs. Edmund Portelance was at the organ, and Miss L. Monica McKeon was soloist. There was a large attendance of relatives and young friends of the boy and there were beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were four altar boys, Arnold Bocash, Richard Sukrus, Adam Gollus and John Dinger. A committal service was read at the grave in St. Joseph's cemetery by Rev. Father Bartlewski, the altar boys aiding in the responses.

Mrs. Marjorie Blackmar Rood has been engaged as teacher at The Ridges Grammar school for the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Warner, 4 School street, Glastonbury, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion Smith Warner and Theodore Lincoln Ratcliffe, son of Samuel Ratcliffe of Auburn, Maine. Mrs. Ratcliffe is a graduate of the local State Normal school, class of 1925, and has taught in the public schools of South Manchester durin the past year. They will reside in Pittsburgh, Pa.

A meeting for furthering the reorganization of the Boy Scouts was held Thursday evening at the Town hall.

Late Tuesday afternoon lightning struck the house of H. B. Brown on Black Hill, entering by a radio wire in spite of an arrester and grounding of wires. Some pieces of moulding were split from a corner cupboard, a small quantity of plaster broken, plaster and paper being scattered about the room. No one was in the room at the time. Outside, near the telephone wires a clapboard was splintered and blown off. The bolt evidently first struck a large tree where the aerial was fastened, and followed the wire.

WESTERLY

RODERIQUES IS HELD— BAIL $4,000 FOR AUTO DEATH

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I. Aug. 6—In Third district court this morning the case was tried of State, Fred T. Mitchell, sheriff of Washington county, Va. John Roderiques, of Wallingford. The defendant was charged with manslaughter, resulting from an automobile accident in the town of Charlestown last Saturday, in which Anthony F. Guerra of New Haven died in the Westerly hospital as a result of injuries. He was represented by Attorney C. E. Roche. Third Assistant Attorney-General Louis V. Jackavony of Provivence, prosecuted.

John Cranston of Charlestown, R. I., testified that on the afternoon of July 31st, between 5 and 5:30 o'clock, accompanied by Charles A. Weaver, he was approaching the Charlestown-Westerly town line on the Boston Post road when he observed defendant approaching him driving towards Providence accompanied by another man driving at the rate of 40 to 45 miles per hour. He saw him leave the traveled portion of the road and proceed along gradually into the grass at the roadside and crash against a stone wall, scraping it for a distance of seven to ten feet and stop with the car against the wall of cobblestones, some of which had been tumbled down. He observed Roderiques over the stone wall attempting to speak to a man, who appeared to be dead. Both the witness and Mr. Weaver who had gotten over the wall were asked to assist in lifting the man over the wall. They declined, but stated that the man was in need of a doctor and that they would go to a gas filling station where they would have the doctor telephoned for. Cross examined by Mr. Roche, Mr. Cranston testified that eight or ten feet of wall had been torn down. In reply to a question by Judge Williams, he stated that the auto traffic was light at the time.

Charles A. Weaver of Charlestown testified that he was with Cranston, saw the accident, and the automobile gradually leaving the road to crash against the stonewall and that he went to Dunn's corners to telephone for a doctor.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown told the court that when brought to Westerly police station, Roderiques had told him that he had worked the night before the accident and was tired and sleepy in the talk he had had with him at the time.

Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Washington county said that in investigating the accident he had learned that Roderiques had worked in Wallingford, Conn., on the night before the accident until about 6 o'clock in the morning and that he did not leave with Guerra until about 1:30 in the afternoon. Roderiques told the sheriff that he felt tired and drowsy. When the sheriff arrived at the site of the accident, between 7 and 7:30 o'clock, he saw the tire tracks for approximately 118 or 120 feet, extending through the grass until the car hit the wall. He said that Highway Engineer A. L. Leon had made measurements at the time.

States Attorney Jackavony announced that the state rested and that Attorney Roche, for the defendant, would admit that Guerra lost his life as the result of the automobile accident and that it would not be necessary for Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, who had been called as a witness, to take the stand and testify. Judge Williams adjudged defendant probably guilty and directed that he be held in $4,000 bail. A request was made by Mr. Roche that the bail be reduced to $2,000 but the court stated that $4,000 was not excessive, under the conditions.

This case will come up in superior court for Washington county on the 23rd of September, at Kingston.

In the Third District court Friday morning at 9 o'clock a crowded court room heard Judge Oliver H. Williams read the following:

New writs entered—William A. Burke vs. Elizabeth Ostman, et al., Roche. If unanswered during day, continued one week.

James B. Baker vs. Harry C. Gilmore, Watts. If unanswered, continued one week.

Criminal docket—State, Frank H. Brown, chief of police of Hopkinton, vs. Edwin A. Clark. Continued one week.

State, Thomas E Brown, chief of police of Westerly, vs. Edward Liotta. Continued one week.

State Thomas E. Brown vs. Concetta Liotta. Continued one week.

State Frank H. Brown, vs. Thomas Counsel. Continued one week.

State, Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, vs. John Roderiques. Passed and then marked ready.

State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. John W. Neild, Jr. Ready.

Civil docket—Hazard J. Lord vs. Tefft Motor Mart. Ready.

Benjamin Rist vs. Edward Botelle. Attorney Flynn asked for a two weeks' continuance and so marked.

Charles A. Fuller, collector of taxes of the town of Richmond, vs. Walter J. Larkin. Continued two weeks.

Charles A. Fuller, collector, vs. Fred A. Greeb Continued two weeks.

Charles A. Fuller, collector, vs. Joseph Girard. Continued two weeks.

Angelo J. Cappuccio vs. William J. Smith, Roche, McKenna. Continued one week.

Trial calendar—State, Thomas E. Brown vs. Andrew Menick. For the defendant, Attorney Flynn waived the reading of the complaint, charging the operation of an automobile on Broad street, Westerly, Aug. 3rd while under the influence of liquor. His attorney entered a plea of not guilty, for him, stating that his chief reason for so doing was the fact that Attorney Ledwidge represented the respondent's wife and had asked for a conference. The case was continued one week and bail was set at $300.

State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. John W. Neild, Jr., of Westerly, Aug. 3rd defendant operated an automobile on the Shore road and after having caused an accident did not return to the place of the same. The defendant pleaded guilty, saying that he thought he had just grazed a fender. Solicitor Ferguso ntold the court that in the Ford two women, one of whom claimed to have suffered a wrenched back, but was able to be about the next day. The sedan got a dented fender and broken wishbone. Wednesday evening the defendant reported the accident to Chief of Police Brown, after his return from a meeting of the Police Chiefs' association at Rocky Point. "I surely would have stopped, judge," said the defendant, "had I known the damage caused." A fine of $25 and costs was imposed by Judge Williams.

The civil case, Hazard J. Lord vs. Tefft Motor Mart, was heard, being an action in assumpsit, and before the court at this time on the defendant's motion to remove default recorded last November. Attorney Whitman for the defendant, Everett Tefft of Arctic, said the suit was brought for money due on an auto trade and that Tefft knew nothing about the case until last March when he was served with a citation by the sheriff. No execution was presented and that the sheriff (Whitman said he knew, for the sheriff was his own father) had called on Tefft's friends and finding no property the execution was returned March 19th and at that time Attorney Whitman was called into the case. He moved that the citation be stayed and that the default be removed which had been entered when it was tied up in the R. I. legislature. In a brief filed in support of the motion it was asked that Mr. Tefft be given a hearing: an absolute denial was made and an adequate defense was alleged and Tefft had not had his day in court, and the judgment was in error.

Attorney Roche objecting, said that after 8 months had come the motion when the statute allowed but 6 months and that no previous motion had been made to remove the default. On the return day, October 6, 1925, Attorney George N. Vidal of Arctic, R. I., had appeared in the case, when the default was entered and a judgment of $360 and costs entered. Judge Williams said that he was satisfied that the defense had been lax, but that the court was willing to consider questions involved. By agreement of attorneys, Everett A. Tefft was called to the witness stand to show his ability to meet the judgment. He testified that a Ford sedan had been represented as clear of incumberances when it was necessary for him to go to Westerly and pay $160 to complete his title in a deal for a trade. He said that he was winding up his automobile business and borrowing money to do the same and to care for his personal debts and that he was entirely without assets.

Judge Williams announced that he would take the questions under advisement and render decision in a week's time.

SUMMER VISITOR DROWNED AT QUONOCHONTAUG

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 6—David McMeekan, 60 of Pawtucket, was drowned yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock while bathing at Quonochontaug beach. When seen off shore floating face downward, word was sent to the coast guard station and a boat in charge of Surfman Alfred Pendleton helped to bring the body ashore, but before this a human chain of bathers including Lieut. Frank Matthews, son of former Providence Police Chief Frank A. Matthews helped to recover the body. Dr. J. DeVere Barber was called from Weekapaug and pronounced the man dead. Medical Examiner Dr. Herbert M. Rouse of Charlestown declared that death was probably due to an attack of apoplexy. Passing a vacation at Quonochontaug was the man's sister, Miss Clara McMeekan; two other sisters, Mrs. Mary F. McAlpine and Mrs. William M. Dickie, reside in Pantcket, R. I.

Mrs. Frances E. Harvey, 75, of Monson, Mass., was found dead in bed at Briar cottage, Thursday morning, at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. Ellis, at Weekapaug. She was one of a party of five from the women's home, Monson, who were visiting Mrs. Ellis at the beach. The body was taken to Monson, Mass., for burial in Hillside cemetery.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk are the following transfers:

Aug. 4. Alexander C. Thompson to Erastus H. Benn land on the north side of a proposed street, bounded easterly and westerly by lands of Alexander C. Thompson and northerly by lands of Thomas L. Breen.

5. Michael J. Turano to Catarina Turano, et al, land with dwelling and other buildings and improvements, on the north side of Pierce street.

Catarina Turano, Margaret C. Pellegrino, Peter G. Turano, Minnie H Turano, Julia H. Turano and Frank A. Toscano to Michael J. Turano, land with buildings and improvements on the north side of Pierce street.

Carolina L. Squier of Watch Hill to William C. Squier, 3rd, three tracts of land at Watch Hill, the first, the property known as "Windswept," on Ocean View Highway; the second tract south and abutting the first, and the third adjoining Ocean View highway.

The death of Daniel L. Lyon of Watch Hill occurred at his summer cottage, "Edge Cove," Friday morning 10 o'clock, following an illness of but a few hours. He is survived by his wife, Lina Treat Lyon, a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Belknap of Boston and a son William H. Lyon of Chicago. Among his brothers and sisters is Mrs. John Champlin of Westerly. Mr. Lyon has been a Watch Hill cottager for thirty-three years and at the close of the season would go to Bronxville, N. Y., before proceeding to his winter home at Daytona, Fla. Previous to his retirement he was a member of the firm of John A. Fay & Company, Cincinnati, builders of woodworkers machinery.

Sunday afternoon, members of hte Westerly Cycle club will be the guests of the "Grand Old Man of the club," Allan A. Palmiter now of Providence, at his summer home, at Quonochontaug beach. The outing will close with a hot dog repast. The committee of arrangements consists of Ernest N. Gully, Frank L. Friend and Joseph Law.

Following a brief illness, the death of Annie G., 74, widow of Angelo J. Zerbarini, occurred at her home, 11 Summer street, Friday morning, about 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Zerbarini, was Miss Annie G. Connelly, born in Merthyr Tydfil, Wales, Jan. 1, 1852, the daughter of John and Ellen Leonard Connelly. She came to this country at the age of four with her parents and resided in Hartford, Conn., until May 6, 1877, when she was united in marriage with Angelo J. Zerbarini. The ceremony was performed at St. Patrick's church in Hartford.

During her 48 years' residence in Westerly, Mrs. Zerbarini had made many fiends. She was a devout member of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Surviving her are six daughters and a son: Mrs. Martin Donovan of New Britain, Conn.; Mrs. Ella M. Grignola, New York; Mrs. Amos Nugent, Stonington; Mrs. James F. Hanley, Mystic; Misses Angie and Grace Zerbarini and Angelo J. Zerbarini of Westerly. There are nine grandchildren.

After two postponements, due to rainy weather, the Westerly band gave its third concert of the summer series in Wilcox park Thursday evening under direction of Conductor Charles O. Gavitt. The attendance was large. Many motored here from the shore resorts and surrounding villages to hear the band.

Superintendent of Wilcox park Ed L. Gavitt is seeking the owner of a gold wedding ring found by workmen while engaged in cleaning out sediment from the park pond. There is a possibility that the ring may have been in the pond for years, since this is the first time that the water has ever been completely drained out and the bottom cleaned. Various articles, including toy boats, wagons, skates and tin cans, have been brought to light this week by park employes dredging the pond.

MOTHER OF SEVEN CHILDREN

Helped in Caring for them by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Glasgow, Ky.—"I am the mother of seven children, the eldest being only 12 years, and I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to pull me through the roughest places of my married life. At one time I was so downhearted that life was a misery. A friend in Indianapolis, Indiana, told me of the Vegetable Compound, and after taking a few bottles of it I became myself again and it was a pleasure to do my housework and gardening. Since then I always use your medicine when I feel weak from overwork and it straightens me out."—Mrs. Melissa Bandeks, Route 2, care of O. F. Steenbergen, Glasgow, Ky.

New Orleans, La.—"I could not do a thing after my first boy was born. I was so weak, I had no appetite, lost weight and was not able to do my work. I was this way for seven weeks, then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got wonderful results from it."—Mrs. C. Fatjan, 4014 Dauphine St., New Orleans, La.

THERE IS NO SATURATION POINT FOR HONEST VALUE

Honest value is a priceless commodity. Every purchaser seeks it, but not always with complete success.

During periods of careful buying he takes unusual pains to find it, and products of inferior merit fail to attract his patronage.

Reports then circulate that the "saturation point" in the automobile market has been reached, when in reality there will NEVER be a saturation point for honest value.

During the first six months of this year, for instance, Dodge Brothers sold 207,115 motor cars and trucks. This represents a gain of 49.3 per cent over the first six months of 1925, and continues Dodge Brothers in the enviable position of THIRD IN THE INDUSTRY.

For the three weeks ending July 17th, 23,862 motor cars and trucks were delivered to customers—an increase of 62.4 per cent over the same period last year, and impressive evidence that Dodge Brothers great sales gain is continuing through the quiet weeks of mid-summer.

The more carefully people investigate and compare, detail by detail, the factors that constitute genuine motor car value, the more inevitably Dodge Brothers market expands and will continue to expand, year after year.

DANIELSON

FOUR HUNDRED PHEASANTS WERE LIBERATED FRIDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 6—(P)—Four hundred pheasants that were elsewhere this morning will roam this countryside Saturday morning, presumably familiarizing themselves with ways and means of evading getting "shot up" when the hunting season opens next October.

Release of the 400 game birds on Friday through the rod and gun clubs of Danielson and Putnam, co-operating with the state fish and game commission, is now an annual feature of the re-stocking and building up operations of the wild game reserves throughout the state.

When the 200 bird allotment for this particular territory was delivered here at 10:30 Friday morning there were members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club on hand with their cars to hurry the pheasants out into suitable wild country and release them. The other 200 birds were taken on to Putnam to be released by sportsmen of that city and vicinity.

Along with the birds, which are shipped in special crates, bags of grain were taken along when the club members went out to turn the pheasants loose. This grain is scattered about where the birds are released, in order that they may have a certain supply of feed while they are getting acquainted with the locality which they are to inhabit and its possible supplies of forage.

The pheasants let out Friday are what sportsmen call half-grown birds. They have been reared by the state. Funds paid in by sportsmen for licenses serve to meet at least a part of the expense of the propagation cost. By fall the pheasants released Friday will make good quarry for the hunters.

Stocking this territory with pheasants began a number of years ago. While the hunters have kept right after them during the open season, it appears to some experienced observers that pheasants are on the increase, and that each year will see more and more of them in the woods, notwithstanding all that fall before the hunters' guns. There are at the present time a considerable number of flocks of young pheasants that were hatched in the wild state in country hereabouts during the past spring. They have been observed by hunters, who keep watch of such things against the time when one may go afield with dog and gun to enjoy one of the most ancient of recreations.

CHESTNUT TREES OVERCOME THE DEADLY BLIGHT

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 6—Recently published articles on the efforts of the government to find some specific for the chestnut blight that ruined the chestnut forests throughout the country, stripping this immediate territory of thousands of fine trees, recalls the fact that chestnut trees are reproducing themselves in Killingly and neighboring towns. Young trees have been growing for the past two or three years and some specimens 15 to 18 feet tall may now be seen, though they are not of heavy growth. An East Killingly man, as long ago as last fall, reported finding a burr from one of these young trees that contained a healthy chestnut, the first one seen hereabouts for a long time. This has suggested to some that the chestnuts may reproduce themselves.

There continues to be an amazing amount of seeking after suckers in Danielson and all the surrounding territory. This refers to the efforts of the easy-money boys down in New York and some other cities trying every known inducement with all refinements to let the people "out in the sticks," as they so graciously term them, in on financial deals that should attract the attention of the Rockefellers and the Morgans if they were as worth-while as the prospectus tells about. Stocks, especially, are the things that are offered. People with money in Eastern Connecticut are not as gullible as might have been true at one time and they have learned they have good banks at home in which to put their money and good local advisers, if they wish to make any market investments.

A motor trip that is pleasing to all Danielson people who take it is the short one over to the Kent dam at the big reservoir project of the city of Providence, where a lake is forming back of the 100-foot high dam that is one feature of a tremendous undertaking on which work has been progressing for several years. W. C. Bacon and a party made the trip over there this week and drove through various sections of the reservoir territory, which may be reached from Danielson by going to North Scituate, 15 miles east of here and then southward to South Scituate and into the reservoir country.

Scratching chickens not confining their activities to their owner's premises and a roaming dog promised Friday to produce business from the old Riverview race track section for the town court, but the cases were adjourned for a week.

Chief A. P. Woodward Friday denied all knowledge regarding who pulled in the fire alarm from Box 18 just before 10 o'clock Thursday night. In official circles there appeared to be an inclination to rate it as a false alarm, something that Danielson has not been greatly pestered with heretofore.

The past two days J. C. Witter and N. A. Witter have been conducting an important sale of antiques at the Greenwood Casino at Greenwood, R. I., a sale that attracted buyers from all over southern New England.

PUTNAM

TOWN'S SPLENDID HOSPITAL INCREASING ITS SERVICE

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 6.—The 32nd annual report of the Day Kimball hospital for the year ending June 30, 1926, tells of wider service to the people of the communities in this vicinity than the public generally realize.

In addition to 42 patients remaining from the year before, 897 patients were admitted. There were also 527 out-patients, making a total of 1466 patients treated. The number of days care amounted to 12, 620, divided as follows: Private days care, 4441; semi-private days care, 2447; ward days care, 2475; freed days care, $226; town days care, 29. There were 289 private patients; 170 ward patients; 200 free patients; and two town patients. Medical cases numbered 157; surgical 532, and obstrerical cases 208. There were 411 males and 486 female patients admitted to the hospital. There were 430 operations and 88 births.

The average time for patients in the hospital was 14.07 days, although that for free patients was 16.16 days, higher than for any other group. The largest number of patients in the hospital for any one day was 48 and the smallest was 21. There were 716 patients discharged cured, 37 improved, three unimproved, nine were relieved, nine were unadvised, nine were transferred, 23 were not treated, and 52 died, leaving 40 patients at the beginning of the new year. The daily average number of patients has been 34. The number of ambulance calls was 49, approximately one a week. The average cost per week per patient advanced from $27.80 of last year to $31.65 this year.

As few know how many free patients are being treated at the institution; the following statistics are interesting:

Listed by towns the report for the year just past reads as follows: Brooklyn, 1 patient, 13 days; Canterbury, 1 patient, 1 day; Eastford, 4 patients, 36 days; Killingly, 32 patients, 650 days; no residence, 9 patients, 234 days; Plainfield, 3 patients, 16 days; Pomfret, 9 patients, 221 days; Putnam, 94 patients, 1405 days; state poor, 1 patient, 3 days; Thompson, 34 patients, 527 days; Woodstock, 12 patients, 122 days.

There were ten patients from the town of Brooklyn, 15 from Canterbury, one from Chaplin, four from Eastford, one from Hampton, two from Jewett City, 147 from Killingly, one from Mansfield, four from Oneco, 35 from Plainfield, 79 from Pomfret, 811 from Putnam, 18 from Sterling 115 from Thompson, one from Westford, five from Willimantic, 77 from Woodstock, and 163 from outside the state.

The nationality of the hospital is also of interest, as 23 countries are represented on the list: United States of America 757, Belgium 1, Denmark 1, Finland 5, Germany 1, Greece 1, Ireland 10, Lithuania 1, Poland 10, Russia 5, Sweden 21, Turkey 1, Albania 1, Canada 46, England 16, France 1, Gibraiter 1, Holland 1, Italy 11, Norway 1, Portugal 3, Scotland 1, Syria 1.

During the year many repairs have been made and much new equipment added. About $99 has been expended for electrical repairs alone, improving the light in the building and making it free from fire hazards.

The hospital has been much interested in the work of the institution and have provided quantities of supplies, consisting of all linens, blankets, curtain materials, cushions, etc.

The Quinebaug and Wauregan companies have painted and refurnished the rooms which they provide, and the room furnished by Dr. Burroughs and his family has been refinished.

An electric refrigerator costing over $1,000 was given by the Pomfret players. This is used in the main kitchen, while a smaller one has been purchased by the hospital for use in the dirst kitchen.

The woman's board, assisted by Mrs. L. L. Lorillard of Pomfret, has given a vegetable parer, a vegetable slicer and potato parer, all of which help materially in saving in both time and provisions. The woman's board has provided a new fire hose for the entire building and has given $500, making it possible to paint two-thirds of the entire hospital during the past 16 months. They have also given $850 for a portable X-Ray to which the hospital added $800 for other X-Ray equipment and for improvements in the developing room. Additional fire escapes are being erected.

Space has been found for an additional room for nurses and this has been completed and furnished for their use.

The proceeds from the nurses' dance were used for new water coolers and extra equipment for the nursery.

With these many improvements and with the increasing demand for service, the hospital faces a year that will be full of usefulness to the people of this section of the state.

WIRES OF TROLLEY LINE ARE BEING REMOVED

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 6.—Putnam has said goodbye to the trolleys as the line force of the Connecticut company are engaged in removing the trolley wires which were used on this line. As to the tracks, it is not known whether or not they will be removed, they may be left as they are to avoid destruction of the streets through the city.

Miss Belle Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Murray is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital where she will undergo a surgical operation.

NOANK

A play, "Blueberry Corner School" was given by the Golden Rod club. Every seat was taken Thursday evening. The teacher was Annie Willias and the pupils Jake Ross as Neil Robertson, George Mott as Carl Ashcraft, Billie Grant as Frank Muse, Walter Jenning as Dexton Holiday. The school visitor (Sam Long) was Neil Morrison and the school committee, Miss Nora McKenna, Mary Cumnae, William Franklin; Janitor Hubert Ellis.

A spelling bee was held by the class. The teacher gave out some hard words and George Mott, won the honor, with Jake Ross second. The latter fell down on the word steamship. Games were played and the crowd had a great lunch. Before the second act Billie Grant and Mary Sullivan sang "School Days" dressed in juvenile togs. They were called back several times.

The last act was visiting day. The pupils who had their work done first got a gold star from the school visitor Sam Long. Walter Jenning was first with Billie Grant next. Pinning the tail on the mule was enjoyed by the class. Jake Ross, got a silver pencil, as he came the nearest to pinning the tail in the proper place. The whole class sang "I Love You, Joe", as the finish. The sum of $25 was cleared for the club.

The art exhibition at Mystic was attended by many Noank people. Tea was served by Mrs. C. H. Davis and Mrs. S. Leonard, Mrs. G. A. Thompson. The Mohican orchestra played during the afternoon. Sherman Potts, of New York, who spends his summer in the village is among the exhibitors. Women and children are the subjects of his drawings this year. He has charge of the sketch room where over 80 pictures are displayed.

CONTRIBUTORS TO SLUSH FUNDS

When the investigation of the amazing Pennsylvania primary was in progress several weeks ago, two or three senators, notably Capper of Kansas and the late Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, declared that the time had come to answer definitely the question that was being asked throughout the nation: Who corrupts elections or otherwise buys improper favors from office holders?

Testimony that points an answer to that question has been brought out in the investigation of the senate committee in Pennsylvania and Illinois. While some citizens contribute to campaign funds because of their party affiliations, or their interest in live issues, or their personal regard for certain candidates, the majority of the large contributors are representatives of public utilities and other corporations and business organizations. It is natural to assume that such contributors either receive or hope to receive special privileges or else they apprehend injurious interference with their affairs unless they contribute money freely.

Acts aimed at corrupt practices have failed to eradicate the evils against which they were directed, but more effective acts, state and federal, can be framed and passed. Yet legislative acts will not entirely or permanently correct the evil in question. The moral sense of the nation should be aroused and enlisted in the struggle with political corruption and political cynicism. The conscience and reason of the nation should forbid public officials from wasting public time and public funds in campaigns for higher offices or from debasing their positions of power and influence for private and factional benefit.

The late Judge Alton B. Parker resigned his place on the New York court of appeals the moment he was notified of his nomination for the presidency by a democratic convention. Justice Charles E. Hughes resigned his place on the supreme court of the United States upon the receipt of a telegram announcing his nomination for president by a republican convention. Those fine examples have not been followed generally and an apathetic public has not demanded that they should be followed.

It is plain, for example, that a chairman or member of a state commission charged with the task of supervising public utilities cannot with propriety retain that powerful position while devoting months to electioneering for a great public office. To defy this simple rule of decent conduct is to invite scandal.

RULE IN THE PHILIPPINES

Ten years ago this month congress passed the Jones act, applying to the Philippines, stating that it was the purpose of this nation eventually to withdraw American sovereignty. Premised to that the aim was "to provide a more autonomous government for the islands. To a considerable degree that has been done, creating a Philippine legislature, putting the executive side of the local government largely in native hands, and establishing six departments designed to conduct the principal domestic affairs of the people.

One source of conflict is that the theory and practice on the executive side do not always conform. Executive authority is vested in an American governor-general who is appointed by the president. The Filipinos, in the conduct of affairs, do not have as much autonomy as may at first appear. Often the governor-general, possessing veto power, has checked the legislature. In the same manner, the legislature, disagreeing with proposals he may make, checks him. This, of course, is done in our nation, where both the legislative and executive departments are responsible to the same electorate. The situation in the Philippines is more delicate, because the governor-general is responsible to outside authority, while the legislature is responsible to the islands' voters. The danger of confusion and disagreement thus is increased.

The immediate question to be determined is not so much whether independence ought to be given to the Filipinos now as whether autonomy ought not to be made more complete. If no step might be taken through the appointment by the president of a Filipino as governor-general. Some well informed observers are inclined to think that the agitation for independence has been increased by the failure on the part of this country to give autonomy an opportunity. An extension of home rule, in any event, ought to be a preliminary to an intelligent determination of the Filipinos' capacity for self-government. There may be logic, as well, to the contention by the island leaders that if an American governor-general is to be retained upon he ought to be a civilian.

The Texas sentiment seems to be that Ma Ferguson is too good a wife to be a good governor.

LAKE DENMARK REPORT

The report of the naval board of inquiry upon the Lake Denmark arsenal explosion tells little more than well informed observers are inclined contains no charges of neglect of duty and, there is nothing for a court-martial to do at Lake Denmark. The naval board finds "no human agency" was at fault and that the sole cause of the explosion was the lightning which man may not control. But man has devised protection against lightning through copper sheathing and grounded wires, as was pointed out by Professor Pupin, an eminent authority, in a statement published after the collision, and the report of the naval board will not serve entirely to remove the public impression that there has been some official neglect and incompetence. Indeed, certain recommendations made by the board rather substantiate this belief. These recommendations include:

(1) That TNT shall hereafter be segregated from all other stores; (2) that the metallic parts of magazines and their contents shall be grounded; (3) that the personnel of magazines shall be forbidden to attempt the fighting of fires in high explosive magazines; (4) that magazines, shell houses, etc., shall be made as nearly non-inflammable as possible and so built as to prevent the forming of heavy missiles in case of explosion and (5) that there be a better distribution of magazine centers to avoid too large a volume of storage at any one point.

These savor too much of hindsight rather than foresight, and there is little which can be regarded in the nature of genuine discovery. To prevent a recurrence of such a calamity as the Lake Denmark explosion it remains for the navy department to perform its inspection duties more intelligently and thoroughly in the future and for congress to provide whatever money may be needed to minimize the danger that exists wherever highly explosive munitions are placed in storage.

A DAUGHTER OF NEPTUNE

Stout-hearted Gertrude Ederle of New York stroked her way Friday to a place on the pedestal of athletic fame that had been reached by only five men before her and never by a woman, when she swam the English channel, that baffling stretch of water that has turned back scores of ambitious swimmers. Defeated a year ago in her attempt, she returned to the attack upon the swirling currents and tides between Calais and Dover with dauntless courage and well trained muscles that gave her the victory.

The first woman to swim the channel, she won yet greater laurels for her amazing feat by making the swim in 14 hours and 31 minutes which was faster time by nearly two hours than any other swimmer had ever made for the course before. Her channel swim was the climax to a long series of record breaking aquatic victories, the whole marking her as the woman swimmer par excellence of all time.

Other women swimmers are to make the attempt before the present season is over, and they may succeed, but it is doubtful that they will be able to equal the record set by this fine American girl.

AVIATION PROGRESS

Aviation holds a large place in world thought and there are thrills in following the advance that air travel is making. In Germany hydroplanes are being built for regular passenger traffic between Europe and North Africa. African countries along the Mediterranean and countries in Europe as far north as the channel and the Baltic are to be brought within a few hours' travel of each other. The planes now under construction are to carry twenty persons, passengers and crew.

A few days ago the chief research engineer of one of the large industrial corporations of America advanced the proposal of passenger air travel between America and Europe with the aid of floating landing platforms anchored along the course in midocean. The plan was shown to shipbuilders, architects and aviation engineers, who, it is reported, were impressed. The model of a seadrome was shown in water rough enough to toss a ship and the deck of the anchored structure was steady enough for planes to land on, rest, and take off again.

Aviation above the land is growing and flying is becoming so nearly commonplace that many persons do not seem to follow the advance made in this country in air mail carriage and intercity air traffic. To shorten the time across the ocean highway by the use of the air route, with the proper elements of safety, is a challenge that, without doubt, will be one of the developments of the future, whether its solution lies in providing greater facilities for safe landing places or in hitherto unaccomplished capacities for sustained flight.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Large programmes relating to the regulation of radio are in progress. The programmes may improve. Please stand by.

If Mexico were looking for a hard problem as a basis for controversy she couldn't have selected a harder one than the conflict between church and state.

Ford Jr., bids fair to have more success in reducing the cost of flivvers on land and air than Rockefeller, Jr., has in reducing the cost of gas to run them.

The man on the corner says: There is fascination about swimming the English channel, but most people would be satisfied if they could get across without being seasick.

The Mexican government has a much more serious business on its hands than when it was merely engaged in deciding from time to time when a brigand ceased to be a brigand and became a revolutionist.

Eminent republicans and democrats agree that the candidacy of Mr. Butler may be regarded as a test of President Coolidge's strength in Massachusetts. Even the most implacable antagonists may find themselves in unexpected harmony.

The magnificent development going on in this country may yet suffice to make America more attractive than Europe to American tourists, especially as our own standards of hospitality continue to hold something of the old and wholesome native charm.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Every now and then some great man comes out with a list of what he considers the one hundred best books ever published. There is great diversity in these lists because no two men have exactly the same viewpoint. But another feature of these lists is equally wonderful, and that is every list has one book the same, and only one. That is every list begins with the Bible as the first and most important. However much the compilers differ in their views as to what makes a great book all are agreed that the Bible is the one outstanding book of the ages, and it is likely to be so regarded to the very end. At the same time they regard it as the most uneven book, as to its moral and classical value of any book ever printed. There are passages and even whole chapters in the Old Testament if published separately would have no sale whatever. It is doubtful if they could find a publisher.

In the gospel narratives, however, there is a full and deep wealth of thought, even if the story itself is very simply told. The plain and easy way in which the Master presented his parables and analogies was only introductory to the vast and inexhaustible treasures beneath the surface. It is for this reason that there are always rich stores of knowledge to be found, especially in the New Testament. Because of this indisputable evidence, the Word of God above all other books will stand reading again and again. Apart from the sacred volume there are few books, relatively, that we care to read more than once. How many great novels have you read more than once? And when it comes to the greatest poems not half the world has even read them once.

A book must be first class to commend a second reading, but the Bible is more than read; it is studied more or less year after year. As a general thing you will not find in the average home any books on the shelves that have not been read, and where will you find a home in this enlightened age without a Bible? Is it not true that this Book becomes dearer to the man in his eighties than to the youth in his twenties? How many fathers and mothers in Israel there are, as they advance farther and farther into this world's twilight, who find their greatest consolation in the pages of the divine Word! One of the families in a certain type of home is a stand with a big Bible upon it. This book has large print; has all the marks of long continued usage, and when not in use you will find a pair of spectacles lying upon it. From this we learn the place it occupies in the home.

There is every reason for believing that the Bible, above all other books, is life. As such it comes under the jurisdiction of those laws that govern life in general. As a living force it must admit of a progressive revelation. As the years sweep by, more and more is discovered in these simple stories of the gospel, as more and more of life is revealed to which they refer. It is absurd to believe in a static revelation. That is, all possible spiritual knowledge was given at a single time, and that since that time the main duty of the ministry has been to explain and apply. Can any scholar of the Word honestly assert that he believes that nothing new along these lines have been discovered since the sacred volume was compiled? The mines of the gospel are rich beyond all comparison. Oh, that men would rush to them as they do to a frozen Klondike for gold!

Is is not possible for man to dwell within the borders of this sacred realm? May he not be a real man among men, and at the same time have all the roots of his being spiritualized? Did you ever know men and women to be turned down by any society simply because they made their lives conform to the teachings of the Bible? Does any one for a moment doubt what would be the condition of society if all human beings were making their lives conform to the great example that is set forth in the New Testament? If all people were ready to abide by this advice "abide in me and I in you" there would be no dead branches, and we must admit that most of the ills of life come from dead branches. When the same quality of life flows through the branch that is furnished by the vine—this spiritual vine, we are going to have a reconstructed and bettered society, and not till then. An improved society is going to be a matter of evolution; the unfolding of better hearts.

On one occasion not very long ago, a dozen trolley cars were stalled for more than an hour at the corner of Main and Windsor streets, Hartford. Not very much seemingly out of the ordinary had happened. In fact it was so small as almost to defy detection. Only the feed wire had separated several inches, but it was enough to holdup traffic on a busy throughfare for some time. In separating itself from the power house that wire became a dead wire, and a dead wire never is the means of moving a trolley—not a single inch. Now for the time being those cars were dead, at least they were useless just as long as separated from the power house. This illustration applies in every particular to the spiritual life. There must be constant connection with the Light of the World if we are to have power.

The recent death of Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, who gave her services to those afflicted with cancer, brings to the front once more her illustrious father, Nathaniel Hawthorne. One of the most delightful books published in America is his Twice-Told Tales. Hawthorne delighted to deal with the weird and uncanny. His description of a miser writing his own epitaph is typical: The wretched man, conscious that he had not a friend to be mindful of him in the grave, had himself taken the needful precautions for posthumous remembrance by bespeaking an immense slab of white marble with a long epitaph in raised letters the whole as magnificent as the sculpture's skill could make it. It was a contrivance to have his money's worth from his own tombstone, which gave him more enjoyment in the few months that he lived thereafter than it probably did in a whole century after it was laid over his bones.

This episode leads Hawthorne to moralize over the significance of tombstones anyway. "The weight of these heavy marbles, though unfelt by the dead corpse or the enfranchised soul, presses drearily upon the spirit of the survivor and causes him to connect the idea of death with the dungeon-like imprisonment of the tomb, instead of with the freedom of the skies. Every gravestone that was ever made is the visible symbol of a mistaken system. Our thoughts should soar upward with the butterfly, and not linger with the exuviae that confined him. In truth and reason, neither those whom we call the living, and still less the departed, have anything to do with the grave." Is there not much to be said about this view of death? It evidently runs counter to general custom, but it is really sensible.

RARE SPECIMENS

"Hey!" called the bachelor uncle as the pretty niece dashed through the front door and started upstairs. "Come here a minute! What's the use of having a debutante niece if you never see her except as some sort of a shooting star streaking in and out of the premises? How's tricks?"

"Meaning which?" demanded the pretty niece, sitting down on a chair arm and holding out her hand for her relative's cigarette case. "In other words, am I being a success or am I a flop?

"Well, I'll pass in review. When I went into this debutante business I sat down and thought the whole thing out carefully. If I had been engaging in $10,000 worth of tearoom or real estate or interior decorating work naturally I should be looking where I was about to leap, but I had noticed that most debs went into it helter-skelter. As a result, after the usual round of teas and hotel dances with balloons bumping the ceilings and a few dinners and theatre parties, they rushed right over the edge and disappeared into merciful oblivion, and the next you heard of them was that they were simply wrapped up in uplift work or were going to spend the rest of the winter with Aunt Lulu on her Arizona ranch and their mothers were wondering how to salvage ten new evening gowns and sixteen pairs of silver-gilt slippers.

"I hate fizzles of all kinds, so I sat down and mapped out my program with care. I figured that, whereas a successful debutante must be asked to all the parties, the people to play up to were those who gave the parties, and with that foundation to start from fully a year ago I began breaking my neck over the older women. You know most real young girls just don't know anybody over 22 is on earth—the rest of the population are only hazy figures stumbling around and getting in the way.

"The mothers and aunts and married persons are so accustomed to being snubbed and smiling sweetly over it that really the first woman before whom I paused long enough to say 'Why how do you do? How are you? Isn't it a lovely day?' nearly passed away from the shock. I wrote notes instead of telephoning and I had tea with mother quite often when her friends were in instead of always going out with the bunch. It worked both ways because my crowd couldn't imagine what I found to do away from them so much of the time and were crazy to discover what I did and where I went, and of course they couldn't.

"The funny thing is that I enjoyed myself heaps more than I ever had before! Older folks weren't dumb oysters, after all! Your crowd in your crowd and of course I like it, but still after Jimmy White had got off his six keen remarks and Horatio had told about when he was in Constantinople and the girls had sparkled their lines and put on more makeup they were about through and there was nothing to do but start in and do it all over again and laugh as hard as though you were having the time of your life.

"But the older women were so pleased and friendly at finding I liked to be with them and they were doing such interesting things—and there always were young brothers or nephews older than the boys in my crowd who had an awfully good line, too, with a lot of brains behind it and I seemed to amuse them—and after my debut tea this winter every last one of them has turned in and asked me to such dandy parties that I have been busier than a mosquito buzzing around, while several of the girls who came out when I did are holding their heads and wondering how I did it—only, please, don't think I am cold-blooded about it, because, honestly, I like all that older crowd so much, you can't imagine!"

"What's his name?" asked the practical bachelor uncle immediately. "Wisdom such as yours always has its reward, prize bullseye, so to say! Tell me about him and maybe I'll stir up a party for you myself!!"

"Why, you darling!" cried the pretty niece, kissing him enthusiastically "I don't see why everybody is so good to me! Well, I'd sort of kind of like to have you ask Torry Sheldon, that brother of Mrs. Jenkins who has gone into business here in Chicago! He—he's been particularly nice to me this winter!"

"He's asked," said the bachelor uncle promptly. "You're far too smart a child to have made any mistake in picking him! My word! I didn't know they grew them like you any more!"—Exchange.

Sunday Morning Talk

In His Presence.

He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. Psalms 91: 1.

This is one of the most beautiful in expression in all the Psalms; beautiful because it is poetic, but more than that it holds up before us one of the greatest privileges that can come to the children of God.

There is something about the word shadow that always interests—for there never has been a shadow without the light. Thus the "secret place" must be a place of brightness. It is a place where God is, for the nearest of all things to me as I journey in the sunlight is my shadow, and he who walks in my shadow, or rests in it, must be very near to me; so that when I am in the shadow of God I can reach forth my hand and touch Him; I can lift up mine eyes and see Him face to face. I know there is a sense in which God is always near me.

It is restful to know that there is a place where we may abide in peace and safety. There is something very winning in the fact it is a secret place, that surely means that God has something that is intended first for me. The psalmist in reverence cried out: "Thou art near, O Lord;" if we could only attain unto this, how strong, how happy, how useful we should be. It is possible for us in the midst of perplexing cares the Master bids us all to abide in Him.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Richard P. Ernest, whose seast in the United States senate is at stake in today's senatorial primary in Kentucky, is a republican, and consequently there was much surprise among the politicians of the Blue Grass state when he was first elected to the upper house six years ago. Senator Ernst has found his chief political support among the mountaineers of Kentucky, among whom he is well known and in whose section he has distributed liberally of his wealth in educational and other work. The senator is a lawyer by profession and has practised chiefly in Cincinnati, while making his home across the Ohio river in the city of Covington. He received his academic education at Center college and his professional training at the University of Cincinnati. In his present contest for reelection he has as his opponent Alben W. Barkley, for many years the representative in congress of the first Kentucky district.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Lake Wangumbaug?

Here is another fine lake situated less than an hour's drive from Norwich by automobile and less than 25 miles distant from Norwich. A large summer colony has sprung up about this lake and there is also good fishing in its waters.

The route from Norwich is through Yantic and over Route No. 32 to Willimantic, a distance of about 17 miles. From Willimantic Route No. 32 is followed until the trolley turn for South Coventry is reached. Turn left and follow the track until the South Coventry road is reached, then follow this until the lake is reached, a distance of about seven miles beyond Willimantic.

A second route is also available after leaving South Coventry, where, just beyond the trolley crossing, a sign to the left will bring the automobile to the lake over a second route.

It is a pleasant ride and one way traffic is touched simply at Franklin hill, this however being avoidable by taking the road through Lebanon and striking Route No. 32 beyond Cooley's hill.

LLOYD GEORGE'S VIEWS OF THE WORLD COURT

SWANSEA, Wales, Aug. 6.—(AP)—David Lloyd George, former British premier, does not believe that the League of Nations will be made the power in the world it should be until in some form or another, on her own conditions and in her own way the United States comes in.

Mr. Lloyd George gave his views on the league in a talk tonight at a reception given by the Welsh League of Nations organization to overseas visitors to the Welsh National Eisteddfod. He expressed the fervent hope that the United States would find her way clear to join the league, adding: "American alone, given God's guidance, can save the world from horrors."

CHILD TRAINING

WHEN MOTHER "STEPS OUT"
Ethel Clark Bickel

"Goodbye, Mamma. Have a good time!" A small, red-headed boy threw both arms around his mother's neck for a farewell kiss.

"Doodbye, Muvver. Take a dood time!" echoed a chubby girl of three.

It was refreshing to witness that sweet, wholesome mother taking such happy leave of her youngsters. There were no tears of regret on the little faces, only smiles and tenderness. Mother was going to an afternoon party at the home of one of her girlhood chums and the two children, knowing all about it, were only anxious that she should enjoy herself, for as Roger, the six-year-old, confided to his grandmother later, "You know mammas are always so busy they don't get to many parties."

In how many homes, in cases of this kind, the scene is quite different! In how many homes, when Mother leaves for an afternoon's or evening's pleasure, the children set up an uproar, no matter how kind and competent the person with whom they are left! How many mothers "sneak away" from their little ones.

For instance: Mother and Daddy want to go to the movies.

"I'll just put the children to bed first, and then we'll slip away without saying anything about it," says Mother. "They're perfectly all right here with Mary, but if I tell them we are going they're sure to make a fuss."

Thereupon hangs the secret of it all. Never in the lives of Roger and wee Betty, from the time they were old enough to understand, had their mother ever "sneaked away" from them. Never had they been put to bed for their naps and wakened to find Mother gone without their knowledge.

"I've always told them when I was going anywhere" she explained to me. "It's so much better! For" she continued, "children are just like grown people, they don't like to be fooled. They are reasonable and, when made to understand things, can usually be counted on to do the square thing. I tell Roger and Betty where I'm going and why and how long I expect to stay. And when I come back I tell them about some of the fun I've had. Sometimes I have a favor or two for them—a pretty nut cup or fancy place card. I'll never forget one party I went to," she laughed, "when I brought home an unusually fancy ruffled nut cup with a tiny white parasol on the side. Roddy found it on the table in the morning, and shouted at the top of his lungs, 'Oh, goody, goody, Mother won a prize!' That just shows how interested they are in my good times." And with love shining in her eyes, she added, "Of course, they know I'm always extremely interested in their fun, too!"

Matunuck Point Beach

ON RHODE ISLAND'S COOL OCEAN SHORE

A New, High Grade Restricted Summer Colony in a Class by Itself.

Here you find elevated, green lawns, on the ocean front. No Marshes. Fine Sandy Bathing Beaches.

Here you find the COOLEST development on the entire coast, practically surrounded by water. All breezes water cooled. The great expanse of green lawns does not radiate heat like sand, but cools the air by evaporation. No hills to cut off the breeze.

Here you find the noted six-mile salt pond, skirting its shore providing shell fish in abundance. A paradise of safe water sports for the children. Here you find all roads built on winding curves. The scarcity of ocean front property with restrictions that make for safety and for increased values, calls for immediate action. This is your opportunity. Come to Matunuck Point and come again. The more you see this jewel of the Atlantic coast the more you will like it. Talk with a friendly agent who will gladly show you how easy it is to buy now at reasonable prices, where the long days spent in boating, fishing and swimming will make you fit for the arduous duties of winter. Easy walking distance to churches, library, stores and dancing pavilions. Fine running water, electric lights and telephones now installed. Hard roads all the way to the property and through it. Take the old Post Road, route No. 1, at Westerly and follow the signs.

Reddy Becomes Personal

The one too personal, you'll find,
Is sure to cause distress of mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

It is considered most impolite to be inquisitive about another's personal affairs. Most people think that their personal affairs are not the business of anybody else, and in this they are right. Still, as Reddy Fox says, "How are you going to find out about folks if you don't ask about them?" Now, he didn't feel really acquainted with Barker the Seal and that was because he knew almost nothing about

"Where do you live?" he inquired Barker. He knew of no one he could ask in regard to Barker, and so he became personal. He tried to be polite about it.

"I should like to have you come ashore and visit me, Mr. Seal," said he in his most polite manner, and that is a very polite manner.

Barker looked at him a little suspiciously. "Where do you live?" he inquired.

"Oh, not very far," replied Reddy. "Just over those sand dunes and back on the shore a little way."

"Thank you, Mr. Fox," replied Barker. "Thank you for your invitation. I find, however, that I must refuse. If I could swim there, I would accept in a minute. Instead, suppose you come and visit me."

Reddy grinned. "Thank you, Mr. Seal," said he, "if I could swim I would."

Barker pretended to be very much surprised. "Do you mean to tell me," said he, "that such a smart fellow as you cannot swim?"

Again Reddy grinned. "Oh, I can swim," replied Reddy. "I can swim just about as well as you can travel on land."

It was Barker's turn to grin. "Then you wouldn't be very comfortable in the water."

It was a shrewd guess on Reddy's part that Barker wasn't at home on the land. You see, he had watched Barker for some time and never had seen him come ashore. So he had guessed that Barker couldn't travel much on land. "What I should like to know," said Reddy, "is how you breathe under water. I've watched you dive and not come up for a long time. Do you breathe through your skin like Grandfather Frog?"

"I don't know anything about Grandfather Frog," replied Barker, "but I can tell you I don't breathe through my skin. I have a perfectly good pair of lungs and I breathe just as you do. When I dive I hold my breath until I come up again."

"I don't see how you do it," sighed Reddy. "I wish I could hold my breath that way. You said something about eating fish. How do you catch them?"

Barker looked at Reddy as if he thought that a silly question, as indeed he did. "The same way you get your food," said he. "I surprise or run mine down in the water just as you surprise or run yours down on land."

"Where is your home?" inquired Reddy.

"Wherever I happen to be," replied Barker. "Just now, it is right here on this rock."

"And is it true that you are not part fish?" mentioned Reddy.

"Fish! Fish!" snorted Barker. "Who says I am part fish? Just because I am at home in the water and eat, sleep, play and work in the water is no reason for thinking me a fish. I'm just as much animal as you are, and I wouldn't trade places with you for anything in the Great World. Give me the water every time. Watch me dive through that wave that is coming in." Barker slid from the rock just as a wave was going to break over him, and Reddy saw no more of him that night.

OBITUARY

Michael Nolan

Following a heart attack the death of Michael Nolan, 55, occurred early Friday morning at his home in Preston. Mr. Nolan for the past 12 years had been supervisor of the state farm for inebriates at Preston and for ten years had been constable in the town of Preston. Mr. Nolan had been in poor health for the past six months Friday morning he complained of not feeling well. Seated beneath shade trees on the lawn he was seized with a heart attack and death occurred within a few minutes.

Mr. Nolan was born in Lynn, Mass., about 55 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nolan. He spent his boyhood days in that town but most of his life was spent in Norwich and vicinity. Twenty-five years ago he was united in marriage with Miss Jennie Murphy of Versailles, whose death occurred in this city 13 years ago.

Mr. Nolan had been in the employ of the Norwich State hospital for the past 15 years, the last 12 years in the capacity of supervisor of one department. He was a member of St. Patrick's parish.

News of his sudden death comes as a shock to a host of friends in eastern Connecticut and sympathy is expressed for his family.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Viola Nolan of Preston and a sister, Mrs. A. R. Boulthier of Occum.

Sesqui Stationery For Visitors.

State Librarian George Goddard, who is chairman of the governor's sesqui-centennial committee stated Friday that stationery bearing a stamp of the Connecticut Sesqui-Centennial medal had been printed and placed in Connecticut hall at the exposition in Philadelphia for use of visitors. He also stated that during the remainder of the year the official stationery of the state library will bear a print of the sesqui-centennial medal in Connecticut blue.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF STATE C. T. A. U. TO BE HELD IN NORWICH

The Catholic Total Abstinence union of Connecticut will hold its annual convention in Norwich August 30 and 31, according to an announcement made Friday by the officials of the local union. The convention headquarters will be at the Wauregan hotel and the convention meetings will be held at St. Mary's T. A. & B. building, Broadway. Between 50 and 75 delegates from all parts of the state will attend the convention.

The local committee in charge of the arrangements comprises John Wozniak, president; Walter G. Casey, Andrew Deneff, William H. McGuinness and John Edwards. The call for the convention, which will be the 35th annual, has been sent out by State Secretary Frank J. Kinney of Branford.

On the opening day of the convention high mass will be celebrated at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's church, the mass marking the official opening of the meetings. High mass for the deceased members will be sung on the second morning of the convention.

The local committee is arranging a programme of events for the entertainment of the visiting delegates. While officials of the local union said Friday evening that the programme has not been completed, it is practically assured that on the afternoon of the first day there will be an automobile ride to the United States submarine base at Groton. At the base officers will be detailed to conduct the delegates on a tour of inspection and explain the workings of the submarines.

Each society affiliated with the state union is entitled to one delegate for each 50 members or fractional part thereof, based on membership as of January 1st last. The complete programme for the two day convention will be published as soon as it has been arranged by the local committee.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA HAVE PICNIC AT BALTIC

Buckinham Council No. 116, Junior Order and Lady Buckingham Council, No. 14, America held a joint outing recently at Pautipaug hill in Baltic, and on the land owned by J. W. Wellington, state secretary of the order. The entertainment started early in the morning. The first event was the baseball game between the married men and the single men and after the game the married men had convinced the single men that they knew more about baseball than had been first thought. the singles being defeated 19 to 7. The prize for the best player on either team was awarded to Herbert Bradford, who played a splendid game, the features being a double play unassisted. The prize was a watch fob bearing the insignia of the Junior Order.

After the ball game everyone enjoyed a dinner served by the Daughters of America. Following dinner other contests were run off and prizes awarded the winners as follows: Stout ladies' race, 1st, Mrs. Ladd, prize, ladies' pocketbook; 100 yard dash, 1st, Willard Miner, prize, silver cigarette case; 150 yard dash, 1st, Floyd Pierce, prize, silver belt buckle; three legged race for ladies, 1st, the Misses Florence Wheeler and Phyllis Irving, prizes, silver salt and pepper shakers; 50 yard dash for boys, 1st, A. Angell, prize, cut glass water set; men's three legged race, 1st, H. E. Eddins and Walter Karkutt, prize, Junior Order pins; thin ladies' race, 1st, Mrs. Bradford, prize, cut glass candle sticks; children's race 1st, Miss Pearl Gasser, prize, sterling silver childs set; watermelon eating contest, first, Mrs. Elinor Lesemann, prize; silver pie knife; (this contest proved to be a feature and was closely fought out to the finish).

Other sports with prize winners and prizes were as follows: Baby contest, 1st, William Chapman, prize, baby cereal set, (donated by Lee Clegg); tug-of-war, married men defeated single men and married women defeated single women, (this proving that married people work together better in harness).

The defeat of the single men and women came as a shock to their pride and they vowed that such a thing would never happen again. The married people however claimed that they could take the measure of the single people at any meet the orders could arrange.

Following the competitive events everyone went to the lake and swimming was enjoyed for several hours. Swimmings and diving exhibitions were given by Brothers William Wyman, Eddins, Gasser, Rodgers, Miller and Vars. The feature was the diving of William Wyman, who also acted as life guard. After enjoying the swimming and boating the party enjoyed supper and a watermelon festival.

After the supper music and songs were enjoyed and at a late hour the Brothers and Sisters departed for home. The outing was voted the most successful event ever held by the order in Norwich and voted Brother Wellington a delightful host.

The committee in charge of the outing comprised Mr. Lesemann, chairman, R. W. Chapman, G. Stewart, J. Angell and William Chapman.

The lodge is offering two handsome silver loving cups for prizes for an event, the nature of which is to be announced at the meeting to be held Wednesday evening of next week, when a large number is expected to attend.

BLOCK ISLAND MAIL SERVICE IS INSPECTED

The mail service between New London and Block Island and the steamer Nelseco 11, which carries the mail was subjected Thursday to the inspection by officials of the mail service. Superintendent Yerrington of the New England railway mail service, Frank district headed the party, the other members being Chief Clerk Charles McGregor of New Haven, and Chief Clerk William Stoddard of Boston. Assistant Postmaster Edward T. Corcoran of New London assisted in the inspection.

The visitors made the trip to Block Island on the Nelseco II and were entertained at luncheon there by Captain Edward F. Quarry, who holds a five-year contract with the government for the carrying of mail between the island and New London.

EXPECT RECORD NUMBER IN FIREMEN'S PARADE

It is the belief of the general committee in charge of arrangements for the annual state firemen's convention to be held in New London, Thursday and Friday, August 19 and 20, that the parade to be held on the morning of the second day, will be the largest ever seen in the city. With the convention days but two weeks away, the committee is receiving telegrams and letters from fire companies in this state and Rhode Island stating that they will attend with bands and apparatus for the parade.

PARADE IN HONOR OF GEN. PAYNE

In honor of Maj. Gen. Morris B. Payne and his staff, the special troops of the 43rd division in the field at Camp Trumbull, Niantic, held a parade Wednesday afternoon. The 43rd division is made up of the regular 43rd division and various unattached troops, such as tank and motorcycle companies. All the companies combined to form a provision battalion under command of Maj. Elbert L. Darbie.

Conn. Building Popular

The Connecticut building at the Philadelphia sesqui-centennial exposition continues to be the center of attraction for large numbers of visitors. On special days special assistants are required, according to a letter received yesterday at the state library from Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Wheaton, who are in charge of the building.

The exhibits representing "Connecticut at Work" are appreciated by those interested in state activities as indicated by the number of request cards for various publications issued by the several departments received.

NEED STRONG MEASURES TO PROTECT CONN. LUMBER

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 6—"Connecticut, located in the center of an enormous lumber consuming region which uses far more lumber than it can produce, finds difficulty in marketing local timber on a short haul in competition with lumber produced in regions from several hundred to several thousand miles distant", said Prof. R. C. Bryant of Yale Forestry school in his address on "The Future of Southern New England Lumber," which was given here today as the high light in the forestry program of Farmers' week.

"This anomolous situation is due to economic conditions existing in other forest regions and to our own shortsighted policy of 'mining' our timber lands instead of managing them for repeated crops as is done in agriculture. Unless as a people we are willing to mend our ways, I see no better prospect for the future than confronts us today.

"As now managed our hardwood forests will always continue to produce low-grade material and our pine forests will continue to meet keen competition from substitutes. In any case we must not expect a turn for the better over night. We cannot improve our condition, except gradually and my own feeling is that the lumber industry in Connecticut has ahead of it a further period of lean years before things actually take a decided turn for the better.

"The future prosperity of the timber business in Connecticut depends on the adoption of several strong measures on the part of both the land owner and the lumber producer, and among the more important of these should be included the production of larger sawlog timber; the careful manufacture and proper care of the lumber in seasoning; and the improvement of marketing facilities.

"In order to produce larger sawlog timber, we must have a longer growing period for the crop, and better care for it during this period. Hardwood lumber, which will be acceptable to local industries, cannot be secured from trees 30 or 40 years old; neither can good saw logs be produced on lands which are not protected from fire. When the timber-land owner realizes that greater returns can be secured from handling his wood-lot in the same careful manner that he handles his agricultural crops than and only then, can we have raw wood materials that will meet the needs of our woodusing industries and trade. We now cut our timber just as it reaches the stage of quality production, which means that we are placing on the market a class of material which every region can and does produce on a quantity basis and in the sale of which there is the greatest competition.

"Practically all of the local stumpage is manufactured with small portable sawmills, and from the standpoint of care manufacture and care of the lumber in seasoning, frequently the workmen are not as skilled in manufacture as they should be. As a result much of the output is not sawed to true dimensions, which tends to lower the quality of the product.

"Considering the question of improved marketing facilities, too little is known of the potential lumber demands by the average small lumber producer, and a careful survey of the supply and demand in a given region would do much to build up a more stable market.

"The local sawmill operator can undoubtedly produce, from our local forest supplies, a better average product, but the future success of the Connecticut lumber industry rests fully as much as the timberland owner as on the operator because the re-establishment of our local product in the good graces of industry rests on our growing better sawlog timber than we do now. Hence we must have the co-operation of the public with the land owner in fire protection and taxation before we can provide a first class product from which lumber of good quality can be produced.

"Connecticut was originally heavily forested with hardwoods on at least three-fourths of its area and the remainder comprised stands stocked chiefly with pine and hemlock. As time has gone on, there has been a marked depletion of our forest capital, however, and there has been a marked decline in production in both quality and quantity.

"This condition will undoubtedly continue indefinitely, unless some steps are taken to make the lands more productive which can only be done by reforesting the denuded areas, protecting the young stands from fires, and lengthening the period of rotation so that timber of a larger size and better quality will be produced. Our present policy, or rather lack of policy, is rapidly leading to a condition in which fuel wood will be the dominating product of our forests. This is not a desirable thing because it means the elimination of saw timber in favor of fuel wood, which is one of the least profitable forest crops that can be grown in this region.

"That the sawmill industry is on the decline in Connecticut is indicated by the fact that the 1924 census reported only 25 per cent as many sawmills operating in the state as compared with 1909, and 61 per cent as compared with 1919, while the lumber cut declined 71 per cent from 1909 to 1924 and 45 per cent from 1919 to 1924.

GOV. TRUMBULL VISITS GUARDSMEN AT NIANTIC

The 58th Infantry Brigade Headquarters Co., the 102d Regiment of Infantry, the 43d Division Special Troops, the 118th Motorcycle company and the 118th Medical regiment combined in the observance of Governor's day at Camp Trumbull, Niantic, Friday. Gov. John H. Trumbull at 11:30 o'clock Friday morning descended in an airplane at the Niantic camp, as the field pieces boomed the official salute. He was piloted by Lieut. Earl Fleet, who took off from the governor's home in Plainville. A large crowd gathered at the grounds to witness the celebration.

The program scheduled for this afternoon was a little late in starting because of the late arrival of his excellency who was first conveyed to Giant's Neck where Co. D of the 102d Infantry set up a machine gun barrage, firing tracer ammunition. This event was followed by target firing with the 37 mm. guns by the Howitzer Co., 102 Infantry.

The governor and his staff arrived back from Giant's Neck shortly before 2 o'clock and then witnessed the divisional hospital evacuation by the 118th Medical reiment. He then lunched with the officers of the camp.

FISH AND GAME OUTING AT LAKE

The bass at Gardner lake had better be wary Sunday for the members of the Norwich Fish and Game association will invade the lake on that day and endeavor to catch all the fish in the waters of the big pond. Catches so far this year have been reported as somewhat below normal but it is hoped that the fish will take the bait Sunday and give the fishermen a day of real sport.

It is expected that over 200 fishermen from Norwich and vicinity will leave town early in the morning to enjoy the annual outing at the lake. Plenty of action and entertainment is in store for the members and as the association has taken over the grove and all the boats are reserved for the members, a gal day should be enjoyed.

Events for the day include bait casting events for distance and accuracy, fly casting for distance and accuracy, a ladies' casting contest for bait, distance and accuracy and casting events for beginners. Prizes of line and other fishing tackle are to be awarded the winners in the various events.

To create interest in the casting events President Arthur E. Story has again offered a special prize for the member scoring best in all contests.

The prize which attracts considerable attention is that offered for the heavies fish brought in during the day every fisherman endeavoring to take home this prize of all prizes.

An additional feature this year will be a tug-of-war between the hunters and the fishermen, also a demonstration of fly casting by H. W. Hawes of Canterbury, formerly world's champion fly caster.

For those who do not care to enter the sports, Swahn's band of Norwich has been engaged to play during the morning and for the lunch hour. At about 1 o'clock the fishermen and hunters will abandon their story telling about the "big ones they missed" and will sit down to punish a clam chowder and other good things such as watermelon.

It is expected that Joseph E. O'Connell, chairman of the state tournament will be a guest of the association for the outing. The arrangements for the annual outing are being taken of by President Story and Secretary W. W. Ives and the general committee of the association.

FLETCHER POST PLANS FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Vice Commander Meredith Lee presided over the meeting of Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, held Friday night at the post rooms on Shetucket street with a good attendance. Routine business was transacted and plans were made for the annual production staged by the post, to be given some time in the late fall.

Plans were also made for the proper observance of Armistice day and the committee in charge of the war trophy was enlarged to arrange for suitable exercises at the time when the trophy is placed at the parade.

A committee was also appointed to confer with the chamber of commerce in connection with the Norwich advertising to be taken to the national convention of the American Legion to be held at Philadelphia.

The subject of the state convention of the Legion, to be held at New Haven August 26, 27 and 28, also came up for discussion. The delegates to this convention are Commander Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, Past Commanders William A. Anderson and Samuel Jennes and Comrade Warren Wilcox. Alternates are Past Commander John A. Cunningham and Comrades Lindsey Smith, Carlton Bowers and John Bowman, Jr.

ACCEPT INVITATION TO FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

Lady Buckingham council No. 14, Daughters of America met in regular session Thursday evening and those who had attended the outing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wellington of Baltic reported the affair one of the best ever held.

The council received and accepted an invitation from Nancy Hempstead council of New London, to attend a 15th birthday anniversary party at New London on August 9th. A supper is to be served by the New London council at 6 o'clock and this is to be followed by an entertainment programme. It is expected that a large delegation from the local council will go to New London for the anniversary party.

THAMESVILLE CHILD RUNS AGAINST AUTO

Sophie Nawocki, 5, of No. 285 West Thames street, was knocked down Friday night by a machine driven by William H. McGuinnis of No. 167 West Thames street. The accident happened near the city line in Thamesville. Mr. McGuinnis was driving a Cadillac touring car and claims the child ran against the machine and was knocked down.

Dr. John W. Callahan was called and after attending the child had her removed to the W. W. Backus hospital for observation. It is understood that she was only slightly injured.

XENS HAVE REUNION AT GARDNER LAKE

Former members of the Xens, a society which disbanded several years ago, united Friday for an outing at Whittle's grove at Gardner lake. About 20 attended the outing and enjoyed swimming and boating during the day. At noon and again early in the evening basket lunches were enjoyed. The day proved most enjoyable several of the members who have moved from Norwich, coming back home to attend the reunion and enjoy the comradeship of former days.

REPORT FORD ROADSTER STOLEN IN GREENEVILLE

A Ford roadster, 1921, registration number N-6930, owned by Lillian Richmond of New London and driven by Louis Richmond of New London was stolen in Greeneville Friday night. The local police were notified of the theft and all officers on duty were instructed to keep a watch for the missing machine.

Plan Better Baby Contest Here

Dr. A. Elizabeth Ingraham of Hartford, director of the bureau of child hygiene, state department of health, was in Norwich Thursday afternoon to complete arrangements for the better baby contest to be held on Monday September 6th, in connection with the New London country fair. Dr. Ingraham had charge of this work last year and the features has become one of the leading events of the fair, parents being quick to seize upon the chance to have their babies examined by experts in the study of child hygiene.

Movie cowboys resent the use of government troops in the films and have filed formal protest against it.

MIXED MARRIAGES CAUSE OF MANY "BROKEN HOMES"

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 6—(AP)—Incompatibility arising out of the intermarriage of persons of different religions or nationalities was found to be the cause of 40 per cent of the five hundred "broken homes" investigated by New Haven's bureau of domestic relations, Mrs. Frances L. Roth, assistant city attorney, in charge of the bureau, said today.

Mrs. Roth spoke before Vassar's institute of eutheics, which is concluding its first four weeks summer course in the study of family relationships with a symposium on divorce problems.

Twenty-five per cent of the cases were due to intemperance on the part of husband or wife, or both, 20 per cent due to the inability to meet household expenses, and ten per cent to infidelity, her figures showed.

The bureau of domestic relations, which attempts to solve family difficulties outside of court, has been successful in 80 per cent. of the cases so far handled, said Mrs. Roth.

COAL ENOUGH IN EARTH TO LAST AT LEAST 4,000 YEARS

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 6—(AP)—There are 7 1-2 trillion tons of coal still imbedded in the earth, and enough in the United States to last at least 4,000 years at the present rate of consumption, but in spite of that, "the future of coal looks black," Dean E. A. Holbrook of Pennsylvania state college told the institute of politics today.

He said coal is without substitute as the foundation of our industrial civilization and that water power, although valuable, is inadequate.

HOLD-UP SUSPECT FILES SUIT AGAINST BOSTON BANK

Boston, Aug. 6—(AP)—After six weeks in jail awaiting the pleasure of justice, Lester B. Fogg today sought redress by filing a suit for $50,000 in superior court against the First National bank of Boston, charging false arrest and malicious prosecution.

In his declaration Fogg stated the bank caused his arrest on a charge of robbing a bank messenger while armed. Bail was set at $50,000 which Fogg was unable to furnish. He was forced to remain in prison until the charges brought against him were not pressed by the district attorney.

MRS. AL JOLSON NOT SEEKING SEPARATION

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(AP)—Mrs. Al Jolson said tonight on her arrival on the Cunard liner Berengaria that separations from her husband, the comedian, is the one thing furthest from her thoughts.

It was recently reported in dispatches from Paris that an action for divorce had been filed there, but Jolson denied the story. At that time Mrs. Jolson was on the high seas.

HELD FOR COMPLICITY IN BANK ROBBERY AT ARCTIC

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 6—(AP)—John Gilbert (Whitey) Miller was adjudged probably guilty and held without bail for the Kent county grand jury in fourth district court at West Warwick this afternoon, on charges involving complicity in the $26,000 robbery of the Phenix Trust company at Arctic, R. I., April 2.

SAINTS HAND POWERMEN FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON IN HECTIC TWILIGHT GAME

The Eastern Conn. Power Co. lost their first game in the Twilight league Friday evening to St. Joseph's, 1 to 0.

The game was hard fought all the way, and came to an abrupt end with the Saints batting in the first half of the fifth, when the E. C. P. contended that it was too dark to play any longer. Going into the fifth with the score 1 to 0 in their favor, the Saints launched an attack on Greene scoring six more runs. In this inning the Power Co. started to employ stalling tactics in the hope that the game would be called before a regulation contest would be played. Greene Greene threw the ball way out of reach of Lee Gilbert while the latter was batting, while Whitney refused to touch Chip Dugas out at third on a play in which he would have had plenty of time to retire him. This exhibition of stalling was disgusting to any red-blooded fan and does the game more harm than anything else possibly could do.

A general argument then took place and the crowd swarmed on the field, making it impossible to go on with the game. After several minutes of arguing the rival managers finally came to an agreement to the effect that the game should go to the Saints by the score of 1 to 0. According to the rules covering a regulation game four and one-half innings had to be played before it could be called a game, but inasmuch as the regulation Twilight game is only seven innings, three and one-half innings would be sufficient to make the game count.

The game therefore reverted to the last half of the fourth inning with the Saints the victors, 1 to 0. Both managers being agreeable.

In justice to Hank Morin, it should be stated that he wished to call the game at the end of the fourth, but both managers agreed to go on with the contest through the fifth. Both managers made a mistake in doing this, as it was already too dark to play ball with any degree of certainty.

Going back to the game itself, it was chiefly a pitching duel between Greene and Eddie Kozlowski with the latter having all the better of it. Kozlowski did not allow a single hit in the four innings he pitched. Only two E. C. P. batters reached first in the game, Cimikowski on an error in the first inning and Whitney on a pass in the fourth. Greene also pitched fine ball, allowing but four hits. Two hits coming in the first, however, proved his undoing. Score:

FIRST GAME OF ASHLAND AND MARTIN SERIES SUNDAY

One of the best baseball battles will be seen Sunday at the J. B. Martin grounds when Ashland A. A. and the Velvetmen clash in the first game of their series. The uptowners are reported to have strengthened their club considerably and are out to take a count out of the locals. The Velvetmen are no going to let the invaders get away with anything and a confident feeling exists among the boys that after Sunday the first game of the series will be sewed up in a velvet bag.

Manager Bill Liberty has been out scouting during the week and has secured the services of "Chick" Brown of Worcester for the mound duty. Bill Liberty will do the backstop work with Robertson covering first, Cimikoski, N. F. A. star will cover second, "oe" Kendricks who is noted for his snappy fielding and also heavy with the stick will be seen at short, "Chip" Dugas will cover third. The outfield will be taken care of by Gilbert lf; Raille cf, and Benjamin rf, Stanley and Weston utility.

The J. B. boys will lineup as follows: J. Murphy c; Pepin or Lemieux p; J. Joubert 1b; F. Smith 2b; De Celles ss; F. Grey 3b. The outfield will be picked from W. Grey, E. Joubert, E. Murphy and C. Krauss. Utility U. Pepin. Game called 3:15 (D S. T.) Simcox and Roy will officiate.

BALTIC AND WARRIORS CLASH AT BALTIC SUNDAY

The newly organized Baltic team have accepted the challenge of the Warriors for a game on Sunday in Baltic. Mgr. Harry Collins has gathered together quite a collection for the Baltic team and they are expected to give a good account of themselves in their first game on Sunday. Servant or Coady will pitch for the Baltic team with Provencher behind the bat. Charron will cover first with Passmore, Cliff Coady or Masse on second, Swalt or A. Charon on short and Pasmsmore, Lacroix or Bamford on third. Joe Simonian or Chick Andrews will play left field with Sullivan or Peloquin in center and Coady or Swalt in right.

The Warriors will probably use Couture on the mound with Burns behind the bat. The rest of the lineup will be practically the same with the exception of second base, which place Hymie Sadinsky has been assigned to cover.

The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock D. S. T.

A large crowd is expected to turn out for the grat game of the season in Baltic.

ELM CITY GIANTS AT TAFTVILLE THIS AFTERNOON

The Elm City Colored Giants will be the opponents of the Taftville A. A. this afternoon at the Providence street grounds and a fast game is expected. The Elm City Giants rate as one of the fastest of the colored semi-pro teams in the New England states. The Elm City team has Cannonball Smith to do the twirling and those who have seen this boy pitch know that Taftville will have to step to hit him.

Manager Troland of the Taftville team is to use Lefty Buckland on the mound and expects to be able to turn back the invaders. The Taftville team has not been going as good lately as earlier in the season but the club is confident of a victory in today's battle. The lineups for the two clubs is as follows:

Giants—McLane ss; Cannonball Smith p; Pettaway 3b; Simond 1b; Redmond cf; Ching 2b; Jordan rf; Brady lf; More c; Twyman c.

Taftville—Leo Jarvis lf; Lloyd Jarvis cf; Yerrington 3b; Donn rf; Cardie 1b; Eccleston c; Tombari 2b; Gauthier ss; Buckland p.

JR. TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Brassco Beat Centennials

The Brassco defeated the Centennials in a Jr. Twi leaue ame at the A[illegible] campus on Friday evening by the score of 4 to 2. The game was snappy and hard fought from start to finish with good baseball being played by both sides.

Rankin pitched well for the winners and was strong in the pinches, Tombari caught for the Brasscos. P. Labenski was on the mound for the losers with B. Labenski behind the bat.

PIRATES' VICTORY IS MARRED BY WRIGHT'S INJURY

BOSTON, Aug. 6—(AP)—Although Pittsburgh defeated Boston 5 to 4 today, gaining a three out of four edge on the Braves in the current series, the champions lost the services, for a few days at least, of Glenn Wright, the Pirate shortstop, who injured his right leg when he slid into second after a long double in the seventh inning. He was removed to a hospital for examination, but it was believed that the injury was not of a serious nature.

Pittsburgh jumped into the lead in the opening inning when a double by Traynor with twb out gave them two runs. The Braves reached Yde for nine hits, but clever fielding kept ten men stranded on the sacks. Score:

YANKEES WIN ODD GAME FROM CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6—(AP)—New York won the odd game of the series from Cleveland today 8 to 7, Hoyt coming to the rescue with the tying run on second base and striking out McNulty, a pinch hitter.

New York bunched its hits on Levsen in two innings, but errors of omission on the part of the infield were more responsible for his defeat than his effectiveness. He had won seven straight games.

Ruth made his 35th home run of the season in the fifth inning with no one on while Burns of the Indians made three doubles, increasing his total to 52 for the season, driving in four of Cleveland's runs. Score:

MISS RYAN BEATS MISS WILLS IN FINALS OF SEABRIGHT TOURNAMENT

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 6—(AP)—Helen Wills, America's tennis queen made a brave but losing fight today to repulse the most serious thrust at her supremacy since she rose to the peak of netdom three years ago.

Facing Elizabeth Ryan, a sister Californian, in the most critical test of her playing strength, since she underwent an operation in France two months ago, the national champion went down to defeat in the singles final of the Seabright invitation tournament, 6-4, 6-1.

The historic Jersey coast tournament closed as dramatically as it had opened on Monday, with a series of upsets broken only by the march of Vincent Richards through the men's singles to a closing victory today over Manuel Alonso of Spain, 6-2, 10-8, 6-2. A withering fire from the forecourt, directed by the same racquet which swept William T. Tilden to defeat in the Metropolitan final last Sunday, brought Richards through a field of colorful international stars to gain his second leg on the Seabright bowl.

Favorite after favorite fell by the wayside as Richards coolly and masterfully forged a path through the field with a net attack which broke and shattered the violent back court game of the Spanish player today. First it was R. Norris Williams who fell, tripped unexpectedly by Young Lionel Ogden of California. Then William M. Johnston bowed to Takeichi Harada of Japan, finally the former South African veteran, Brian I. C. Norton, went down before the terrific forehanders of Francis T. Hunter.

Miss Wills took the court under overcast skies with a cool breeze sweeping in from the Atlantic. The gallery of 4,000 soon saw that the national titleholder was unequal to the task before her. She was outstroked from the backcourt by Miss Ryan, who slashed to the corners a sharp twisting slice that made the champion pitch drive after drive into the net. Miss Wills made no more than a half dozen rallies into the forecourt during the match, and frequently she was carried for out of position by the forcing shots of her opponent. Miss Ryan covered court with remarkable speed, and her spectacular recoveries repeatedly brought ovations from the spectators.

TIGER ERRORS GIVE SENATORS A VICTORY

DETROIT, Aug. 6—(AP)—Five Detroit errors contributed to Washington's 12 to 8 victory over the Tigers today. Two of these misplays came in the sixth when the Senators scored five runs and knocked Wells out of the box. The Tigers filled the bases in the eighth with one out, but Marberry went to Morrell's relief and retired the side. Score:

RIVERVIEW TO CLASH WITH CATHOLIC CLUB TODAY

At the State hospital diamond this afternoon the Riverview club will clash with the fast traveling Catholic club of Hartford. The Harvard team is made up of a number of college stars and high school players that have been rounded up into a real ball club. The team is coached by Jimmy Deegan, an old time major leaguer having played third base for the Cincinnati Reds. The Hartford club has Al Nichols of Exeter Academy and Red Emmons of the University of Maryland pitchers.

Manager Zemke will use Lefty Dugas in the box against the Hartford club with Joe Belair doing the catching. As the Riverview club is playing the New Departure team at Bristol on Sunday Tony West is being saved for this game. The lineups of the teams for today's game follows:

Riverview—Liberty 3b; Moore cf; Mills lf; Clabby rf; Hamil 2b; Farrell 1b; Normandin ss; Belair c; Dugas p; West p.

Catholic Club of Hartford—Patriss 2b; Deegan cf; Gilmore ss; Cunningham 3b; O'Flarity rf; Wetstein 1b; Dillon lf; Balf c; Nichols p; Emmons p.

WARRIORS TO PLAY AIRLIE CLUB TODAY

The Warriors will play the Airlie Mills in Hanover this afternoon. A fast game is expected.

Jim Shea will pitch for the Warriors with Leo Hamill on the receiving end. The rest of the lineup will be the same that has performed for the local club during the season.

Airlie on the other hand has been going strong to date this season and will send her strongest lineup on the field in an attempt to bring home the bacon.

The local club will leave from Union square by truck at 1.30 p. m. this afternoon. The game is scheduled to start at 3 p. m. sharp.

FARRELL TAKES LEAD IN CANADIAN OPEN

MONTREAL, Aug. 6—(AP)—Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., led the field at the end of the second round of the Canadian open golf championship with 71 today which gave him an aggregate of 140. He was followed closely by Gene Sarazen, Jamaica, N. Y., who headed the list yesterday with Farrell at the end of the first 18 holes.

Today Sarazen had to be satisfied with a 72, which gave him a total of 141. Bracketed in third place were Leo Diegel, White Plains, N. Y., defending champion, who made a 70 for a total of 143, and Joe Turnesa, who scored 68 as compared with his 75 yesterday.

HUDKINS AND LOAYZA FIGHT TO A DRAW

NEW WY

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Matters of local interest were contained in the columns of the Norwich Bulletin of the summer of 1876, one of them, an item about the cost of maintaining the Central school district, showing what schools cost in those days.

Items in part from the Bulletins of the week ending August 7, 1876, are as follows:

Monday, July 31, 1876—Passengers in the up train Saturday morning at 11.30 o'clock on the New London-Willimantic railroad had a narrow escape, but were saved by quick work on the part of the engineer of the locomotive. As the train was approaching the wharf the engineer noticed that the boards on the side of the large coal bin at the yard of Joon Willard's spice and coffee depository were giving way. He applied the brakes to the engine and brought the train to a stop just as the coal came pouring out onto the tracks. The passenger coach was considerably scratched but was not thrown from the rails.

The steamer City of Lawrence brought 1,080 bales of cotton from New York on her arrival yesterday morning, the largest number ever received in this port in one cargo.

The New London Agricultural society is already making plans for the fall exhibition which takes place late in September. The sum of $250 has been raised and the society is to add a like sum, thus insuring some excellent racing during the fair. The subject of having machinery in motion and on display is being discussed and the exhibit may be one well worth visiting.

At North Stonington another old Bible has been located, one that was printed in 1599 and which has been handed down from generation to generation as far as is known.

Tuesday, August 1, 1876—People interested in figuring periods of drought in New England may find that this year, when the drought lasted for nearly six weeks equals the records of some of the longest periods figured. Statistics given include the following periods of drought; 1803, 24 days; 1807, 36 days; 1812, 24 days; 1817, 36 days; 1821, 21 days; 1829, 41 days; 1832, 25 days; 1839, 47 days; 1845, 29 days; 1856, 24 days; 1861, 26 days; 1865, 21 days; 1871, 43 days; 1847, 26 days. Until last week it had been two months since a steady rain had fallen, over a month without rain of any kind and nearly a month of temperature averaging over 90 degrees.

The old Stonington arsenal erected by the United States government about the year 1809 and which retains the two historic eighteen pounder guns that were used to beat off the British ships of war in 1814, has been sold by Mrs. Benjamin Pomeroy for the sum of $560. Dr. William Hyde, long since deceased, built the arsenal with bricks and cement, stating that he believed it would stand for a time at least.

The bottle of brandy found in the cornerstone of the college building at New Haven last week was put there fifty years ago, so it is known that they had theological students there at that time.

What ignorant people there are in the world. Three Chinamen in a nearby city cooked a watermelon, instead of eating it raw, buttered.

Wednesday, August 2, 1876—The Preston school district has voted a five mill tax on the net list and has appointed Messrs Moses H. Sisson and James A. Stoddard a committee to receive proposals for the new school building, which is to be a four room affair.

The works of the Norwich Pistol company which were attached by the Union Nickle company for $10,000 for alleged infringement of patent rights will probably resume work today. The local company claims no rights have been violated.

A West Side young man defrauded his landlady this week and disappeared with all of his clothing on his person, viz., six shirts, two pairs of pantaloons, two vests, two coats and overcoat. His only punishment was the heat, the mercury standing over 90 on the day of his departure.

An exciting boat race is to be pulled on the river between the Sylvan Stream, manned by W. Geer and C. Brush and the Mamie, manned by J. King and T. King, at 7 o'clock this evening.

The New London council has been petitioned by the Providence and Stonington Steamship Co., for the privilege of building a new ferry slip, chiefly on property owned by the company.

Thursday, August 3, 1876—The theory that fir trees or evergreens are never struck by lightning has been exploded as far as a local man is concerned. Recently he was in Pennsylvania, standing not far from a large pine tree during a storm. Lightning struck this tree and shattered it completely, also stunned a man who was standing beneath it for protection.

James E. Roath of Preston has sent in a quantity of white huckleberries which are fully ripe. He has a large patch on his land which bears this variety of berry.

A hen owned by Mrs. William Smith recently laid an egg which measures nine inches in circumference. We'll order a dozen of these at regular prices.

Mrs. Mary Goodale of Pequonnoc who celebrated her 101st birthday on Jun. 21st, was in New London yesterday to have pictures taken. She is in excellent health and walks briskly along her way when on a shopping tour.

Authority has been voted Col. Heywood, by the town of Colchester, that if the proposed Turnerville railroad will not prove a constant drain on the town treasury, he may make arrangements for the necessary subscriptions.

Friday, August 4, 1876—The race between the Vixen and Sadie for $500 a side was called off yesterday the owner of Vixen claiming she was in no condition for the race. He forfeited the $250 gladly and then sold the mare to her driver. A large crowd from out or town was in Norwich and a race was arranged for $100 a side and gate, between Vixen and Sadie. Vixen took the first race when Sadie took a bad break, but the remaining heats were easily taken by Sadie. The race clearly demonstrated that Vixen's owner knew his horse was not in condition.

Work in charge of William Burdick is progressing on the massive stone abutment which is in process of erection at the east end of Preston bridge, yet the Laurel Hill bridge will be the only way open to teams for two months to come.

The New London Northern railroad has put air brakes onto their steamboat train.

Windham county farmers claim that they have harvested only a two-thirds crop of hay this season and that there is slight chance of getting in any more hay this season.

Saturday, August 5, 1876—The report of Col Osgood, treasurer of the Central school district, shows that district to be in debt $15,000. The sum of $24,000 is needed for the ensuing year and a tax of 3 1-2 mills is to be laid. Thirty teachers are now used in the district, schools 28. Salaries of teachers and janitors total $22,750 for the year.

The thirty members of the Norwich Rowing association are trying to raise $50 for the purchase of a rowing shell, hoping to clash with New London and Worcester clubs in the near future.

George W. Fuller of this city has left for Montreal, to contract for the construction of seven piers on the Ottawa river, Canada, for a railroad bridge. The river bottom is sandy and the piers are to be built in 25 feet of water and rise to a height of 75 feet.

Mr. Hine, superintendent of public schools, has been forced to tender his resignation owing to failing health.

Some friends of a local lawyer presented him a diamond pin recently and now the lawyer is thinking seriously of buying a clean shirt to wear with it.

Things Work Out

Because it rains, when we wish it wouldn't,
Because men do what they often shouldn't,
Because crops fail, and plans go wrong,
Some of us grumble all day long.
But somehow in spite of the care and doubt,
It seems at the last that things work out.

Because we lose where we hoped to gain,
Because we suffer a little pain,
Because we must work when we like to play—
Some of us whimper along life's way.
But somehow, as day always follows the night,
Most of our troubles work out all right.

Because we cannot forever smile,
Because we must trudge in the dust awhile,
Because we think that the way is long,
Some of us whimper that life's all wrong.
But some how we live and our sky grows bright,
And everything seems to work out all right.

So bend to your troubles and meet your care,
For the clouds must break, and the sky grow fair.
Let the rain come down, as it must, and will,
But keep on working and hoping still.
For in spite of the grumblers who stand about,
Somehow it seems all things work out.

To Them Who Dream

I wish all men could understand
The worth of daily dreams.
I wish they would more frequently
Forsake their frenzied schemes
And foolish plans that look alone
Toward money-making goals—
I wish they knew the joy that dreams
Can bring to bless their souls.

The days of life so soon are done
That we should early find
The way that leads to happiness
Of heart and peace of mind;
And, though perhaps we must remain
Within our prison walls,
In dreams our spirits may be free
To go where gladness calls.

Oh, how the world today needs men
Who wisely meditate!
In reverie are found those things
That make life truly great.
And, after all, there is no wealth,
No happiness supreme
Except the heavenly delight
That comes to them who dream.

I Planted a Rose

I planted a rose, and I talked with God.
I looked straight into the high, bright blue,
And I said: "Dear God, you do the rest,
I have done all that I can do."

The sun shone warm on the moist brown earth,
The wind from the south cooled my lifted face.
And I think God came from the far blue sky
To watch in my small, sweet garden space.

For today I found it—the lovely thing!—
A pink rose, proud on its red-thorned stem;
And there, like little bright candles lit,
Were the pink-tipped buds, a score of them.

I believe God comes for a little while
When any new flower takes root and grows,
And I am quite sure that He comes and stays
Where a woman prays as she plants a rose.

I Dreamt That I Dwelt

I dreamt that I dwelt in marble halls,
With vassals and serfs at my side;
And of all who assembled within those walls,
That I was the hope and the pride.
I had riches too great to count,
Could boast of a high ancestral name.
And I also dreamt, which charmed me most,
That you lov'd me still the same.
That you lov'd me, you lov'd me still the same;
That you lov'd me, you lov'd me still the same.

I dreamt that suitors besought my hand,
That knights upon bended knee,
And with vows no maiden heart could withstand,
That they pledged their faith to me
And I dreamt that one of this noble host,
Came forth my hand to claim:
Yet I also dreamt, which charm'd me most,
That you lov'd me still the same.
That you lov'd me, you lov'd me still the same;
That you lov'd me, you lov'd me still the same.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

August 17—Club No. 6, meets in Grange hall at Mystic.

ANTICIPATING NEXT PICNIC.

Dear Social Corner Sisers: This is some weather; hope we have a change soon. Have thought of the picnic today. I had hoped to be there, but as I was one of the fortunate ones of Club No. 6 who accepted the invitation of Crimson Rambler to meet at her house Tuesday for a picnic did not feel equal to another today. We had a royal good time and cannot say enough in praise of Crimson Rambler for the good time she gave us. Another sister is sending in a full report.

O. D. and Frances: Was so disappointed in not seeing you.

Cosmos: Saw your house all closed, but when I did not find you there thought maybe you had gone berrying. It was a better day to sit in the shade. Hope Cute will soon get over her rush so she and her party can meet with us again.

E. Natural: We appreciated your offer to get ice cream for us at cost for our meeting the 16th of August, but as our dinner was all planned and we always have so much we think it best not to have it. It would make quite a bit of extra work for those who serve. I hear several making plans to attend the meeting.

American Girl: Hope to see you there.

Topas: Glad to hear everything went well at the hospital. E. L. M.

ENJOYED PICNIC GATHERING.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Well, how are all the Social Corner sisters and all the dear friends this beautiful weather? Well, I enjoyed the Corner meeting at Sister Elvas, had a nice visit with the dear sisters I have not seen for most a year I was so happy and contented in such an ideal spot. I think there were five tables, plenty to eat and drink, lots of fun and some sport. I enjoyed Windham, Blue Bell, Granddaughter speaking, glad to see Olga, Bachelor Maid, Whirlwind, Foxglove and Jennie. Hope I shall be able to go to Club No. 6 at Mystic.

True Blue: I received birthday card and my beautiful present; many thanks.

Mittie: Many thanks for card; hope to see you soon. Is it cool up your way?

Sister Ready: I went by your house but did not see you. I was on an excursion car headed to Ocean Beach; had a nice time, but it did not do my eyes any good for they felt bad for two days after.

E. L. M.: I like to see your name in the paper and also I would like to see all the names I have in my book. It makes me think I have lots of friends. Hope all the sisters whose birthdays were in July had as many presents and as good a time as I, for I certainly did

Hoping all the sick and shut-ins are all well, I will say Good morning.

GREETINGS FROM ANNA Z.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: "Well, here I is." See the sisters are asking where I am. Thought no one would miss me. Gee whizz! Sister, I have been very busy. Have been cleaning house since last February, just about got through, but haven't got rested up yet. I suppose you are saying by now she must have been pretty dirty. Well, she was; had new floors laid, and I did the rest, house all painted inside, two coats all over, and the floors had to have a good deal of rubbing down with steel wool and sandpaper, one coat of prime and two of shellac and then some wax to top off with. One neighbor said: "My goodness! I am afraid I will break my neck before I can get out of here." Hubby said he was afraid to come in as he expected to go on his back any minute. Electric light fixtures, chairs, baskets, vases, cupboards and everything you can imagine has had its new coat. I have no paper on my house, all rooms are painted ceilings and walls, so it took a good deal of time to wash them and get ready for the paint.

Old Faithful: Well, I think you must be sidetracked this time. Don't think you know me as yet. Don't recognize what you mean, anyway. Can I give you a hint? Yes, dear, lots of them. I had one son if living would be 24 last Feb. 26. Fourteen years ago I lived on Sterling Hill most ten years. I guess this is enough for a hint.

Mavis: I got your letter; was thinking of you the day before, wondering if you had changed your address. Come out and see me.

Foxglove: See you and Whirlwind take in all the picnics. I don't seem to get the time. Stop in when you are this way and show yourself sometime.

Mrs. K.: Received your nice letter, will try and get down there again before long.

Lottie: How are you? This is the letter you have looked so long for. Guess it isn't very interesting. Hope to see you again in the near future.

Rural Aunty: How are you? Have been thinking of you and how we used to go out in your old pasture for huckleberries. My! I wish I was there when the sun has gone to rest just before the silvery moon comes shining out. Wouldn't I have a fill! I have loads of blackberries. Picked 40 quarts at two pickings.

ANNA Z.

APPRECIATES CORNER LETTERS.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: We are passing through another hot wave, and that means more picnics and beach parties and every sort of summer diversion. The reports from the picnics thus far have been very interesting and all seemed to have a very enjoyable time.

Joan: I am sending you the words to the old song, "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls." I happen to own a book called "The Old Songs We Love," and that was one of them. The old songs do certainly sound good and are being revived.

I suppose I will be one of many who are sending in the words of the song you have asked for, but never mind, we all meant well and it is "by request."

The letters are pouring in, all nice and interesting, lovely recipes and advice, and to all who received the yellow slips, congratulations.

Best wishes to all and especially to the shut-ins. Sympathy for those in sorrow.

Kind regards to all.

ECLIPSE.

CONSERVING THE LIGHT

Dear Social Corner Sisters: My small pocket flashlight was continually getting burned out until a chance electrician told me why. I had been keeping it in a dresser drawer, and every pin or hair pin or other bit of metal that touched the end of it kept it burning. Probably many other people are making the same mistake.

For a dustless sweeping compound—Take 6 pounds of sawdust, add to this 3 tablespoons salt and put it in 3 quarts or boiling water into which you have soaked 3 yards of cheap, green paper; drain and dry. After drying (it takes about 24 hours), you can put it in cans and when you wish to use it add a few drops of cedar oil, or you can put the cedar oil on it when you put it in can. A small quantity is desirable to make at one time, but if you wish to keep it some time, add about 1 pint of alcohol—you can use turpentine, if you wish, but I prefer cedar oil.

PICNIC AT MYSTIC.

Dear Editor and Sisters: I think it is about time I wrote you a few lines. We had a delightful time at Crimson Rambler's Aug. 3. Sorry that O. D. and Frances didn't go. Glad to see the sisters from Stonington.

Interested Reader: Don't forget to send the pattern. We miss Clarinda at our meetings. Hope she may be able to attend the next one at Mystic Aug. 17.

True Blue: Why don't some of your club come to Mystic? We would be glad to see them. E. Natural is to be hostess.

Best wishes to all.

PICNIC AT WOODLAND HEIGHTS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: This is such a lovely morning, I have taken my pencil and pad and gone to my shady porch, to write a few lines to the corner, more or less. Yesterday, August 3, by invitation twelve members of Shore Line club 6, wended their way to Woodland Heights, Norwich, the home of Crimson Rambler for a picnic. The day was ideal, although hot, but when we reached the summit of the heights, there stood Crimson Rambler under (not the spreading chestnut tree) but under the maples to welcome us all, looking so cool, calm and smiling and invited us into the spacious farm house, when the living room was tastefully decorated with yellow crepe paper and ox eye daisies and was so cool and comfortable, but we all decided we would go out under the spreading maples where we were all soon seated enjoying the fine view of hills and valleys, and church spires in the distance.

At noon a fine dinner was served, genuine picnic style, consisting of sandwiches of all kinds, pickles, cake, cheese, fruit, candy; and last but not least delicious string beans and lemonade furnished by the hostess, to which all did justice, even one of the chauffeurs who was a little late after having made a business trip to Norwich.

Then came the program consisting of contests and prizes furnished by the hostess. The first was won by Lady Lou, spelling the most words from the words; Crimson Rambler, second by Blandina, spelling the most words from the words Social Corner; third to Interested Reader, guessing the nearest the number of beans in a jar fourth to Y. Y. eating crackers and drinking lemonade; fifth to Lady Lou, for best sprinter; six to Ruthina for carrying marbles.

But alas! Black clouds were rolling up in the west and thunder was heard in the distance, so all decided it was time to be going home, fine drops of rain spattered down preventing us from stopping by the roadside and gathering ox eye daisies, white root, with its beautiful orange blossoms, and last but not least, hard backs with its spikes of pink blossoms. When oh! What was that awful bang, but our chauffeur knew by experience it was one of his balloon tires gone to smash; but in a few minutes he had it repaired and we were rolling along again as if nothing had happened and soon reached our homes deciding it had been a day long to be remembered and hope it will be repeated next summer.

Again we all extend our thanks to Crimson Rambler.

Best wishes to all

EXPERIENCE WITH ANTIQUES

Dear Social Corner Friends: Cretia must write better. I tried to describe the bottles accurately thinking some one might have similar ones. The vinegar bottle or one first described, has 38 ribs instead of 8 as printed in paper, corrugated like our glass wash boards; price of some bottles from nine dollars to thirty dollars apiece, instead of ninety-nine dollars.

A wooden cricket long enough for two small children, the pictures they used to give children last day of school in colors by Currier or Ives, relic hunters desire. I had a winter scene and summer scene framed in walnut with pieces across the ends might be called rustic-glass over them were my mother gave them to a friend of the family in the country and calling there recently learned antique hunters had called on her and offered six dollars for the pair. As we grow older we are looking for less to do, not as much to care for in our houses and articles we consider of little value, old style and tired of dusting, and ignorant of antique prices, we let them slide, better read up the subject? The hunters understand their business, they vary as to the articles they desire.

Whirlwind: I was glad to see your name in corner, began to wonder how and where you and Foxglove were. Spent the day recently in Manchester with Persis mother and family, fine dinner right from the garden, cared for by a man who only has use of one hand. Many men who have use of two hands can not show as good a garden.

Sunday went to Putnam, certainly changes are being made in North Windham and Chaplin, people seemed to be patient about the waiting each way. Detour short at Sherman's corner, but rough and dusty causing us to be appreciative in future. While in Putnam called on a friend of my younger days, found her and her daughter in their usual health.

As we advance in life, seem to be afflicted one way or another, her affliction is deafness, tiresome for people unused to it and those who have it in their family acquire the habit of talking so loud, but to be blind much worse. Enjoyed call very much indeed, returned by way of Hampton, could not refrain from driving to the north just to see the dear places where in childhood, I used to play. Isn't it nice no one can rob us of our memories?

TWO COOK RECIPES

Dear Editor and Cornerites: I am sending two of my favorite recipes for cookies and the poem requested by Joan. I hope you all are enjoying this intensely hot weather.

Prudence: You certainly was a good sport to send me that nice card, thanks for that and for the thought of me.

Sweet Lavender: Hope you enjoy your vacation.

Lonesome: Let us hear from you.

Aries: Have you been huckleberring yet?

Rural Aunty: I think your idea of planning dinners these hot days is all right. I, too, have a beautiful flower garden, which is my great delight.

Best wishes to you all.

Cream Delight Cookies—1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon cream, 1-2 teaspoon soda, salt, flour to roll, any flavoring desired.

Chocolate Nut Cookies—1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup butter, 1 egg, 1-2 cup milk, 1 1-2 cups flour (scant), 1 level teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 cup walnut meats, chopped, 2 squares chocolate, melted. Drop in size desired and bake in moderate oven.

CRIMSON RAMBLER'S PICNIC

Dear Social Corner Friends: Just home from the picnic at Crimson Ramblers, and we certainly had a fine time. There was everything good to eat and the best lemonade provided by Crimson Rambler. After lunch an entertainment under the leadership of Crimson Rambler was enjoyed. Winners of the games were rewarded with prizes, some of them being the handwork of Crimson Rambler, something we can keep to remember the perfect day spent in her home.

Although the heat was intense, there as a breeze where we were seated under the large maples on the lawn. I am sure the members of Club 6, who attended the picnics will join me in thanking Crimson Rambler for the cordial welcome and kind hospitality we enjoyed in her home.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I know of a sister who will celebrate her fiftieth wedding anniversary the 14th of August. Now, you know not many of us live to see that wonderful day.

Don't you think 'twould be nice if we all sent her a card? Her address is Mrs. Betsy Eccleston, R. F. D. No. 6, Norwich, Conn.

This is merely a suggestion from WHISPERING PINES.

MAJESTIC'S RECIPES

Dear Sisters: These recipes should strike someones fancy:

Fruit Tapioca—Quarter cup tapioca, one cup and dried fruit, half cup sugar, flavor and season to taste.

Soak the tapioca and the fruit in separate vessels for several hours. Cook the tapioca until transparent. Meanwhile arrange the steeped fruit in a baking dish and add the sugar and seasoning. Put the tapioca on top, cover and bake in a moderate oven from forty-five minutes to an hour. Remove the cover toward the end to allow the contents to brown slightly on the surface. Serve with cream or pudding sauce.

Peanut and Potato Loaf—Two cups mashed potatoes, one cup whole wheat bread crumbs, two eggs, one teaspoon chopped onions, one teaspoon chopped parsley, one and one-half cups chopped peanuts.

Beat the mashed potatoes with a little milk until they are light. Put the peanuts through a food chopper, and mix with the potatoes. Add the breadcrumbs and, if too stiff, add a little more milk. Whip the eggs and fold in. Season, and put into a buttered baking pan. Bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.

Stuffed Eggplant—One large eggplant, one onion, one stalk celery, three tomatoes, one cup bread-crumbs, one-half tablespoon grated cheese and one green pepper.

Cut an eggplant in half, lengthwise. With a sharp knife remove the pulp, leaving an eighth or an inch all around to protect the skin. Chop the pulp fine, adding one green pepper, a little celery and three tomatoes, and the onion. Add a cup of bread-crumbs and half a tablespoon of grated cheese. Fill the eggplant shells with the mixture, set them in a buttered baking-pan, pour over them a cup of hot water, and bake until tender, about thirty minutes. Serve with a tomato sauce.

SAVINGS WHEN CANNING

Dear Sisters: With the canning season at hand it behooves housekeepers to find enough containers for jams that the salad dressing bottles, the wide mouthed mustard jars and odds and ends or screw top glasses that have held peanut butters, grated horseradish, dried beef, etc., make excellent containers for the jams and other goodies that I am putting up for the coming winter's use. I think it quite an economy, also, to wash and keep these little jars and bottles, as it means a saving of many dollars that would otherwise go for the purchase of fruit jars and jelly glasses.

Another small saving is in the paraffin that I use over my jellies and jams. When I remove this little disc of wax I always wash it and put it away in a closely covered tin can or box. This keeps the dust away from it and I re-melt it when canning time comes and use it over again and it is as good as when first purchased. By dipping my rubber jar rings in melted paraffin (the old ones I mean), just before using, I can make them last two or three seasons instead of one season. As these rings sell at twenty-five cents per dozen, and as I always put up over one hundred cans of pickles and fruit, the scheme is well worth considering and following.

Every cent saved in fuel, containers, wax, etc., can be put into additional fruits and vegetables wherewith to grace our tables when winter comes. By adding a little vinegar to each pint can or spinach when canning it helps to preserve the "greens" and, at the same time improves the flavor. When making tomato catsup, if tomato pulp is scarce, add one-third of sifted apple sauce and the substitute will not be noticed.

TESS.

HEEPFUL IDEAS

Dear Cornerites: You may find times when the following will come in handy if remembered:

If furniture becomes scratched make an ink as near the color of the furniture as you can, use crepe paper, the brush ink in the scratch, sometimes iodine is good.

Wash berries in a deep dish of water. The sand remains in the bottom after lifting out the fruit.

Sometimes glass can covers are very hard to open. Turning them upside down for five minutes in hot water will allow easy removing.

A safe and sure remedy for the unpleasant roaring in the ears, massage all around the ear and down on the cords of the neck, do this 2 or 3 times a day. Then only when you retire at night. I would moisten the tips of my fingers in vaseline. The virtue seems to be in the rubbing.

Ferns are greatly benefitted by pouring a teaspoonful of castor oil on the roots occasionally.

Rub a little vaseline or glycerine over the cork of your glue bottle and it will not stick.

To clean zinc equal parts of lime and hot water.

In making apple sauce drop a few tiny red cinnamon candies, it gives color and spice a nice change.

For tired achy feet, soak in hot water with a little vinegar added.

To make a mustard plaster quickly, sprinkle a large slice of bread with ground mustard over this, put a thin muslin cloth and saturate with vinegar.

In cleaning greens add salt to the second water. This will make all the sand sink to the bottom of the pan. Another rinsing, will make them thoroughly clean.

CARE OF RUSE BUSHES

Dear Social Corner Members: E. L. M. tells us that we have to write for the corner to be a member and if she can find time to write no one else should have any excuse, so here goes.

This year roses every where have been beautiful, and we have had many people stop and tell us how nice ours were. I find that by cutting off every blossom with quite a bit of the stem after they have gone by, is a very good way of trimming the bushes and the flowers the following year are much more showy and larger, and well pay for the work.

As a remedy for red ants, I find by using ground cloves freely, sprinkling it around the edges of the cupboard shelves and drawers, and on the floors where they come in, that in a short time, they will disappear. I put it around before the time for them to come and don't have any more trouble with them.

Whirlwind—Glad you arrived home before dark and hope you will come down this way again. Atlantic beach is half way between Pleasant View and what used to be Noyes beach, but is now Weekapaug.

Lady Lou—Thanks for birthday card, was surprised to get it.

Theoda—Hope your salt water bath-

Best wishes to all.

MILKY WAY

CREAMY CONNECTICUT SAUCE

1-2 cupful butter, 1 cupful sugar, 1-4 cupful cream, 4 tablespoonfuls of wine or 1 teaspoonful vanilla extract. If you use vanilla extract use for table-spoonfuls of cream. Beat the the butter to a cream, add the sugar gradually beating all the while, when light and creamy gradually add the wine. When all is beaten smooth place in a bowl of hot water and stir until the sauce is smooth and creamy, no longer.

Sauce for Apple or Rice Pudding—Molasses sauce: 1 cupful molasses, 1-2 cupful water, 1 tablespoonful butter, about 1-2 teaspoon or cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoonful salt, 2 tablespoonfuls vinegar. Boil after mixing about 20 minutes. The juice of a lemon can be used in place of vinegar is desired.

Boston Brown Bread—One level cup each of rye meal, Indian meal and Graham flour, 1 level teaspoonful salt, 3 1-2 teaspoons B-P, 3-4 cupful molasses, 1 3-4 cupful milk, measure the meal froul after sifting add the salt, baking powder, sift again, add the molasses and milk. Turn into a well oiled steamer and steam 3 hours and a half, see the water is boiling constantly during the cooking.

Indian Bread—1 1-2 cups (level) graham flour, 1 level cup Indian meal, 2 level teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1 level teaspoonful salt, 1-2 cup molasses scant, 1 3-4 cupfuls milk. Mix and steam as the bread above.

German Sauce, No. 2—Yolks of fine eggs, 1 cupful of powdered sugar, 1 pint of cream, 1 teaspoonful vanilla. Beat together the yolks of the eggs and the sugar, and add the cream. Put this mixture into the double boiler, having first beaten the whites to a stiff froth, and stir until begins to thicken, then add the whites and seasoning. Beat thoroughly and serve.

Foaming Sauce—1 cup butter, 2 sugar powdered, 2 egg whites, 5 tablespoons—wine—brandy or grape juice, 1-4 teacupful boiling water. Pour 1 teaspoon boiling water on and beat butter to a cream, and gradually beat in the sugar, add the whites of the eggs, unbeaten, one at a time and then the brandy; add the water, beating in a little at a time, place the bowl in a basin of hot water and stir until smooth and creamy froth. This sauce is for a rich pudding.

ROUND ROBBIN.

TO MAKE SUGAR SYRUP

To the sister who wished to know how I make my sugar syrup, 2 cupfuls sugar, 1 quart of water boiled over a quick fire, a bottle of grape juice, and one of charged water, in your ice box. You are prepared for any social emergency.

I will send you a few delicious recipes for summer drinks.

Currant Julegtilis—1 box currants, 2 grapefruit, 1 tablespoonful preserved ginger, 1 quart water, 2 table spoonfuls sugar. Mix all these together, pour over cracked ice serve with cinnamon toast.

White Currant Cup—1 box white currants, 6 clovs, 3 lemons, 4 cream peppermints, 1 quart or charged water, sugar syrup to taste. Currants wash and crush, cover over night with a pint of sugar, add sliced citron, cloves, lemons, and cream peppermints crumbled up, quart of the charged water, and the sugar syrup. A nice way to serve this over cracked ice with a cream peppermint, having on the rim of the glass.

Cinnamon Toast—Make a golden brown toast, from fresh bread. Spread with sweet butter, over which sprinkle powdered sugar, and cinnamon.

Cheese Squares—Or salted crackers spread grated yellow cheese and a thin layer of butter. Over this sprinkle red pepper. Set in hot oven, and when toasted, serve immediately. Served with grape bounce.

Grape Bounce—To 1 pint grape juice, add 3 lemons, their grated rinds, one-half cupful sugar syrup, and a pint bottle or charged water, served cold.

KITTY LOU.

SALAD DRESSING RECIPE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Folks: I am sending a recipe which I make myself and hope all the sisters will try it if they haven't already.

Salad Dressing—1 teaspoon pulverized sugar, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 egg, 1 cup oil (Mazola). Mix dry ingredients, add vinegar then egg, and beat well, add oil a little at a time; beat until thick and creamy. Mix in the order given.

In my letter last week, I forgot to mention two great blessings which I so much enjoy, that is: Rural Delivery and Telephone, and my good friends and excellent neighbors all around me. You know.

"It's the shake of the hand in this world that counts,
The shake of your hand and mine,
Which means much more to the weary heart,
Than shelter, or food, or wine.
For the shelter is gone when the night is over.
And the food lasts only a day.
But the shake of the hand and the sound of the voice,
Will last in the heart always."

Will sign off for a while and let some of the new members have the space in the corner pags.

A PRIZE RECIPE.

Here is a recipe that I won first prize ($50) for. There were 5,000 who tried. This, I think, received first prize for its simplicity. Two cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon sugar; sift together three times, then stir up with milk; drop a tablespoonful at a time in your steamer and steam 10 minutes with cover off and 10 minutes with cover on.

Cut up peaches, let stand in sugar syrup 2 hours, serve on puffs with white of an egg beaten up.

A Drink That is Different (original)—Fill tall frosted glasses with ginger ale, into which has been cut a spiral of lemonpeel. Serve with long straws.

Peach Pudding—Two cups of peaches, 1 pint of cream, 1-2 cup of sugar, 1-4 pound of nuts (almonds), 1 cup macaroon. Blanch almonds, put through chopper, add peaches, sugar and cream, sprinkle the top with macaroons, let stand in icebox two hours before serving.

Pineappleade—One can pineapple, 1-2 cup sugar syrup, 1-2 pound stoned cherries (red), 3 lemons, 1 quart of water. Mix these all together, serve in frosted glasses and put a stick of cinnamon in each glass.

THREE SALAD DRESSING RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am still interested in the S. C., though by the letter-once-a-year test I can hardly be counted as a member.

Your trip, Betsey Bobbett, must have been very enjoyable. I can hardly believe it is thirty years since you moved from Massachusetts and twenty-five since you were married. Time certainly has wings.

As for the salad dressing I made when we were doing light housekeeping together, I can't remember that I ever made any then, but this is the way I make it now. Perhaps it is the same:

One-half cup vinegar (if strong use part water), 1 teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, pinch of salt. Cook together, then add a beaten egg and beat all together. Thin to the right consistency by adding sweet or sour cream or milk.

Another dressing that I make often now but did not make 25 years ago is this:

Two tablespoons of French's prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons sweet or sour cream and 2 tablespoon sugar. Beat together.

I like a mayonnaise dressing and have had good success this way: The oil and egg must not be very cold. No danger this weather!

Break the egg in a bowl, add a tablespoon of mazola, wesson or olive oil and beat till you count 50, add another tablespoon of oil and beat, then two tablespoons and beat. It should begin to thicken. Add more oil at a time. The more oil you add, the thicker it will be. It will take up about two cupsful added a little at a time. I never measure it, just guess at it.

After the mayonnaise is thick, mix well 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 of mustard, tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar and beat into the mayonnaise. More sugar may be added and the mustard left out, and pepper and paprika added.

Best wishes to all from X. Y. Z.

FIXING THE CEILING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Real summer we're having, is it not? The other day I saw some "hot weather hints," and one read thus: "Wear as little clothing as the law and your own conscience allows, this kind of weather I feel tempted to follow this advice.

I wonder if the sisters would be interested in hearing how I fixed the ceilings at our house. They were terrible looking before. I began on them, now we have nice looking ceilings.

We had always used whitewash, but the stained places would strike through in a short time; and, unless you are an expert, they will look streaky. Still another objection to whitewash is that it sprays so when being applied, likewise it flakes off.

First I scraped them with a putty knife, being careful to remove every bit that was not entirely firm, otherwise they are apt to flake off. I used a table to stand on, as you can do a larger surface without constantly getting up and down, as when a step-ladder is used. Next I dissolved soap flakes in hot water and thoroughly scrubbed them. I did only a small space before changing the water, after this I applied two coats of flat white paint, allowing the first coat to dry thoroughly before applying the second. Of course, if your ceilings are not stained at all, the paint is not really necessary. But if they are, it forms a good foundation, through which the stains cannot strike.

I bought several pounds of white muresco, mix this with boiling water let stand over night and then thin it down with cold water, as it cools it thickens quite a bit. When I added the cold water I made it about as thick as whitewash, if it seems lumpy, strain it through a coarse cloth, apply it with a good heavy paint brush, I put on two coats.

While it is wet you are sure it is going to look awful, but as it dries it whitens and when thoroughly dry looks fine. It is such a pure white and no brush marks show, as in whitewash, it seems to spread itself.

When the ceilings get soiled, simply wash them and apply a fresh coat of muresco. I am sure that any of the sisters who try this on their ceilings will be very much pleased with the result. In the rooms where I did not put on new paper, I used a small brush such as is used to draw window sashes, went all around the edges of the ceiling with this, for a width of two or three inches, changing then to the larger brush. By doing this you avoid touching your border.

Interested Reader: I thank you for my birthday card. It was very nice of you, as you have never met me. Suppose E. L. M. must have told you when it was.

Skipper: The mail man has just brought your card and letter, and I thank you very much. I hope I shall be able to get to Mystic and also that I'll be feeling better than I did at Atlantic Beach. I had a picnic, but not the kind I had looked forward to.

I think I have done my share toward filling up the corner page, so will stop and give someone else a chance.

Sincerely,

AMERICAN GIRL.

AN OLD WRITER

Dear Social Corner Friends: It's been a long time since I wrote and as no one ever inquires after me thought you might all have forgotten me. I surely enjoy the letters and read every one. Ann Tenna, yours was fine; write again; your raspberries were fine; you sure have them all beat. Rural Aunty was glad you wrote about your trip over the Mohawk trail as I intend to take the trip myself this month. We can only leave for one or two nights, today is Keziah Doolittle's birthday. Best wishes, Keziah, for a hundred more. It seems as if it was only yesterday that you were teaching school in the valley and I came to visit your school, remember? I sure felt puffed up.

1492—Will try your mustard. What's the matter no clam bake this summer? Ma of Green Gables have you forgotten me? Don't you remember the Grange meeting we attended years ago? Hollyhock—Why don't you write?—My hollyhock's are all in bloom and they make me think of you so tall and graceful. Twice Twenty—My begoria, you gave me is lovely, hope to see you sometime this summer.

Must close as this is to long already. Best wishes to all.

AN INDIAN'S TRIP TO WASHINGTON

To the Editor and Members of Social Corner: It was not only the beauty of the location along the Potomac river but its value as a seaport that appealed to President Washington when he selected the site of the nation's capital in 1791.

A trip to Washington makes a lasting impression on all who go there. Among the tourists there several years ago was a party of Indian chiefs from the far west to see the great "White Father" or president about the sale of their lands. Our home at that time was a ranch on the western prairie. Our only neighbors were Indians, often camped in our yard or the woods nearby.

One or the chiefs was Kisco, and he went with the party to Washington. He often came into our house and smoked with father. He was very tall and dignified looking and could talk well enough to be understood. One morning he and father sat beside the fireplace, each smoking a pipe. I sat on father's lap, my head just under his pipe. Kisco was telling of his trip to Washington

"Ugh! Indian ride on big black horse. Horse go toot-toot-toot-ding-dong-schplash!" (steam). At that father laughed so hard he blew the fire out or his pipe onto my head, my hair caught fire and smoked.

Chief Risco sprang up, put his hand on my head and smothered the fire, saying: "Ugh! Papoose burn!" So I had an Indian chief's hand on my head in doing a friendly act. Then he proceeded with his story of his trip.

"Indian go to see Great White Father. Heap big place. White Father got heap big wigwam, big, so big," and he spread out both arms to show the size of the White House. "White Father pay Indian heaps money. Indian ride far. See heaps white man."

These Indians were paid for land then opened for settlers. The trip made a great impression on them, the size of everything they saw, the long journey on the train, the steam-boats on the rivers and lakes, the large buildings all seemed wonderful.

They were our only neighbors and were always kind and friendly. One day a large tribe passing by stopped at our house, all were on horseback. Father went in among them, talked to the chief and others, when he found a small papoose on a board strapped to its mother's saddle he lifted me up to see it. I patted its little brown cheek, then looked up at the young mother bending over us. She had beautiful soft brown eyes, neither of us could understand the other but her eyes said she liked me because I liked her baby. father gave her a glass of milk to drink and filled a bottle tied to her saddle, then he gave milk to others and filled some jugs to carry with them. That morning mother had baked, so cookies and slices of bread and butter were passed out to them. Father gave tobacco to some of the men, it was a friendly meeting and waving goodby they passed on out of sight but never out of memory.

There came a time of a severe storm for several days, rain, cold, and wind flowing a gale, all the deer, wild ducks, prairie chickens and quail went south ahead of the storm. We had not prepared for this, during the storm it sounded as if something flew against the door, father opened it and a squaw wrapped in her blanket staggered into the house. She had come from the camp in the woods and faced the storm. From under her blanket she took a large strip of dried venison and gave it to father. As we had no meat this was very acceptable. Father asked: "What I give you?" She said: "Flour. Papoose sick." Father gave her flour and some corn meal, later when father went down to the camp to thank the chief for sending the venison the chief said: "Me know, badstorm! Game all gone, white man no find deer." So he had sent meat from his own supply. These are a few instances of hospitality on the prairie in pioneer days.

Kitty Lou, Ann Tenna and Joan: I thank you for your kind notice of my former letter. Hope all enjoy the picnics and vacation trips this summer.

ALLEGED NEPHEW OF ADMIRAL DEWEY SENT TO FARM BY NEW LONDON COURT

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 6—Orville Dewey, who claims to be a nephew of Admiral Dewey and to have been educated at Cambridge, England, has gone to work on the farm of G. Curtis Morgan in Groton. Orville decided to make that choice rather than to spend some time working for the county as a vagrant. He was in the police court yesterday charged with intoxication, but pleaded not guilty and was shown leniency that he might start on a new road and secure employment. Dewey was found not to have appreciated the chance he was given and complaint came to Policeman Lenahan that he was begging. The officer saw him on Main street, where he said Dewey was "playing" all the stores. Dewey saw the officer coming and broke into a run to get away. The officer followed, chasing Dewey to Federal, Huntington and Washington streets. Dewey declared that he was not guilty of begging, but that he honestly sought work. As the court was about to pass judgment, Attorney Morgan pleaded for Dewey and offered him work on a farm at wages of $5 a day. Dewey represented that he would gladly accept the offer and would render the best of service. To see that he kept his work the court sentenced the accused man to a term in the workhouse, then suspended the execution of the sentence.

FUNERAL OF B. R. LINICUS WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 6—The funeral of Benjamin R. Linicus, former building inspector in the employ of the city of New London, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including a representation of employes of the city principally among the working force of the municipal building. Among the beautiful floral tributes were offerings from the Konomoc Hose company, Niagara Engine company, associates of the municipal building, bowling club nightly associates, and City Manager William A. Holt. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Michael Reagan, with Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, deacon, and Rev. Raymond O'Callahan sub-deacon. The ushers were Fred Sistare, John Walter Matthew Sullivan, William Dean, Alvin Darling Cornelius Twomey, Michael Gately and Thomas Haley. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

NO EVIDENCE BY DEFENSE IN ARTHUR J. PAGE CASE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 6—(AP)—There will be no evidence presented by the defense in the prosecution of Arthur J. Page, driver of an autotruck of the New Haven Dairy company for reckless operation of the machine and failing to give the right of way to fire apparatus responding to an alarm. Chief Engineer Rose sustained a broken leg and fractured ribs that kept him in the hospital many weeks. He was in court last week when he told of the circumstances attending the collision of the truck and the fire apparatus, and when he declared that the siren of the fire auto was sounded continuously from the time it left headquarters until it was crashed into at Green and Pearl streets. Today the driver of the fire automobile told the same story to the minutest detail. The defendant was not in court, but he was represented by Attorney G. C. Morgan. The latter asked for the privilege of offering maps of the location of the collision, saying that he would have no evidence to put in. The complaint the alleged that Page did not have an operator's license in his possession. Measurements were taken of the site of the accident and photos of the sidewalk where the fire department auto was driven against a section of a building. These, it is supposed, will be presented that the court may see just what happened. The case will come up for decision next Monday.

Jimmy Dixon, colored, was sent to jail for nine months this morning from the police court, for having forced an entrance into the home of Morris Lubchansky, a contractor, residing at 77 John street. Jimmy has before established a court record, but it has been for peeping into windows of rooms where women were preparing to retire. Jimmy has twice been accused of that offense and has done time in the county jail for it. Robbery is something new for him, but he was caught at the trick and was chased through the street and held up by the son of Mr. Lubchansky. He managed to get away, but his captor recognized him and gave information to the police that led to the capture of Dixon. He pleaded guilty of breaking into a residence in the daytime and to stealing a gold watch valued at $20. That brought him his jail sentence. The watch was recovered by the Lubchansky youth.

Byron C. Vine was charged with reckless operation of an automobile and with having run down a boy, Freddie Conti, who is in Lawrence hospital, unable to appear against Vine. The case was continued for a week to secure the attendance of the boy in court.

Tom O'Rourke was charged with begging and with intoxication. He had an idea that he would plead not guilty, but changed his mind and said he was drunk and that he was soliciting money in the highways. O'Rourke had played a previous engagement in this city for on the 25th of last month he was in the court for intoxication. He was then shown leniency and was allowed to depart without paying other penalty than that which attached to overnight detention in the lockup. Today he was sent to the workhouse for a stay of three months for begging and was fined $10 for intoxication. Thomas is one of the fellows who tells the story that has come to be known as "the Fisher's Island tale."

Charles Ratcliffe, claiming to be a West Virginian, was so intoxicated when a Boston train reached here last night that he was put off and was handed over to a policeman. He was evidently on a spree for he possessed more than $100 in cash when he landed in the police station. It was fortunate for Ratcliffe that he was taken into custody for he had the money this morning. He was allowed to keep going to West Virginia.

Gotlieb Hankey and Eichelberger, sailors from the coast guard destroyer Argonne, at anchor off the beach, came ashore last night and drank freely so they were intoxicated when they got into a fight at the shore. They did not attempt to deny in any particular what they did, contenting themselves with saying they "lushed up." Their confession was so frank that they were turned over to the commander of the ship without the imposition of any penalty.

The funeral of Alice S., wife of Owen L. Stewart, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at her residence, 19 Bowdoin street, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist church. The bearers were John Kopp, Joseph Bishop, Frederick C. Wandstedt and Jacob Kopp. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

Master Frederick Talcott, of Oswegatchie; Miss Ida Carloni, Agawam, Mass.; William Gallup, Waterford; Andrew Cusgman, Camp Trumbull, Niantic; Mrs. George Wargo, Crescent Beach, and Ethel Hall, Elsie Brown and Florence Lambardi, Niantic, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The body of R. C. Rockwell, of Hartford, who committed suicide by jumping from the window of his room on the ninth floor of the Hotel Mohican, early yesterday morning, was forwarded to Rockwell's former home last night. The body was accompanied to Hartford by Rockwell's father.

Joseph Jones, 18, 125 Bank street, suffered concussion of the brain and a laceration of the scalp yesterday afternoon when the young man was struck by the overhead bridge of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at Pequot avenue and Howard street. He is now a patient at Lawrence hospital, where this afternoon it was stated that his condition was favorable. Jones was riding on one of the big trucks of the Eastern Dairy company and as the truck was passing beneath the bridge he did not observe the structure, receiving a severe blow on the head. He was picked up in a semi-conscious condition and rushed to the hospital.

Clothesline thieves operated at Ocean Beach last night for this morning Mrs. Wise and Mrs. Adelson, 70 Neptune avenue complained to the police that six bathing suits were stolen.

L. Strauss, New York, who claims to have been a guest at the Hotel Mohican Thursday night, made complaint to the police this morning that his automobile, a Willys-St. Clair sedan, was stolen last night from Palmer's garage, Bank street. Inquiry by the police at the hotel brought the information that Strauss was not registered there. Strauss stated that he placed his automobile in the garage early Thursday night when he went there about 8 o'clock this morning the automobile was not there and no one could be found who had any knowledge of it.

Mary Coccia, 17, of 91 Nicholas street, Providence, and Doris Nichols, 15, of 94 Livingston street, Providence, were arrested at 1 o'clock this morning for safe keeping and this afternoon they were sent back to Providence. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Lawrence Fardy were on Broad street about 1 o'clock when they heard voices in the rear of Williams Memorial park and going there the officers found the girls in company with two sailors. The girl did not have funds with which to procure sleeping accommodations, so they were taken to police headquarters for the night.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Joseph Mugovero, 3 Archer court, returned to the owner. The license was suspended several weeks ago following Mugovero being prosecuted for evasion of responsibility.

Benjamin L. Armstrong and Elizabeth H. C. Armstrong have sold a building lot on Grenadi Terrace, between Montauk and Pequot avenues, to William P. Miner.

Miss Mattie Tiffany is spending several days of her vacation with friends in New Haven and Danbury.

The failure of the sponsors of the petition to compel the calling of a special city election for the purpose of determining whether the present form of government continue, or whether the former muncipal form be adopted are not discouraged. It is understood that the circulators of the petition declare that another petition will be started shortly, for the purpose of compelling the calling of a special city election. The circulators declare that they will be able to obtain a sufficient number of signers to insure a special election and they feel equally confident that they will have obtained a sufficient number of signatures to make it mandatory that the election be held. If the election should be held, and the sponsors are confident of being victorious, it will mean that another year of the present form of government will continue before it will be possible to revert to the municipal form.

In addition to the popular flesh types of Bon Ton corsets, the Royal Worcester company is putting out new models, in peach, iridescent and pastel Novel and elegant is the "Round-U" model, a smart, wrap-around type with no lacing. The new slip-on girdle is both comfortable and modish. With the "Round-U" model comes a useful and graceful bandeau which gives the required trimness of figure. Many of the elegant Bon Ton corsets displayed come in a fascinating combination of peach and gold tints.

Broadway Theatre.

At the Broadway theatre on Sunday, "The Other Woman's Story," a murder mystery drama, is billed as the chief screen attraction. This is a picture of great emotional power, filled with tense action and thrilling sequences. It deals with a wife who seeks divorce from her husband, while in love with her lawyer, who is mysteriously killed. The husband is tried for the crime and declared guilty on circumstantial evidence. Through the efforts of "the other woman" fresh evidence is obtained by which the verdict is reversed and the wife shown to have been the slayer.

There are miles of speed and dash in "The Devil's Partner," Truart's latest production, featuring Philo McCullough, Edward Hearn and a host of screen favorites, which comes to the Broadway theatre on Sunday as the second feature. It is a picture play that is certain to satisfy the most ardent admirers of fast-action melodrama woven around the western range country.

A new Kinograms will round out an enjoyable evening for all.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

The Broadway theatre, in line with the announced policy of presenting the latest New York plays, offers "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," a comedy "In American" by George Abbott and John V. A. Weaver, on Monday evening only, Aug. 9. The play is brought here direct from a full season at the Sam H. Harris theatre in New York. It has to do with the young folks who live in Ma Woodruff's lower West Side boarding house and spend their days behind the counters of Ginsberg's department store. There are two sisters, the younger and more flippant of whom steals the elder's beau, then puts herself in a nice mess by losing some of the Welfare Fund money, with which she is entrusted, on the ponies. The magnanimous elder sister comes to the unprincipled flapper's rescue by winning the necessary wherewithal at craps from the tout who is responsible for the youngster's deficit, also winning back her fickle Romeo to his first love. In between there is a pageant presented by the store employes, extolling the virtues of "Ginsberg" and stressing the importance of homely duties that anyone on his payroll must practice. The rehearsal for this pageant comprises almost the entire third act of the play and is one of the most screamingly funny scenes devised for the stage.

The complete production is carried and the cast, headed by Louise Price and including Peggy Hastings, Mary E. Diehl, Leah De Lacy, Lerline Turner, Harry L. Waycoff, William Dean, Victor J. Bouvier, Arthur W. Rowe, George Spelvin, Walter De Luna and Rex Benware, is adequate to the demands of the play. There seems to be a general rush for tickets and we advise buying them in advance at the box office.

Breed Theatre

For its feature attraction Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, the Breed will present a First National production titled "Bluebeard's Seven Wives."

Ben Lyon is fine both as the dashing romantic star and as the humdrum spectacled bank clerk. His feminine fans are due for a revelation when they see him as a bum with several days' growth of beard. There is an excellent cast, for featured with Lyon is Lois Wilson as his waitress-sweetheart in a pleasing and sympathetic role and Blanche Sweet who plays opposite him in the sequence, where, in keeping with the spirit of the story the new star is shown in a picture "Purple Passions" an up-to-date and snappy and considerably changed version of "Romeo and Juliet." One of the best performances is that of Sam Hardy as the press agent who supplies a lot of smiles and pep, but Dick Bernard in a Perlmutter type of role as one of the producers contributes his share and Dan Pennell is excellent as the director.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news, Topics of the Day and a roaring two part comedy.

Today's bill consists of Tom Mix in "Tony Runs Wild"—The Radio Detective—The Pathe news and a comedy.

Continuous show today 1:30 to 10:15.

The Callahan Oil Co.

The Callahan Oil Co. started business in Norwich just one year ago and today they are distributing Socony products to 15 service stations in Norwich and vicinity. The company also is the great agent for the famous Mobiloils and these products can be secured at any of their service stations.

Felix P. Callahan of the company, starting in a small way, has built the business to tremendous proportions. In fact not only has the company secured service stations throughout the locality but they have also constructed some of the handsomest filling stations in the city. The company has a large wholesale station in Norwich located on what is known as the new wharf and here the company's large trucks fill up for the distribution to the service stations.

Mr. Callahan has had a wide experience in this line and as a result of this is due the credit of the success of the company. On another page of today's issue is a list of the 15 service stations of the company where the automobilist can secure the very best service in gasoline, oils, etc.

Telephone Calls to Willimantic

Beginning Sunday, telephone calls from this city to Willimantic will be handled by the local operators. This is an extension of the faster service which for some time has been given between Norwich and other toll line points in this state.

With this change, which applies only to number calls, known as station-to-station calls, it will not be necessary for telephone users to ask for the toll line operator when making a call to Willimantic. Subscribers here will simply give the local operator the out of town number that is desired and the call will go through about as quickly as a local call, as additional direct lines for this type of service will be available on and after the date mentioned and quicker telephone service between this city and Willimantic is sure to result.

There is a quite a heavy telephone traffic between Norwich and Willimantic but the adoption of this speedier service will undoubtedly stimulate telephone communication between these cities and the new lines and equipment make is possible for the telephone company to promptly care for this increased use of its facilities.

Calls for a particular person, known as person-to-person calls, will continue to be handled by the toll operator as at present, but in most instances, a number call will serve as well as the person-to-person call, for which there is a slightly higher rate.

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic

With a "wow" of a title as an asset, George Abbott, authoractor and remembered for his collaboration on "The Fall Guy," with the very able assistance of John V. A. Weaver and his "Americanisms" has fashioned a splendid evening's entertainment in the comedy, 'Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," which is due at the Capitol theatre, Willimantic theatre on Tuesday, August 10th.

The play concerns the devotion of an elder sister for her flapper kid. The kid gets into a jam by betting the store organization funds on the nags, with the result the elder sister must use her skill with the galloping dominoes to retrieve the losses from a crooked bookie.

The lines are bright and a flock of "nifties" go far to make a pleasant evening. The action of the play is speeded up by an exceptional New York cast of which the principals are Louise Price, Peggy Hastings, Mary E. Diehl, Leah De Lacy, Lerline Turner, Harry L. Waycoff, William Dean, Victor J. Bouvier, Arthur W. Rowe, George Spelvin, Walter De Luna, Rex Benware.

"Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" a play valuable as comedy and as a picture of the New York department store life and environment, is the attraction booked for Tuesday, August 10th, at the Capitol theatre, Willimantic.

Billed as a comedy "In American," it lives up to the slanginess of the title and affords a two and a half hour entertainment rich in all the elements of happy fun, harmless glee and merriment closing with what is guaranteed to be the most astonishingly funny last line situation ever offered on the American stage.

"Fruited Nut Custard"

AN EXTRA special Treat for those who love good things to eat! "Fruited Nut Custard." Doesn't that sound good? And how it tastes. Oh, Boy, imagine it just full of delicious red maraschino cherries, ripe juicy strawberries, in sugary syrup, pineapple with its tart sweetness—and fat English walnuts, whipped up together with golden creamy custard, frozen into a smooth, rich Ice Cream! That's "Fruited Nut Custard." Try a plate at your dealer's. Have it for dessert on Sunday. Nothing to prepare—and see if "Fruited Nut Custard" isn't one dessert that pleases everybody!

MARKET WAS SPECULATIVE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(By The A. P.)—Speculators for the advance regained control of the price movement in today's stock market, which was featured by a marked broadening of activity. While the usual week end profit-taking brought about moderate recessions from the high prices in many stocks, closing quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 15 points.

The day's trade news was again constructive in character. The weekly mercantile reviews reported further improvement in business despite the fact that the average level of prices was now at the lowest level in two years. An unusual mid-summer expansion of business is noted in many lines and the crops, as a whole, promise well.

Credit conditions continue relatively easy. Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent. today and then advanced to 4 1-2 as banks called a moderate amount of loans, but the supply was plentiful at the top figure. Brokers' loans reported by members of the New York stock exchange showed an increase of nearly $71,500,000 in July, which was not considered excessive in view of the marked increment in the quoted values of many stocks, particularly the high priced industrials. These figures seemed to confirm reports that stocks were being bought by large financial institutions and wealthy individuals who were able to finance their purchases without recourse to the banks.

Railroad shares, which had been rather sluggish for aweek or more, sprang into prominence on the announcement that met earnings of Class I roads in the first six months of the year were the largest of any corresponding period in history. The dividend payers made the best showing. Atchison touched a new high record at 142 1-4, New York Central advanced to 127 7-8, the highest price since 1909 and Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, Reading, St. Louis Southwestern and Southern Railway showed net gains of 1 to nearly 3 points.

Trading in General Motors and U. S. Steel common quieted down considerably although the former closed more than 3 points higher at 207 5-8 and the later showed a small fractional gain at 150 3-8. New leaders were found, however, among the high priced industrial specialties. Loose-Wiles Biscuit was the sensational individual performer, soaring 18 points to a record top at 153 and then dropping back to 147. The second preferred closed 15 points higher at 155. Case Threshing Machine soared 7 1-2 points to a new record top at 176, as against the year's low of 6 1-2, and then lost all its gain on the official denial of rumors that negotiations were pending for its merger with the International Harvester Company, the common stock of which touched a new 1926 high at 126 5-8. Advance Rumely preferred, American Brake Shoe and Foundry, Consolidated Cigar, General Asphalt preferred, National Tea and Vivaudau preferred all show net gains of 5 to 10 points.

Special buying also developed in several of the cheaper issues. U. S. Industrial Alcohol was active and strong on the announcement that the company had absorbed one of its principal competitors.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity prices showed little change. Wheat closed slightly easier although a higher premium was paid for export wheat at gulf points. Cotton advanced 12 to 15 points with trading restricted pending the publication of the government report next Monday. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound and coffee prices ruled 5 to 11 points net higher.

A sharp rally of over 20 points in French francs which carried them above the 3 cent level for the first time in several months featured the firm foreign exchange market. Buying of francs reflected heavy short coverings by European speculators following the passage by the French chamber of deputies of two important measures proposed by Premier Poincare in connection with his plan for rehabilitation of French finances. Other continental rates improved in sympathy. Demand sterling held steady around $4.85 3-4.

PRESS DISPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Saturday, August 7, 1926

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The tropical disturbance which is of hurricane intensity passed on a north-northeast course slightly west of Bermuda today. Pressure is high over the Canadian maritime provinces, Sydney 30.22, St. Johns 30.20 and over the plains states and western Ontario, Winnepeg 30.16.

The outlook is for showers on Saturday in the Atlantic states. Elsewhere the weather will be fair Saturday and Sunday. It will be cooler Saturday night or Sunday in north Atlantic states.

Winds

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh east and south shifting to southwest, weather partly overcast Saturday.

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh southeast shifting to southwest weather partly overcast Saturday followed by showers at night.

Forecast

For southern New England: Showers and thunderstorms Saturday and Saturday night; cooler at night in interior; Sunday fair.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

	Temp.	Bar.
7 a. m.	64	30.30
12 m.	78	30.20

TAFTVILLE

The graduates of the 1924 class and part of the 1925 class of the Sacred Heart school held a reunion this week at Rocky Point, R. I., all enjoying the affair. The chaperones were Miss Alexandrina Rondeau and Miss Rose Robitaille. The party was transported in the Bureille truck. Among those present were Miss Julia Chappell, Miss Mary Girard, Miss Isabelle Pion, Miss Delenadre Provost, Miss Georgette Giguere, Miss Alice Dugas, Miss Ethel Roy, Miss Catherine Fontaine, Miss Claire Fontaine, Miss Grace Phalen, Miss Alma Rondeau, Miss Laure Danis, Miss Laurence Audette, Miss Diana Louis, Miss Lorraine Gladue, Miss Nellie Excleston, Miss Melinda Germain, Theodore Benac, Lawrence Begoit, Tony Caron, Albert Gaffney, William Paradis, Robert Godek, Charles Pepin, and Edward Kelly.

Plans for the annual outing of the Pioneer Boys of Taftville which is to take place at Rocky Point, R. I., next Sunday are progressing favorably. Indications are that a great many Pioneers from the village will be on hand to take part in the festivities and have an opportunity of meeting old friends at the Point. The local arrangements are in charge of George W. Weiler and he is also in charge of distribution of the badges. Because Mr. Weiler will also motor to the gathering Sunday, there will be no badges available for members after Saturday night.

Miss Agnes Morton of Lisbon is spending a few days with friends at Weekapaug, R. I.

Talk about skill in pool playing came to a climax Wednesday evening at the clubhouse of the Ponemah Wheel club on Norwich avenue, when John Troeger and Christopher Heberding inflicted defeat upon Jack Ely and Arthur Bourgeois. A large crowd was on hand to watch the pretty shots made by the contestants, to congratulate the victors, and sympathize with the losers.

OLD SCOUTS ARE ENJOYING CAMP LIFE

The final delegation for the 1926 "Old Scouts" camp will leave for Beach pond today (Saturday). Indications are that there will be a good-sized crowd on hand at supper this evening. This afternoon, weather permitting, there will be patrols between the skunk and Panther patrols.

Allen Latham, the bee man, gave many interesting facts on bees during the camp fire Thursday evening and also presented the Old Scouts a store of honey for which he was given a rising vote of thanks.

William Bottomley claims that stepping into a yellow jackets' nest is the most invigorating tonic he has ever heard of. With general good fellowship and the regular pleasures of camping, the men are enjoying their experiment in full.

The camp committee with it understood that it is not too late to join the campers and any friend of the Boy Scouts who want to get in for the last day may do so.

HOPE TO ASSEMBLE DATA OF ALL STATE CHURCHES

Hope that the day might soon come when all the early records of the churches of Connecticut might find a safe and convenient resting place was expressed by Frank K. Haines of Pomfret while visiting the state library at Hartford. When the house of Elinor Matthewson burned in Pomfret last year all the church records of the Pomfret Congregational church were lost.

In speaking of local histories, maps, local names of brooks and communities, Haines expressed the hope that the time might also come when brooks in the various towns and communities might be labelled with their local names for the information of tourists.

HOEY ASSEMBLY HOLDS MONTHLY SOCIAL MEETING

The monthly social meeting of Hoey assembly, Ladies of Columbus, Baltic, was held at the home of Mrs. Marie D. Gauthier, Hanover, with a large number of the members present. Whist was enjoyed during the evening. The hostesses were Mrs. Madelyn Drescher, Baltic; Mrs. Veronica Gallagher, East Greenwich; Mrs. Julia D. Slater, Providence; Mrs. J. E. Delaney; Mrs. Matthew Delaney and Mrs. Marie Gauthier of Hanover.

First prize in whist was given Mrs. A. Lynn and Miss Mary Papineau took second. Consolations were awarded Miss Eleanor Brennan and Miss Louise Sweetland.

Refreshments of cake, ice cream and fruit punch were served.

The members are planning to have their annual outing at Camp Happiness.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT OF THAMES RIVER VALLEY IS NEAR AT HAND

The getting together spirit which is being fostered by the Thames Valley Citizens' committee is a co-ordinating agency that has long been needed, says E. Waldo Clarke, in charge of the state pier at New London, in an article on Some of the Reasons Why the Thames Valley Will Attract Big Business, which will appear in the next issue of the U. C. T. Monthly. The stimulation of the importance of the eastern part of Connecticut and more particularly that section between Norwich and New London, comprising the Thames valley, into the minds of the manufacturers and producers from other areas will bear fruit, he continues. Mr. Clarke, in the article, says:

In 1912 the Connecticut Legislature autho ized the construction of the state pier at New London. The principal purpose was to open a new gateway to the seas of the world for the state. The completion and use of this ocean terminal opened not only a new gateway to Connecticut, but also to central and southern New England. The benefits derived from its location do not rebound to New London only, but to the state as a whole and more to the eastern part of Connecticut, comprising the centers of New London, the Thames valley, Norwich, Willimantic, Danielson., etc.

The extent of the future growth of the port is based on many conditions. It has a deep water harbour of sufficient extent, affording safe and easy anchorage for ships of all draught, sheltered from storms and free from excessive currents with safe and easy channel ways approaches. It has piers and wharves built of substantial design, equipped with machinery that ships, barges, cars or trucks can cheaply load and discharge their freight; affording ample room for temporary storage of freight and materials awaiting shipment by land or sea. It has direct connection to the Central Vermont, Grand Trunk, Canadian National Railway System, transcontinental in extent, and to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad system, serving all of southern New England. It has special lighter and barge facilities to all Long Island Sound ports and tributaries. It has long and short haul motor truck service direct to and from the pier warehouse and storage terminals. It has export and import railway rates, the same as Portland, Boston, New York, Montreal and other winter terminals. It is five miles from Long Island Sound, 15 miles from the open ocean and one hundred nautical miles from New York. It has a pier 1,000 feet long, 200 feet wide, 200,000 square feet under cover. Depth of water alongside, 35 feet; four railway tracks on the pier and a warehouse of 22,500 tons capacity, served by four ton electric elevators.

But, above all, a port needs a thickly settled hinterland, producing farming and manufacturing exports and consuming imports in large quantities. In this respect, the immediate hinterland is lacking in population with its large manufacturing centers. Connecticut and New England in general, are increasing in importance in the commercial world, but eastern Connecticut has not kept pace with the other sections of the state, nor with the other seaport cities of New England. This smallness of growth is not due to the lack of any commercial advantages; for the area is comparable to any other similar area, and has many points other areas are lacking in.

The smallness in growth is due more to the lack of cooperation and coordination, and the stimulation of our present population. The get-together spirit which is being fostered by the Thames Valley Citizens committee is a coordinating agency that has long been needed. It is necessary to awaken our idea in terms of manufacturing, shipping and export trade, and thereby create the thought in others as to the use of the present facilities which nature and mean has given us. The stimulation of the importance of the eastern part of Connecticut and more particularly that section between Norwich and New London, comprising the Thames valley, into the minds of the manufacturers and producers from other areas will bear fruit.

The immediate hinterland of the port of New London, the Thames valley, furnishing water and rail transportion in abundance, efficient cheap and skilled labor, reaches out for the establishment of additional manufacturing plants in its area, plans requiring the raw products from afar and the nearness to the greatest center of population for the use of its finished article. More plans mean more people mean more homes, with all the wealth of life.

Massed action by a community in planning and seeking the new manufacturer, in advertising and by proper publicity, brings the advantages of this area to their attention, making the area a bigger and better place to work in and live in, all those effects will have good results. But we should not forget that we must look to ourselves more and more to do those things that are required to make such an effort a success than to wait for the outsiders to act in our behalf, even to the extent of putting our own shoulders to the wheel, to push and push on to great heights and even having such confidence in our cause that we are willing to place our own money in the game itself.

STOECKEL DECIDES QUESTION ON LICENSES

A Waterbury garage owner has raised a point about motor vehicle operation which appears not to be covered by the state motor vehicle law. Especially at this time of the year, he has informed the motor vehicle department, many cars registered in other states come into his service shop for repairs and adjustments, some of which require considerable time to be made. It becomes necessary for the garage foreman or his workman to take such cars out for a road test on the highways of Connecticut, but neither the foreman nor any of his workmen are licensed operators of any state other than Connecticut. Whether these mechanics may legally operate cars bearing the registrations of other states and, if so, for how long, is a question the garage owner has propounded to the Connecticut department.

He has received in reply a letter from the motor vehicle department saying that the Connecticut law evidently does not clearly cover that point and there has been no interpretation of it in that connection. It is the viewpoint of Commissioner Stoeckel that after the state of Connecticut has passed upon the qualification of a person to the extent of issuing an operator's license, that license is good for the operation of any car whatever in this state, irrespective of the car registration. In other words, a car bearing a Massachusetts registration may be operated in Connecticut by a Connecticut operator.

The question of length of operation under such circumstances is another point, concerning which the Connecticut department has notified the Waterbury garage owner that it considers fifteen days the limit, after which the person responsible for the car should be prosecuted under the registration law but not under the operator's license law. A definite provision to cover such a situation will be sought in the next session of the legislature.

PROGRAMME FOR FARM BUREAU OUTING

The annual field day of the New London county farm bureau is to be held Saturday, August 14th at the Strand, Great Neck road, Waterford. The activities of the day begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and will be continuous throughout the day. The programme arranged is as follows: 10, bathing, barnyard golf, baseball; 12, clam chowder dinner; 1, address by Senator Hiram Bingham.

Sports—100 yard dash for men and boys over 18, 100 yard dash for girls, sack race for boys, three legged race for girls, slow race for women, shot put for men, relay race for girls and women, wheel barrow race for boys, men and boys' relay, paper bag race for women, broad jump for men and boys, spoon and egg race for girls and women, needle, thread and button contest for men.

Nail driving contest for women, lobster race for boys, shoe scramble for all, tug of war.

In all individual events points count as follows: First, 5; second, 4; third, 3; fourth, 2; fifth, 1.

In team contests: First, 10; second, 8; third, 6; fourth, 4; fifth, 2.

In barnyard golf: Five points for winner in preliminaries; 10 for semi-finals; 15 for champions.

Last year's winners were: First, Lebanon; second, Waterford; third, Norwich Town.

TWO DIVORCE SUITS FILED IN COURT

Two new divorce actions were filed Friday with the clerk of the superior court in this city, Paul A. Salerno of New London asks a divorce from Nellie (Cane) Salerno now of parts unknown on grounds of desertion. They were married December 9, 1920.

Clarence A. Johnson of New London is seeking a divorce from Rose (Rockholtz) Johnson, formerly of New London, now of parts unknown. They were married March 10, 1921 and have four children. Mr. Johnson asks the custody of the children.

GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY ON HER 10TH BIRTHDAY

Miss Ruth Isabell Phillips of Lakewood, R. I., is spending her summer vacation with her grandparents, at No. 112 Church street. Thursday afternoon she was pleasantly surprised by a number of her little friends, the occasion being her 10th birthday. The color scheme was pink and white. On the brightly lighted table was a large birthday cake with 10 candles. The small hostess also received a star shaped birthday cake, sent to her.

Those present were Mrs. Dinigvan, Miss Groves, Mrs. Nellis Penhallow, Virginia Dinigvan, Mabel and Martha Chapman, Dorothy Colt, Ruth Phillips. Many pretty and useful gifts were received.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions and detours in eastern Connecticut made necessary by highway construction and repairs, announced by the state highway department, as of August 4th, are as follows:

Willimantic-Putnam (route 3) road is under construction in Windham. Open to traffic.

Willimantic-Hartford road (route 3) section of concrete pavement just west of Willimantic is being reconstructed and widened. Traffic may pass, but extreme caution should be exercised in passing the steam shovel.

Willimantic-Putnam road (routes 3 and 101), is under construction in Chaplin. Concrete pavement being laid. Two sections of one way traffic regulated by telephone.

Norwich-Putnam (route 12) grade crossing is being eliminated in Plainfield. Short detour.

Norwich-New London road (route 12) in towns of Waterford and Montville is under construction. Open to traffic.

Norwich-New London road (route 12) is under construction in towns of Norwich and Montville. Open to traffic, shoulders incomplete.

Norwich-Willimantic road (route 32) is under construction in Franklin. Concrete pavement is being placed. Section of one-way traffic regulated by telephone.

East Lyme (route 1) on the post road the Golden Spur bridge is being reconstructed. Detour posted.

Norwich-Groton road (route 32) section on cutoff at Submarine base is under construction. No detour.

Hallville road in Preston (route 179) grading is being done, no detour.

Thompson (route 12) the Putnam-West Thompson road is being reconstructed at Mechanicsville. One way traffic for short distance.

MAY CALL SPECIAL CITY MEETING THIS MONTH

It is understood that a special city meeting will be called some time this month for the purpose of taking action on an appropriation for the improving of West Thames street. At the last regular meeting of the court of common council a petition with nearly 200 signatures was received asking that a special city meeting be held to act on an appropriation for that street.

At the annual meeting in June there was in the list of extras an appropriation to improve West Thames street but it was voted down. Some of the signers of the petition point out that the street is in a deplorable condition and should be repaired as soon as possible. It is pointed out that with the completion of the new highway on the Norwich-New London road automobile traffic through West Thames street will be heavier than ever.

C. N. G. NOW HAS 4,300 OFFICERS AND MEN

Adjutant-General George M. Cole computes the strength of the Connecticut National Guard as approximately 4,300 officers and men. This is a remarkably fine showing and the personnel is of excellent quality, he says, as well as of goodly numbers. In fact the very excellence may operate against a desire which General Cole has for the expansion of the Coast Artillery from its present strength of a battalion into an entire regiment as the increase in numbers might be considered at Washington as excessive for a state of the size of Connecticut. The coast artillery is now a battalion of the 242d Coast Artillery (HD) with Major Lafayette E. Evans, of Bridgeport, in command. The unit is to have its annual tour of duty August 22 to September 5 at Fort Wright, Fishers Island.

TO PLACE DIRECTION SIGNS FOR AUTOISTS

Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney, the chairman of the board of police commissioners, is having direction signs painted for various locations in the city. Signs directing traffic to Willimantic, Hartford, Providence and New London, will be placed on the traffic beacon at Broadway and Main street and similar signs will be placed at needed points in various sections of the city.

Additional sidewalk signs, designating parking limits are also being painted. They will be placed in various sections to supplement existing signs. Two of the signs will be placed in the five minute parking section on Franklin square.

Get Physical Licenses

Thirty-three applicants passed the recent examination of the medical examining board and were this week certified to the State Department of Health for licenses as regular physicians. Twenty-one were admitted on the basis of credentials and 12 who passed written examination. The 12 are: Joseph P. Hatfels, Mortimer E. Moriarty, Reuben Thalberg, Charles W. O'Neill, Thomas Coddiero, Julius A. Grower, Michael E. Brodsky, William J. Scott, Carter Lee Marshel, Morris Hinnenberg, Morris Goldstein, Frederick E Kunkel.

Entertained at Pinochle

Miss Gladys E. Hart entertained seven of her friends Wednesday evening at her home in Poquetanuck, pinochle being played. First prize was won by Mrs. Raymond Beckwith and the consolation by Mrs. Mildred Lumis. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and lemonade were served."

COUNTY HOME CHILDREN ARE ENTERTAINED AT BEACH

The children of the New London county home, on Smith avenue, Norwich, were entertained at Ocean Beach by Norwich branch, Connecticut council of Catholic women, Wednesday. Each child was liberally supplied with popcorn, lollypops and ice cream, also enjoyed several rides on the merry-go-round.

The chairman of the committee in charge, Mrs. Thomas J. McVeigh, was ably assisted by Mrs. James Purdon, president of the local branch, Mrs. John J. O'Rourke, Mrs. Louis A. Combies, Mrs. Thomas J. O'Rourke, Mrs. Joseph E. Ring, Miss Margaret Purdon and Miss Elizabeth McNamara.

The American Thermos Bottle Co. generously donated the use of its truck in transporting the children to and from the beach.

NOTED PREACHER COMING FOR UNION SERVICE

Rev. Walter B. Denney, Ph.D., professor of philosophy and biblical research in Russel Sage Foundation college, Troy, N. Y., is to be the preacher at the union service to be held Sunday morning by Park and the United Congregational churches. The service will be held at the United church. Rev. Dr. Barton who had been secured to preach the sermon Sunday was obliged to cancel the engagement.

Dr. Denney was here last spring and delivered a series of twenty lectures in the Sunday school training course arranged by the local and state Sunday school association.

FORMER HANOVER PEOPLE HERE FROM OHIO

Mrs. James Bath of Willimantic and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rose of Lorrain, Ohio, with their son and daughter, visited Friday their aunt, Mrs. Susan Watson of Harland road. While east they are guests of Mr Rose's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Bath of Willimantic. Mr. and Mrs. Rose (Eva Bennett) are natives of Hanover and while here will revisit places and friends in this section.

NEW PARKING RULE FOR WATER STREET

Parking on Water street from its intersection with Market street to Shetucket street will be parallel to the curb from now on, according to a ruling made by the police commissioners and announced Friday by Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney, chairman of the commission.

In the past autos have been parked head on to the curb but owners of property claimed that entrances to their buildings were blocked by this method of parking.

Court Cases Postponed

In the city court Friday morning the cases of two women, both of Yantic street, charged with breach of peace, were indefinitely postponed. When the case first came up one of the women was unable to appear as she was confined to her bed because of injuries she had received.

Her condition remained about the same Friday and as she is still confined to her bed the court orders a postponement until she is able to appear in court.

POETRY

An Old Song Reversed

"There are gains for all our losses."
So I said when I was young.
If I sang that song again,
'Twould not be with that refrain,
Which but suits an idle tongue.

Youth has gone, and hope gone with it,
Gone the strong desire for fame.
Laurels are not for the old,
Take them, lads. Give Senex gold.
What's an everlasting name?

When my life was in its summer
One fair woman liked my looks;
Now that Time has driven his plow
In deep furrows on my brow,
I'm no more in her good books.

"There are gains for all losses?"
Grave beside the wintry sea,
Where my child is, and my heart,
For they would not live apart,
What has been your gain to me?

No, the words I sang were idle,
And will ever so remain;
Death, and age, and vanished youth
All declare this bitter truth,
There's a loss for every gain.
—Richard Henry Stoddard.

Sweet Peas

The hedge grows close by garden wall,
Its stems are thrifty, green and tall;
Its winged flowers of varied hue,
No whisk heads 'neath the morning dew;
With folded wings, devout in prayer,
They lade the sunrise-tinted air.

From dust they sprang in the spring-tide hour,
Each tender leaf and fragrant flower,
Each tendril curled with nature's grace
Reaches up in a heavenward race:
Incense-laden they spread each wing,
In royal robes they greet the king.

Some with tint cerulean blue,
Like the ocean the clouds are sailing through,
Some in bright mauve of sunset fame,
Some in dyes of Tyrian name,
Some as white as a sinless soul,
Type of that land o'er Jordan's roll.

Some, like a blush in its warm cheek-nest,
Some, in the colors we love the best;
Some are tinged with a crimson tide,
Some are in colors glorified;
Some are fleckered, as with Cana's wine,
And all are touched by a hand divine.

They cheer the sick the night hours long,
Sooth the weary as with cradle song:
From shores Sicilian, land of birth,
They come to cool a fevered earth.
Angels of earth! Angels of flowers,
Heaven is yours as much as ours.
—Neenah E. Murtha, Col.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Why did you fall off the ladder, John?"

"Law of gravity, dear."—Detroit News.

Sympathizer—And did her father come between you?

Jilted Suitor—O, no; merely behind me—London Answers.

Teacher: Johnny, name a collective noun.

Johnny: A vacuum-cleaner.—Good Hardware.

A—Must I put the stamps on myself?

B—Suit yourself about it. However, it's customary to put them on the letter.—Washington Star.

Boss—I thought you told me you wanted to get off yesterday because you had an engagement with a dentist. Didn't I see you at the ball game?

Office Boy—Yes, sir, and I was sitting right next to the dentist. He's my uncle.—Capper's Weekly.

"I believe the Hon. John R. Trickery is losing his senses," declared honest Farmer Fumblebate.

"Don't say?" returned equally honest Farmer Funter. "What makes you think so?"

"He is planting his congressional garden seeds and seems to expect 'em to grow."—Exchange.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The British are the world's greatest importers of meat.

There are too many trains in the London subways to be shown on bulletin boards, so special indicators are used to show trains soon to depart.

Recently there appeared on Tokio's streets a girl newspaper vendor. Miss Sadiko Takeda, twenty-two, besides being a newsgirl, attends high school and intends becoming a teacher.

Railroad ties in Mexico reach the hight of luxury, for on one of the lines solid ebony is used for ties. It flourishes in forests that grow near the tracks and is so hard that holes must be drilled into it before spikes can be put through.

Among the caverns that mark streets in New York's financial region may be found the single haven for pedestrians who at other times must dodge continuous streams of motor cars. Broad street is closed to traffic at the noon hour each day and there thousands of clerks and stenographers from the brokers' offices promenade in summer until summoned back to work by the clanging of Trinity church's chimes at 1 o'clock.

Hard pressed for husbands by the shortage of men, German women are beginning to advertise in the classified ad sections of the newspapers. Scores of newspapers are building up reputations as marriage marts. It is not uncommon to see forty or fifty "husbands wanted" ads in a single issue. One ad is headlined by the word "Sunshine" in thirty-point bold faced type. "Sunshine," the ad continues, "is what a lonely girl of twenty-five would like to bring into some lonely man's home."

Protection against typhoid by swallowing vaccine instead of having it injected under the skin is being tried experimentally at the bacteriological laboratories at the State college of Washington. This method has the advantage of making the victims less sick than the customary shot in the arm, but the degree of immunity it confers compared to the older way is not yet absolutely determined, according to Professor Victor Burke and La Verne Barnes, of the department of bacteriology. The rate at which the immunity is developed is also unknown for the present, but it is hoped that further research will clear up these points.

CONTEST FOR SHARE OF MARK HOPKINS' FORTUNE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6—(AP)—A contest for a share of the fortune of Mark Hopkins, pioneer railroad builder, of California, was begun in superior court here today by P. B. McCandless, a San Jose, Calif., lathing contractor, who claims to be the son of Martin Hopkins, mentioned in an alleged lost will as a brother of Mark Hopkins. The estate is valued in excess of $100,000,000.

SERVICES IN PROTESTANT CHURCHES IN MEXICO CITY

No Move Was Made by the Government to Interfere With Them—Good, But Not Unusual Crowds Entered the Various Catholic Churches for Prayer—The Government Has Announced That It Will Require All Protestant Pastors to Register With the Municipal Authorities and Give Them an Inventory of All Church Property.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Mexico City's two Protestant churches conducted services as usual today, and no move was made to interfere with them, while good, but not unusual crowds entered the various Catholic churches for prayers. It was the second Sunday that Catholic churches were without the usual masses because of the withdrawal of the priests. The day passed quietly.

There was some discussion in various places about last night's announcement by the government that it intended to enforce, as regards Protestant churches, the same regulations relating to nationalization of church property, as are being applied to the Catholic churches.

It was explained that this does not mean that the government would immediately seize or convert to its own use such property, but that it reserved the right to do so in future, by reason of the constitution clauses declaring all church property belongs to the nation.

The government also announced it would require all Protestant pastors to register with the municipal authorities and give them an inventory of all church property, which the government will, as it has been doing for more than half a century with Catholic churches, continue to allow each congregation to use, although the government maintained claim to ownership.

All those recently arrested in connection with the plot against the life of President Calles because of his stand on the religious question, have been released on 1,000 pesos bail, except Dolores Leumus, city hall stenographer, who was unable to produce bail.

No crowds gathered around the cathedral, or other places of worship. The Guadalupe shrine was comfortably filled with worshippers, the majority of them Indian women, but there were no crowds waiting outside, and always plenty of room inside.

The steps approaching the altar were covered with flowers, for the most part withered clusters of wild flowers plucked by the roadside by the Indians and carried for long distances under the hot sun. These flowers were offered to the virgin of Guadalupe, the Indians' favorite saint.

On a visit to several villages near Mexico City, the Associated Press correspondent found the Indians calm and not even expressing great interest when questioned on the religious situation. Invariably the correspondent found that these Indians believed the government closed the churches or ordered the priests out, and seemed entirely unaware that the Episcopate ordered the priests to withdraw as a protest against the religious regulations.

Asked how they were getting along without masses or other priestly services, the Indians replied that it was no fault of theirs or the priests that the priests were absent from the churches: therefore God would not punish them for lack of masses and confession.

The Rev. William Evans Thomas, American pastor of the Union church, Mexico City, conducted the usual services today. Lay readers conducted the servies in Christ Episcopal church. This has been the custom for several months, since Dean Peacock promised the Mexican authorities he would cease conducting services if they rescinded their orders for his deportation.

The Catholic cathedral of Mexico City continues closed and probably will remain closed for a month pending adjustment of inventory difficulties.

SHERIFF AND PROHIBITION AGENT KILLED IN DUEL

CLINTWOOD, Va., Aug. 8.—(AP)—A sheriff and a state prohibition agent were dead here today, having settled with guns a grudge which had its origin five years ago in a disagreement over a land deal. The duel was staged last night on the steps of the Dickenson county courthouse.

C. Pridemore Fleming, Dickenson county sheriff, died soon after the battle with a bullet in the region of the heart. The dry agent, James S. Mullins, succumbed today from the effects of three bullet wounds.

A group of villagers gathered on the courthouse steps for their customary evening talk, were ordered away by the sheriff.

All but Mullins obeyed, and the sheriff was said by witnesses to have opened fire on the state officer. Mullins, a one-armed man, retreated up the steps, endeavoring the while to draw his revolver. Arriving at the top of the steps, he sought protection behind a stone column, but in the exchange of shots with Fleming he was struck in the stomach, arm and face.

After the cessation of the shooting, witnesses said said, Fleming turned and walked away. At this junction Mullins was reported to have fired the shot which killed Fleming.

The old controversy between the men was said to have been re-kindled lately when they had some words over the recent Virginia primary.

Fleming was 50 and well known throughout southwest Virginia. He was serving his second year as sheriff, and in addition conducted the Fleming hotel. He leaves a wife and three children.

Mullins was 45 and had been connected with the state prohibition forces for five years. His widow and eight children survive.

TWO MEN ARE SWIMMING THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Two mermen plunged into the English channel tonight to see how close they can come to emulating the exploit of Miss Gertrude Ederle, Omer Perrault, of Canada set off from the beach at Cruz-Nez at 8:37 p. m. and was followed three minutes later by Lieut. Colonel Bernard Freyberg, who was wounded nine times in the World war, and who made an unsuccessful attempt to swim the English channel in 1925.

The weather was good, the sea was calm and there were prospects of conditions becoming even better. Ishak Helmy, the Egyptian giant, expects to make his third attempt at swimming the channel tomorrow night.

Other aspirants are continuing their preparations. The Frenchman, Georges Michel, and his fellow countrywoman Mme. Jane Sion, say they intend to take off when the opportunity strikes them as favorable. Both the swimmers have failed in previous attempts to swim the channel.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRE IN SACRAMENTO VALLEY

REDDING, Calif., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Two hundred men who fought all last night against a forest fire near Castle Creek in the upper Sacramento valley were reinforced by 300 additional fire fighters today when the flames broke out of control.

The fire cut a path through big timber two miles wide and seven miles long. The town of Castella was believed endangered until a change in the wind.

TWO MEXICAN GOVERNMENT EMPLOYES STABBED TO DEATH

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The department of agriculture has information that two of its engineers, Raymundo Violante and Jose Almeda were stabbed and killed by unknown persons at Acambaro, state of Juanajuato, last Monday night.

The belief is held by the department that the two engineers were suspected of being government religious agents.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS IN ALABAMA TODAY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan issue has been raised in the state wide democratic campaign which comes to a close Tuesday with primary elections to nominate a candidate to succeed Senator Oscar W. Underwood, and congressional gubernatorial state and county nominees.

Al Smith, New York, also was brought into the heated discussion by one of the senatorial aspirants, but the candidates were agreed on one question—all are dry.

The Klan issue came to the front when Ben H. Sullivan, member of the imperial Kloncillium, was quoted in published statements as saying "We are happy in the knowledge that loyal Klansmen in Alabama are rallying to the standard of L. B. Musgrove in increasing numbers." Hugo L. Black heretofore had been the reputed beneficiary of Klan support.

John H. Bankhead, Thomas E. Kilby and James J. Mayfield are the other candidates in the five cornered senatorial fight.

Four candidates are seeking the nomination for governor. Bibb Graves, one of the candidates, in his advertisements and speeches, charged the Birmingham newspapers with supporting Governor Al Smith of New York for the democratic nomination for president.

The Birmingham Age-Herald which, with associated papers, was specifically mentioned by Graves, in a formal statement today said that a circular on this subject was "an unjustifiable false and vicious attack upon the Age-Herald and associated papers.

WOMAN IN KENTUCKY WINS REP. CONG. NOMINATION

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. John W. M. Langley has won the republican congressional nomination in the tenth district, returns from yesterday's primary indicates.

She waged an intensive campaign for "vindication" of her husband, the former congressman who resigned when he began serving a two year sentence in prison for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

In the first district W. Veris Gregory, Mayfield, won the democratic nomination for congress, by a narrow margin. Garth K. Ferguson, his closest opponent, refused, however, to concede and declared it would taken an official count to determine the winner.

Henry Dehaven Moorman, in the fourth district and Congressman M. H. Tatcher, republican, in the fifth, won easily in the only other districts where the contests were "warm" enough to interest a generally apathetic electorate.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS IN ARKANSAS TUESDAY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 8.—(AP)—One of the most bitter campaigns in Arkansas's history has just ended and voters will go to the polls Tuesday to choose democratic nominees for governor, for two seats in congress and for various state and county offices.

Because of the intense campaign waged in the gubernatorial contest between Governor Tom J. Terral and Judge John E. Martineau of Little Rock, political leaders forecast a large vote.

The prohibition question has figured largely in this campaign. The Rev. Paul E. Kemper, superintendent of the state Anti-Slaoon league, in an open letter to ministers gave his personal indorsement to Governor Terral and asserted the liquor question was one of the issues.

24 AIRPLANES MAKING THE FORD RELIABILITY TOUR

Chicago, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Twenty four airplanes making the 1926 Ford reliability tour left here at 1:30 o'clock central time this afternoon for Milwaukee, the next landing of the itinerary. The Woodson plane which was forced down at Gary, Ind., hile en route here yesterday did not arrive in time to accompany the others.

Five Men Killed at a Grade Crossing

New York Central Train Struck a Sedan Near Williamsville, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Five men were killed when their light sedan was struck by the west-bound Ohio Limited on the New York Central railroad near Williamsville early this morning.

Roy Pope and his brother Arthur Pope, of Snyder, Erie county; Harold Kries, Henry Link and Charles Smith of Williamsville. All were young men, their ages ranging from 20 to 30 years, and unmarried.

The party attended a fraternal outing at Williamsville on Saturday afternoon and evening and were returning to their homes after midnight.

The grade crossing where the accident occurred is a short distance from the station. An eastbound train was standing near the crossing, and although the medical examiner was unable to locate an eye-witness, he said it was apparent the automobile crashed onto the eastbound tracks behind the standing train into the path of the speeding westbound Ohio Limited.

SEVEN OCCUPANTS HURT WHEN CAR FELL 40 FEET

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Loaded with two families bound for a Sunday holiday at Rockaway beach, a sedan sideswiped a taxi-cab today, swerved across two of the driveways of the Grand Concourse in the Bronx, crashed through an iron railing and plunged, somersaulting in the air, 40 feet to a vacant lot below.

The car landed on its top, pinning its seven occupants beneath—four children, two women and a man. None was killed.

All were injured, one of the women and a year old baby seriously. The taxi driver, who was thrown from his cab, was also seriously injured.

James Downey, 33, of Yonkers, who was driving the sedan, said the taxi driver, Harry Baron, turned in front of him. Downey said he swerved to avoid the cab but sideswiped it, losing control of his own car. Baron was arrested charged with felonious assault.

DEATH OF MOTHER OF RT. REV. JOHN G. MURPHY

WATERBURY, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary E. Murray, mother of Rt. Rev. John G. Murray, bishop of Portland, Me., died tonight at 6:40 o'clock at her home at 48 South street, following a long illness. Bishop Murray was at the bedside of his mother at the time of her death.

Mrs. Murray was a resident of Waterbury for the past 60 years and married to William Muray, well known Waterbury citizen, 50 years ago. Bishop Murray was her oldest child.

Before Bishop Murray was consecrated, while he was chancellor of the diocese of Hartford and during his tenure as auxiliary bishop of Hartford, he visited his mother weekly. Since his installation as bishop of Portland, he has come to Waterbury as frequently as possible to visit her.

Besides Bishop Murray, Mrs. Murray leaves two other sons, Attorney James D. C. Murray, of Rockville Center, N. Y., and Attorney Joseph F., of Maplewood, N. J., and two daughters, Miss Jane E. and Miss May A., of Waterbury.

INQUIRY INTO SANITY OF RICHARD C. BEARSE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Formal inquiry into the sanity of Richard C. Bearse, son of County Treasurer Fred Bearse who slew his mother, Mrs. Etta B. Bearse after torturing her for several hours on Friday morning will be made by alienists for the state, it was announced today by Judge Wallace R. Heady of the Springfield district court. Young Bearse is scheduled to appear before Judge Heady on Tuesday for hearing on the charge of first degree murder to which he had pleaded not guilty, and instead of holding the defendant for the grand jury the court will first receive a report as to his sanity.

The horribly mutilated body of the young man's mother was buried this afternoon in White Church cemetery, West Springfield. The simple services in an undertaker's establishment were attended by less than a dozen relatives of the murdered woman.

SMALL PARTIES HUNTING FOR THE ESCAPED LEOPARD

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Heavily armed men in automobiles and small parties of hunters today sought the Indian leopard which escaped from a zoo at Middleton four days ago.

Thus far the 75-pound cat has been sighted by but two adults. Many children have reported seeing it and hearing wild cries from the woods, but their description of the beast and its wails have varied so that authorities put no stock in their tales.

Early today Edward Wallace telephoned the zoo he had seen the animal on Beacon Hill golf links at Atlantic Highlands.

Zoo employes and police made a thorough search of the vicinity but no tracks were found.

DANSEREAU, ESCAPED PRISONER, SURRENDERS

HARTFORD, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Charles Dansereau, who escaped from the state prison at Wethersfield, Saturday morning, surrendered to prison guards and state police at 9:15 standard time tonight.

All available prison guards, augmented by a detail of state police, at 11 o'clock, were posted around or were beating a 40-acre corn field off Marsh street, where Walter Knowles, Dansereau's companion in the escape, has been hiding since the pair fled from the prison farm between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, Saturday morning.

MORE THAN 100,000 AT THE SESQUI-CENTENNIAL

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Today's attendance at the sesqui-centennial which is open on Sundays despite protests of ministers and church organizations was estimated at more than 100,000 a record since the exposition opened in June. The estimate was made by exposion police after an unofficial check of the turnstiles.

On Sunday the amusement features of the centennial are thrown open free of charge, admission to the grounds being the only fee charged on that day.

Tried to Assassinate Premier of Greece

The Would-Be Assassin Was Seized Before He Could Fire His Pistol.

ATHENS, Aug. 8.—(AP)—An attempt to assassinate Premier Theodorus Pangalos as he was lunching yesterday in a hotel at Spetsa was foiled by other guests, it was learned today.

A merchant of Kilokastro named Antonopoulis was seized as he flashed a pistol before the premier and before he could fire it. General Pangalos was undisturbed by the attempt, and continued his meal. The incident caused no great excitement in Greece and perfect order prevails throughout the country.

Antonopoulis, who is said to be of unsound mind, acted on his own initiative in the attack, the authorities believe. Nevertheless, they have instituted an inquiry to discover his motives.

In 1918 Antonopoulis murdered a police officer at Kilokastro. He was arrested for the crime, but escaped.

PRECIDENT HAS ATTRACTED TOURISTS TO PLYMOUTH

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Hundreds of tourists motored to Plymouth today, attracted by the presence of President Coolidge at the old family homestead, and mingled with natives in lines held back by secret service men and guards while Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge passed the day quietly at their home, sitting much of the time on the porch in full view of the public.

In the afternoon many of the tourists gained admittance to the Union church across the street from the Coolidge home, for the first services held there for several weeks and with the President and Mrs. Coolidge in attendance.

The Rev. Albert E. Phillips, of St. Luke's Episcopal church in Paterson, N. J., who is spending the summer near here, conducted the service.

Country folk and city people rubbed elbows at the serve while a quartet was hastily assembled from Ludlow and the summer residents to furnish the vocal music. John Wilder, 80 year old uncle of the president, joined the quartet and sang all of the hymns heartily.

Late in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge visited the grave of their son, Calvin, in the hillside cemetery here.

BRAZILIAN TEXTILE INDUSTRY IN TROUBLE

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The position of the Sao Paulo textile industry continues critical. Three thousand mill hands will be thrown out of work at the end of the month, when the Brazilian company expects to suspend temporarily remaining idle, according to its announcement, until the company is able to sell large stocks of textiles which apparently it is unable to unload at the present reduced value of the milreis. The crisis is traceable to the sudden arrival of foreign made goods due to the automatic lowering of the tariff wall. This lowering came as the improved exchange value of Brazilian currency required less national currency to pay customs rates based on a fixed percentage of the value of the goods.

Industrial interests recently made an effort to have congress raise the proportional gold tax on tariff rates. The measure passed the senate, but was declared unconstitutional yesterday by the chamber of deputies. The chamber's decision was based on the ruling that revenue bills must arise in the lower house.

Twenty years ago he was famous as an athlete, playing shortstop on Holy Cross and later going to the big leagues.

CLEMENCEAU HAS APPEALED TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

War-Time Premier of France Asks the Chief Executive Not to Treat the Settlement of War Debts as a Purely Commercial Matter—In an Open Letter Clemenceau Asserts Proposed Berenger-Mellon Debt Agreement to be Impossible of Fulfillment.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—(AP)—"Old Father Victory" has again come to the defense in her hour of trouble.

Georges Clemenceau, war-time premier, appealed to President Coolidge, in an open letter published today, not to treat the settlement of war debts as a purely commercial matter.

The proposed Berenger-Mellon debt agreement he asserted to be impossible of fulfillment and to threaten the independence of France.

The spirited appeal of "The Tiger," who will be 85 years old next month, came with dramatic unexpectedness at a moment when the French government is hesitating before taking a definite position on the ratification of the proposed agreement. Midday editions of the afternoon papers gave the letter prominent display.

The Franco-American negotiations leading to promises of payment, the former premier declared, are impossible of fulfillment because they would result in a loan "with solid security in the shape of our territorial possessions, as was the case for Turkey." He warned President Coolidge that France will never accept such a thing.

"France is not for sale even to her friends," he said. "Independent she came to us, independent we shall leave her."

For once, the "Tiger" has apparently taken off the famous gray gloves of his diplomacy. He tartly compared the separate peace treaty made by the United States with Germany to the separate treaty made by Russia at Brest-Litovsk during the war. Both were made, he charged, without "the slightest attempt" to adjust matters with their comrades in arms.

"After making a blood peace with the common enemy," he said, "today a money peace is being devised with the allied and associated powers."

M. Clemenceau entreated President Coolidge not to consider the war debts as purely cash transactions between creditors and debtor to be settled by technical experts. Our attitude, he said, had made France uneasy today lest the United States be taking up the old-time policy of England," of controlling Europe by playing off one continental power against another.

M. Clemenceau's letter follows:

"Mr. President, Divergences of opinion have arisen between the three great countries allied and associated in the war in France as to settlement of accounts, which threaten to have a serious effect on the future of the civilized world.

"On each side technical experts in finance are at work. A technician is too often a man whose pleasure consists in isolating his own problem from those which he is occupied in coordinating.

"Everything in public affairs contributes to form a whole, and anyone who thinks he can isolate himself in his own domain is running the risk of finding himself overwhelmed later when it is too late to mend matters.

"The same question in identical terms exists between the United States and England, between England and France and between France and the United States, and I see that trial solutions or preparation for solutions have not created a good state of feeling in the countries which are affected.

"We are debtors, you are creditors. It seems this is regarded as purely a matter for the cashier's department, but are there no other considerations to be taken into account?

"Hitherto, England's European policy has consisted above all in holding the continental nations in check by intervening and playing off one against the other. I am convinced that the man in the street is beginning to open his eyes to wider views. Today it is towards America that France's feeling of uneasiness is principally directed.

"If nations were but business houses, bankers' accounts would settle the fate of the world. You are claiming from us payment of a debt not of commerce, but of war. You know, as we do, that our treasury is empty. In such a case the debtor must sign promissory notes, and that is just what you are asking us to do, and yet each of us ought to believe that settlement in cash will be made on the day fixed.

"Now, it is an open secret that in this affair there are only imaginary dates of payment, which will lend up to a loan with sold security in the shape of our territorial possessions, as was the case for Turkey. Such a thing, Mr. President, I am bound to tell you we shall never accept.

"France is not for sale, even to her friends. Independent she came to us, independent we shall leave her. Ask yourself whether, according to President Monroe, you would feel otherwise about the American continent.

"If France were to disappear under the blows of her enemies and of her sworn "friends", (this word friends is placed in quotation marks by Clemenceau himself), there would remain of her a name to be proud of.

"Wherein have we failed to fulfill all the demands of duty? Ought we to have surrendered our fortresses to Germany when she demanded them from us under penalty of a declaration of war? Will anyone get up and say we have done nothing but submit to the inevitable? Does Verdon prove we have fought badly?

"Yes, we have thrown everything into the abyss—blood and money—as England and the United States did on their side, but it was France's territory that was devastated scientifically. For three deadly years we awaited this declaration from America. "France is the frontier of liberty"—three years of blood and money oozing from every pore!"

"Come to our villages and read the endless lists of their dead and make comparisons if you will. Was this not a "bank account", the loss of this vital force of youth?

"As Russia did at Brest-Litovsk, America made a separate peace with Germany without even the slightest suggestion of an adjustment with her comrades in arms. That was the hood truce with the common enemy. Today, a money peace between the allied and associated powers is being devised.

"How is it we failed to foresee what is now happening? Why did we not halt under the shells and convoke a board meeting of profiteers to decide the question whether it would allow us to continue in defense of the finest conquest in the finest of histories? Must the myth of German reparations lead up to American cash collections?

"I have spoken freely to the honored head of a great people for whom I have preserved for 50 years my highest respect and friendship, because I believed that people was destined to receive from the old world the torch of a great ideal of humanity to carry on higher and higher. It is now for that people to pronounce judgment on itself. I can only offer the supreme homage of my silence if I am mistaken.

"With homage and my deep respect; believe me, Mr. President.

(Signed), "GEORGES CLEMENCEAU."

COOLIDGE REGARDS WAR DEBT NEGOTIATIONS CLOSED

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The position of President Coolidge is that the negotiations relative to the war-time debt owned by France to the United States are closed.

President Coolidge was informed tonight through press dispatches of the open letter former Premier Clemenceau of France has addressed to him on the war debts and it was indicated that his attitude was that the Washington government intends to conduct its relations with the French people on all questions through their duly constituted diplomatic authorities.

Any further outline of the views of the chief executive toward the Clemenceau letter was unavailable.

For some time, however, it has been made clear that Mr. Coolidge considers the debt funding authority to have passed from the American debt commission once it has concluded negotiations and has transmitted to congress for ratification agreements entered into with foreign governments. It was pointed out in this connection only recently that Secretary Mellon of the treasury department had no authority as head of that department to act during his visit to Europe on war debt problems and while he has authority as head of the American debt commission to negotiate on the debts, in actual fact his authority in this respect has largely been exhausted under the law creating the commission through the settlements the commission has accepted.

But two or three debts with foreign governments remain to be acted upon and all are for relatively small amounts. That with Greece is the most important one and is for only a few million dollars.

Except for the settlement with France all funding agreements reached have been ratified by the legislatures or parliaments of the respective countries. The French debt settlement is yet to be approved by the French parliament and by the American senate. The American house has already approved it.

FIVE MINERS ENTOMBED IN HUDSON MINES, KY.

SALEM, Ky., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The forces of nature which Thursday night sealed five miners in the Hudson mine of the Zinc and Spar company near here, continued tonight to resist the efforts of man to rescue the entombed men.

Sealed in the mine, the fate of the men is not known. Some hope that they are alive; many doubt that they have been able to survive more than three score hours they have been imprisoned in the water filled pit.

Working toward the helpless miners from three directions rescue crews made little progress today in their efforts to open the mine. Water from the lake which broke through into the mine underneath it still flooded the workings, despite numerous attempts to pump it out. A diamond drill had penetrated about one third of the distance of 150 feet and a new shaft being sunk to one side was about forty feet deep.

Sealed in the mine, the fate of the men is not known. Some hope that they are alive; many doubt that they have been able to survive more than three score hours they have been imprisoned in the water filled pit.

NEW LONDON MAN IN HOSPITAL AFTER HEAD-ON AUTO CRASH

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 9—Arthur B. Prentice, 26, of 141 Mohican avenue, New London, is detained by the Westerly police and confined for two or three days at Westerly hospital, having a fractured and lacerated nose, also a cut five inches long on his right leg below the knee. The injuries were inflicted by a broken windshield glass of the Hupmobile sedan, N3407 Conn., operated by him at a reported high rate of speed on High street, in Westerly and when he was said to have been under the influence of liquor. The Prentice sedan crashed headon into the Chevrolet sedan 23-598 Conn., John Wood, 17 Cleveland street, Clarkville, Pawcatuck, about the center and on the west side of the High street railroad bridge, Saturday night about 7 o'clock. The Wood sedan being driven in a southerly direction was occupied by James Gormally, John Walsh and Thomas Burgess, of Clarkville. Wood was uninjured, but Welsh and Gormally reported injuries about the knees and head. The front end of the Chevrolet sedan was wrecked and twisted, while the Hupmobile had a broken headlight, bent and twisted fender. Called to treat the injured, Dr. Michael H. Scanlon found Prentice leaving the place and reported to Westerly Motorcycle Office George L. Madison, who made an investigation.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown directed the investigation, assisted by Police Officer George H. Champlin. Highway Engineer Adolph L. Leon took measurements of the positions of each auto and found that after brakes were applied on the Hupmobile, the marks on the highway surface showed that the auto had slid 96 feet.

As the two sedans were locked in collision on the bridge there was room but for one way traffic and Police Officer LeRoy Norman and constables assisted in preventing further collisions in the traffic jam which followed.

MRS. A. ELDRED NASH DIES AT NARRAGANSETT HOUSE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 9—At the Narragansett House, Watch Hill of which she was the proprietor, Mrs. A. Anne Eldred Nash, 67, widow of James L. Nash, died this morning at 2.45 o'clock.

Her death followed a long illness. Mrs. Nash is survived by her mother, Mrs. Abby Jane Eldred, who resides at the Narragansett House, and by four brothers, Dr. Vincent D. Eldred and Dr. Charles D. Eldred, both of Norwich, Frederick A. Eldred of Flushing, L. I., and Ernest Eldred of Providence.

Frank Hamrah and Anna Farianelh were given a hearing Friday afternoon before Judge Oliver H. Williams in a special session of Third District court for displaying merchandise for sale at Watch Hill hotels without a license. The respondents pleaded guilty of offering for sale fancy goods at the Ocean and Plimpton hotels. Each was given the minimum fines of $100 and costs. The action was brought under the itinerant vendor ordinance of the town approved by the Rhode Island general assembly three years ago.

Walter H. Dove, R. F. D. No. 1, Bradford, R. I., owner and operator of a Buick touring car was daged, when in passing from Pleasant street to High street Sunday morning at about 7.30 o'clock, near the residence of Hannah Crandall, a car came around the curve on his left side, hitting the Buick car on the left side when it was eighteen inches from the edge of the road. Bent front and rear mud-guards and running board and a broken rear left wheel was the extent of the damages to his machine. Dove retained enough presence of mind, although dazed and with a lump on his head, to secure the name of the other operator and his registration, which he noted as Charles W. Miller, New Jersey, registration number K3015 N. J. When Police Officer Michael Curtin visited the place for investigation he found that Miller had driven away and according called up the Connecticut State Police at the Saybrook barracks and told them to hold Miller and if they got him to call the Westerly Chief of Police.

Adelard Vezina of 153 Main street, Westerly, was owner and operator of a Hudson coach, which he was driving towards Pleasant View on the Shore road, Saturday night about 11.30 o'clock. Coming toward Westerly was a Chrysler touring car which ran into the Hudson coach bending the front and rear fenders and the left side running board. The operator of the Chrysler did not stop and Vezina turned around and started after the auto. Reaching a point near the plant of the George C. Moore Co., on Beach street, the left rear wheel of the coach came off and the driver could proceed no further. A report was received that a Chrysler touring car was seen about this time stopped on the Watch Hill road and two men in flannel trousers were reported as looking at the front wheels. Police Officer Curtin investigated the accident.

Twelve new parking sign metal targets have been placed on West Broad street telegraph and telephone poles, by direction of Stonington selectmen. On the north side a thirty minute stop is the limit between the West Broad street railroad bridge to the driveway of the C. W. Campbell company. Two Simple Words

"IT'S TOASTED" represents a volume of technical explanation. It represents extra machinery, extra labor.

It means an added refinement which lifts LUCKY STRIKES out of the ordinary.

Of course, LUCKY STRIKES are made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, perfectly aged and blended.

But as a final and unique refinement, LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes are toasted for 45 minutes which (1) removes all "bite" and harshness and (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals these moist flavors in, keeping LUCKIES ever fresh.

When you light a LUCKY STRIKE, you release a smoking enjoyment far from the ordinary.

BECAUSE IT'S TOASTED

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

DANIELSON

CHAS. DANSEREAU'S ESCAPE FROM PRISON A SURPRISE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 2—"It wouldn't surprise me at all if Charlie showed up here," opined many a man in this tow ntoday, in discussing the escape town today, in discussing the escape of Charles Dansereau, who, in company with Walter Knowles, got away from the institution Saturday morning by just walking away from the prison farms, where they were to have gone to work for the day as trusties.

Charles Dansereau is well known in this town. His early troubles culminated with his arrest here more than 30 years ago as a horse thief. He did many years in a Massachusetts prison, following his conviction and returned here once he was out, after nearly a score of years behind the bars. He is 5 years old now. Since his first imprisonment he has served one term in the state prison at Wethersfield, from October of 1920 to April of 1923, for stealing a calf and fighting out every effort to convict him against the weight of the evidence, the advise of his council and friends and despite his record.

Upon his release in the spring of 1923 Dansereau returned here and re-occupied a 400-acre farm he owned about three miles east of here and just over the southern boundary of the town of Killingly in Plainfield. Less than two years elapsed before the police were on his trail again, this time as a receiver of stolen automobiles. He operated with a gang of youthful automobile thieves who stole machines in Worcester, drove them down here and sold them to Dansereau, for ridiculously small prices. That affair led to his being sentenced on September 14, 1925, to serve from 8 to 12 years in the state prison. At his age, that seemed to dispose of Dansereau for practically all the useful years of his life. His stock and property were disposed of—and Dansereau still has considerable money to his credit in banks—and he was taken over to Weathersfield to start his long, and forgotten.

Today he is on the front pages of the newspapers, and about every police agency in the state is endeavoring to seek him out and return him to prison. The chances appear to be that Charlie will be back there in a few days. He is a strange, largely harmless man, the Dansereau. He has an inordinate inclination to get back to Danielson or its vicinity. Those who know him intimately will tell you that he is as harmless as a child, aside from his uncontrolable inclination to get into trouble through thieving or consorting or doing business with other thieves. He couldn't harm a fly. There is nothing of militant viciousness in his personality. He is not the fighting shooting type. He might steal an automobile in making his getaway, and having done that he would be just as apt to drive here as any other place. And from all of this it may be gathered that Dansereau is not too strong mentally.

At noon today an official at the state prison telephoned to Chief John McFarland to be on the lookout for Dansereau. Up to that time no trace of him nor of his companion, Knowles, who was sentenced in 1916, to do ten to thirty years for assaulting a minor female has been found. The pair got away Saturday morning when as trusties and as members of a group of prisoners they were taken by a guard to the prison farm to be set to work for the day. Dansereau and Knowles slipped away while the guard was busy assigning other prisoners to their tasks. They made off through a meadow. At the time they wore khaki trousers and striped shirts, the prison armband go b

Officials here were surprised at Dansereau's break for liberty. It was recalled that while he was serving the 1920-1923 term at Weathersfield it was a common practice for prison officials to let him go unattended to Hartford with a team wagon and a pair of horses on such an errand as might require the trip. Charles had hundreds of chances to escape, but never took advantage of one of them. He also has had many opportunities to get away the past year, for he is a good farmer and is regularly assigned to farm work and other outdoor activities and never too carefully watched on account of his good record. Again, it would not occasion the slightest surprise here if Dansereau came back to town, providing he is not caught before he makes his way back to this corner of Connecticut. But, again, he might fool everyone, by heading out of the state.

MILITARY HONORS PAID OWEN L. LENEHAN, BY LEGION

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 8—Saturday morning at 8:30 the funeral of Owen L. Lenehan was held from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lenehan, West Side, with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, a large delegation of members of the American legion being included in the funeral congregation. Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., and Rev. Alphonse Hevert, M. S., were officers of the mass. At the grave in the Sacred Heart cemetery at Wauregan the committal service was conducted by Rev. J. C. Mathieu. Members of the legion stood at attention as a volley was fired by a squad under direction of Herbert Hopkins and taps was sounded by Walter Dupris. Arthur Deforest was in charge of the legion men. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director. The bearers were Michael L. White, Owen J. White, Luke E. White, Louis Fisher, Sylvester Kerouack and James Riley.

EDWARD H. DAVISON DIES WHILE AT SYRACUSE, N. Y.

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 8—Monday the body of Edward Henry Davison, 86, a distinguished son of Brooklyn, will be brought from Syracuse, where he died at the home of his daughter the past week, for burial in the South cemetery. For many years he has been a prominent resident of New Britain, and the following sent out from that city tells of his life and activities.

Edward Henry Davison, 86, of No. 40 Lexington street, dean of local manufacturers, and honorary president of the American Hosiery Co., of this city, died at 11:30 o'clock last night in Syracuse, N. Y. Death came to the veteran manufacturer while he was on his way to this city after a visit with his nephews, Edward F. and Herbert Davison in Rochester, N. Y., where he had been since early in July. Heart trouble was given as the cause of death.

Mr. Davison was born in Brooklyn, Conn., and came to this city in 1867. He became associated with the late John B. Talcott, one of the organizers of the American Hosiery Co. Mr. Davison was named a director of the concern in 1881, a position he held until his death. In 1885, he was elected secretary serving until 1905. One year later, he was elected president. He remained as president until 1923 when he was named honorary president. Mr. Davison was the second oldest incorporator of the Savings bank of New Britain. He was elected an incorporator July 21, 1880, and was made a director May 3, 1905. He was elected vice-president of the bank on October 13, 1908 and two years later, December 13, he was named president. From 1910 to January 18, 1922, he was at the head of the bank, being named on the latter date chairman of the board of directors, which office he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Davison joined the First Church of Christ March 6, 1860, and April 26, 1876, he was made a deacon and had served continuously since. For many years he had been superintendent of the Sunday school.

He took an active part in the civic life of New Britain. At one time he was president of the New Britain General hospital. He was one of the original members of the Saturday Night club, formed in 1871, which is still in existence. He was also a charter member of the New Britain club.

Mr. Davison was fond of fishing and hunting. He was rated an excellent shot with a rifle in his younger days, and on many occasions went to his native town, Brooklyn, to hunt and fish. He was the author of two papers "Hunting Without a Gun," and "Fishing Without a Rod." Mr. Davison was one of the founders of the Maple Hill Golf club, now occupied by the Sequin Golf club. He took an active interest in the New Britain Y. M. C. A. He belonged to the Shuttle Meadow club an dunill recently, was an ardent golfer.

Mr. Davison's wife died about a year ago. He leaves two nephews and two grandchildren, Elizabeth and Margaret Cleland, daughters of Professor Cleland of Williams college, Williamstown, Mass.

As a mark of respect to the memory of Mr. Davison, the American Hosiery Co. plant closed down today and will remain closed until after the funeral. The flag on the factory is at half staff.

Saturday at midnight Miss Lumina Meunier, 23, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benonie Meunier, Franklin street. Miss Meunier had been in poor health for several years and confined to her home since July of last year. She leaves her parents and the following brothers and sisters: Victor, Montreal; Alpherie, Danielson; Ralph, Atlantic City; Mrs. Alboma Harding, Montreal; Severin, Joseph Emil, Mrs. Henry Kelley, Lillar and Germain, all of Danielson.

At his home in East Brooklyn early Saturday evening the death of Frank A. Chase, 66, occurred, after a long illness. Mr. Chase, who was born in this town and had lived his life here, had been in failing health for several years. For a long time he had been confined to his home. Mr. Chase was a son of William H and Lucretia Chase. During the course of his life time he had been engaged at various occupations and gave a great deal of his time especially in his later years to laboring and farming. Mr. Chase is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. William M. Franklin and Miss Mildred Chase and a son, Claude Chase all residents here. Mrs. Henry Outley of East Killingly is a sister of Mr. Chase.

At the home in Brooklyn, Saturday afternoon, funeral services for Mrs. Georgianna Havens, wife of Daniel Havens, were conducted by Rev. John R. Pratt of Brooklyn Congregational church. Burial was in the South cemetery in that town. The bearers were Judge Oscar F. Atwood, Leslie Fanning, Oliver A. Downs, William Raymond, Clark G. Lawton and Tully Bowen. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

Joseph Goulet, aged about 15, broke an ankle Saturday afternoon when he tumbled off his bicycle while going down to the Cold Spring for a swim in the river. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam, and remains as a patient there.

Following a surgical operation, John Weaver of the Day street section of the town of Brooklyn, is improving at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic.

Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools has announced that Killingly high school will not open until September 20, two weeks later than the scheduled opening. Graded schools will open throughout the town on September 6. The delay in reconvening the high school is on account of inability to advance the construction work on the additions and changes in the original structure sufficiently by September 6, to allow of opening the school on that date.

One man charged with having been intoxicated furnished all the business there was for the town court to consider at Saturday morning's session.

PUTNAM

EIGHT MEN AND A WOMAN IN COURT AFTER ARRESTS

Eight men and one woman were arrested late Friday night charged with violation of the prohibition law. The arrests were made after eleven o'clock Friday night by 21 officers, including prohibition enforcement officers, state and county officials and Captain Jarvis and the men under his authority.

All of those arrested were presented in the city court Saturday morning before Judge M. H. Geissler. All were charged on three counts, illegal ownership of liquor, keeping it for the purpose of sale, and with actual sale. Henry Welch pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs of $61.62, which he paid.

The others pleaded not guilty and their hearings were continued to Tuesday morning. Some of them were represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron, the others by Attorney Ernest C. Morse. They were Armand J. Benoit, owner of a grocery store on Van de Nort street; O. Harquoit, proprietor of the Cliff hotel, George F. Bassinette of Pomfret street; Misael Bassinette of Pomfret street; Grace Lizor of School street; John Lazert of South Meadow street and John Rucko.

Rucko has been convicted twice before and a conviction this time would mean a severe penalty.

The raids was conducted quickly and evidently without any advance information leaking out.

Stanton Briggs of Willimantic, prohibition officer, W. E. Jackson of Willimantic, county investigator; Deputy Sheriff Ayer, and other federal and state officers with the local police force made up the party. They traveled in automobiles, knew where they were going and took but a little time in serving the warrants and making the arrests.

LATE MRS. GEORGE F. HART KNOWN TO MANY IN PUTNAM

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 8—Mrs. Emma Josephine Bennett Hart, 60, wife of Dr. George F. Hart of Webster, died at her home there Friday after a long illness. Funeral services were held at her home this afternoon at 2:30. Burial was in the East Village cemetery. Mrs. Hart was a niece of the late F. E. Barnette, for a number of years principal of Putnam High school, and of the late Franklin W. Perry, a former mayor of Putnam. She had many friends and relatives in Putnam. Besides her husband she is survived by a sister, Miss Elizabeth Burnett, of Boston.

Caddies of the Willimantic and Putnam Country clubs had a team match at the Putnam Country club the past week the visiting team winning 11 1-2 to 6 1-2. A number of their respective club members watched the game with interest and, saw some good golf played by the boys. A feature of the game was that members of the club acted as caddies and carried the bags and hunted for balls. Following the match, supper was served the boys at the club house. Wyda Girardi of Putnam, made the best scores, a 41 and a 43 for a total of 89 for 18 holes. His score for the first round is one that but few of the members of the club can equal. The Putnam team consisted of Wyda Girardi, Carmine Leo, Henry Girardi, A. Daigle, Ovid Geaurteau and Ernest Girardi. For Willimantic the team was made up of J. Stygar, S. Mason, M. Stydar, A. Kamsik, S. Lesniak and J. Kalita.

Maloney, is professor of Dermatology in the medical department of the university.

Mrs. Gertrude R. Wakefield, mother of Mrs. Nathan B. Burton, of Grove street died at the Jane Brown Memorial hospital in Providence where she has been a patient for about two weeks. Since the death of her husband about two years ago she has made her home with her daughter in this city. Mrs. Wakefield has lived the most of her life at Providence. Funeral services were held at funeral parlors in Providence and burial was in the Pocasset cemetery, Providence.

The last of the six houses that were on the site or the new S-A theatre has been moved from Lee street to Alpha street, half the length of the city. The house had been purchased by Franklin Weeks of Franklin street and was moved to its new location on Alpha street by Charles Davis. It had been split in half to make the transportation of it easier. In moving the first half some difficulty was experienced with a railroad cable on Providence street but the second half, accomplished on rollers behind a large truck, required just thirty-five minutes to transport. The ground for the new theatre is now all cleared ready to begin excavation for the foundations.

Dr. and Mrs. F. T. Baldwin of this city and Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Miss Marcia Zabriskie has as her guest, Miss Marion Bentley, of Westerly.

LEDYARD

The Missionary society held its August meeting at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon with an attendance of 30, several guests being present. The programme was in charge of Mrs. Flora Gray, the secretary. The opening exercises consisted of singing, scripture reading and prayer by Mr. Goodenough. The minutes of the last meeting and roll-call followed. Selections from American Board Bulletin, Japan, Africa and India were read by Miss Nellie Geer, Mrs. Carl Holdridge, Miss Virginia Goodenough, Mrs. Joseph Clark, Mrs. E. B. Geer, Mrs. Fannie Hewett, Mrs. Calvin Main, Mrs. Everett Gallup and Mrs. William I. Allyn. Rev. Mr. Goodenough gave a talk on the present situation in Mexico. The meeting closed with the hymn, Blest Be the Tie That Binds. The refreshment committee, Mrs. I. G. Geer, Mrs. E. B. Geer, Mrs. S. E. Holdridge, served salad, sandwiches, cake and iced tea.

THE TWO-THIRDS RULE

As each year comes around advocates are found for the abolishment of the two-thirds rule which is peculiarly the property of the democratic national convention, but prevails in no other nominating convention, state or national.

This year the opening gun was fired by National Committeeman Clyde Herring of Iowa, who was endorsed by the national committeemen, but the latter has languished for a while. Mr. Herring has been given rex unpopularum. Those who win the presidency, as Coolidge in 1924, and now in the adjacency of the repeal of the Wadsworth law, which provides that a candidate can be nominated only by securing the votes of two-thirds of the convention.

The coming world operates to prevent long-continued deadlocks like that of the Madison Square convention. The present system lends itself to group control; the change might certainly lead to party peace and unity. Then again, majority rule is a cardinal principle of the democratic party and should be applied to party conventions. There is much sense in this also in Mr. Davis' contention that to limit rule under which state conventions act elected by the primaries vote as units, but it is doubtful that the rule will be changed in the near future. The hitch comes in the factionalism of the democratic party.

Mr. Davis states that he feels that personal applications for favors neglected will be permitted to influence the settlement that will promote the welfare of the party. Because it is well to speak hopefully of it all can share his optimism, care is retained because of the sectional antagonism between the northern and eastern, and the southern and western factions of the party, with democrats of the south and west having no love for party candidates from the northern and east, and vice versa. The two-thirds rule gives one faction no power over the selection of candidates. For that reason it is retained by the party leaders greatly resented by those who in any given case believe they have something to gain by its abolishment.

It is doubtful, if the influence of party leaders will be strong enough to overcome the basic factional enmity that gives this rule its life. The fight against the two-thirds rule will not be one against a mere technicality. It will be a struggle against sectional and religious differences and prejudices whose effects upon party ties are very strong indeed.

SENATORIAL PROSPECTS

One of the most interesting phases of the elections next November will be the fate of republican control, especially in the senate. There are 36 seats on which the elections to the senate are being contested and there are several in which the outlook is not far from certain that a republican will be returned. The control in the senate is based on a republican majority there of only 14 per cent. In the house the majority in favor of that party is but 13 per cent. of the total. If the republicans lose one-eighth of the 26 contests they would forfeit party control altogether. As things have been going, with some senators rated "republican" who are not really republican at all on the basis of their thought and action, probably a smaller loss than eight would imperil the party supremacy more seriously indeed.

With that view of the situation presenting itself to the voters in our neighboring state of Massachusetts, it is manifestly a cause for serious reflection to those voters who are far from enthusiastic followers of Senator Butler. If Massachusetts cannot back up a Massachusetts president to the extent of returning Mr. Butler to the senate, it will hardly be worth counting as a republican state—more especially as the opponent of Mr. Butler will almost certainly be Mr. Walsh, to whose propensities that state has intimate acquaintance from long experience. Mr. Butler is admittedly not a magnetic candidate, and Mr. Walsh always has been. But it is not necessarily a question of magnetism. The situation is too serious to permit the choice to be swung by a candidate's glib eloquence, or for his general good looks. It is a time for something pretty substantial in the way of qualifications, and on that score Mr. Butler hopelessly outdistances Mr. Walsh.

GOVERNMENT MONEY

July, the first month of the new fiscal year for the federal government, had treasury receipts exceeding those of the same month in 1925 by approximately $41,000,000. While there was a falling off in miscellaneous collections, both income tax and custom receipts were larger. The government's tax machine is more than meeting current needs and there are increasing indications that the end of the present fiscal year will show the way for further tax reduction, unless it is decided to continue to reduce the national debt more rapidly than present legislation contemplates.

The secure condition of the treasury is indicated not only by the size of the receipts, but by the volume of ordinary expenditures. In the July just past, these were about $38,500,000 less than in the same month a year ago. Thus federal finances have been benefitting by reduced outgo as well as by increased income.

The same rule may not apply to future months, since ordinary appropriations authorized by congress for the new year exceed those of the last by more than $273,000,000, not including additional provisions for the postal service. Nevertheless it is a reasonable expectation that the productivity of the new revenue act will continue high and at least offset whatever larger outlays there may be. It also is to be remembered that some departments may not utilize the whole of the appropriations made available for them. Any money not thus spent would remain in the treasury.

Recent dispatches from Washington said that the preliminary estimates submitted to the bureau of the budget for the fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1927, exceeded the limit desired by the president. This has been fixed at $3,200,000,000, exclusive of the postal service and tax refund. There is nothing unusual in the situation. Almost always there is a paring process on original estimates. Doubtless it can be undertaken again without impairing any useful and necessary function of the government. As recently as a year ago there was a belief in well-informed quarters that $3,000,000,000 could be made the limit of expenditures without loss in efficiency. That does not accord with statements by some leaders in congress, but it is deserving of consideration.

ITALY'S IRON CREED

Fascism is a creed that calls for iron severity. Its friends in Italy show no signs of easing less relentlessly and the arrogance of Benito Mussolini, the dictator-premier, is growing rather than decreasing. Such omniscience as his acts indicates he thinks he possesses is startling. It is hard to believe that a man of his mould was so during. The latest pronouncement, according to a Rome dispatch, is the following: 'The Fascist cabinet has given its approval to a decree calling for the gradual elimination of all non-Fascist public manifestations of a charitable, intellectual or sports character. Under the decree, Benito Mussolini, premier, expects to turn the entire mental, spiritual and physical life of the Italian people into Fascist channels.'

If the merits of Fascism are so all-comprehensive, why such a course? Adverse criticism does not hurt a great truth, such as Mussolini professes to have discovered, but rather the strength of the teaching is made more apparent. Of course the new policy had its origin with the dictator who holds six cabinet portfolios. The other members are 'me too' individuals. They have to be or resign.

So individuality is stifled and Italians are to be cast in one mould as far as thought is concerned. There has been nothing like it in the twentieth century. Not even the Hohenzollern, Hapsburg and Romanoff dynasties dared to go so far. They are memories as far as ruling authority is concerned. Perhaps Italy for the time being needs a Mussolini and that nothing but a dictatorship will satisfy. If so it has what it wants. It might be of advantage for Mussolini to ponder the record further.

REVIVING BRYANISM

Charles W. Bryan has been resurrected by the democrats of Nebraska. At the end of the last national presidential campaign he disappeared from the national consciousness. Even the members of his own party were satisfied in vast measure to forget him. He had burdened the national ticket just as Bryanism had burdened the party for many years.

He is now in the field again and is making an effort to revive the old issues which gave Bryanism some standing as a political creed. There is a distinct note of the old Bryanism in the absurd utterances of the remaining apostle of the cult. He is the only democratic candidate for governor of Nebraska. The republicans of the state have given him scant attention; but to be true to the old faith Bryan is attempting to arouse the state by all sorts of preposterous charges of sins that are to be committed in the future by the republican leaders and the "special interests."

EDITORIAL NOTES

An Ohio city is broke, the difference being that it admits the fact.

A specialist says that training takes the place of heredity, but the trouble is that a lot of people seem to have little of either.

New Jersey is making an effort to round out her fame by becoming as prominent in the police news as she has been in politics.

The man on the corner says: Although a heatless summer for 1926 was predicted Old Sol's rays seem to be functioning about as usual.

France can afford to tax tourists the limit, at least American tourists. No Yankee will admit: "I didn't see Paris because I couldn't pay the tax."

Many New York men think that Gov. Al Smith will be the next president. The New York citizen is always a wonderful booster for his home town.

"Prohibition is a mere catchword," says Prince Axel of Denmark after visiting the United States. At least it caught several hundred men who are now wearing prison stripes.

There is almost as much pathos in the spectacle of Signor Mussolini with bowed head at the grave of the meek and lowly St. Francis as in that of Mark Twain weeping at the grave of Adam.

Among the old-fashioned men who never take vacations is the one whose affairs make it necessary for him to go to the Pacific coast by way of the Canadian Rockies, the captain of industry who finds it imperative to study European conditions, and the man who thinks that a summer hotel with an eighteen-hole links is the best place in which to hold business conferences in the hot weather.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Never use a damp cloth on gold furniture or picture frames.

If you want scrim or madras curtains to hang smoothly, always cut them on the thread.

An easy way to dry lettuce is to pat it between crumpled paper toweling. This absorbs the water but does not bruise the leaves.

Gingham in large checks is used to upholster chairs for a bedroom in a country house.

Flavoring extracts used in candies give much better results if added after the cooking is completed.

Ammonia in water will cut turpentine that may stick to the side of the can in which it is kept.

To facilitate marketing order your staples by the week, or longer if you have storage facilities and make a list of all perishable fruits and vegetables day by day.

When buying supplies for a camping trip, get cookies and crackers that come in tin containers as they remain crisp and fresh much longer this way.

If new enamel saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water which is allowed to come to a boil, and then cool, they will be found to last much longer before either cracking or burning.

A table cover and six napkins of deep cream colored linen with colorful futuristic motifs handblocked in the corners is a most acceptable gift to the woman fitting up a summer cottage.

Cover your receipt book with a piece of white cloth. This will keep the cover from becoming sticky if touched by fingers soiled with cooking. The oilcloth can be washed when it is stained.

For making coffee by the immersion method, a bag made of coarse linen admits the water more readily and allows it to circulate freely.

Never throw water on blazing fat oil. Flour or earth will smother the flames or a rug thrown over the fire will extinguish or subdue it long enough to get help.

TO KEEP VEGETABLES CLEAN

Make bags of cheese cloth or thin muslin about 18 inches square, or any desired size, and keep them for vegetables that you put in the ice box. When fresh fruit or vegetables are placed in such a bag, soaked well with cold water, they keep delightfully crisp and fresh. This is especially true of lettuce and parsley. This arrangement has the additional merit of keeping the small things from sliding down between the ice, and enables one to quickly take everything from the ice box without keeping the dor open every long.

KITCHEN HELP

A roll of absortent paper toweling in the kitchen will take the place of the unsightly hand towel and will save staining linen towels with fruit juices, etc. It can be used also for draining foods cooked in deeb fat, vegetables, and to remove grease from pots and pans before putting in the dish water.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Immediately apply tincture of iodine to bites from cats or small animals. This, followed by a sterile dressing, will be found very good and safe treatment.

Oily hair needs more frequent shampooing than dry hair, as the oil collects and holds dust and dirt particles from the air. Daily brushing and combing will of course remove much of this accumulation, but it takes soap and warm water to make this type of hair look and feel really clean.

Protruding teeth should be straightened in childhood. When the jaw is too crowded one of the teeth may be removed and the others will gradually adjust themselves to fill the space. The general character of the teeth is determined in prenatal life and early childhood. After that time all one can do is to keep the teeth clean and visit the dentist at regular intervals.

While it is foolish for a girl or woman to expect to have a hipless bustless figure like a boy's, she need not let herself become so padded with excess fat that she loses grace of line. The line down the side of the body from armpit to ankle should be kept trim and shapely by stretching and other forms of exercise.

AVOID CRACKERS BETWEEN MEALS

If mothers would eliminate crackers and bought cookies from their household purchases they would probably find out why it is that the small son or daughter has had not appetite for his or her meals.

THE HOME FIRE DRILL

Every member of the house-hold should know how to send in a fire alarm or what number to call on the telephone in case or fire. It takes but a little while to instill into a child's mind what he must do in an emergency and it might save lives and a home at some future time.

SQUEAKY SHOES

If your shoes have developed an annoying squeak, providing they are black they can be cured in the following manner: Place the shoes in a basin and pour in enough linseed oil to cover the soles. Let stand until the following morning and then see if the squeak has not vanished.

MAKING JELLY

Always select under-ripe fruit for making jelly. Fruits that are over-ripe do not contain pectin, a substance that is necessary for good jelly.

CONSERVING TOOTH BRUSHES

Soak your tooth brush in cold water overnight before using, and you will find that the bristles do not begin to come out after a short time.

DRY BEFORE FRY

Fish should be absolutely dry before frying. If necessary, pat it dry with a clean cloth before dusting with flour or putting it into the pan.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Wide and narrow belts of gold or silver kid are used effectively on chiffon tailored frocks.

A very thin and supple type of broadcloth is used to make attractive straightline coats.

An exquisite wrap for summer evenings is made of double thickness of gray chiffon embroidered in silver and banded with dull silver ribbon.

Among the colors conspicuously featured in midsummer fashions are clear tones of yellow and green, just the shades one sees in a jonquil.

Smart sports frocks consist of skirts of Roman striped silk laid in very fine pleats and a jumper blouse of jersey which matches the predominating color in the silk.

A novel evening scarf is of shirred gold metal net held at the throat by a large flower of beige and gilded petals. The ends are bordered by two widths of gold metal ribbon.

Parasols, frequently seen at shore resorts, are tiny, and decorated with modernistic applied flowers, birds, or many geometric patterns, in fabrics which have little or no relation to the parasol.

Charming little handkerchiefs of white crepe de chine have scenes painted in each corner. These are quaint reproductions of The Woman in the Swing and others of similar character.

Few vaccination marks are making their day-time appearance at present. Despite the hot spell registered in various sections of the country, the long sleeve is preeminent except for evening wear.

There is a noticeable increase in the number of smart women wearing earrings. The most interesting ones now being shown are ball earrings of colored crystal swung from tiny silver or platinum chains.

Luxury in its most perfect form is expressed in sheets and pillow covers made or crinkly Corean silk in pastel shades. This is combined with cream colored binche or point de Paris lace and the effect is exquisite.

TWO SHADES OF BLUE

At the moment one of the smartest color combinations is dark and light blue. It is particularly effective when exploited in the striped sweaters which are so smart. With these sweaters a square scarf of silk in light blue with darker blue is usually worn.

JUMPERS ARE POPULAR

And still the jumper reigns! Not only for sport wear, town wear and the like but it is increasingly important for evening wear. Of course, for sports, the belted jumper is the only one which is seen to any extent now and this belt is invariably of leather or a novelty material in a contrasting shade. It is rarely of self material.

FALL FASHION NOTE

Crepe satin with lustrous surface and a new shawl collar feature advance fall styles for woman's dresses, and harmonizing colors will be au fait in her hat, scarf, bag and umbrella. The only "news" in father's fall outlook is that the shirt trade proposes to divide the year into four seasons instead of two.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Socks ironed from the toe straight up the front, then folded toward the heel, will make a neat pile and keep neater in the drawer.

Make your linens beautifully white by slicing an unpeeled lemon in the water in which they boil.

Wash ribbons thoroughly in good suds, then rinse them in clear water, then in clear vinegar. Allow them to dry partially, roll them up in a towel for an hour, then press dry.

Before applying any cleaning fluid to spots on garments, brush thoroughly to remove all dust. Otherwise there will be a ring around the spot cleaned. Apply cleaning fluid on the wrong side of the fabric and work lightly. Do not rub.

TO WASH CORDUROY

The corduroy bathrobe probably needs a bath and you are afraid to take a chance on washing it. If carefully washed it will be like new. Wash in warm water and a reliable soap flake solution, just squeezing between the hands, not rubbing. Two solutions will probably be needed. Rinse in water of the same temperature and hang on a coat hanger to dry. Do not iron, but when nearly dry, brush briskly against the nap with a stiff brush. When thoroughly dry, brush again.

HERE'S A NOVELTY

A pleasant novelty for your tea table is Russian tea. In place of lemon or cream use preserved fruits—strawberry, raspberry, cherry or pineapple jam, a half of full teaspoon. It is delicious and is gaining wide favor since the afternoon tea custom has begun to win its great popularity among the American people.

ELBOW BRACELETS

The graduated bangles which have been worn around the neck now have been adapted for the arms and are worn just above and below the elbow. They are or gold drawn wire and are broad and flat in shape. Five are usually worn on the arm, but only one arm is so decorated.

TRY THIS ONE

Boil sweet potatoes in their skins until tender. Peel and slice lengthwise. Arrange in a buttered casserole or baking dish in layers, sprinkling each piece with brown sugar and dots of butter. Bake on the oven until they begin to candy, adding a tablespoon or two of water from time to time. Then cover the top with a layer of marshmallows, return to the oven and cook until the marshmallows are delicately bdowned. If available, pecan or walnut meats scattered through the dish make it extra good.

CLEANING MOP

An oil mop may be very satisfactorily cleaned by washing and a little washing powder have been added.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Miss Nora Stanton Blatch, granddaughter of the famous suffrage leader Elizabeth Cady Stanton, was the first woman ever elected to membership in the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Miss Ellen L. Buckley, an assistant United States attorney, has won high praise from a federal court judge in Boston for her display of skill in winning her first contested legal action for the government.

Two American women, Mrs. Lucy Dodd Ramberg of Portland, Ore., and Miss Marguerite Walker Jordan of Wytheville, Va., have established a school for American girls in a beautiful villa at Florence, Italy.

Four young women who are studying the care and cure of sick dogs at an animal hospital in England intend, when they have completed their training to take up work in various parts of the country as "district nurses" for dogs.

FOR GILT FRAMES

Clean gilt frames by covering with a cream of whiting and alcohol after wiping and brushing away all possible dust.

If you will enamel the inside of your bureau drawers with white enamel you will find this is an incentive to keep them neat and tidy.

RECIPES

Baked Macaroni with Chipped Beef: Two cups of cooked macaroni, 1-4 pound of chipped beef, 2 cups of white sauce and a cup of buttered bread crumbs. Arrange in alternate layers in baking dish, cover with white sauce and bread crumbs and bake.

Macaroni and Mushrooms: Cover the bottom of baking dish with a tablespoon of melted butter, fill with alternate layers of cooked macaroni and fresh washed mushrooms cut into slices, season well. Pour over 1 pint of cream. Cover and bake in moderate oven for 1-2 hour, then remove cover and brown quickly.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Glad Chief Stanton Continues

Mr. Editor: I am glad to learn that Chief Howard L. Stanton has reconsidered his intention to retire and will continue in the service.

It has been my privilege to serve with him in committee work in the National Fire Protection association, and you must know that the respect and esteem in which Chief Stanton is held is not confined to his home town or native land, but has extended to foreign fields.

C. L. SCHOFIELD,
Manager Canadian Fire Underwriters Association.

Endorses Mr. Hoagland's Letter

Mr. Editor: I have read with interest Mr. Ira G. Hoagland's letter with reference to Chief Stanton. I wish to state that I have known Chief Stanton for many years and have enjoyed meeting him at the N. F. P. A. annual conventions. I endorse all that Mr. Hoagland has said with reference to his character and ability and would state that he is held in deep regard by his fellow members of the N. F. P. A., not alone for his ability as a fire fighter but also for his sterling qualities as a man.

Very truly yours.
GORHAM DANA,
Manager, The Underwriters Bureau of New England.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The results of the Ohio primary campaign which closes today will be awaited with keen interest by women throughout the United States, for the reason that the candidacy of Miss Florence E. Allen for the democratic nomination for senator represents the first serious attempt to elect a woman to the upper house of congress. While opinion differs as to the chances for Miss Allen's success in her senatorial aspirations it is generally conceded that no more capable representative of her sex could be chosen for the high honors. As the first woman to be elected to any state supreme court she is already a nationally known figure. A native of Utah and a graduate of Salt Lake college, she first achieved prominence as a musical critic. Then she turned her attention to law, took her degree in 1913 and began the practice of her new profession in Cleveland, where within a few years her ability was recognized in her election to the bench.

Today's Anniversaries

1780—Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner," born in Frederick county, Md. Died in Baltimore, Jan. 11, 1843.

1817—Gen. Charles A. May, a noted cavalry commander in the Mexican war, born in Washington, D. C. Died in New York city, Dec. 24, 1864.

1839—Pera, the Christian suburb of Constantinople, was almost destroyed by fire.

1873—Initial issue of The Tribune, Tacoma's first newspaper.

1901—Prince Henry of Orleans, eminent explorer, died at Saigon.

1903—The coronation of Pope Pius X. took place at St. Peter's, in Rome.

1916—Italians captured the city of Goritz, the supposed key to Trieste.

1917—Rt. Rev. Nichols M. Matz, second Catholic bishop of Denver, died. Born in Alsace-Lorraine, April 6, 1850.

1925—Many injured in armed clash between Monarchists and republicans in Berlin.

Stories That Recall Others

Placing Him

The young man in the Pullman car, seeing that a decidedly pretty girl was looking at him very intently, thought he had made an impression, and in a few minutes changed his seat to the vacant one opposite her. "Have we not met before?" he ventured to ask. "Well, I'm not quite sure," she replied, "but I think you are the man I saw hanging around the night our dog was stolen"

Natural Remark

Little Betty, age two, was just beginning to talk more or less fluently and had acquired the habit of picking up expressions from other members of the family and using them, though she had no idea of their meaning. She had somewhere learned the exclamation, "For heaven's sake," and though her elders tried to prevent her she persisted in its use.

One evening she accompanied the hired man to milk and was much interested, drawing very near the cow and asking questions. Suddenly Bossy, sleepily chewing her cud and apparently without malice aforethought, gave a vicious swish of her tail, narrowly missing Betty and hitting the hired man full in the face. He was irritated to say the least, and what he said to the cow came straight from the heart. It may have shocked the cow, but Betty looked on with the greatest composure till he ended, then she spoke.

"Well, for heaven's sake," she said.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

Within eight miles of Norwich lies one of the most beautiful bodies of water in the state if not in all New England. Around its shores have sprung up many cottages owned by Norwich people and people from many states in the union, as well as over a dozen large camps where boys and girls from the Metropolitan district and the New London Boy Scouts enjoy out of door life.

Besides these camps and cottages are several delightful groves open to the public. One of the best known is the former Latimer's grove now Whittle's grove, at the easterly end of the lake, now owned by Arthur Brown of Gardner lake, former agent of the Falls company of Norwich.

The groves are fitted for camping parties and for outings of all kinds where swimming, boating and fishing may be enjoyed.

The trip for Norwich people is well known as it is over the newly constructed Norwich-Middletown road. The entrance to the lake however has been changed, owing to congestion and to simplify the trip the driver should make the turn into the lake at the gas station below the turnoff road to Salem, (a sign here reads entrance). Following this road around and into the grove the exit through the property of Mr. Brown and then to the left back to the main highway.

Roads to the various camps are well posted and visitors are welcomed at a number of them. The lake makes an ideal spot for an outing as the round trip requires less than an hour of driving for Norwich people.

IN DAY'S NEWS

GALICIA, POLAND'S EASTERNMOST ACHE

Poland has declared a state of siege in Eastern Galicia as a result of disturbances in Lwow (Lemberg), Tarnow and other cities of the region. Taking advantage of the Polish upheaval centering in Warsaw, Ukrainians in Galicia called mass meetings to demand the convocation of a national assembly.

"Galicia is Poland's easternmost ache," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C. "But a twinge in Galicia is more serious than the growing pains that the newly recreated republic experiences on other borders, Silesia, the Danzig corridor, Russia, Lithuania and at Teschen, Czechoslovakia.

"Eighteen years from now there must be a decision on a major operation for eastern Galicia. When the league of nations deeded to Poland this block or land on the north flanks of the Carpathian mountains it tied a string to the contract. Galicia was put in the mandate class. The treaty named 1946 the year for a plebiscite to decide Galicia's fate. Western Galicia centering about Kracow is more strongly Polish so it was attached to the republic without reservation.

"Where and what is Eastern Galicia? First of all it was the biggest bite in Austria's 500 miles on the rim of the Poland pie neatly divided and entirely consumed by Russia, Germany and Austria in 1795. Today Eastern Galicia is a rough rectangle of approximately 20,000 square miles. If it were desirable to incorporate Eastern Galicia in the United States we could insert it in place of Vermont and New Hampshire. A better fit could be made, area of area, landscape for landscape, by planting it in the western half of Ohio.

"Lwow is the capital of Galicia. It lies 200 miles southeast of Warsaw and like Warsaw it is strongly Polish in its population. What of Lwow is not Polish is mostly Jewish. The Ukrainians or, more properly the Ruthenians, comprise a majority of Galicia's population but do not control the cities. They are farmers

"Most newspaper accounts and many books by travelers into Galicia use the names Ukrainian and Ruthenian interchangeably. This is correct and yet incorrect. A Ruthenian is a Ukrainian. Ukraine is that vast steppe of southern Russia stretching in endless rolling and treeless prairie from the Caspian and the Black Sea west-to Poland. On these grasslands live the Ukrainians quite different from the melancholy and more stolid north or White Russians. They number about 40,000,000. Galicia is the western outpost of the Ukraine

"Nothing is more eloquent of the history of Galicia than the fact that its oldest shrines and buildings are underground. Everything above ground is relatively new because invader has stepped on the heels of invader. What they did not burn they shattered with cannon. Some say that Nature set aside Galicia for crops but history shows that its chief utility has been as a battlefield.

"In the galleries of the salt mines at Wieliczka safe from shot and shell are many old shrines of Galicia. These mines have been operated since the 11th or 12th century. There are now seven levels of galleries. The mines are a veritable city which need be deserted only for sleeping quarters. There is a magnificent crystal salt ball room 300 feet long and 200 feet high where the village celebrates festivals. It is lighted by chandeliers of huge glittering salt crystals. St. Stanislaus and St. Clement stand like Lot's wife—solid salt. The subterranean cathedral of St. Anthony dates back to the 17th century. There are lakes in which ferries ply back and forth and a complete restaurant. A pony-drawn railway system serves the mines themselves. All this in the safest place in Galicia—below ground.

"Possession of Galicia is complicated by the rise of a new resource in the world. The curious black substance which the Ukrainian peasants used for years to lubricate the groaning axles of their farm carts, the world has now raised to high estate. Oil seepage pointed the way to petroleum discoveries in Galicia. Although the field has not produced any remarkable gushers, many companies now employ experienced Polish workmen to produce the five million barrels plus per year. They place Poland eighth among the petroleum producing countries of the world."

SIXTEEN INCH WATER MAIN BREAKS AT NORWICH TOWN

Because of a defective joint connection in the sixteen-inch water main on Upper Washington street, a quantity of dirt, rocks, etc., was sent up in the air early Saturday morning, accompanioned by a loud noise similar to an explosion. This was followed by a volume of water gushing for several hours from the excavation. The break happened at Harlands corner at the junction of Town street and Washington street. A near-by resident upon discovering the situation notified Supt. William H. Callahan by telephone, about 5:15 o'clock. Ten minutes later Superintendent Callahan was investigating the trouble. Precautions were taken at Fairview and Stony Brook reservoirs, such as closing the gates, etc., and a force of men under direction of Foreman Michael O'Neil, set to work to locate the trouble.

The men worked diligently all through the day and night, until 7:30 Sunday morning, before things had been righted so that work could be suspended for a time.

Residents in the central part of Norwich Town were without the city water all during this time. The sections affected included Bliss Place and vicinity, Washington street, Town street and some locations farther up town. Backus hospital was seriously handicapped, as well as private homes. It was noon time before the city water ceased flushing the pipes, and from then until the water was turned on again, early Sunday morning, men were obliged to pump the waste water out of the hole to assist the diggers in removing the dirt. The trouble was not definitely located until early evening; this proved to be a separation in the connection of two lengths of pipe where the lead had crumpled away.

The theory was advanced that this was caused by heavy trucks crossing the pipe line at this location, going over the state highway. For many months heavy trucks have been carrying the 24-inch pipes for the new Deep River reservoir, and these with other heavy traffic have increased the pressure at this point. As a result of much water flooding the gutters on Town street, Foreman Ernest Gadbois of the State Highway department, brought a few of his men into action to clean out the dirt, after the force of the water had subsided.

In assisting Superintendent Callahan, Chief Howard L. Stanton, with several men from the Norwich Fire Department, and the aid of the new Jumper No. 3, proved valuable, pumping water from the two large manholes which are about 300 feet apart, on Town street, into which a quantity of water had flowed before being checked.

For the past few weeks there has been many comments on the unpleasant odor, taste and color of the water in this particular section, and it is hoped conditions have improved, since the pipes have received such a strenuous flushing.

After the sections of pipe were newly corked with fresh lead and the water turned on, work was stopped until this (Monday) morning, when the ditch will be filled in and work completed.

GIVEN PARTY FOR HIS THIRD BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Wilfred St. Germaine of Montville entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of the third birthday of her son, Wilfred, Jr., twenty little friends of the boy being present. The house was tastefully decorated in yellow and white, the same color scheme being carried out for the tables, which were set on the porch. At each plate were dainty favors of baskets of candy and paper hats. Refreshments of ice cream, cookies and punch were served and a birthday cake, on which were three lighted candles, was cut and served by the little host.

During the afternoon games were enjoyed. The Charleston contest and pinning of the tail on the donkey, were won by Gloria Tetreault, while the consolation in the donkey game was awarded to Alma St. Germaine. Willis Thibeault won the potato race.

The little guests were Lucille and Estelle Branelle, Edward Montgomery, Rita LaMoray, Lorraine, Robert and Eileen LaBounty, Willis and Irene Thibeault, Gloria and Charles Tetreault, Lorraine and Alex Disco, Mary and Margaret Pero, John Joubert, Myles Standish, Jr., Annie O'Dana, Joseph Y. Miller and Alma St. Germaine.

FISH AND GAME ASS'N. HOLDS ANNUAL OUTING

The fourth annual outing of the Norwich Fish and Game association was held Sunday at Whittle's grove, Gardner lake, and proved a banner day for the association members. A brisk wind, however, made it impossible to hold the fly casting events. The fishermen left town early in the morning to match their wits with the wily small mouth bass, hoping to land the big fellow that would bring in the prize cup. Fishing was fine throughout the morning and many good catches were exhibited as the fishermen felt the call of the dinner gour.

The banner fish of the day was a three and one half pounder landed by George J. Roesler, the men in his boat landing three fish that averaged 2 1-4 pounds. Several other boats brought in bass to tip the scales at better than two pounds but the Roesler catch held the lead throughout the day and the prize went to the happy man.

Throughout the morning and during the dinner hours a delightful concert program was rendered by Swahn's band, under the direction of John M. Swahn. The program included a number of the latest hits and the execution of the numbers won merited applause from the large audience. The program follows:

March, Kilties march ... S. E. Morris
Selection, Great Temptations .. Padilla
Medley, Popular Airs ..... Hall
March, Waterville ..... Hall
Overture, Lusptpiel ..... Bela
Fox Trots
a. That's Why ..... Rauck
b. After I Say I'm Sorry ... Feist
c. Horses ..... Feist
March, Up the Street March ... Morse

Shortly after noon the usual chowder dinner, watermelon, soda, peaches and other things to delight the hungry fishermen, were served at tables set beneath the shady trees in the grove.

During the afternoon the usual competitive events were run off, the men working under great handicap because of the wind, averages falling below those of last year in every event.

The bait casting for distance Frank Faulkner, with consistant casting for an average of 179 feet, took first prize, his casts being 170 ft., 180 ft., 180 ft. Leo LePage took second with an average of 157.8, his casts being 145 ft. 165 ft, 155 ft and 180 ft. Dr. Harrison Gray was third with an average of 154.3, casting 135 ft, 161 ft, 155 ft, and 170 ft, while Henry Bamber was fourth with casts of 145 ft, 154 ft, 120 ft, 142 ft, 141 ft, average, 140.8 feet.

The casts this year average better than last year and the distance throws were much further but probably will not be held as official for an outing of the association as the blocks and gear for the measuring of casts had been completely wrecked during the year in storage and lines had to be pieced at the last moment reducing the actual distance between floats by several inches, which in the first spot of 50 feet was reduced several feet.

In bait casting for accuracy Leo LePage handled his rod nicely and in spite of the sharp cross wind kept his casts to an average of 23 inches, getting one bullseye, the only one made in the contest. His throws in inches from the target at 50 feet were as follows: 30, 0, 6, 30, 48, total 114, ave., 23 inches. Frank Faulkner was second his casts being 30, 18, 57, 12, 60, total 177, ave., 35 2-5ths inches. Henry Bamber was third, casting 84,-18, 24, 96 and 60, total 282, average 56 2-5 inches. L. M. Young was fourth getting 60, 120, 120, 60 and 60, total 420, ave., 84 inches.

The fly casting contests for distance and accuracy were called off because of the brisk wind sweeping directly across the course. Fine exhibitions of fly casting were given by W. H. Hawes of Canterbury, former world's champion fly-caster, who got his line out 100 feet and more despite the wind; by his son Merritt Hawes, who is an excellent fly caster, and by George W. Dolbeare of Norwich, champion of the local association.

In the beginner's contests bait for distance was won by William Faulkner with throws in feet as follows: 111, 111, 75, 158, 105, average 132 feet.

In the casting for accuracy Donald Royce of Norwich took first prize with throws in feet as follows, 3, 8, 10, 8, 7. Total 36, average 5 1-2 feet. William Faulkner was second with 5, 4, 5, 10, 7, total 31 feet, average 6 1-3th feet.

The prize for best average in all events was tied for by Faulkner and LePage but on the toss of a coin LePage won the award of President Arthur L. Strov, a bait box. Prizes in other events were fishing lines and minnows.

The events were supervised by George W. Dolbeare and John B. Oat, with Frank L. Royce as official scorer and George Kinder, John Volkman and Winifred Smith as judges.

The day proved ideal and the members are now looking forward to the event in 1927.

TAFTVILLE PIONEER BOYS HOLD ANNUAL OUTING AT ROCKY POINT

Over 300 former and present residents of Taftville and their families met Sunday afternoon at Rocky Point, R. I., for the 14th annual reunion and shore dinner of the Pioneer Boys association of Taftville. Hundreds of invitations had been sent out by William C. Kendall and William Dupre, assistant secretaries of the association.

All roads led to Rocky Point Sunday and early in the morning men and women, as well as children, wearing the white and gold badge, were noticeable on the grounds, gathered in groups, or walking singly with smiles on their faces. The time was spent in renewing old friendships and particularly in recalling the Taftville of 25 and 30 years ago when many of the "boys" left the village to make their way in different parts of the country.

After the pioneers had met and shaken hands with their friends of many years they, with their families, gathered in the dining hall at the beach to appease the inner man. By the remarks heard after the dinner there was no doubt that every man, woman and child did not fall in that attempt. The dinner was served on the second floor of the spacious dining hall and if any one left the building with an empty stomach it was their own fault, for the service and food were faultless. The menu:

Clam Chowder

Tomatoes	Onions	Cucumbers
Olives		Radishes
Clams, Hot Butter		Clam Fritters
Baked Fish		Sausages
Lobster		Watermelon

At the close of the delicious shore dinner the gathering repaired to the dance hall at the resort, where the annual meeting of the association was held. The meeting was opened by the president, William R. Thomas, of Providence, who, with deep regret, informed the gathering of the death of one of the original founders, William R. Booth, secretary and treasurer, of Providence. Reports were given of bills received and paid and then the election of officers took place.

George W. Weller was appointed secretary and treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William R. Booth who had creditably filled that position for the past seven years, and served as the first president of the association 14 years ago, also holding at the time of his death the title of honorary president. The other officers were unanimously elected as follows: President, William R. Thomas of Providence; vice president, William Brierly of New Bedford; assistant secretaries, William Dupre of New Bedford and William Kendall of Norwich.

The members who passed away during the year were: William McConnell of Norwich, Albert Lafleur of Taftville, William R. Booth, of Providence, and William Nolan of Taftville. As Mr. Booth was an officer of the association flowers were sent to his funeral, it was announced, and in homage to the other three members, the members stood in silence for one minute.

An entertaining feature of the meeting was a talk given by Miss Florence Livingstone, daughter of Thomas Livingstone of Pawtucket, R. I., who recently returned from Europe. She gave a graphic description of interesting points and happenings in France and England and enlightened the listeners on a few of the habits of European people. At the conclusion of her talk she was heartily applauded and many took advantage of asking questions, which were answered.

It was voted to hold the next meeting at the same place, Rocky Point, the second Sunday in August, 1927. The president, William R. Thomas, wishes to make clear that all persons and former residents of Taftville are invited to attend, even though they may not receive an invitation, as sometimes the mail does not reach its destination.

It was recalled that the first meeting was held 14 years ago at Rocky Point, the idea being conceived at the home of William R. Thomas to hold an outing or get-together at some agreed location. Rocky Point was agreed upon and four men attended, William R. Booth of Providence, Richard Dunce of Woonsockst, William Sanderson of Pawtucket and William R. Thomas of Providence, the original founders of the organization. The last named is the only living member of the four. He recalled that at the second meeting there were seven present, and now the membership contains hundreds with members living in many states in the Union, last year some people attending the outing from California.

This outing was proclaimed one of the best ever held by the members and hopes are held out that there will be a larger attendance at the next meeting. Arrangements for the Taftville delegation who attended were in charge of George W. Weller of Taftville, who also had charge of the distribution of the badges.

FLAT IRON CAUSES FIRE IN BURTON ST. HOUSE

Prompt discovery by a neighbor prevented a serious fire in the house at No. 12 Burton avenue, occupied by Louis Combies and family, a few minutes after 8 o'clock Saturday night. While sitting in the window of her home in Smith avenue, facing the Combies residence, Miss Catherine Reddon saw a flare in the Combies house, followed by smoke which started to come out of a window. A telephone call to the fire department was promptly answered.

Mr. and Mrs. Combies had left the house for the city and an electric flatiron left turned on was responsible for the blaze. The table cover, and the makings of a dress were burned. Mr. Combies' brother-in-law threw the burning material out of the window. The damage was small.

TWO MEN HURT IN CRASH AT OCCUM

Philip Blanchette of Baltic and Patsy Saber of Fall River, Mass., are patients at the Backus hospital, having been injured Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock at Occum when their motorcycle was struck by an automobile driven by a party whose name could not be obtained.

Blanchette has a compound fracture of one of his legs and is also suffering from other bruises. Saber has a deep cut in the leg, which required several stitches to close, also minor bruises.

Peace Conference At Watch Hill

The International Fellowship of Reconciliation is to hold its annual conference at the Plimpton hotel at Watch Hill early in September. Paul Jones of New York is to be chairman of the four-day meeting, which will probably draw more than 350 educators and clergymen to Watch Hill to confer on plans for the promotion of world peace and brotherhood.

Called To Waterbury

Rev. Myles P. Galvin of St. Patrick's church was called to Waterbury Sunday afternoon because of the death of his aunt. Death followed a shock resulting from a fall some time ago which caused a broken hip. John P. Corcoran accompanied Father Galvin to Waterbury for the funeral today (Monday).

CHILD FOUND WITH DEEP GASH IN FOREHEAD

Stanley Warwaski of Lebanon, a child, was brought to the Backus hospital Sunday evening with a deep gash in his forehead. Several stitches were taken to close the wound. The boy was found lying on the ground near his home, blood pouring from the deep gash in his head. He could not tell how he came to be cut. The wound was not serious and he was returned to his home after the cut was treated.

PEDESTRIANS DEPLORE LOSS OF CINDER SIDEWALK

Complaint is heard from people who have to walk between Yantic and Fitchville, over the condition of the highway between these places. They claim that once they had a fine four-foot cinder sidewalk between the villages, built for a bicycle path by subscription taken up over 25 years ago. The cinder sidewalk, they allege, was in fine condition until removed during the work of laying the new pipe for the Deep river reservoir.

Mixup in Names

There has evidently been a misunderstanding on the part or many local people concerning the mixup a Norwich colored pastor got into at Willimantic one day last week. Owing to a similarity of names of two Hartford ministers who serve different colored churches in Norwich, it was believed that the minister was pastor of Mt. Calvary Baptist church, Rev. W. C. Pittman of Hartford is pastor of this church and was not the man named in the Willimantic story.

Home After Auto Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Culver, and son, Kenneth Culver, and Mrs. Leon Dix, have returned after a week's visit at Medford, Mass. They made the trip by automobile and while at Medford enjoyed auto trips to Manchester and Portsmouth, N. H. In all the party covered about 700 miles.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Wheeler of the Road district, Stonington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carrie Marie, to John Stansfield Williams of New Haven. The wedding will take place in September.

ALFRED SUSSMAN DROWNED WHILE IN BATHING NEAR WEEKAPAUG

Alfred Sussman, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sussman of No. 23 Grove street, this city, was drowned Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock between Atlantic Beach and Weekapaug, R. I., when he was seized by the heavy undertow and dragged out beyond his depth.

With his father, Morris Sussman, his brother, Saul, and sister, Helen, and Alice Tallant, girl friend of the family, Alfred had been swimming at the beach. The party decided to return to shore and had reached a point where the water was but knee deep when a wave suddenly broke near them, swirling the water about their feet and sweeping them out. Mr. Sussman reached his daughter, Helen, and also Alice Tallant and brought them to shore, while Saul Sussman was able to fight his way alone. Alfred was swept out beyond his depth and before aid could be secured had disappeared. A search was kept but the body had not been recovered up to a late hour Sunday night.

At the time of the drowning there was no one nearby to assist in the rescue, those at hand being unable to swim in the swirling waters. There are no life guards at the beach and nothing that can be thrown to drowning persons and all hope of saving the drowning boy had to be abandoned.

Sussman's sister, Helen, drove a mile by automobile to the Atlantic Beach casino in search of help to save the drowning youth, Louis Solomon, who has a cottage at Atlantic Beach notified the coast guard patrol who responded to the call from Watch Hill. The coast guard were still searching for the body Sunday night.

Alfred Sussman was born in Norwich, July 12, 1908, the son of Morris and Bessie Sussman. He received his early education in local schools and was a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy, class of 1925. He was a sophomore at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs.

Surviving the boy are his parents, two brothers, Saul and Lewis Susaman and three sisters, Frances, Helen and Charlotte Sussman, all of Norwich.

The young man attended the United Brothers Synagogue and was prominent in the synagogue activities. Always popular because of his clean and fair dealings, the youth possessed that type of nature which easily won friends. He was a loving son and brother.

News of the tragic death spread rapidly in this city Sunday night and everywhere were heard expressions of sorrow for the loss of a friend and of deep sympathy for those left to mourn the loss of a loved one.

PLAINFIELD MAN IS SAVED FROM DROWNING

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Two men were drowned here today and a third narrowly escaped a similar fate while bathing in the surf near Weekapaug.

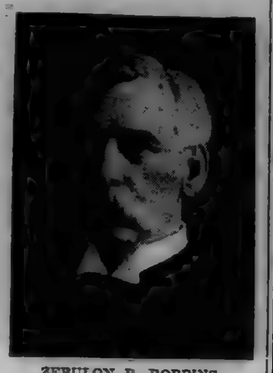
The victims were Angelo Gincarella, 18, of this city, and Alfred Sussman, 18, of 38 Grove street, Norwich, Conn.

Edward Beaudion, 25, of Plainfield, Conn., was caught in the breakers while floating with the aid of an inflated tire. A group who saw his plight formed a human chain and promptly pulled him ashore.

OBITUARY
Zebulon R. Robbins

Following an illness of some duration the death of Zebulon R. Robbins occurred at his home, 68 Cliff street, early Sunday morning and although his friends realized his condition for some time his death will be learned with deep regret. He had been up and around, the seriousness of the illness not being wholly known, until Thursday when he suffered a relapse from which he failed to rally.

Zebulon R. Robbins was born in Lisbon in the year 1849. He lived there until 1863, when he came to this city and made his home with his uncle, Zebulon R. Robbins, who for over 30 years was tax collector of Norwich, after whom he was named. He graduated from the Broadway grammar school and later attended Lebanon academy. In his early business career he served an apprenticeship in Bliss' jewelry store. In 1876 Mr. Robbins entered the employ of the Henry Bill Publishing company and accepted the general agency of the state of Illinois and the northwest for the introduction of Zuccato's papyrograph, a French invention for reproducing letters. He succeeded and also took a general agency of the books published by the firm. Mr. Robbins removed his family to this city in 1881 and has since resided here with the exception of two years, when he was the agent in New York for the William H. Page Wood Type company.



ZEBULON R. ROBBINS

Mr. Robbins was a past grand of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F., grand master of the State Odd Fellows and a member of Mohican Tribe, No. 4, I. O. R. M. He was also a past supreme chieftain of the order. He was a member of Park Congregational church and for a long time was well known in musical circles, being possessed with a beautiful tenor voice.

Throughout his life Mr. Robbins was a staunch republican, having served the city as councilman, was nominated state senator on the republican ticket in 1912, and for many years was a republican state central committeeman representing this district. Mr. Robbins was a great admirer of President Theodore Roosevelt and during that time became affiliated with the bull moose party being nominated and running on that ticket for the state treasurer. He had often acted as caucus chairman and during many elections was moderator in the central voting district.

For many years Mr. Robbins conducted a crockery store on Main street and later was affiliated with Frank Patterson of Norwich in the wholesale ice business with large ice houses near Stafford Springs.

For a great many years Mr. Robbins was vitally interested in military affairs, enlisting in the state national guard and working his way through the different positions to the rank of adjutant.

Mr. Robbins was united in marriage in Norwich with Esther Isadora Albro, April, 1875.

Mr. Robbins came from one of the oldest families of New England, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robbins, his ancestry tracing back to Elder William Brewster. Another interesting fact regarding his life is that he possessed his homestead on land that had never been owned by any other family, the plot of land being given as a present from the Indians.

Mr. Robbins was widely known throughout the state, having held different public positions among which was the appointment as a member of the board of trustees of the Epileptic hospital at Mansfield.

Mr. Robbins was a man of strict integrity and one that could at all times be counted upon to carry out any duties entrusted to him. He was a forceful speaker and in his earlier years was called upon on many occasions to assist in state and public welfare work. He was a man that loved his home and one that at all times kept the welfare of his community at heart. His death removes from Norwich a most valuable citizen and one that will long be remembered.

Mr. Robbins is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Henry Allen Kelley of Portland, Me., a son, Senator Lee Robbins of this city and six grand children.

John M. MacKenzie

The death of John M. MacKenzie of 219 South Whitney street, Hartford, formerly of Norwich, occurred Friday morning in Southington, where he and his wife had been visiting for several days. Mr. MacKenzie had not been in good health for several months but of late it was thought that he was improving.

Mr. MacKenzie was born in Liverpool, Scotland, 68 years ago. In 1900 he entered the employ of C. S. Hills & Co., Hartford, remaining with the business after it became the firm of Albert Steiger, Inc. He was a member of the Memorial Baptist church, Clan Gordon, Order of Scottish Clans and treasurer of the sick benefit fund of the American Insurance union.

The many friends of Mr. MacKenzie living in Norwich, learned of his death with sorrow. He was a resident of this city for ten years, leaving for Hartford about 25 years ago. While in Norwich he was employed at the Portcous & Mitchell Co. as clerk and was a member of the First Baptist church and active in church work.

In 1886 Mr. MacKenzie was united in marriage with Miss Ella Mott of Hartford, who survives him, with a stepbrother and nieces who live in Scotland. Mr. MacKenzie's death was caused by apoplexy.

Daniel C. McGuiness, M. D.

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 8.—Dr. Daniel C. McGuiness, one of the oldest medical practitioners in service in the city, died suddenly at his home, 21 Church street, this evening at 6 o'clock. Medical Examiner Dr. Louis L. Mason was summoned and pronounced death due to cerebral embolism. Dr. McGuiness is survived by his wife, Mrs. Della McGuiness and a son, John McGuinness of Highland, Ill. He was seated in a chair when he was stricken. He was born in Preston, June 6, 1854.

WEDDING
Vasington-Romano

Miss Angelina Romano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Romano of No. 1 Lincoln court and Bernadino Vasington, son of Paul and Angila Vasington, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the parents of the bride, the ceremony being conducted by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church. The bride was charmingly gowned in white silk georgette, trimmed with white silk lace and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses, white carnations and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Romano, sister of the bridegroom, was gowned in peach georgette, trimmed with silk embroidery, and her bouquet was of pink roses. The best man was Bennadetto Gassmardo. Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, over 100 guests, many from out of town, attending. The bride received many beautiful gifts. Mr. Vastington is engaged in the shoemaking business in Norwich. Following a wedding trip the couple will reside with the bride's parents.

FUNERALS
Richard H. Barteau

Funeral services for Richard H. Barteau, brother-in-law of Mrs. Ralph Patrick of No. 41 Palmer street, Norwich, and whose death occurred Tuesday last, in Abington, Mass., were held Friday from his late home, Rev. Mr. Segal officiating. The body was sent to Norwich and burial took place at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Maplewood cemetery, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, officiating.

Mr. Barteau was born in Lawrencetown, Nova Scotia, July 28, 1864 and resided there during his early life. On March 20, 1888 he was united in marriage with Emma Seltzer of Norwich, the wedding taking place in New Haven. Fraternally Mr. Barteau was a member of the Knights of Pythias and the A. U. United Workers.

Surviving him is his wife and a daughter, Celene; two brothers, Henry and Beckwith Barteau of Amesbury, Mass., and Mrs. George Sterling, of Lawrencetown, Nova Scotia. Mr. Barteau for a time resided at the home of Mrs. Patrick in this city.

Patrick O'Brien

Funeral services for Patrick O'Brien were held Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the home of Patrick Sheehan, No. 36 Fourth street. Requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Memorial church by Rev. William A. Keeie, the pastor. Mrs. M. J. Farrell presided at the organ during the service. At the offertory Pie Jesu was rendered and as the waiting hymn, Jesus, Saviour of My Soul, was sung. Chopin's funeral march was played as the recessional.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service and the floral tributes were beautiful and numerous. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Frederick M. Cohoian. The bearers were Edward Carroll, William McKenzie, Thomas Harrington and Michael Sheehan. Arrangements were by Hourigan Brothers.

LOCAL MAN FINED ON SPEEDING CHARGE

In the city court Saturday morning William Schaeffer, 23, pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding and paid a fine and costs totalling $20.73. Schaeffer was arrested after he had raced his motorcycle for several miles in front of a Buick car supposed to be driven by friends. It was his mistake, for the Buick was being operated by a state policeman who was in civilian attire.

Amos Ruley, colored, and a frequent visitor to the police court has $19.10 to pay to the court, plus an old bill of $5, for being found guilty of breach of the peace. Ruley's arrest followed words with his wife, who is a white woman. Ruley was also charged with trying to evade paying a taxi bill but this was nolled after Ruley promised to pay the taxi driver. As he was without funds he was given until Aug. 21st to produce the necessary money to secure a complete release from the court.

TAFTVILLE A. A. WINS FROM ELM CITY GIANTS WITH A NINTH INNING RALLY

A ninth-inning rally that netted two runs gave the Taftville A. A. an undeserved victory over the Elm City Colored Giants, 8 to 7, Saturday afternoon at the Providence street grounds. To the Taftville A. A. goes no credit for winning the game but rather to John J. Benoit, whose terrible exhibition of umpiring was positively disgusting to any fair-minded fan. The game itself was well worth watching and both teams played exceptionally good ball but the enjoyment was taken out of the game by the raw decisions made by Benoit.

Whether these decisions were intentional or whether it was poor judgment and bad eye sight that caused them makes but little difference, the fact remains that the visitors were literally robbed of the game. Such umpiring is no credit to any ball club and the sooner Manager Troland dispenses with the present incumbent the better for his club. No baseball fan likes to see the home team win under such conditions as existed Saturday and if this keeps up the Taftville team will be lucky to draw a baker's dozen to its games. Manager Troland apparently realizes that Benoit is not the man to hold the indicator for his club and Sunday evening said that a new umpire would be in back of the plate for next Saturday's game. Umpire Roy who worked the bases in Saturday's game officiated in a fairminded way and there was no kick on the way he ruled. Benoit is done as an umpire in this section of the state.

Despite the terrible exhibition given by Mr. Benoit the game held the interest of the large crowd to the last inning. The game was marked by terrific hitting by the colored gentry from New Haven, the team collecting 10 extra base hits, eight doubles, a triple and a home run. Taftville also hit hard getting 10 hits, three being doubles. It was a slugging affair from start to finish which sparkled with good fielding on the parts of both clubs.

Lefty Buckland pitched less effectively in Saturday's game than in previous encounters but he was ably supported by his teammates and Mr. Benoit. Cannonball Smith hurled good ball considering the opposition he received from the umpire and should have won his game.

Taftville opened the scoring in the third inning when errors by Pettaway and a double by Joe Jarvis done the trick. Taftville scored again in the fourth when a double by Dona and Lemieux' sacrifice fly resulted in one run. In the seventh Smith weakened and a hit by Gullet, a pass to Cardie and McLane's error followed by Tombari's single netted three runs. In the ninth Cardie singled, and Jarvis was safe when he bunted and the ball was fielded to second too late to get Cardie. Tombari beat out a bunt and the bases were filled. Dona fouled out to Pettaway and Cardie was trapped between third and home. Gaudette hit to McLane and Simonds dropped the throw Jarvis scoring. Urban brought in the winning run with a single to left field.

The Giants slugged their way to what should have been a victory in the fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth innings. One run tallied in the fourth when Simonds was passed and stole second and rode home when Ching doubled to right field. Another came in the fifth when Brady doubled and Pettaway hit for three bases. Two more came in the sixth on Cardie's error and doubles by Simonds and Redmond. Redmond's hit was in reality a home run, but Umpire Benoit ruled it was only a two-base blow as it came some where near the crowd, in centerfield. This was only one of the many bad breaks by Mr. Benoit.

The Giants scored in the seventh inning but Umpire Benoit called the man out at home after he was obviously safe, and the run did not count in the score. In the eighth inning doubles by Redmond, Ching and a home run by Coleman netted three runs. This ended the scoring for the Giants.

Now a word about the umpiring. No blame can be attached to Manager Troland for the performance of Mr. Benoit, in fact Manager Troland himself was disgusted with the umpiring as were members of the Taftville team. The score:

Sundays Game

Taftville A. A. was beaten in a close game at South Manchester on Sunday, 3 to 1, by the Shamrocks of Manchester. Smith pitching for Manchester allowed but four hits while Lloyd Jarvis was nicked for but five. It was a real pitching battle which was broken up in the eighth when Manchester bunched hits behind errors for two runs. The score:

RIVERVIEW CLUB SPLITS EVEN IN WEEK-END GAMES

The Riverview club split even in the week-end games winning an easy and one-sided game from the Catholic club 12 to 1 on Saturday at the State hospital diamond and losing to the New Departure team of Bristol on Sunday by a score of 3 to 2.

Saturday's game was uninteresting but the game Sunday was a pitching battle between Tony West and Brooks. Brooks had the better of the argument after the first inning and allowed but 4 hits. Rallies in the fifth and sixth innings gave Bristol the victory. The scores:

VELVETMEN TAKE FIRST GAME FROM ASHLAND A. A.

Sunday at the J. B. Martin diamond the Velvetmen defeated the Ashland A. A. team 6 to 2, in the first game of the series between these clubs. The Martin boys landed on the offerings of Hemming of Worcester for 15 hits for a total of 6 runs, fast fielding by the Ashland club cutting down the scoring. Pepin who pitched for the Velvetmen allowed but 6 hits and should have had a shutout but errors allowed two runs to count. De Celles, E. MAYNARD'S GIANTS BEATS COLTS IN NO-HIT GAME

WAUREGAN, Ct. Aug. 8—(AP)—Gibeault, the Giant's 16-years-old wonder pitched a no-hit game.

The Kid seemed to have had the goods, for he was never in great danger during the game, his team mates giving him very good support, while Burns of the Colts was touched up for twelve bingles, with not very good support.

A base on balls, a stolen base and wild throw, accounted for the Colt's lone tally in the last inning. Score:

WHITEHILL PITCHES TIGERS TO SECOND WIN FROM YANKS

DETROIT, Aug. 8, — (AP) —Earl Whitehill struck out twelve men to pitch the Tigers to their second straight victory over the Yankees today 5 to 3. Paschal's home run behind Ruth's double made New York's two runs in the fourth and O'Rourke's wild throw in the seventh accounted for the other run. Detroit made four hits in the first for two runs and four more in the fourth for four. Errors by Paschal, Dugan and Koenig together with three singles contributed to the Tiger's two runs in the seventh. Gehringer ran all the way round the bases in this inning on his single to right when Paschal and Dugan made wild throws in an effort to stop him. Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, was a spectator. Score:

BARRET'S ERRORS GIVES ATHLETICS OVERTIME GAME

CHICAGO, Aug. 8—(AP)—Bill Barrett's muff of Hale's fly in the tenth inning enabled Lamar to score from first base with the run which gave Philadelphia a six to five victory over Chicago. Chicago jumped into the lead by driving Quinn off the mound in the second inning. The visitors forced Thurston's retirement in the fourth inning and the game then diverted into a pitching duel between Gray, Thomas and Connally in which the White Sox lines cracked. Score:

SPEAKER'S TRIPLE GIVES INDIANS GAME OVER SENATORS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 8—(AP)—Manager Speaker's triple with the bases filled in the sixth inning gave Cleveland a 7 to 4 victory over Washington today. Wild throws by Spurgeon and Ruel with Goslin's home run gave Washington a lead, but Murray's wildness with a few hits allowed Cleveland to tie the score in the sixth. Then with the bases filled, Marberry was called to their rescue and Speaker hit the second ball he pitched for three bases.

Shortstop Joe Sewell, of Cleveland, retired after the first inning because of illness, it being the first time since he joined Cleveland in 1920 that he has been taken out of a game because of being unable to play. Score:

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TANK CAR STOLEN FROM NEW LONDON PIER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 8—An automobile tank car owned by the federal government, was stolen from the government pier, Water street, Saturday morning. It is claimed by Capt. John W. Cruickshank, 243 Co. C. A. C., N. G., Providence, that a former soldier stole the auto Capt. Cruickshank stated that the truck was left on the pier during the early morning and that the former soldier went there and drove it away, afterwards attempting to sell the gas in the tank for 15 cents a gallon. The former soldier was seen to drive the truck away, but it was not known that he had been dishonorably discharged from the service.

RESORT 16 JOHN STREET RAIDED SUNDAY MORNING

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 8—The negro resort, 16 John street, which has been raided several times within the past year, was raided again this morning, Lieut. James Sullivan, Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen George McCaskey, Edward Riordan, Louis Wheeler and John Sullivan swooped down on the place. Lelia Taylor, 29, colored, and Nellie Jones, 24, colored, claimed to be the proprietresses of the house and they were arrested charged with keeping a disorderly house. Both obtained sureties on their respective bonds of $500 for their presentation in the police court Monday morning. Annie Ayers, 32, colored, who claimed laundry work as her occupation; Arthur B. Mason, 22, white, submarine base, and Howard M. Goods, 18 and Paul Fritsell, 20, soldiers encamped at Fort Trumbull, were arrested charged with frequenting. Goode and Fritsell provided a surety on their respective bonds of $50 for their presentation in the police court Monday morning.

The house was raided following Nina Bryon, colored, who has been arrested several times charged with conducting a disorderly house, making a complaint to the police against Josh Hubbard, colored, alleging breach of the peace. Hubbard was arrested by Patrolman John Sullivan and it was the statements he made that resulted in the house being visited.

NORWICH DRIVER PARKED IN PROHIBITED SECTION

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 8—Raymond A. Clark, 8 Peck street, Norwich, will be in the police court Monday morning charged with violation of the city's parking laws in parking his automobile on that section of John street, between North Bank and Main streets, where parking is not permitted.

Raymond Scribner, 206 Crystal avenue parked his automobile a distance greater than a foot from the curb on Main street and he was arrested by Tra ffic Officer Clyde Murphy. He, too, will be presented in court Monday.

Another automobile violator who will be presented is Boleslaw Haberack, 39 Winthrop street. He will be charged with driving an automobile without having a license. He was arrested Saturday by Patrolman Edward Riordan.

Sailors who are serving Uncle Sam and former sailors in the same service, appeared in the police court Saturday charged with misbehavior of a flagrant sort. Jesse Smith and Ralph M. Hanrahan from submarine No. 3 were taken into custody while fighting. They were both drunk, too. They admitted their offense and could not account for their conduct on other grounds than that they were intoxicated. Judge Prince told them they were "a couple of nice pals' and was disposed to send them to jail, when he ascertained that the men had overstayed their leave of absence and that they were subject to penalty for that remissness. Because of that fact he suspended judgment and ordered that the offenders should be turned over to the naval authorities. They were due back at the base at 3 o'clock Saturday morning, but did not get there until about noon.

Richard Fanning and James Goldrick, a couple of youths about 18 years old each were dishonorably discharged from the coast guard service about a year ago. They belong in Norwalk and came here under the impression that they might get back into the service. That notion was an erroneous one. They slept in the park Friday night because they were without a dollar in their possession. They were charged with being persons without visible means of support—vagrants. Judge Prince warned them that they were young to be running about the country in a haphazard sort of way and advised them to find some employment and to stick to it. Then he allowed them their freedom.

James Driscoll was found drunk and was seen to be stopping persons in the street near the bus station. The arresting officer declared that Driscoll "flagred" all who came along, though he did not hear him ask for money. Of course that was not evidence of begging, so Driscoll was fined for intoxication only. He was ordered to pay the court $5 and the costs of his arraignment and trial. He did as ordered.

Vera Yankee, misnamed, was presented some weeks ago as a lascivious person. Her case was adjourned till Saturday that her conduct might be watched. She was reported to the court Saturday as having conducted herself properly since arraigned, so the complaint was nolled.

John O'Neill and Charles Croccichia, youths, some weeks ago were charged with annoying a female clerk in a Broad street store. They have been on probation since then. Saturday they were reported to have learned the lesson of good behavior so the complaints were disposed of by nolle.

Willis Dart, 67, son of the late Capt. Samuel Dart, died at his home in Union street Saturday of liver trouble. He was an active member of the Loyal Order of Moose, an organization in which he was much interested. Mr. Dart was of a large family of children, four boys and four girls, only two of whom Mrs. Nettie McMoran and Mrs. Phebe McDonald, survive. Mr. Dart leaves a widow. He had been in impaired health for along time and got about with difficulty.

Alexander Campbell, clerk in the Hotel Schuyler, New York, is making his annual visit to New London, where his mother resides.

Barney Veshnick, 36, of Chesterfield, was arrested by Patrolmen Edward Riordan and John Sullivan Saturday night, found on State street in the worse from over indulgence in strong drink. He was unable to provide a surety on his bond of $25 for his presentation in the police court Monday morning and was locked up.

John Burgess, a stranger hereabouts, was arrested Saturday by Sergeant William Babcock. Burgess was found begging on State street.

William Clark of Hartford, has sold to Mattie Clark, Cornwall-on-the Hudson, a building lot, corner of Lower Boulevard and Hillside Grove.

Estelle Stearns has sold to Archie P. Hunt and Clara B. F. Hunt a house and lot on Williams street.

George W. Simon, formerly of New London, now of Hartford where he is employed in the state treasurer's office, spent the week end with relatives in this city.

Harold Corbin, of Hartford, formerly of New London, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Coates, of Williams street.

Frank Barlow, R. F. D. No. 1, Mystic, made complaint to the New London police this morning that while his automobile was parked on Meridian street Saturday night a spare tire was stolen from the rear rack.

A live wire of the Connecticut Power company became dislodged from its support on a pole on Converse place last night and dangled against a tree, causing the bark to become afire. The live wire was discovered by Patrolman Henry Hick, who had a telephone message to be sent to police headquarters resulting in a repair gang of the power company being sent to the danger spot, causing the wire to be placed back in position.

Mrs. Christopherson, 66 Elm street, complained to the police last night that the four wheels of a baby carriage that had been left in the yard of her home had been stolen. The body of the carriage was not damaged.

Everett P. Halligan, 31, sailor aboard the U. S. S. Argonne, at anchor off the mouth of the harbor, went to the Hotel Winthrop about 1 o'clock this morning and created such a disturbance that he was arrested by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman John Sullivan, charged with breach of peace. He will be presened in the police court Monday morning.

Robert Harte of the United States Coast Guard, state pier; Fred Conti, 220 Coleman street; Marry and Dominick Domito, 7 Shaw street; Mrs. Fred Black, Hotel Mohican; Richard Bernard, Montville, and Mrs. Edith Shelton, Bischkall, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Willis R. Dart, about 70, died Saturday afternoon at his home, 12 Union court. Death resulted from a shock Mr. Dart suffered about a week ago. He was married and was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Louis J. Coppella, of the United States Coast Guard, state pier, was arrested Saturday night on Golden street by Patrolman John Clifford charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He will be presented in the police court Monday morning. Coppella was in the vicinity of the skating rink and was making such a disturbance that he aroused the neighborhood.

Mrs. Mollie Horowitz, and Mrs. Sertha Hicks, residing in the same house, 591 Main street, engaged in a row at their home Saturday afternoon and created such a racket that both were arrested by Patrolmen Clyde Murphy and Clarence Martin charged with breach of the peace. They furnished a surety on their respective bonds of $50 for presentation in the police court Monday morning.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN MAY BE JOHN CALLEN

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 8—A man believed to be John Callen, Rosemary street, Waterford, was struck and killed instantly this evening in Waterford while walking the tracks by an east-bound New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad express. The body was viewed by Acting Medical Examiner Ross Black and after an investigation had been made it was removed to an undertaking establishment, pending positive identification.

The man was walking on the east-bound tracks, presumably, to make a short cut to his home. When he was but a short distance from the Waterford station the Pittsburgh express, due to arrive in New London at 6.15 o'clock came in sight. With his back toward the approaching train, the man was observed by the engineer, who sounded the whistle, but instead of stepping from the tracks the man walked directly in front of the engine. He was struck by the breast beam and hurled from the tracks, suffering internal injuries from which he died before members of the train crew reached him.

LAWRENCE PACKER DESPERATE, PASSED WORTHLESS CHECKS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 8—Lawrence Packer, United States coast Guard, state pier and residing with his wife and two children on Groton street, was arrested by the police of Wareham, Mass., Saturday afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith charged with passing worthless checks. Packer admitted his guilt, but declared that it was his intention to make restitution as soon as he received his salary from the government. He said that, when he negotiated the checks he was without funds and was desperate in order to obtain the necessities of life for his wife and children. A short time after negotiating the checks, Packer came to New London and enlisted in the coast guard and it was then that the request of the Wareham police upon the New London police was made for Packer's arrest. He had an automobile in his possession when arrested, but the auto was a dilapidated one and practically worthless.

Saturday night Officers Myron Baxter and Howard Bradley of the Wareham police department came to New London and took charge of the prisoner.

Morris Feldman, 222 1-2 Montauk avenue, was arrested this afternoon charged with evasion of responsibility and will be presented in the police court Monday morning. Feldman's automobile collided with an automobile driven by Thomas Kenefick, New Haven, federal narcotic agent on Ocean avenue and instead of stopping, it is alleged, Feldman drove away.

Walter R. Rodicioni, 49 Goshen St., was arrested by Sergeant Samuel Hick this afternoon charged with reckless driving and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Rodicioni was driving his automobile on Pequot avenue in a manner that attracted the attention of the officer and with the driver being held up he was placed under arrest.

An automobile driven by Joseph Cronin of Middletown, collided this afternoon on Montauk avenue with an automobile driven by Dr. Daniel Sullivan, Huntington street, the gasoline tank on the physician's auto was punctured. The colliding automobile escaped damage.

The police this afternoon rounded upa gang of drunks, all being non-residents and they will be included in a batch of over 30 prisoners, who will be presented in the police court Monday morning. The drunks were picked up in various parts of the city, principally along the streets leading to the water front and where they were lying near the sidewalks or sitting upon the curbing.

Andrew Majewski was arrested this evening by Patrolmen Edward Riordan and Ernest Opperman charged with breach of the peace in attacking Nathan Hockman, North Bank street baker. He was released upon furnishing a bond of $50 for his presentation in the police court Monday morning. Majewski is charged by Hockman of having attacked him and beaten him this morging and without cause.

Peter Sritsch, 6 Nelson street, Hartford, motorcyclist, is a patient at the Lawrence hospital suffering from abrasions of the back and left leg, which he sustained this afternoon when struck by a truck of the Eastern Dairy company, corner of lower boulevard and Glenwood avenue.

CLARENCE E. WALLEN DROVE WHILE INTOXICATED

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 8—Clarence E. Wallen, of Scotland Dam, was arrested Sunday evening about 9.10 o'clock by Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Wallen was operating a Velle 1924 model touring car. He was examined by Dr. Girouard, who pronounced him under the influence of liquor. He will appear in court Monday morning. Wallen is the father of six children.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

In "Bluebeard's Seven Wives," a Robert T. Kane-First National feature comedy, now current at the Breed theatre, something new and original is said to have been brought to the screen. The film is described as a gentle satire on the prevalent type of screen press agent, screen sheik and screen vampire.

Despite its frothy character "Bluebeard's Seven Wives" has also a serious underlying theme which runs deeper even than the press agent's wild stunt to make his movie star popular by exploiting him as a modern Bluebeard. This is the awakening of confidence in the hero. He develops from a bashful, stuttering bank clerk to a film hero of importance. The transformation is accomplished with a good deal of realism it is said.

In the principal roles are Ben Lyon, Blanche Sweet, Dorothy Sebastian, Lois Wilson, Sam Hardy and Diana Kane. Alfred A. Santell is responsible for the direction and Blanche Merrill and Paul Schofield for the story. Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and a roaring two-part comedy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

What Nursing Means

A student nurse at the Backus hospital, where a new class begins in September, gives her views of what the profession means, as follows:

As I hope to be a graduate and registered nurse at some future date let me picture to you what this profession means to me.

Nursing is an art which deals with living bodies. It is the field that gives one the opportunity to serve man in every walk of life and make and keep him the temple of God's Spirit. When I see those around about me who have attained recognition in this profession I cannot help but look up to that symbol of purity and service, the white uniform with cap and black band. It stirs me to further my efforts in my chosen profession that I may be worthy of the same thing when my time is fulfilled.

This is the way of life that offers the greatest tests of character, and, I believe, gives the deepest incite into the spirit and realities of life. One cannot become perfect in a day, nor are we ever perfect, but day by day, we learn, and after many days are passed, look back to the beginning and measure what we have acquired.

It is not unless, I may safely conclude. If you have the least desire for any part of this, come and become a nurse.

RUTH R. HOPKINS.

50th Anniversary of the Telephone

As part of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the telephone, Manager Nejime has included in the program of the Breed theatre a series of historical motion pictures titled "Fifty Years of Telephone Progress" which portray the events in the early life of the telephone. These pictures will be shown on the first three days of each week, beginning August 8, for four weeks.

The international centennial exhibition was held in Philadelphia in the summer of 1876. Exhibits were sent from all over the world and many distinguished guests visited America to attend. Among those who exhibited at Philadelphia was the young Alexander Graham Bell, who, only a few short months before, had invented the telephone. Mr. Bell's modest exhibit of a half dozen pioneer instruments was located on a table in an inconspicuous corner near the great Hook and Hastings organ, one of the wonders of the centennial, on the east gallery of the main building.

Late in the afternoon of Sunday, June 25, 1876, a party of the judges of electrical instruments and instruments of precision, including Professor Joseph Henry, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, and Sir William Thomson, of England, one of the most famous scientists of that time, accompanied by a number of distinguished visitors, including Dom Pedro, emperor of Brazil, and the Empress Thereza, passed along the gallery at the end of a long and somewhat tiring tour of the exhibits. With them, though but little noticed, came Alexander Graham Bell.

The party stopped just in front of the great organ. A suggestion to adjourn was offered and agreed upon and the party had started to disband when the Emperor Don Pedro noticed Mr. Bell whom he had met in Boston and in whom he had become interested because of Bell's work with deaf mutes.

Instantly, interest was aroused in this young man whom the emperor was greeting in a friendly way. Mr. Bell explained that he had an exhibit he had hoped the judges would consider. The emperor asked to see it and was conducted to the small table in the corner where Mr. Bell explained that his invention was a device to "talk by electricity."

He asked the Emperor to try his invention, and showed him how to place the telephone to his ear. Mr. Bell then went to the other end of the wire and talked into a transmitter.

As the emperor listened, the look of incredulity changed to amazement and, slowly taking the telephone from his ear he exclaimed in awe-struck tones "My God! It talks!"

Quickly the other members of the party took the receiver and listened to Mr. Bell's words coming over the wire.

The significance of the event was not lost to the scientists present, for then and there Bell's invention was accepted as a scientific achievement of tremendous importance to the future. Both Joseph Henry and Sir William Thomson praised Mr. Bell's invention in no uncertain terms, Sir William Thomson stating that "It is the most wonderful thing I have seen in America."

This event is portrayed with fidelity to historical accuracy in the motion picture, which also includes the episode in Boston when the telephone spoke the first complete sentence, "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you," pictures of the early exchanges operated by boys and other interesting events in the first 50 years of telephone progress.

Tobacco workers, hairdressers and cafe waiters at Tangier went on strike recently in a demand for higher wages. Public demonstrations and a two-hour mass meeting were held in the center of the city. With the "essential luxuries" tied up, the strike was successful and the increase was granted.

POETRY

A Song for the Asking

A song! What songs have died
Upon the earth,
Voices of love and pride—
Of tears and mirth?
Fading as hearts forget
As shadows flee!
Vain is the voice of song,
And yet—
I sing to thee!

A song! What ocean shell
Were silent long,
If in thy touch might dwell
It's all of song?
A song? Then near my heart
Thy cheek must be,
For, like the shell, it sings—
Sweet Heart—
To thee, of thee!
—Francis O. Ticknor.

The Enviable Isles

Through storms you reach them and from storms are free,
Afar described, the foremost drear in hue,
But, nearer, green; and, on the marge, the sea
Makes thunder low and mist of rainbowed dew.

But, inland—where the sleep that holds the hills
A dreamier sleep, the trance of God, instills—
On uplands hased, in wander air aswoon,
Slow-swaying palms salute love's cypress tree
Adown in vale where pebbly runlets croon
A song to lull all sorrow and all gies.

Sweetfern and moss in many a glade are here,
Where, strewn in flocks, what cheek-flushed myriads lie
Dimpling in dream, unconscious slumerers mere While billows endless round the beaches die.
—Thomas William Parsons.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

So you made up with Tom. Now you won't fight again.

We only made up temporarily—we're getting married next week.

"I'm sorry, old top!"

"Sorry why?"

"My wife just bought a new hat and she has gone to show it to your wife."—Punta Garden (Fla.) Herald.

Cora—I heard Jack kissing you in the hammock last night.

Dora—You did not. The smacks you heard were when he killed mosquitoes.—Boston Transcript.

"Since I bought a car I don't have to walk to the bank to make my deposits."

"Ah, you ride there?"

"No, I don't make any."—N. Y. C. Lines Magazine.

Father—Did you tell your teacher that I helped you with your arithmatic?

Nellie—Yes, daddy.

Father—And what did she say?

Nellie—She said she wouldn't punish me this time cause it wasn't fair to make me suffer for your ignorance. —Wall Street Journal.

He—"Can't you forgive the past?"

She—"If you give me a nice enough present."—Life.

"Can you tell me a part of the Bible which forbids a man having two wives?"

"Yessim. 'No man can serve two masters.'"—Brown Jug.

"When you sold me that hoss, you told me no matter how big a load I wanted to haul, he'd be right there. Why, I hitched 'im to a wagon this morning and he wouldn't pull a pound!"

"Sure, he wouldn't! But he was right there, wastn't, he?" — Capper Weekly.

KALEIDOSCOPE

An exhibition of cooking gas was given at the centennial exposition in Philadelphia in 1876.

Cincinnati has a new traffic signal system, said to be the largest in the world under one control.

There are supposed to be approximately 150,000 organic chemicals, each one possessing a different taste.

Civet, which is used in making perfumery, comes from the civet cat, an animal resembling a cross between a cat and a hyena.

The hatteria, an animal found in New Zealand, has in its early life an eye in the back of its head, but this degenerates with maturity.

There are about 100 landing fields suitable for airplanes in the United States, which have gas and oil available and a caretaker present.

Fossilized footprints of three-toed prehistoric animals were found in New England more than 100 years ago, but were regarded as ordinary bird tracks.

Canada increased its exports of wool to the United States by 2,000,000 pounds last year, while its shipments to the United Kingdom fell off 1,000,000 pounds, according to a report issued by the Canadian department of trade and commerce.

There are 8,100,000 women and girls working for their living in Japan, including 6,000,000 engaged in silkworm rearing, rice planting and other forms of agricultural labor, according to a report of the social bureau of the home office. House servants and restaurant waitresses number 514,000 and there are 78,000 women school teachers. About 1,000,000 girls are factory hands and there are 9,500 typists. The moving picturing industry in Tokio alone employes 620 actresses.

An electric fan in which the armature, or rotating coil, is replaced by a simple piec eof rock, is the novel device recently exhibited before the Royal society in London. The rock was a piece of magnetic mineral called pyrrhotite, which when placed in the field of a magnet, rapidly revolves. When loose powders of pyrrhotite were placed in such a field, the particles revolved in a direction opposite to that taken by solid pieces of the material because of a rolling action on the part of the particles themselves.

UNKNOWN VILLAGE FOUND IN REMOTE ARCTIC REGION

RIGA, Aug. 8—(AP)—A hitherto unknown village in a remote interior of the Arctic zone is reported by the Russian officer, S. Popow, in the "Russkoje Wrenja".

On his wanderings through northern Siberia, Popow stumbled on a village of 35 male and female inhabitants who had never seen a stranger before. Their village is thousands of kilometres from any human habitation and enclosed on three sides by a vast bog.

Popow, who lived among the villagers for two years, describes them as being almost primeval in their habits and instincts and as having but a vague notion that they are Russian. They speak Russian, but so profusely interspersed with old Slavic words as to be almost unrecognizable.

To Meet At Gilead Schoolhouse

A circular letter has been sent out to members of the Waterford farm bureau by Gladys E. Stratton, home demonstration agent of the New London county farm bureau, calling attention to a meeting to be held at the Gilead schoolhouse Monday, when the paint program in the home will be discussed. Mrs. Harriet W. Allard, representing a prominent paint concern, will give a talk and practical demonstration on the useful value of paints, varnishes, enamels and the new lacquers.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Queer Swimmers

The ignorant say things aren't so;
The wise man always wants to know.
—Old Mother Nature.

Reddy Fox found all kinds of interesting things along the seashore. "Live and learn," he would say, "live and learn. I can believe almost anything since I've learned that a lobster can get out of that hard shell of his. There certainly is a lot to see here along the seashore. Now, I wonder why I never find any of the owners of these shells in the sand or mud like the clams. They look to me like the shells of very fancy clams."

Reddy was looking down at a shell which was almost round, excepting at the place where it should have been hinged to another shell just like it. At that point were two little wings. This shell had pretty little scallops, but, look as he would, Reddy couldn't find anything but half shells. "I'll have to ask Barker the Seal about these," thought Reddy.

"Hello, Neighbor Fox. What have you there?" inquired Barer.

As usual, Barker was sitting on his favorite rock, very close to the shore. Reddy trotted over there, carrying one of these shells in his mouth.

"Hello, Neighbor Fox! What have you there?" inquired Barker.

"It's a shell," said Reddy. "I have found ever so many of these shells, but I never have found one with anything in it."

"Where have you looked?" inquired Barker.

"Everywhere," replied Reddy. "Excepting in the water," said Barker, chuckling again.

"They look to me like some kind of a clam, and clams are usually in the mud or sand: I have dug them up lots of times," said Reddy.

"You won't dig one of these fellows up," replied Barker. "Well, well, well, what do you know about that?" Barker was staring out over the water. Just beyond where he was the water was clear and smooth and the bottom beneath was sandy. He was staring out over this stretch of water. Reddy stared, too. "Did you see that?" cried Barker.

"Did I see what?" demanded Reddy, who hadn't seen anything at all excepting the water.

"Just watch out there," replied Barker.

Reddy watched. He saw a little break in the surface, and then another, and another. Then he thought he saw a glimpse of something in the water, which came quickly up to the top and disappeared. From where he was he couldn't see very well. "What is it?" he demanded.

"It's a party of the very things you've bee ntalking about. They are having a great time swimming out there," replied Barker.

"What have I been talking about?" demanded Reddy, forgetting all about his shell.

"The owners of shells just like the one you have there," replied Barker. "Those are scallops, and they certainly are queer swimmers. For a shellfish, they get along pretty fast and easily."

"Do you mean to tell me that they can swim?" cried Reddy. "How can anything that lives in a couple of shells like this swim?"

"Oh, they do it easily enough," replied Barker. "They simply flap those shells like a pair of wings. They move about a good deal and that's why you don't find them where you find the clams. You don't find them burying themselves in the mud. Not much! One day there will be a great number of them in here and the next day they will be all gone."

STAFFORD SPRINGS

WENT PAST STATE POLICE IN TOO MUCH OF A HURRY
(Special to the Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Aug. 9—Theodore Pakarney of South Willington pleaded guilty in the borough court Friday morning to a charge of violation of rules of the road. Deputy Judge Taft imposed a fine of $5 and costs amounting to $11.10. Pakarney was coming toward Stafford Springs a few evenings ago when he whisked by a car in which two state policemen were riding. He passed the officers' machine on a curve and narrowly escaped a collision.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(AP)—A big "bull" movement in the stock market which carried the average of 20 leading industrial shares to the highest level ever recorded and the average of 20 leading rails to the highest figure since 1913 easily outshone all other developments in this week's financial and commodity markets, while the buying of stocks undoubtedly received marked impetus from the publication of the famous "cochran interview" it also was influenced by the unusual mid-summer expansion of business, the publication of a series of remarkable industrial earnings statements, record breaking freight traffic and rail earnings and continuance of easy credit conditions.

Bond prices showed only slight improvement with new offerings the lowest of any week this year, indicating that the stock market was attracting both speculative and investment funds.

Commodity prices were mixed. Sugar prices pointed upward as refiners draw heavily on raw stocks, due to the heavy demands of the canning season. Wheat prices broke sharply on the publication of an upward revision of Canadian crop estimates and better weather in certain wheat growing sections. The cotton market was quiet with prices drifting lower. Pending publication of the government report next Monday. The general average of commodity prices, as shown by Dun's index number is now at the lowest level in over two years.

A sharp rally in French francs which carried them above the three cent level for the first time in several months, reflected the progress being made by the new Poincare government in the rehabilitation of French finances. Other continental rates improved in sympathy while sterling exchange held relatively firm. The silver exchanges turned weak on the prospect of India's switching from the silver to the gold standard.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Johnny's Opinion of Grandmothers.

Grandmothers are very nice folks;
They beat all the aunts in creation;
They let a chap do as he likes,
And don't worry about education.

I'm sure I can't see it at all,
What a poor fellow ever would do
For apples and pennies and cakes
Without a grandmother or two.

Grandmothers speak softly to "ma's

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Aberg and children Lewis and Harold of North A. street spent the week-end with Mrs. Aberg's mother Mrs. Joseph Oat at her camp at Gardner's Lake.

Harold M. Pingree of Goodyear was a week end visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree and family of North C street.

ST. PATRICK'S GOSPEL MIRACLE FROM MARK VII

Uniting with all the Catholics throughout the world, the priests of St. Patrick's church read in the four masses offered Sunday—the 11th Sunday after Pentecost—the gospel, Mark VII, 31-37 narrating the miracle of the restoration of hearing and speech to the man deaf and dumb. The epistle read in all the masses was I Corinthians, XV, 1-10, beginning, "Brethren I make known unto you the gospel which I preached to you," etc. The summer services in this church are shortened to the offering of the holy sacrifice of the mass, the reading of the day's gospel and parish announcements. Sunday school is suspended until September and the two volunteer choirs have vacation throughout the summer.

Preparations have begun for the big social affair of the parish, the annual lawn party for which, as in previous years, White Cross council, K. of C., has tendered the use of the fine grounds at the K. of C. home on Broadway. As in former years, the lawn fete will be in general charge of the assistant pastor, Rev. Myles P. Galvin. Referring to the project at the 9 o'clock mass Sunday, Rev. John J. Reilly, junior assistant, spoke of this annual event as "the one special opportunity for the entire parish body to meet socially—something not often possible because of the size of the great congregation."

This mass, the regular service for the children every Sunday, was read by Rev. Father Galvin, who required the assistance of the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May in giving holy communion to the usual large number who had been to confession the previous afternoon and evening.

FREEMAN CONDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION THIS FALL

Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London, has announced his candidacy for the nomination and re-election from the second congressional district. In point of service Congressman Freeman outranks all of the state's delegates in congress with the exception of Floor Leader John Q. Tilson of New Haven. Congressman Freeman states that he is willing to go before the voters for re-election on the record of his 12 years' service in congress.

Over 80 At Gardner Lake Camp

The total registration at Camp Terrehegan at Gardner lake this year was 86, apportioned as follows: New London and Groton, 70; Jersey City, 5; Patterson, N. J., 2; Colchester, 1; Oakdale, 1; Brooklyn, N. Y., 2 and New York, 1.

MONTVILLE BOY DROWNED IN LAKE OXOBOXO YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Stephen Ploprowski, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ploprowski of Montville, was drowned Sunday noon in Lake Oxoboxo, when he slipped from a raft and plunged into 30 feet of water. His body was recovered about 20 minutes later by James J. Mahoney of No. 20 Ward street but all attempts to save his life were futile.

The boy, with his brother and two companions were on the raft and Stephen was keeping his feet in the water. Suddenly he slipped off the raft and disappeared, being unable to swim. The older boys on the raft attempted to save him and one was carried down several times but managed to struggle free of the drowning boy.

News of the drowning spread quickly and Mr. Mahoney dove several times before he located the body and brought it to the surface.

Word was immediately sent to Dr. Morton E. Fox, medical examiner, of Uncasville and also to Gardner lake, where Dr. Harrison Gray of Norwich, was located and went immediately to the lake. On his arrival life was extinct, attempts at resuscitation having failed. Medical Examiner Fox, after examining the body, gave a verdict of death by accidental drowning and gave premission for the removal of the body to an undertaking establishment.

The boy leaves his parents and several brothers and sisters in Montville.

THREE AUTO ACCIDENTS IN CITY OVER WEEK END

Three automobile accidents occurred in Norwich over the week end and one driver, Peter Driscoll of Yantic, was arrested on charges of having defective brakes and reckless driving. The accident in which Mr. Driscoll was involved occurred on Boswell avenue, early Saturday evening. He was driving a Chalmers touring car owned by his wife, Victori Driscoll. The machine collided with an automobile driven by Stephen J. Wood of No. 714 Boswell avenue. The front left mudguard on Mr. Wood's machine was damaged and the right front mudguard on the Driscoll machine was damaged. After an investigation by the police which showed that both the foot brake and emergency brake were in poor condition, Mr. Driscoll was arrested. He was held under bonds of $200 for his appearance in the city court Monday morning.

As Paul M. Higgins of Sachem Terrace was driving his Ford touring car up Franklin street Saturday night about 10.30 o'clock William J. Kramer of No. 10 Ninth street drove his Cadillac sedan out of Durkee Lane, intending to turn down Franklin St. The two machines came together on the trolley tracks. The front left guard on Mr. Higgin's machine was bent and a spring broken. Mr. Kramer's machine was not damaged.

On Main street, near the entrance to the N. Y., N. H. and H. railroad station, a machine driven by Peter J. Caron of No. 13 Ashcraft street, New London, collided with a Nash touring car driven by James Way of No. 27 Meyers avenue. Mr. Caron's machine, a Nash sedan, received a damaged rear bumper. There was no damage to Mr. Way's machine.

PROGRAM FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION OF LEGION

The program for the eighth annual state convention of the American Legion in New Haven, August 26, 27 and 28 has been announced. The convention sessions will be held at Meadow street armory and headquarters will be at the Hotel Garde.

The convention will be opened by Comdr. Harry C. Jackson of New Britain at 9 a. m., standard time, Aug. 26. John B. Tower, mayor of New Haven, will welcome the convention. There will also be greetings from Lieut.-Gov. J. Edwin Brainard and Congressman John Q. Tilson. State Vice-Commander Stanley Dunn will respond to the addresses of welcome for the legion.

Following the introductory speeches, the convention will be addressed by one of the founders of the American Legion, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. Among the speakers will be Colonel John A. Cutchins of Virginia, a regimental commander in France, who later served on the staff of General Pershing and later still on the armistice commission, who will address the convention on Friday morning, August 27. Colonel Cutchins, as a member of the Richmond Blues, visited Europe in May with the Foot Guard and Phalanx.

The morning sessions will be devoted to the business of the convention and the afternoons to entertainment.

The legionnaires will visit Savin Rock on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 26, and at the same time the boys' baseball elimination contest will start at Beaver Pond park. These lead the junior world series to be played off at the national convention in Philadelphia.

WIDOW AWARDED $5,616 IN TRAIN FATALITY

Compensation at the rate of $18 a week for 312 weeks, totaling $5,616, has been awarded to Mrs. Anna Bruno, of 520 Thames street, Groton, dependent widow of Paul Bruno, in her claim against the Immich Co., of Meriden, employer, and the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co., Hartford, respondent. The award was made by Compensation Commissioner J. J. Donohue and filed Saturday with Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court in Norwich. Mrs. Bruno was also awarded $100 for funeral expenses and reasonable medical bills. The award is subject to modification in case of remarriage within the statutory period of 312 weeks.

While operating an automobile across a railroad crossing at Spring Valley, N. Y., on June 11, 1926, Bruno was struck by a locomotive of the New York Central railroad and died as the result of the injuries received. The compensation commissioner found that the accident occurred in the course of his employment for the Immich Co.

ATTENDED G. O. P. STATE DINNER AT SAVIN ROCK

Among those present Saturday evening when the opening gun of the republican state campaign was fired at a dinner at Savin Rock, West Haven, under the auspices of the New Haven organization faction were the following from Norwich and surrounding towns:

Herbert M. Lerou, this city; State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers, New London; Katherine Byrne, vice chairman state central committee, Putnam; Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald, Putnam; Thomas E. Donahue, New London; Charles A. Gates, Willimantic; Raymond F. Gates, Willimantic; Charlotte M. Holloway of New London.

To Be Married This Month

Mrs. Howard J. Bird announces that the marriage of her sister, Ethel Malcome Brady to Stephen Ockrey, will take place Wednesday, August 18, at 4 p. m. at South New Road, Pleasantville, New Jersey.

Observes 84th Birthday

John A. Dutton of No. 58 Broadway observed his 84th birthday Friday at his home. He received cards, gifts of flowers and a large birthday cake. Mr. Dutton is always pleased to receive visits from his many friends.

CAUCUS REGISTRATION DAY NEXT FRIDAY

Through a misunderstanding a number of people who intend to be made voters for the fall elections appeared at the session of the caucus registration board at the court house Friday. They were under the impression that they could be made voters that day. The session of the board was for the purpose of registering for party caucusses those voters already made. Practically all the voters in the town are already registered on the party lists so there was but little business for the board. Another caucus registration will be held next Friday.

Friday was and next Friday will be registration day throughout the state. In Connecticut the republicans are making plans for an intensive campaign.

The term of Senator Hiram Bingham, elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Frank B. Brandegee expires on the fourth of March next and Connecticut will in November elect a United States senator. Senator Bingham will be a candidate for re-nomination on and election. On the democratic side of the house the only name thus far mentioned for United States senator is Don C. Seitz, the well known Ney York newspaper manager and a resident of one of the Connecticut towns on the New York border. His friends have been booming him for the nomination.

For congress no word has been said in opposition to the re-nomination of Congressman John Q. Tilson, who represents the New Haven district.

OPEN CAMPAIGN AGAINST UNLICENSED BILL BOARDS

State police officers of the Groton barracks, under the direction of Sergt. Clifford N. Gorgas, will this week inaugurate a drive against all unlicensed bill boards and signs, of which there are a large number in this district. A shortage of men has prevented the drive from being started before this, but during the coming two weeks, Sergeant Gorgas hopes to make up for lost time in ridding the county of the offending signs.

A short period of grace is therefore being allowed the persons on whose property the display signs stand, in which either to license the boards or remove them from their land. They must be licensed and a fee paid at the rate of 3 cents per square foot, according to the statute passed by the legislature in 1925 which governs the location and licensing of billboards in this state.

Advertising agencies are co-operating with the state police, so as to have all agencies with signs in this state properly comply with the law.

The general statutes provide that the owner or lessee of property on which an unlicensed sign is displayed is liable to arrest and upon conviction is subject to a fine of $50 or imprisonment of six months or both. This statute also provides that no sign shall be placed where it will obstruct the view of drivers on the highway. If it does not comply with this provision it is a hazard to traffic.

NORWICH BOY SAILS FOR CANAL ZONE

Tony Irish, son of Mrs. Laura Irish, this city, who recently enlisted in the regular army, sailed Saturday from the Brooklyn army base with 800 soldiers on the U. S. army transport St. Mihiel for the Panama canal zone.

The trip to Panama will include a cruise along the Atlantic coast and a stop at San Juan, capital of the tropical island of Porto Rico, abounding in historic relics and scenes where Captain "Kid", the intrepid rover and pirate, sheltered his craft.

The war department has arranged special tours for soldiers from army transports at San Juan. When the ship docks at that port natives operating "guaguas," which is Porto Rican for motor busses, take soldiers on sight-seeing trips over crooked mountain roads that were built 300 years ago by Spanish slaves.

Irish, who volunteered for duty in Panama and who selected the field artillery branch of the army for service, will be assigned by Major-General Charles H. Martin, commander of the Panama canal department, to one of the units that guard the canal. He will have the unusual opportunity of seeing the greatest engineering feat in history, without cost to himself.

Before sailing he was a member of the garrison of Fort Slocum, N. Y., an army post on the Long Island sound, where he received his military training under the supervision of Colonel J. J. Bradley, commander of the post.

Examination For Clerks

The United States civil service commission announces that the annual general clerical examination will be held in Norwich, Conn. The registers established will be used for filling clerical positions and others of a similar nature in the customs service, in the navy yards, the veteran hospitals, and any other government establishments which may exist in the city, or in the vicinity of the city, in which the examination is held, excepting that this register will not be used for filling vacancies in the postoffice service as these are filled from the postoffice clerk or carrier examination.

The usual entrance salary for positions of this kind ranges from $1,140 to $1,500 a year. Both men and women may enter the examination. Applications must be filed with the district secretary at Boston not later than September 29, 1926.

Full information concerning the examination may be secured from Harry L. MacDongald in the post office at Norwich Town.

NORWICH MAN FINED IN WATERFORD COURT

A. Segal of this city was presented in the Waterford town court Friday afternoon charged with parking on the highway without proper lights displayed on his machine. He entered a plea of not guilty. Testimony showed that he had parked his car without lights. He was found guilty and given a fine of $2 and costs.

Norwich Produce Market

(Furnished by the Commissioner of agriculture of Connecticut)

Trading on the market was active and most stocks sold readily. Liberal offerings of apples, some of which are native, sold for 1.50-2.00 per bushel, with limited supplies of blackberries 20c qt., blueberries 20c, black raspberries 25c and reds 18c pt. Peaches of excellent quality 2.25 2.50 per crate of six four qt. baskets while pears are not so plenty and somewhat higher at 3.25 per box.

String beans are offered in limited quantities only, a few limas at 3.00 per bushel and shell beans 1.50 with natives somewhat higher. A moderate supply of sweet corn and also cucumbers meets a good demand. Native potatoes in very limited lots sold for 1.35 per bush. Tomatoes are ripening slowly and the price holds firm.

Fresh eggs are scarce and all grades are advancing somewhat in price. Dressed meat and grain prices remain unchanged.

Features of trading on Connecticut farmers' markets were heavier supplies of sweet corn and native potatoes and generally light offerings of native tomatoes. Native tomato prices advanced to a point where the season started and demand was active. The sweet corn season is now in full swing with lower prices and high quality. Supplies of native lima beans increased and demand was good for well-filled stock. Green and wax bean prices were firm and stock in good demand. Shell beans were freely offered on some markets and brought $1.75-2.00 per bushel in Hartford and $1.00-1.25 per bushel in New Haven and Waterbury. Offerings of shell beans were light in Norwich and good stock brought $2.50 a bushel. Native celery is being generally offered and prices ranged $1.25 per dozen stalks in Hartford; 90c-1.25 in New Haven and Waterbury and 50c in Bridgeport.

Supplies of native potatoes are rapidly taking the place of shipped-in-supplies. High quality stock was in evidence in the Hartford, New Haven and Waterbury markets. Prices range generally lower. Supplies of native onions increased and stock was in poor demand. Onions brought $1.25-1.50 per bushel in Hartford and $1.25-1.75 per bushel in New Haven. Cabbage supplies were heavy and demand at a standstill. Receipts of home-grown vegetables became increasingly important during the past week with the above products commanding more attention than so far this season.

Apples are starting to receive their share of attention among fruits, and green apple pie appeared on the menu in several places. Present shipment of summer apples are heavier than a year ago. The principal variety being marketed at present is Duchess of Oldenberg and prices ranged $1.25-1.50 per bushel basket for good stock in New Haven. Heavier supplies of miscellaneous varieties from southern points brought low prices in Hartford. Southern peaches are selling well and demand is good for Elberta stock. Supplies of this popular fruit were mainly from Georgia, North Carolina and Arkansas. Mountain grown Arkansas stock brought higher prices than those from Georgia. Peach prices ranged $2.00-2.50 for Georgia Elbertas in Hartford and New Haven. The market for watermelons declined under heavy receipts and trading in cantaloupes slipped to lower levels. City markets were in bad condition due to a flood of over-ripe stock.

WOMAN AND DAUGHTER HURT IN AUTO CRASH

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 8—Mrs Keith Nelson and three-year old daughter Gloria are at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C Edward Nelson, recovering from injuries received in an automobile crash on the Westerly-Norwich state road Saturday, in a car operated by Mr Nelson. Two stitches were taken by a Norwich doctor in Mrs. Nelson's right forehead and she was treated for bruises on the right side of her face. Gloria Nelson was cut on the inside of her right lip when her tooth was forced into it. Mr. Nelson was uninjured.

The war department has approved plans for reconstruction the Bridge Creek, across Yellow Mill pond Bridgeport.

CATEGORICAL DENIAL OF WILD REPORTS FROM RUSSIA

Associated Press Correspondent Finds That Peace and Order Reign Throughout the Country—Soviet Leaders Continue in Office and There is No Indication of Mutiny in the Russian Army or Navy—American Tourists Find Moscow One of the Most Peaceful Towns in the World.

MOSCOW, Aug. 9.—(AP)—All reports abroad that M. Stalin, general secretary of the communist party has been murdered, that Leon Trotsky has fled, that Gregory Zinovieff has been exiled and that the Russian army and navy mutinied are summer fictions.

An investigation conducted by a correspondent for the Associated Press shows that peace and order reigns throughout Russai.

M. Stalin continues to direct affairs of state from his sanctum in the Kremlin. Trotsky, who occupies a small apartment near that of M. Stalin, is engrossed in literary pursuits and work for the concessions committee, while Zinovieff is taking a much needed period of rest in the Caucasus after his stormy recent innings with the central executive committee of the communist party.

There has been no mobilization of soviet troops as reported abroad, nor has there been the slightest indication of any uprising within the army. Soviet leaders long have been in the custom of giving the army the best of everything, bestowing special attention on their welfare, contentment and recreation, thus winning their loyalty. Moscow is as quiet as any American city on Sunday morning. Half the population is away in the country and the tide of life runs sluggishly through the old capital.

Twenty American college professors, publicists and social workers, who came here recently, have been pleasantly surprised to find Moscow one of the most peaceful and safe towns in the world, although not the cleanest or most orderly. They are dividing their time in Moscow between sightseeing, investigations of social conditions and interviews with various soviet commissars.

Like the resident American correspondents they have been flooded with anxious queries from home concerning their safety. They are as safe here as they would be on Main street.

MEXICAN MONEY MARKET SUFFERS SHARP SLUMP

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 9—(AP)—The Mexican money market has suffered sharp slump as regards the value of silver money, while the prices of certain foodstuffs are going higher, causing some flurry in financial and business circles. Popular apprehension has even gone so far as to cause rumors of a possible panic, but the bankers pronounce them absurd.

The bankers insist there is nothing to be alarmed about, and deny that the religious situation by means of the boycott, has caused the slump in silver, although the people generally are linking the two together.

The silver slump, the bankers point out, has been caused by reason of the fact that the government, in accumulating a large gold reserve to support the new issue of paper money by the Banco de Mexico, and for the payment of the foreign debt, necessarily withdrew considerable gold from general circulation, estimated at 70,000,000 or more pesos. Thus, it is said by the bankers, the natural law of supply and demand has increased the value of gold in terms of silver.

Fearing that a further discount in silver might cause general disquietude on the exchange market, and possibly create a dangerous situation for business, suggestions are being made that bankers and chambers of commerce attempt united action to "peg" silver at some agreed rate of discount. It has also been suggested the Banco de Mexico, by means of an increased issue of paper money upon the gold reserve, attempt to relieve the silver discount.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE HAS RETURNED TO PAUL SMITH'S

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 9—(AP)—President Coolidge returned to White Pine camp late today from Vermont to face a considerable volume of government business that had accumulated at the executive offices during his five days' absence, and a program of conferences with government officials that will occupy him this week.

Although a number of departmental and routine questions awaited his attention, it was said no important matters had been received and that no engagements were on his program for tomorrow, except his usual Tuesday meeting with newspaper correspondents.

Meanwhile no word came from the president in elaboration of the brief statement informally made in his behalf last night concerning the letter of former Premier Clemenceau of France urging a new viewpoint by the United States on the war-time debts.

At that time the president let it be known definitely that he considered the negotiations for funding the French debt closed and furthermore let it be known decidedly that the Washington government would take up questions with the French people only through their authorized diplomatic representatives.

THREE-DAY RESPITE FOR YOUTHS DOOMED TO DEATH

BOSTON, Aug. 9—(AP)—Three youths doomed to die in the electric chair won three days of grace today. Notice was served on the warden of the Charlestown State prison to produce John J. Devereaux, Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin, so-called "carbarn murderers" in supreme court on Wednesday morning in habeas corpus proceedings. The court order automatically stayed the execution of the men until the hearing is concluded.

At the same time a volunteer committee which has labored for weeks to bring about commutation of the death sentence, met with a rebuff when Gov. Fuller for the fourth time refused to exercise the executive clemency. An opinion by Attorney General Jay R. Beton upheld the governor's action in declining to refer to the executive council a petition for commutation. The attorney general ruled that Gov. Fuller acted within his discretion.

$500,000 FOR MEMBERS OF TOBACCO ASSOCIATION

HARTFORD, Aug. 9—(AP)—Five hundred thousand dollars will be distributed among 1,500 members of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco association before September 1, as the third payment on the 1923 broad leaf crop, it was announced today by Judge Levi P. M. Hickey, vice president of the association.

The money has been made available for distribution through its release from collateral pledged to the Federal Intermediate Credit bank of Springfield, for loans given on the 1922 and 1924 crops. This release, notice of which was given the association in a letter received today, comes as a result of the large payments which have been made on the loans in the past year. A year ago the loans on the two crops amounted to $7,200,000 while at the present date the amount remaining to be paid is $2,150,000, according to Judge Hickey.

TO INVITE CAPITALISTS TO FLY ON THE LOS ANGELES

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of naval aeronautics on his return as passenger on the dirigible Los Angeles, tonight indicated that financiers and leaders of industry would be invited to fly on the airship in the hope of stimulating their interest in the future of the dirigible as a commercial unit.

The craft was returned to its hangar at 9.05 o'clock after a flight over Long Island to Montauk Point, where it was in radio compass calibration with Amagansett station. Thence it flew to New London, Conn., circling there for the return trip.

"I only wish," Admiral Moffet said, "that Henry Ford and a few more of his progressive type had been along with me today. It was my first trip over the water and if they had been along and experienced the same feeling that I did, England and Germany would not be the only two countries where airships are being built."

So enthusiastic was the admiral that he cancelled plans to return to Washington tonight on information from Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, flight commander, that the Los Angeles would fly again tomorrow.

The officers plan to fly to Cape May tomorrow for calibration. The ship will be moored to the mast early tomorrow morning.

11 BATHERS WERE SWEPT TO DEATH BY UNDERTOW

BUFFALO, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Nature laid a trap for the unwary 11 persons who were drowned last night between Brant Beach and End Beach on Lake Erie it was revealed today. Coincidentally Brant town authorities were criticized for not marking the danger spot.

Where the wave and undertow clutched more than a score of bathers and swept 11 of them to death in deep water a creek of bygone years had worn a chute into the rock-bottom of the lake. That creek now is a mere ditch but the outlet channel remains as a deep impression in the rock. Normally it is filled with sand.

Sunday a great swell struck the shore, sluiced out the sand and into the sluice drew the unsuspecting merrymakers who were bathing in what they thought was waist-deep water. It swirled back into the lake as a torrent of water, sand and human beings.

Of the 11 who perished, the bodies of seven have been recovered.

GERMANY IS BUILDING 60-PASSENGER AIRPLANE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—(AP)—Germany is building a 60 passenger airplane which she expects to place in regular trans-Atlantic service within 12 months, Major Lester D. Gardner, director of the Aeronautical chamber of commerce of America, said tonight on his return from abroad on the Minnewaska.

Major Gardner also said that Russia expects to begin airplane service between Moscow and Pekin, China, within a fortnight. An air route is already established between Berlin and Moscow. If plans for the routes materialize, New Yorkers will be able to travel all the way to Pekin by airplanes, he said.

PROGRESS OF EDSEL FORD RELIABILITY PLANE TOUR

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 9—(AP)—Flying on schedule time despite rainy weather encountered for most of the distance from Miuwaukee, the Edsel Ford reliability airplane tour reached here just after noon today.

The first plane, piloted by Walter Beach, swooped into the St. Paul airport at 12.30 p. m. followed at intervals of a few minutes by 22 others. Two of the 24 planes which flew from Chicago to Milwaukee remained at the latter city on account of engine trouble.

The fleet departs Wednesday for Des Moines.

Blast in Fireworks Plant Killed Four

A Score of Persons Injured—Several Buildings Wrecked at Bristol, R. I.

BRISTOL, R. I., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Four persons were killed and a score injured today by an explosion which destroyed the plant of the Bristol Fireworks company, wrecked three other buildings, damaged nearby houses and shattered windows in distant parts of the twc.

The four victims were Giuseppe Giorgio, owner of the plan; his wife; their son, James Giorgio, and son-in-law, Luigi Tamburo. The three men were at work and Mrs. Giorgio had just gone to the plant to bring them their dinners when the explosion occurred.

Her decapitated body was found in a potato patch 20 yards distant. Giorgio was blown through the roof of the flimsy one-story wooden shack that housed the plant. His body and that of Tamburo, both mangled almost beyond recognition, were taken from the ruins. James Giorgio, the only one of the four alive when rescuers arrived, was removed to the Rhode Island hospital, where he died an hour and a half later without being able to tell the cause of the explosion.

The fireworks shack was blown to atoms and the fragments scattered in all directions for several hundred yards. Two dwelling houses which stood within ten yards of the shack were demolished as was an adjoining carriage shed.

The injured were residents of nearby houses. Police reported they had found only seven persons that required medical treatment and that their injuries were not serious. Mrs. Manuel Paches, who lived in one of the houses wrecked by the explosion, received a severe cut on the shoulder. The other dwelling was occupied by S. S. Stanzione, but none of the family was at home.

Mrs. Henry Sylvia and her 14 year old daughter, Elizabeth, were cut and bruised when the blast shattered the windows of their home. The others reported injured were Frank Abate, Herman Rodrick, 14, a 9-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Balzani, and an unidentified woman treated for cuts at a physician's office.

The blast shook the whole town and shattered windows in buildings more than a mile distant. Authorities tonight had been unable to determine the cause of the blast and expressed doubt that it would ever be discovered, although a coroner's inquest will be conducted.

EXPLOSION IN FIREWORKS PLANT AT NORTH BERGEN, N. J.

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., Aug. 9—(AP)—Police tonight reported that an explosion, followed by fire, occurred at one of the buildings in a group owned by the International Fireworks company. The building affected is located at the foot of Main street, in the new Durham section of North Bergen. No loss of life nor injury has been reported.

Four small wooden shanties, in which Roman candles and other fireworks were stored, were destroyed. Officials estimated the total damage at $50,000. It is believed the fire originated in the spontaneous combusion of oil and rags on the floor of one of the sheds. One big explosion, heard several miles away, occurred at 9 o'clock and was followed by numerous small explosions as the Roman candles and other fireworks were ignited.

TO CONSIDER AMENDMENT TO FRENCH CONSTITUTION

VERSAILLES, France, Aug. 9.—(AP)—For the fourth time since the third republic, a national assembly will meet here tomorrow to consider an amendment to the French constitution providing for a sinking fund commission guaranteed against the variations of parliamentary politics. The amendment is offered by Premier Poincare as part of his plans to rehabilitate French finance.

The national assembly will meet in the hall of congress built in 1875 adjoining the wing of the Palace of Versailles where President Wilson and the other members of the signatory powers signed the treaty of Versailles in 1919.

The two houses of parliament, which sit separately at Paris for ordinary legislation, are obliged to come to this historic town, made famous by the predilalities of Louis XIV, whenever revsion of the constitution is debated or a president of the republic is elected.

Versailles was the seat of the French national assembly, while the commune was triumphant in Paris after the Franco-Prussian war. The second assembly, which met is 1879, was called on to decide the transfer of the executive and parliamentary government back to Paris. The assembly decided that, while the ministries might install themselves at Paris and the two chambers might sit there separately on grave questions of the revision of the constitution ought to be decided far from the influence of the great French metropolis.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST ROLAND GALINAS, WAUREGAN

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Privates Roland Galinas, 19, of Wauregan, Conn., and Wilfred J. Galipau, of Readville, stationed at Fort Banks, Winthrop, were arrested today on a complaint sworn out by the department of justice on a serious charge growing out of the story told by a 14 year old Winthrop girl.

If convicted of the offense, which it is claimed was committed on or about July 20, on the government reservation, the two men face a sentence of from 20 years to life imprisonment.

FIVE LIVES LOST WHEN BRITISH SUBMARINE SANK

LONDON, Aug. 9—(AP)—The British submarine H-29 sank at its moorings in the Davenport dockyard, near Plymouth, late today. Five men lost their lives.

Various reasons are given for the accident. One is that the submarine was inclined at too sharp an angle by the drawing of the hawsers as it was being moored; another is that it went over too far in a tilting test permitting the water to flow in the open hatches.

Six men on deck at the time of the accident were able to jump clear of the craft and were rescued.

Texas Democrats to Have Run-Off Primary

Democratic State Executive Committee Rejects Protest Filed by Gov. Ferguson.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The names of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson and Dan Moody as candidates for the democratic nomination for governor will be certified in the run-off primary, the democratic state executive committee decided this afternoon.

Request of Governor Ferguson that Moody's name be not certified was refused by the committee.

Governor Ferguson alleged that the election law governing campaign contributions had been violated.

In a petition to the committee, Governor Ferguson set forth that R. L. Bobbitt, candidate for state representative, and Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the house and a candidate for re-election to the house, had contributed $250 to Moody's campaign. Such contributions operated to make Moody's campaign expense account statement illegal, and, therefore, disqualified him as a candidate, the petition declared.

Further charges were made that many votes for Ferguson were counted for Moody and that many voters were caused to violate the election laws by persons electioneering in the voting booth. It was alleged that Moody assented to such acts, and thereby became a principal.

The committee refused to consider the petition on the ground that the committee was not a judicial body.

Attorney General Moody declared "The Fergusons seem determined to assail the principles of free government and democracy.

"I am ready to go down the line with them from the Red river to the Rio Grande. I am going to conduct a school house campaign throughout the state, visiting every precinct of Texas."

Lee Satterwaite, speaker of the house, said as far as he was concerned "an investigation of the Ferguson administration will be launched when the legislature convenes."

LATEST REPORTS OF THE ESCAPED INDIAN LEOPARD

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Oliver W. Holton's escaped wild Indian Leopard today was well on its way toward attainment of all marathon and fasting records.

During its five days of freedom the animal not only abstained from food but topped its fast off with a run from Middletown to Dover, a distance of 70 miles. To make this journey the leopard would have to run through thickly populated sections.

Police Chief Counterman of Dover, convinced that Russell Bowman of Randolph township had sighted the cat this morning, turned out with a posse of six police, six civilians and two "coon" dogs. The men were heavily armed.

They returned this evening tired and empty handed.

Bowman reported having seen a weary-looking animal, the likes of which he had never before encountered, leave the brush near General hospital, eye him for a moment, and then leap into the woods on the other side of Crane Hill road.

The posse found tracks, supposedly feline, in the mountains several miles southwest of Dover. Set on these, the dogs bayed along for three miles to Win reservoir. There the scent went cold.

While the beast or its phantom was being hunted 70 miles northwest, 40 men held in readiness at Nolton's zoo near Red Bank received a telephone message from "Bob Campbell" that the leopard had made off with a rooster on his Nut swamp farm.

Bob Campbell was found, neither was his farm and authorities were unable to trace the telephone call.

Rumors that the escaped leopard was a hoax were discounted today by state troopers and Detective William S. Mustoe, of Monmouth county, who investigated.

"BREAKS" REPORTED IN THE HALL MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 9.—(AP)—An "important break" was expected tonight by State Senator Alexander Simpson, who is conducting the revised investigation into how the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, and his pretty choirister, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, met death in September, 1922.

Senator Simpson's announcement came at the end of a day during which James Mills, husband of the slain woman and 13 other witnesses were examined. This was the first time Mills was brought to Somerville for questioning during the present examination, and state police at the end of a five hour session, said they were through with him.

Major Mark O. Kimberling, acting head of the state police said he knew nothing of the "break" expected by Senator Simpson but that two "good breaks" had occurred during the day. He did not reveal their source.

Mills' story, Major Kimberling said, corresponded with what he had told at other investigations, but that he had added one or two interesting details.

He said that the questioners were through with Mills and that Cyriotte Mills, daughter of the slain woman, would be called some time this week.

ORDER TO QUARANTINE ALL DOGS IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Aug. 9.—(AP)—As a result of a serious outbreak of rabies in Stamford, the state department of domestic animals, has ordered a quarantine on all dogs in the city, effective August 16, requiring their confinement on the premises of the owner. This was decided today at a conference in Stamford between Dr. Raymond Fear, health officer and Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Elliott. Commissioner James M. Whittlesey signed the quarantine order tonight. Four people, bitten by dogs, have taken the Pasteur treatment and an investigation of the situation is being made by Mr. Elliott and Chauncey B. Ganung, of the domestic animals department.

FRANCE MAY DELAY ACTION ON WAR DEBT RATIFICATION

Indications Are That Consideration of the Agreement Will be Postponed Until After the Summer Vacation—The Chamber of Deputies Has Appointed a Sub-Committee to Review the Mellon-Bereiger Accord.

PARIS, Aug. 9—(AP)—That consideration by parliament of the debt agreement with the United States will be postponed until after the summer vacation at least, is the interpretation placed upon the action of the chamber of deputies today today in appointing a sub-committee to review the Mellon-Berenger accord.

Premier Poincare's idea of bringing both the debt settlement with the United States and the settlement with Great Britain up for ratification before adjournment of parliament for the summer recess is understood to have met with opposition inside the cabinet. That fact, rather than the open letter of Former Premier Clemenceau to President Coolidge, is generally supposed to be the real reason for avoiding discussion of the debt settlement at today's session of the cabinet, although it was announced on good authority that the ministers were called together to consider the particular question.

M. Marin, minister of pensions, representing the republican union group, formerly known as the national bloc, in the cabinet, is said to have been the principal objector to immediate consideration. The debt settlements in all probability will be postponed until October at the earliest, unless M. Poincare is able before the adjournment of parliament this week to bring about an agreement among his ministers in favor of ratification.

The premier is known to favor prompt action with respect to the debts, as advised by the committee of experts appointed sometime ago to investigate the financial fafairs of the country. Several members of the cabinet, however, including M. Tardieu, minister of commerce, as well as M. Marin, believed that public opinion in France is not yet prepared to accept the Washington settlement.

GERMAN PRESS INTERESTED IN CLEMENCEAU'S LETTER

BERLIN, Aug. 9—(AP)—The open letter of Former Premier Clemenceau of France to President Coolidge, which in effect, asks the chief executive of the United States not to consider the payment of war debts on a purely commercial basis, has evoked the keenest interest in the German newspapers.

"How little the European allies understand American sentiment in the matter of allied war debts," says the "Svossische Zeitung." "is clearly shown by M. Clemenceau's appeal. Anyone knowing the psychology of the American man in the street must realize that M. Clemenceau is not the most suitable Frenchman to make such an appeal, for the name of Clemenceau symbolizes the treaty of Versailles and the defeat of President Wilson, as well as his principles."

The "Taeglische Rundschau" voices the opinion that M. Clemenceau might have done valuable service to the world, if he had not only considered France's troubles but the economic position of the entre world, "which was all thrown into confusion by the treaty of Versailles." This newspaper emphasizes how President Wilson's idea of general disarmament has been consummated in Germany, "whereas France today not only is a nation of arms, but is clearly demonstrated in previous conferences that she has no intention of disarming."

The Boersen Zeitung treats the situation sarcastically, describing M. Clemenceau's acts as "having a dreadfully sentimental tinge."

"Therefore," it adds, "it may be expected to have an effect on the masses although it will not affect politicians and diplomatists who are accustomed to champion the interests of their respective nations just as energetically, brutally and cleverly as M. Clemenceau has championed those of France."

NEGOTIATIONS CONCERNING PASSAIC TEXTILE STRIKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The first meeting of citizens' committee, representing Passaic textile strikers, with the emergency board of the United Textile Workers of America, ended today without any agreement on the proposal of the strikers to join the American Federation of Labor. The negotiations will be continued.

Asked if Albert Weisbord, leader of the strike, was in any way represented by the citizens' committee, A. Jeff Lauck, chairman of the committee, replied: "There is nobody representing Weisboard. He is eliminated."

According to Thomas F. McMahon of Providence, R. I., chairman of the emergency committee and the executive committee of the United Textile Workers, the former committee will go into a conference, which will last from tomorrow to Thursday, considering the projects of the strikers' committee.

Before a decision is announced at the emergency board meeting next Thursday afternoon, Mr. McMahon said the executive committee members will be consulted by mail. Their opinion will enter into the decision.

In announcing that no decision has been reached thus far, Mr. McMahon said, however, that he was able to report "progress."

BRIDGEPORT TRAFFIC POLICEMAN INJURED

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Thrown against a heavy refuse cart by a runaway draft horse that he was attempting to quiet, Traffic Officer Patrick F. O'Brien is at St. Vincent's hospital here, suffering multiple bruises and possible internal injuries. O'Brien was on duty at Water street and Fairfield avenue late this afternoon when one of a team of horses slipped on the car track near him. O'Brien sprang to the assistance of the driver, sitting on the horse's head while the driver worked to free the animal from the traces.

Suddenly the horses lurched free and sprang toward the crowded sidewalk. O'Brien kept his grip on the bit, swinging the animal about. The horse lunged up against the dump wagon, forcing O'Brien against the wheels.

Unnerved by the excitement, the other horse started to run away but was controlled by the driver., Several brother officers and a number of teamsters and workmen in the crowd that gathered got both horses under control. O'Brien was rushed to the hospital where his condition is reported as fair.

$10,107,334 CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE OF E. W. SCRIPPS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The $10,107,334 claim which will be filed in Hamilton, O., probate court against the estate of the late E. W. Scripps, will be on behalf of the estate of James G. Scripps, a son, who died five years before E. W. Scripps. It will be based on an alleged agreement whereby James G. Scripps was to share in the profits of the Scripps newspaper enterprises.

Mrs. Josephine Scripps, of Miramar, Calif., widow of James G. Scripps, instituted the claim on behalf of herself and her five children. They were not mentioned as beneficiaries in the will of E. W. Scripps, who died last March, leaving his entire estate in trust, with Robert Scripps, another son, as executor.

Thirty-two newspapers and the press services of the Scripps enterprises are involved in the litigation.

DRIVING LICENSE OF A FIREMAN REVOKED

BOSTON, Aug. 9—(AP)—In revoking the driver's license of Maurice D. Broderick, Newburyport fireman, today State Motor Vehicle Registrar Frank A. Goodwin commented that while fire apparatus has the right of way when going to fire that does not mean that its drivers "have the right to endanger lives of people on the highway.

"Firemen driving motor apparatus are not privileged characters," the registrar declared, "and they have no more right to race at an unreasonable rate of speed than any other driver."

EXPLANATION OF EXPORTS OF GOLD TO GERMANY

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The export movement of gold to Germany which reached large proportions shortly after the flotation of the $100,000,000 German loan here in 1924, has been resumed with a consignment of $2,500,000, forwarded late last week.

Additional shipments probably will be made from time to time by the Federal Reserve bank of New York to the German Reichsbank, which will use the gold to fortify its reserves. Approximately half the proceeds of the German loan were transferred to the Reichsbank for this purpose late in 1924 and early in 1925.

Federal Reserve bank officials today issued the following statement in explanation of the gold movement:

We are authorized by the Reichsbank to state that shipments now being made to Germany are a part of the reserve of car marked gold long held by the Federal Reserve bank of New York for the account of the Reichsbank. These shipments are made exactly as in the former case out of gold accumulated in our hands and certified as car marked gold reserve held aboard by the Reichsbank."

RADIO FANS MAY HEAR NOISE METEORS MAKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—(AP)—Radio fans will try to find out tomorrow night what sort of noise meteors make during a celestial shower of fire.

Tests will be conducted jointly by Dr William J. Fisher of the Harvard observatory and Radio News, a magazine, and all radio fans were today invited to participate.

In a statement announcing the tests today, Hugo Gernsback, editor of the Radio magazine said that tomorrow has been chosen as the date because great meteoric showers occur every year on August 10, when it is believed the earth cuts the patchs of a disintegrated comet or planetoid.

He put forward the theory that electrical effects must be produced when these meteors strike the earth's atmosphere and catch fire and that this effect can be tuned in on by radio sets. Listeners weer asked to operate their sets so that no reular program would interfere, and then, sitting at a window, record carefully what noise is heard just at the moment that a meteor is seen streaking across the sky.

STATE DEPT OF HEALTH HAS NOT CLOSED ANY BEACH

HARTFORD, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Bathers may splash about in the waters of Lighthouse Point beaches as much as they please, published reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Branding as incorrect a report attributed to him that "one beach on Lighthouse Point, east of New Haven harbor, has already been closed, and a large number of other beaches on the Connecticut shore of Long Island sound may be closed within the next year or two because of the pollution due to discharge of building sewage," Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of health tonight declared:

"The state department of health has not closed any beach in Connecticut. It never to my knowledge has, and is not now considering any such move with regard to any of the state's beaches."

LAST EFFORT TO HALT EXECUTION OF WHITTEMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Judge Robert F. Stanton in city court late today granted an application for a hearing next Wednesday to show cause why a writ of habeas corpus should not be issued in the case of Richard Reese Whittemore sentenced to hang Friday.

The hearing was granted on application of a Negro lawyer acting independent of Whittemore's counsel. Whittemore signed the application papers in his death cell today. Legal authorities were skeptical that the move would have any bearing on the case. Whittemore is to die for the slaying of Robert H. Holtman, a Maryland penitentiary guard.

NEW NATHAN HALE HOTEL TO BE OPENED SEPT. 15TH

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 9.—The formal opening of Willimantic's new and modern hotel, the Nathan Hale, a product of community spirit and endeavor, has been set for Wednesday, Sept. 15th, it was announced today by William P. Jordan, president of the Willimantic Community Hotel corporation and Daniel F. Daley of New York City who will be resident manager of the new hostelry. Manager Daley and Carlos D. Smith of New York, supervising manager of the American Hotels corporation which will operate the hotel, have been in this city arranging the details for the operation of the house. The finishing touches in the various phases of construction are being applied and predictions that the building would be a great credit to Willimantic and to the group of unselfish men who put the sale of stock over the top, are already being realized.

Mr. Daley, the new manager, has had 20 years of experience in his work and has been identified with the Marseilles, Knickerbocker and Belle Clair in New York.

The new hotel is five stories high, entirely fireproof, of brick and cement construction and has 75 rooms, besides four stores on the ground floor. The furnishings have arrived and are to be installed in a few days.

REPORTED "SLIGHT" ACCIDENT HAROLD SWAIN PENALIZED $58

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 9.—Finding that Harold Swain, 20, of 471 Park avenue, Burnside, misrepresented the facts in reporting to the police that he had struck William Drake of South Chaplin with his automobile Saturday morning, the city court Monday imposed a fine of $50 and costs, amounting to $58.65. Swain has been held under a charge of reckless driving; it was found that the "slight" accident he had reported was of a more severe nature, for Drake had not only been knocked down and injured in the right leg, but Swain was driving at from 35 to 40 miles an hour and on the left of lower Main street, according to the evidence.

William Drake, the injured man, Edward Williams, William Martin and George Drake, father of William Drake, all testified that Swain was driving between 35 and 40 miles an hour and on the left of the road Drake was about three feet from the left curb toward which he was going, when run down.

John Congdon of Hartford, a passenger in Swain's car corroborated the latter's testimony that the car was being driven on the right side of the street at about 20 miles an hour. Drake stepped off the curbing and went as far as the middle of the street then turned back. Swain claimed having to turn left to pass Drake but the latter stepped in front of the car and was struck. This happened about in the middle of the road which was wet from rain.

Clarence E. Wallen of Scotland Dam, former resident of this city, was fined $100 and costs, amounting to $111.65 in police court here Monday morning when found guilty of a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. Wallen, father of six children, was operating a touring car on Ash street Sunday night when arrested by Officer A. Hurley.

After attending mass in this city Sunday morning and receiving one hour's leave to visit their homes, the youthful choristers of St. Mary's boys' choir returned for their final week of camp life at Columbia lake and got back into routine Monday morning. Director Joseph F. Gaudreau has arranged for Thursday to be camp day when there will be a baseball game, field events, fireworks display with a dog roast and swim at evening.

Dr. Daniel C. McGuiness, 71, who died suddenly at his home, 21 Church street, at 6 o'clock Sunday evening was the oldest medical practitioner in the city, having been a physician for 51 years, practicing in this city for about 40 years. For a number of years he devoted his time entirely to office calls. He had patented several medicines which have been successful. Born in Preston, June 6, 1855, he was a son of John and Mary Kennedy McGuiness. Surviving him is his wife, sister, Mrs. Julia M. Lamb of Norwich, Mrs. Delia McGuiness, one son, John D. McGuiness of Highland Park, Ill., a niece, Miss Mary Lamb of Norwich.

Elmer Cahoon and Charles Squiers of South Coventry were charged respectively with driving while under the influence of liquor and with intoxication when presented in the Mansfield town court Monday forenoon. Both pleaded guilty and Justice George H. Andrews imposed a fine of $100 and costs amounting to $122.90 on Cahoon. Squiers was fined $10 and costs amounting to $22.90. They were arrested by State Policeman Henry Heinold of Stafford Springs barracks, Sunday night, after a Ford car driven by Cahoon figured in an accident in Merrow Sunday night, causing damage and injuries to Squiers' face for which he received treatment from a physician in Stafford Springs.

Miss Alice Boucher and Hildevert Bedard were united in marriage at a wedding solemnized in St. Mary's church at 8 o'clock Monday morning by Rev. H. C. Belec, also celebrant of the nuptial high mass. The attendants were Aime J. Boucher, brother of the bride and Godias Lamontagne, brother-in-law of the groom. The bride wore gray embroidered georgette with hat to match. She carried Killarney roses. At the home of the bride, 237 Valley street, a wedding breakfast was served to relatives and friends from Meriden, Norwich, New London, Berlin, New Haven, Rockedall, Mass., and this city. Mr. and Mrs. Bedard will tour Canada and be at home to their friends at 279 Ash street after September 1. For traveling the bride wore a gown of navy georgette with hat to correspond. Mrs. Bedard has been employed at the Quidnick - Windham Manufacturing plant and from her associate workers and many other friends she received many beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Bedard presented their attendants ruby rings. The bride gave the groom a ruby ring set in platinum and the groom's gift to the bride was a string of LaTosca pearls.

Another accident of mysterious character has come to the attention of Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink of Andover who has a real job keeping tabs of accidents at the Andover railroad underpass, admitted to be the worst in the state. In this case an automobile ran through the underpass from the south and then left the road, crashing into and demolishing the reflecting danger signal consisting of the standard and the two feet of square red glass. Upon giving notice to the state highway department a temporary warning sign has been erected.

John Trudon of Bristol pleaded guilty to a violation of the automobile law when in the Columbia town court Saturday night and was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $13.06. The case deals with an automobile truck owned by defendant and which was being operated in the town of Columbia on the night of June 14, by Henry Suppeau. The truck was equipped with illegal lens and did not have the proper weight markings on the body. State Policeman Heinold presented the accused before Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins, Grand Juror Dwight A. Lyman prosecuting.

Alfred Sussman of Norwich, the 18 year old young man drowned near Atlantic Beach Sunday was a sophomore at Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, and a cousin of A. I. Sussman of this city.

The bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Adeline C. Freeman held at Storrs Saturday were Carroll Hawkins, Henry Knowlton, Fred Rosebrooks and W. P. Wildes.

Repairs were started Monday by Superintendent of Streets Irving M. Ford on Temple street, which has looked like a newly plowed field for several months past.

A. A. YOUNG H. & L. CO. DELEGATE TO NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 9.—A. A. Young, Jr., Hose and Ladder Co., No. 1, will be represented at the annual firemen's muster in New London by the foreman, Walter Field. The alternate is Adnan Maynard.

The proprietor of the pool room in the Anthony block, at the rear of the new block being erected, reports that Saturday night his pool room was entered, cigars stolen, a chair broken and the show case moved. He closed his place at 10:30 and the restaurant was closed about the same time. There is a rear entrance to the pool room and the lock had been forced. About 11:30 John Fitzgerald was awakened by a racket in the back yard of the Hiscox property. He saw several men on the wall back of the pool room and in the yard, and told them to get out. Two of them disappeared, but the others refused to leave and were very defiant, until he threatened to have them arrested. Monday, the pool room proprietor found the rear door broken open and discovered the loss of his property. He has reported the matter to Officer Vegiard.

Mrs. J. Frank Gardiner and son, Norton, have returned from a visit with Mrs. Gardiner's sister in Waterbury. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Laird of Waterbury have been recent guests at the Gardiner home.

Mrs. E. J. Farrell of Wauregan and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox were among those who watched the great dirigible Los Angeles for an hour at Ocean Beach Monday as the airship passed over on calibration tests from her headquarters at Lakehurst, N. J. She was sighted there about 2:30 and was flying unusually low when she sailed over the beach. The lettering, "U. S Navy" and even the fluttering of the screen over the openings were plainly distinguishable. She headed north over the submarine base and then returned over the beach and took a westward course, apparently proceeding on her return voyage to Lakehurst.

AIR SERVICE ENLISTS AID OF OLD TIME STEREOSCOPE

DAYTON, O., Aug 9.—(AP)—The stereoscope, that parlor thriller of the nineties, has come back strong, and in a field where it may save lives. The stereoscope has joined the U. S. Army Air service.

There are times in war when the topography of a tract of land is as important to an army as the layout of fields and buildings, and ordinary photographs do not show topography well. Now the aerial photographer takes one shot and then a second a hundred feet or so farther on. When he lands, the two photographs are placed in a powerful and specially built stereoscope that makes little hills stand up until they almost poke the gazer in the eye.

DANIELSON

SOUTH KILLINGLY SCHOOL TO BE CLOSED THIS FALL

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 9—South Killingly school is to be closed, perhaps permanently. This has been decided upon by the town school committee and Supt. W. E. Parker, after a careful check-up of the advantages of transporting the pupils of the South Killingly district to Danielson, against the handicaps of various kinds incident to maintaining the South Killingly school. The action taken has the support of the parents of 23 out of the total of 26 pupils attending the South Killingly school the past year and a petition signed by parents asking that the change to Danielson be made, came to the school officials of the town.

There will be both educational and economic advantages in the plan to bring the South Killingly district pupils to Danielson, beginning in September. The junior high school and the graded school here will easily absorb the pupils from that section of the town without hiring an additional teacher. There will be transportation to be considered, but that has long entered into the school problem at South Killingly, an agricultural district in which the homes of the pupils are widely scattered and wherein transportation has been furnished for years. In Danielson the South Killingly pupils will have the advantages of a more highly developed school system than it has been possible to maintain at South Killingly. While there may be some economies in the transportation, this factor will be more than offset by savings to be made through not being called upon to maintain the South Killingly school.

The closing of the South Killingly school is in line with a position of many interested citizens and concerned people that attended upon in some instances, the meetings when [illegible] district school. of the controversy. Even if—as it is charged and denied—the Mexican government should set about the abolition of all religion, this government would have no ground for interference. The soviet government attempted that very thing, but that was never assigned as a cause for withholding recognition.

While the United Sattes has the friendliest relations with all churches, even going so far as to relieve them from taxation, ours is a purely secular state-considered solely as a state. For it to interfere in a quarrel between church and state in another nation would be equivalent to denying its own nature. Such a quarrel is the deplorable thing we are witnessing in Mexico, a fight and a very bitter and unfortunate one between church and state. Incidentally, it may be remarked, the Mexican laws apply to all the churches, Protestant as well as Roman Catholic, but in some of their provisions bear most hardly upon the Catholic.

Protection for the civil rights of Americans is assured by treaty with Mexico and that we shall insist upon, but beyond that we cannot go and ought not to think of going. Nor is it for us to say how laws enacted by Mexico shall be enforced, any more than it was for us to say how France, a few years ago, should enforce her church and state separation law, although it was charged that such enforcement was often marked with brutality. We can never be too thankful that this government was so constructed and so backed by tradition as to make it impossible for it ever to become involved in any church and state controversy without a reputation of its principles. It is also a matter for thankfulness that our diplomacy has always proceeded on the theory that forbids any meddling in the internal affairs of other nations. As a result we have been saved from much trouble abroad and serious disturbance at home. In these particulars the men who built this government established its traditions knew what they were about, and showed wise and far-seeing wisdom.

DEFYING THE SENATE

[illegible] public utility magnate, Robert E. Crowe, state attorney at Illinois, have joined the [illegible] who have defied the senate investigating committee [illegible] by the senate itself.

[illegible] a congressional committee to compel witnesses to answer [illegible] papers have never been [illegible]. Before the supreme court of the United States is pending a case involving this very question. Mr. Daugherty, brother of the attorney general, who [illegible] to answer questions or to produce to the records or his office in Washington Court House, O., the senate committee was investigating the administration of the department of justice under Attorney General Daugherty. A decision in this case, of great interest in this [illegible] has been pending since it was argued Dec. 8, 1924. Upon the outcome depends hangs, in a measure, the similar case in the now [illegible] Doheny leases.

[illegible] of the senate, the investigating committee, headed by Reed of Missouri, has delved into the expenditures in Pennsylvania primaries. Thomas W. Cunningham [illegible] a witness in the senate investigation, refused to answer some of the questions the committee put to him. Mr. Crowe last week in Chicago refused to answer questions on the ground that the committee had no power to inquire into contributions to party campaigns. Chairman Reed, on the other hand, held that the primary campaigns of the senator and other nominees were such [illegible] even that the information [illegible] was essential to the committee's determination in the matter. The position of Mr. Crowe, a public official sworn to support the laws, declining to testify before a senate committee regarding a $15,000 contribution to the campaign fund may be [illegible] but it is not pleasant. No such picture is presented by Mr. Reed, who donated more than $125,000 to his friend, Col. Smith, head of the public utilities commission of Illinois, in winning the republican senatorial nomination, and at the same time supported for the democratic nomination likewise to an organization supporting senator McKinley, his opponent. Concealment of the sources of campaign contributions and expenditures, the refusal to speak [illegible] damning in the eyes of the public.

A FRAGILE FLOWER

"'Lo there, merry little sunbeam," chirped the fat clerk as she nudged her companion with a well-padded elbow and deposited her plethoric handtag under a box of handkerchiefs for safekeeping. "How's the girl? Swell's you look?"

"Sure," rejoined the other girl. "How's yourself?"

"Me?" the fat clerk burst out joyously. "Say, kid, listen in a minute and I'll tell you sumpin'. I'm so tough nothin' don't ever happen to me except I bust out in a couple more pounds. My gran she's worried sick about it. She says I won't never land no husband if I keep on gettin' stouter.

"Sure, she keeps right on tryin'. Say, when she finds about the last one! Goodnight!

"And she'll be sorer'n ever seein I could most likely of had this one had I of wanted him—I sure had him goin' good—and I give him the air instead. Say, kid, listen. It was like this, see?

"Gran had me over to her place one night a couple months back because there was a guy there that was a friend of my uncle's—kinda old, but she should worry—and me bein' not so awful hard to look at if a person's got the time to walk all around and take me all in, this guy falls for me.

"Well, a couple nights afterward him and my—you know—uncle comes over to our place, and the next day after he phones me and says how about a movie, and the night after that we goes ridin' in his flivver. Quick work, what?

"Well, after that he stepped on the gas and we buzzed right along till a couple nights back, when the whole thing busted wide open.

"Say, kid, listen. You'll die when I tell you. Ma, she was kinda wise right from the first, see? But she never let on, knowin' I was all for takin' him as is—you know how a person is when they're gettin' fatter every minute and think a guy's startin' to fall for 'em, see? I guess I'd of felt just the way ma did if I'd a been—you know—normal, like they say. But I come to after a while. I'll tell the world I did. You see that first night when him and my uncle come over to our place ma hustles out to the kitchen and pretty soon she comes back with some ice chawklit and some of her grand fruit cake, see, and she tel's us all to set in. And we done it. And say, lady, listen. When she tells the boy friend to help himself to a big hunk, he kinda—you know—picks off a couple crumbs and lets 'em down on his plate, and he says, 'It looks swell,' he says, 'but I guess maybe I'll take a soda cracker, if you happen to have one,' he says, 'I don't never eat no rich food,' he says.

"Well, say, baby, listen. The first time I begun to kinda—you know—sit up and take notice was one night when he phoned me and asked me would I go to the movie with him and then says would I meet him at the theater after I had my dinner, so's he could go home and get his rubbers first—he thought maybe it might rain.

"Say, deare, listen. What I don't know about what that guy can't eat and can't do for fear he'll get dyspepsia or sumpin'—well, I'll say what he didn't tell me wasn't worth knowin', see? But while it struck me kinda comical, it took me till a couple nights back to get wise enough to sass off for good, see?

"Listen. That night we went to a regular show, see? He set out his muffler and we'd me 'n' myself seats and everything, and after the show we beat it over to a swell restaurant and he opens up the menu card and tells me to pick out anything that looks good to me.

"Sure, I did—lobster and mince pie and everything. I wasn't going to pass up no chance like that. And say, old dear, just listen in and try not to die. When the waiter come along, first the guy give him my order and then he says could he have a dish of milk toast! Honest, kid, I'm tellin' you.

"Well, kid, you'd a died if you could of seen the two of us—me on one side the table with a layout it would take an ostrich to get away with it, and him on the other eatin' his milk toast. Say!

"I couldn't hardly wait till I got home to tell ma, and her and me laughed and hollered till the folks upstairs of us had to knock on the radiator to make us quit, see?

"No, I ain't seen him since. He's phoned a coupla times, but I told ma to tell him I was dead or sumpin'." The fat clerk shook happily from head to foot. "Maybe I will be after I tell gran about it. She'll murder me."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Retaining Chief Stanton

Mr. Editor: We have learned with a great deal of pleasure that Fire Chief Howard L. Stanton who has served Norwich so efficiently for many years has been induced to reconsider the matter of his retirement from the service. We thought at the time we heard of his prospective action that your city would not lose Chief Stanton if he might possibly be retained, realizing as we did the high esteem in which he is held by your people. Chief Stanton has been for many years in close touch with the work of this association in which he has actively participated through committee service, and we feel that the engineering experience and natural intelligence which belong to him make it exceedingly desirable that he should remain in the field of active fire fighting as long as he can be induced to do so.

Chief Stanton is not aware that we are writing this letter, but we are quite sure it will not be objectionable to him.

Very truly yours,
FRANKLIN H. WENTWORTH
Secretary Natl. Fire Protection Association.
Boston, Mass., Aug. 9, 1926.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Lake Mashapaug

Lake Mashapaug is situated partly in Connecticut and partly in Massachusetts and is a beautiful body of water, the shores being used as camp sites by many people from this state. Leaving Norwich the trip would be on Willimantic over Route No. 32 through Ynatic Bassing through Willimantic, Route No. 32 should be followed through Willington and to Stafford Springs. Here Route No. 190, a turn to the right goes through Union and to Mashapaug, which is located practically midway between Mashapaug pond and the lake.

The mileage for the trip is 50 miles each way and over excellent roads in most part.

On the return one could take Route No. 167 at West Willington and drive over to Phoenixville, then turn right onto Route No. 101 and return to Willimantic, adding about 20 miles to the trip home, making a round trip of about 120 miles.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

SOME HINTS FOR THE OCEANIC "TENDERFOOT"

Increased facilities for crossing the Atlantic at reasonable cost, prosperity at home, and cheap money abroad are combining to send a larger army of American tourists to Europe this spring and summer than any, probably that has ever invaded the Old World in a like period. Many of these travelers, familiar enough with their Pullmans and river steamers, will find conditions on an ocean liner disconcertingly strange. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society introduces the "ocean tenderfoot" to his new environment in which he will be confined from five to ten days.

"Getting off is an exciting matter," says the bulletin, "and the temptation is to spend the last hour or so near the gangplanks, chatting with your own friends and watching the milling throng of travelers and well-wishers in holiday spirit. If you are wise, however, you will invest say 20 minutes of this time for your own future comfort. Take a turn around the promenade deck and select the neighborhood in which you would like to have your deck chair. You will not find distinguishing numbers on the chairs, but where you would least expect them, on the ceiling above.

"You probably will want your chair on the starboard (or right) side going to Europe and on the port (or left) side returning, for those are the sunny sides. Having decided on the location you desire and noticed the neighboring numbers, look up the deck steward and try to persuade him to allot you a chair somewhere in the neighborhood. This functionary has an office, on the larger liners, usually a little room opening on to the promenade deck to the rear (or 'aft' as they say on shipboard.) They will be a fee, of course, for the chair and a steamer rug. If you are traveling with friends you will wish to make this a joint arrangement so as not to be separated.

"Watch the bulletin boards. These are the town-criers and newspapers on the larger liners. Usually there will be a bulletin board in the main companionway at the promenade deck level, another outside the dining saloon, and a third, perhaps, in the smoking room. All affairs of general interest that are to take place on the ship will be announced there and a brief digest of the world news from the radio room will appear each afternoon.

"Be sure to ask for your mail at the ship's post office as soon after you go aboard as it is open. There are certain to be 'steamer letters' for you, and some of these you may wish to answer by notes to be taken back by the pilot an hour or so later after you sail. The ship's staff is tremendously busy at sailing time and for many hours thereafter, and if you wait for your mail or a notice to be sent to your stateroom you may be out a day before you get it.

"Another thing to ask for early—usually at the purser's office—is a passenger list, printed ashore from the stateroom reservation. A copy will be delivered to you in due time, but you can have it hours ahead by merely asking. From it you can find whether you have acquaintances aboard, and if so, look them up.

"Your seat in the dining saloon is usually arranged for, unless otherwise announced, at the first meal after sailing. Go early to this meal before too many others have had first choice. On the big boats you can find an arrangement to suit almost any sized party. If you are traveling alone and crave solitude you may have a seat at a table for two—quite alone if the ship is not crowded. If you prefer company tell the steward so frankly and he will place you at a table with others.

"Cheerful bugle blasts order your life on many of the big liners, but you must learn what they mean or they will lead you hopelessly astray. The blast in the reasonably early morning, say at 8 o'clock ship's time, means either of two things. If you are an early riser and are taking a pre-breakfast walk on deck, it is a signal that your food is ready. If you are a late sleeper (and an ocean voyage is the chance of a lifetime for laziness) it means that you can take 40 more winks and still be in time for a late breakfast; or that, with a feeling of magnificent luxury you can drowsily decide to let breakfast go hang, while you turn over to sleep as many more hours as you like. Make the most of your week. There are no commuters' specials to catch, no offices to be reached at nine, no time-clocks, literal or metaphorical, to be punched. The boat plows serenely on whether you sleep or wake.

"If you hear a bugle blast at about 10:30 pay no attention to it. It is not for you and your fellow passengers, but for the ship's crew. It signifies that the captain is making an unexpected inspection of some part of his domain.

"Having made the acquaintance of breakfast bugle, the 'ocean tenderfoot' might well think the 10:30 bugle call connected in some way with the hot broth that appears about this time for those in deck chairs. But this comes quite unheralded—a mere detail in carrying out the ship management's intention to keep the passengers continually busy with food. The food schedule on a big liner runs something like this: Breakfast, 8 to 10; hot broth, 10:30 or 11; luncheon 1 to 2:30; after-luncheon coffee, 2 to 3; afternoon tea and cakes 4 to 5; dinner 7:30 to 9; after-dinner coffee, 8:30 to 9:30; sandwiches in the smoking room, 10 to 11.

"The second bugle for passengers blows at 1 o'clock and means that luncheon is then ready. At 7 p. m. the bugle sounds again. But do not rush to the dining saloon. It is simply a signal that it is time to dress for dinner! At 7:30 the bugler quite outdoes himself in the cheeriness of his call to the chief prandial occasion of the day.

"The only other major signal of the day on shipboard is the blowing of the whistle exactly at noon, ship's time. On the larger liners, at least, the whistle is heard at no other time unless there is a dense fog. The whistle is blown for a double purpose at noon; to signal the time, and to test the whistle itself.

"You must watch your time carefully on shipboard. On the trip to Europe you will lose five hours. What the loss is each 24 hours depends on the speed. On the fastest liners it amounts to an hour a day. At some places on each ship—usually in the main companionway, and often near the purser's office—is a large clock below which is the sign: 'This clock will be moved on (back on the return voyage) blank minutes at midnight.' It is well to pay your respect to this time piece en route to bed each night and to make the change then and there. Otherwise you may miss your morning engagements with both steward and friends by from 45 to 60 minutes.

"Don't fancy you can stand at the rail and see the traffic of the Seven Seas go by on your way to Europe. The day of crowded steamer lanes is no more. Now two tracks are 'staked out' in the ocean for ships: one eastbound and one west-bound. On one of its most recent voyages to Europe, the huge Majestic was seemingly almost as isolated as Columbus' little fleet. It sighted a tramp steamer the second day out from New York. There was no additional visual evidence that other ships sail the Atlantic until the big vessel approached the English channel only a few miles from her destination."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

A. Vic Donahey, who is seeking nomination for a third term as governor of Ohio in the primary in that state today, has been mentioned as a possible contender for the democratic presidential nomination in 1928, and in consequence the outcome of the primary will be watched with keen interest. Governor Donahey's popularity is evidenced by the fact that when he was a candidate the first time he was the only democrat to be elected to state office. This popularity was due in large measure to the record he made during eight years as state auditor, in which capacity he refused to pay vouchers for many expenditures he regarded as unlawful. Governor Donahey has been fighting his way since he was 15, at which age he left school to learn the printer's trade. He married at the age of 21 and is the father of ten children.

THINNESS NOW YOUR OWN FAULT

New Way Found to Take Time-Tried Flesh Builder

To be thin is to be scorned. No one likes a thin, scrawny man or woman. We all admire the strong, robust, healthy individual. And there's no need to be underweight either. It's just a matter of getting your body to absorb the vital elements of health and strength, the vitamins and organic plant salts of phosphorous, iron and lime, as found in fresh vegetables and good Cod Liver Extract.

Don't turn to drugs for they only goad your jaded nerves and leave you worse than before. Everybody knows how Cod Livers abound in the essential food factors that make solid, firm flesh, strong bodies and sound teeth. But because of its nasty, fishy taste and odor, many people would rather suffer than take it.

Now Science has removed all objection to this wonderful medicine of Nature, for a way has been found to concentrate the vital parts of Cod Liver Extract into easy-to-take sugar-coated tablets. They are called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and have accomplished wonderful results in thousands of cases everywhere.

Run-down men and women have been quickly brought back to buoyant health and strength. Pale, listless children have regained the sturdy strength that belongs to childhood. Many underweight people have gained from 15 to 20 pounds of solid flesh in 30 days' time.

In fact, the results have been so remarkable that you can now buy McCoy's Tablets, 60 tablets for 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co., or your favorite druggist anywhere with a specific guarantee that if after 30 days' use you do not add at least 5 pounds of healthy flesh, your money is to be instantly refunded. You'll feel better generally after just a few days' treatment and in a few short weeks you will gain normal weight and will be well and strong again. No finer tonic has ever been produced than these wonderful little McCoy Tablets. Begin taking them today. You'll join the crowd of thousands who praise their results.

CHILD TRAINING

Isn't Bothering Worth While?

(Helen Gregg Green)

Aunt Emmy-Lou has never had any children of her own, but she can tell us who are mothers, how we should raise our boys and girls, all right. She certainly does know.

The other day, this kindly, interested neighborhood auntie and I were chatting with Julienne, who has two small children, both of them real live wires.

Among other indiscretions of these two little people, was it of jumping up and down on Julienne's dining-room table. Julienne's brown eyes begged them to stop, but to no avail.

"O' well, they are at least not hurting anybody's else things," she smiled.

"Julienne!" Aunt Emmy-Lou blustered, "you lovely idiot! By allowing Becky and Joe to continue, you are teaching them disrespect of property. Mark my words, they'll be of the type that is a general nuisance. They'll cut their seats at school, litter the streets and deface the public buildings."

"O, Aunt Emmy-Lou," answered Julienne frowning, "I can't be bothered noticing everything."

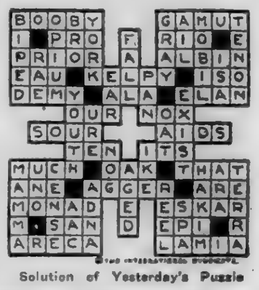
"You can't be bothered? That's just it!" Aunt Emmy-Lou snapped. Can't be bothered enough to keep your children from becoming pests. I recently had a handsome old table done over and an acquantince of mine, a girl who should have known better breezed in, and threw a jangly silver pocketbook on the lovely bare surface. Now the top will have to be done over again. Really, I hope she'll never come again."

"Oh, dear!" Julienne seemed to be waking up. "I'd hate to have people feel that way about my children. (Becky, Joe, stop jumping on that table!) I guess you're right. We owe it to our boys and girls to bother don't we?"

And that very day Julienne began a new course of training. It was begun several years too late, but still not hopelessly so.

Already, Becky and Joe are improving.

Of course, it takes "bothering" worth while, when it's directed toward making our children into delightful and useful American citizens!



Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

The honest wholesomeness of DIETZ BAKING — still better in this new loaf

FORTY YEARS AGO some of the best bread makers in New England began buying Dietz Bread because they recognized in it the same scrupulous care which they gave to their own baking.

Father and son, the Dietz family has carried on the tradition of making fine bread.

And now at the Dolly Madison bakery, which he recently purchased and re-equipped, Mr. Walter Dietz is making the best bread he has ever made.

The same quality of ingredients you would use if you baked it in your own kitchen—but in flavor and texture the new Dietz Bread is even finer than you could make, because instead of just the one kind of flour you use at home, several fine flours are blended to give unvarying gluten strength and rich wheat nourishment.

In Dietz Bread—the wholesomeness and honest goodness you require for your children.

Get Dietz Bread from your grocer today and enjoy Mr. Dietz's wonderful baking skill in the best bread he has ever made. Dolly Madison Baking Corp., Springfield, Mass.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

RELIABLE PRESCRIPTION FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

When your stomach is upset from Gas, Acid, Indigestion or Nervousness, Professional Men have found that Pepsinic Seltzer is a most capable and pleasing corrective and if taken in the morning before breakfast and when a person is distressed it has a very remarkable effect. It is absolutely safe for everybody, including children. Pepsinic Seltzer can be obtained at Drug Stores. Take no substitutes.

TO HOLD BICYCLE PARADE NEXT WEEK

It was announced Monday evening by Supt. Earle E. Brigham of the local playgrounds that the bicycle parade to be sponsored by the playgrounds will be held Wednesday, Aug. 18. This parade, which is expected to be one of the biggest events of its kind ever staged in this section should attract widespread attention and a large number of entries will no doubt be made.

A handsome new bicycle will be awarded the one having the best decorated bicycle and as this is a prize well worth striving for no doubt local youngsters will work hard to gain it.

The bicycle has been given to the playgrounds by Jack's Sport shop. It is now in the playground superintendent's office in the town hall and will be on display in Jack's Sport shop by the middle of the week.

Prominent men of the community will act in the capacity of judges for the bicycle parade.

For the benefit of the younger children of the city the Alling Rubber Co. has donated a scooter to be awarded to the one having the best decorated scooter in the parade. This scooter, which is one of the best obtainable, is now in the office of Supt. Brigham and will be on display shortly at the Alling Rubber company store.

Norwich children desiring to participate in the parade should register with their playground instructors as soon as possible.

THAMESVILLE CHILDREN TO HAVE OUTING TODAY

Today (Tuesday) the Thamesville playgrounds will hold its annual outing at Ocean Beach and an eventful day should be in store for the children who will be transported to the seashore in a large truck of the American Thermos Bottle Co. They will leave the grounds early in the forenoon and return home in the evening.

Miss Madeline Thune, instructor, is in charge of the affair, which is made possible by the proceeds from the recent carnival held at the Thamesville center.

A lawn party will be held at the Hobart avenue playgrounds on Thursday evening and the children of that play center are working hard in order to insure its success.

Miss Teresa Fitzgerald, instructor, is in charge of the affair and is now making final arrangements for the event. The affair is scheduled to start at 6:00 o'clock.

This (Tuesday) evening at the Bishop school grounds on East Main St., the playgrounds children will hold a carnival which is expected to draw a large crowd from all parts of the city.

Everything that goes to make up a show of this sort will be in evidence. There will be the big main show, side shows, various booths, etc., and all other features of carnivals.

Miss Mildred Peckham, instructor at these grounds is in charge of the affair. The show is scheduled to open at 6.00 p. m. and there will be something to entertain the public from the start to the finish.

Two Cases Before City Court

There were only two cases before Judge Arthur F. Libby at the Monday morning session of the city court. A Mystic man paid $5 for going to the left of the traffic beacon at the Marguerite corner.

Peter Driscoll was in court on a charge of failure to grant the right of way. He pleaded guilty to the charge and paid $10 and costs, a total of $24.04.

According to the Westerly Sun, a cooking class for men has been opened in Providence. There is to be a series of five lessons for men only, and if successful more complicated lessons will be given each week.

France of New Haven and a sister, Mrs. Mary A. Mabrey of Greeneville, and one son, Charles H. Preston, civil engineer, of New York city.

Fifty years ago in this city she was united in marriage with Charles H. Preston, the services being conducted by Rev. R. P. Stanton. She was the mother of four children, two daughters, Rose and Ruth, dying in infancy, a son, James F., who died in 1905 while a medical student at Baltimore and Charles H. Preston, Jr., who lives in New York.

August Sabrowski

The death of August Sabrowski occurred late Sunday night at his home No. 314 Boswell avenue. Mr. Sabrowski had been an invalid for the past 15 years and had suffered several shocks, the last occurring several weeks ago. Since that time he had been seriously ill.

Mr. Subrowski was born in East Prussia, Germany, February 5, 1846, and spent his early life in Germany. In Germany about 56 years ago he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Bogdsnaki. He came to this country about 34 years ago and became a resident of Norwich. He was a member of German Lutheran church.

He was a kind and loving father and a devoted husband, his chief joy in life being the companionship of his loved ones. News of his death was learned with sorrow by many friends who extend their sympathy to those left to mourn the death of a loved one.

Surviving the deceased are his wife, 10 children, Mrs. John Wischnewski, of Norwich, Charles J. Sabrowski of Jersey City, N. J., Mrs. August Mursch of Jersey City, N. J., Mrs. Minnie Karkutt of Norwich, August Sabrowski of Norwich, Arthur Sabrowski of Norwich, Mrs. Paul Winkel of Norwich, Mrs. Daniel Devine of this city and Mrs. Erich Werth of New London; one brother Rudolph Zerlaski of Norwich, 21 grandchildren and two great-grand-children.

Mrs. Merrill Button

After a lingering illness the death of Charlotte Button, widow of Merrill Button, occurred Sunday evening at 10 o'clock at the home of her daughter in Hanover. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. H. U. Myron Allen and Miss Jennie Button and one grandson, Raymond Allen, all of Hanover.

Mrs. Button was born in Norwich in 1846 the daughter of George and Caroline Bushnell. In 1867 she was united in marriage with William Peckham of Norwich, who died in 1869. In 1871 she was married to Merrill Button of Canterbury, his death occurring June 24, 1911. Her oldest daughter, Miss Carrie M. Button died in 1917.

Mrs. Button had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Myron Allen in Hanover for the past ten years. She was a member of the Congregational church. Mrs. Button will be missed by neighbors and many friends and by her daughters, who had given her such loving and faithful care during her long illness.

NORWICH MAN BRINGS $5,000 DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST CONNECTICUT CO.

Claiming damages of $5,000, Max Rabinovitch of this city has filed suit against The Connecticut Co., in the superior court for this county. The papers in the action were filed Monday with the clerk of the superior court in this city. Mr. Rabinovitch in the complaint, alleges that on August 13, 1925, he was driving a horse and wagon on North Main street, in a southerly direction, near the Norwich Belt Manufacturing plant. A Connecticut company trolley car, headed south, came around the curve at that point and ran into the rear of Mr. Rabinovitch's wagon.

Mr. Rabinovitch was injured, the wagon was smashed and the harness on the horse ruined. The plaintiff claims he received severe bruises and strains in his back, and was otherwise injured. He alleges negligence on the part of the motorman.

Brings Foreclosure Action

Harriet Beckwith Minshall of North Stonington has brought a foreclosure suit in the superior court against William Weseman of Unionville, Ct., Margie M. Weseman of Elmwood, Ct., and Frank H. Brown and George Stone, both of North Stonington. The complaint represents that on September 19, 1930, William Weseman and Margie Weseman owed the plaintiff $1,250 as evidenced by their note for that amount. To secure the note they mortgaged property in North Stonington, Frank H. Brown and George Stone have an attachment lien on the property for $200. The plaintiff asks foreclosure and possession of the property.

Four Compensation Agreements

Along with the two suits the following four compensation agreements were filed Monday:

Eastern Connecticut Power Co., Norwich and Hermon Yetkie, Norwich; sprained back, July 14th; compensation began July 23rd.

F. W. Woolworth Co., Norwich and Seymour DeRusha; wrenched left knee June 7; compensation began July 2.

Frank J. Howell, New London and Gunnar Pearson, New London; cut left knee joint, July 8th; compensation began July 16th.

Annie M. Hislop, New London and Angus MacKay New London; hernia in February; compensation began June 27th.

LOVE 'EM AND LEAVE 'EM PLEASES LOCAL AUDIENCE

Nothing but praise is given Louise Price for her handling of the leading role in Love 'Em and Leave 'Em, the comedy by George Abbott and John V. A. Weaver, presented under the Paramount Producing company at the Broadway theatre Monday evening. Miss Price stood out above all others in the cast.

The play was one of those with a human touch, the girl and her lover and the other girl who stole him away. In Love 'Em and Leave 'Em the other girl happened to be a younger sister. Crushed by the loss of her sweetheart the girl tries to keep others from discovering her heartache. The sister plays the "ponies" loses money and the lover sees in her a girl he would not care to go with, then realizes all along he had loved the older sister. Everything turns out nicely at the close of the play. The vampire sister goes riding with the head of the firm, the lovers are reunited and the boy is promoted to a responsible position with the firm.

The first scene is laid in the Walsh girls' room in Ma Woodruff's boarding house on the lower west side in New York. Here Lem Woodruff played by Walter DeLuns, a lazy man and player of the ponies keeps his wife, Ma Woodruff, played by Leigh DeLacy, continually on the jump endeavoring to keep him in the straight and narrow path. Miss DeLacy, who is known to many Norwich theatre goers, was admirably suited for her part and carried it in excellent manner.

As Janie Walsh and Mame Walsh, the sisters, played by Peggy Hastings and Louise Price, it would have been difficult to have made a better choice. Both carried their parts to perfection. Janie as the vamp without a heart and Mame who was always ready to help her sister, even though she had been guilty of the act which had broken her heart.

Mary Diehl as Miss Streeter won her way to the audience almost at her first appearance. Her role was that of the elderly girl, easily won by praise for her ability, but quick to dispose of those who tried to make progress beyond her means.

The part of Billingsley, the unhappy lover, was happily placed with Harry Leon Waycoff. His was a difficult part and required much emotional acting and in this he possessed the ability required. He was the right man for the part.

Kenyon and Jim, the two boarders who hoped to become vaudeville stars, were played by Rex Benware and William D. Dean. In these parts were plenty of chances for rare hits, some of which were improved, while others seemed to lack the necessary punch.

Other supporting members of the cast took their respective parts in a manner winning praise from the audience and altogether the show was a pleasing and mirthful comdey, affording several hours of clean and wholesome enjoyment.

WORLD WAR MEMORIAL FOR PAWCATUCK VETERANS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PAWCATUCK, Aug. 9.—Action on the selection of a world war memorial for Pawcatuck veterans was postponed tonight until next Friday evening at 9 o'clock. This action followed a meeting of the joint committee of Harley P. Chase post, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Pawcatuck Board of Trade presided over by General Chairman Admiral Herbert C. Dunn, in Vets' hall, Pawcatuck.

At this committee meeting which lasted until 11 o'clock Emil Pozzi of Morristown, N. J., presented one design, Harry Lewis Roul of New Jersey, showed four designs, Isaac G. Smith of the Smith-Bennett Co., Westerly, two; Henry L. Norton of Winthrop, Mass., one; and Lewis A. Whitehouse, of Quincy, Mass., one. The designs were in the form of artists' drawings, blue print sketches, wood models to scale, water colors, photographs and plaster figures with models of trees and shrubbery.

PATRICK O'BRIEN RENEWS ACQUAINTANCES IN NORWICH

Patrick O'Brien formerly of this city, now a member of the fire alarm telegraph system staff of the New York city fire department is spending his annual vacation in Norwich. Monday Mr. O'Brien called on Chief Howard L. Stanton to renew an acquaintance of long standing. Mr. O'Brien learned telegraphy at the local office of the Western Union Co., later going to New York city.

AUTO VICTIM'S DEATH NOT DUE TO NEGLIGENCE

In a decision handed down Monday Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond finds no negligence in the death of Roger Scott, 10 year old Taftville boy, who died May 5th last from injuries received when he was hit by an automobile driven by Henry Filliger. Coroner Desmond says in his finding:

Saturday, May 5th, 1926, about 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, said Henry Filliger was driving his Hupmobile roadster automobile southwardly on Norwich avenue at Taftville. In said town of Norwich; Eugene Lambert, of said Taftville was riding with Filliger; the home of the Scott boy was at No. 63 said Norwich avenue, where he resided with his parents. This home is on the westerly side of the avenue, and quite near to the sidewalk. There is a rather sharp curve in the highway just northerly of said home. On his way from North B street in Taftville to his new house at No. 64 Norwich avenue, at Taftville, at the time above mentioned, Filliger was driving on his right hand side of the avenue, close to the curb at the outer edge of the sidewalk, at a speed of about 25 miles an hour, and as he was passing the home of the Scott boy the child suddenly darted from the sidewalk and started to cross the highway, passing directly in front of the automobile, which struck him, and threw him to one side and down onto the street, and fatally injured him. As soon as Filliger saw the boy start to move from the sidewalk into the road he applied his brakes, and turned his car to his left in an effort to avoid striking the child.

NORWICH TOURISTS HOME AFTER 1300 MILE TRIP

Walter Udell and Albert (Shorty) Johnston have just returned to this city after an automobile trip into Canada in which they covered 1,300 miles in 7 1-2 days.

Leaving here in Mr. Udell's roadster at noon a week ago Sunday with camping equipment so that they could pitch their tent wherever night found them, they travelled up along the New England shore line to Portland, then on through Jackman, Me., across the Canadian border to Quebec, which they reached at 3 p. m. Tuesday, a distance of 561 miles. The next stretch was on to Montreal, 173 miles, and by Thursday night they were at Rouse Point on their way back home. Leaving Rouse Point Thursday night, they came down through Plattsburgh, past Lake George, then to Saratoga, Schenectady, Albany, Pittsfield and North Adams, to spend Friday night at the top of the Mohawk trail. They reached home at 6 o'clock Saturday night, the only interruption for any kind of repairs having been a stop to put air in one front tire.

LOCAL WOMAN HELD IN $1,000 BONDS

Louise Sawicki of No. 369 North Main street is at liberty on bonds of $1,000 furnished after her arrest Monday by the local police on a charge of violation of the liquor law. It is understood that the police secured evidence in the shape of an actual sale. Sergeant Myron O. Morgan and Officer John Carroll made the arrest.

TWO APPEAL CASES WITHDRAWN FROM COURT

Notices of the withdrawal of the cases of Mary L. Burnham of Windham, against William J. Kramer of Norwich, executor of the estate of George Kramer, late of Colchester and John M. Kramer of East Lyme against William J. Kramer, executor, have been filed with the clerk of the superior court in this city. The actions were appeals from probate.

WEDDING

Caulfield-Mingo

Miss Minnie Johanna Mingo daughter of James and Camilla Mingo of 17 Vine street and John Caulfield, son of James and Lucy Caulfield of 15 Vine street, were united in marriage Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Patrick's church by Rt. Rev Msgr. M. H. May. Music for the service was by Organist Henry LaFontaine and there were vocal selections by Roderick Sullivan.

The couple was attended by Miss Ida Petrone, maid of honor and Robert J. Caulfield, brother of the bridegroom, as best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Peggy Kane and Miss May Frey. Arthur Balfe and John Balfe were ushers.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

FUNERAL

Michael Nolan

Funeral services for Michael Nolan, supervisor for the past 12 years at the state farm for inebriates, located at Preston, were held Monday morning at 8.15 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Miss Viola Mae Nolan, No. 12 Alice street. Requiem mass was celebrated in St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. John J. Reilly. During the service Henry LaFontaine was at the organ.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service, many coming from out of town. The beautiful floral pieces gave testimony to the love and esteem in which Mr. Nolan was held by a host of friends.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May. The bearers were Alfred Boutilier, Charles Fish, James Mara, William Austin, James McSheffrey and Dennis Hayes. Arrangements were by Church and Allen.

POWERMEN TAKE LOOSE GAME FROM THE EAST END TEAM 8 TO 3

The E. C. P. Co. strengthened their hold on first place in the Twilight league when they took a loose game from the East Ends Monday night, 8 to 3. Last night's win gives the Power team six wins with only one loss, and gives them a lead of two and one-half games over Yantic, which is in second place.

The East Ends lost the game in the first two innings. In these two frames, they played like a bunch of schoolboys, making five errors, which largely contributed to all of the Power team's runs. After these two wild innings, the East Siders settled down and the rest of the game went off in record time.

Tommy Simcox, veteran pitcher, was in the box for the Power nine, and pitched his usual fine game. He blanked the East Ends for six innings, and was never in danger. In the seventh, the East Siders succeeded in bunching four hits for all their runs.

Harry Mills, who twirled a good brand of ball, but errors behind him in the first two innings proved his undoing. Harry allowed eight hits, and fanned seven.

The Power team got off to a good lead in the first inning, scoring five runs, on singles by Lefty Dugas, Murphy, and Smith, a bunt by Whitney, and several rank errors on the part of the East End infield.

In the following inning, the E. C. P. continued their attack with three more runs, on singles by Murphy and Smith, coupled with several more costly misplays.

From then on to the seventh there was no scoring on either side. In the seventh however, the East Ends, launched their only attack of the game, but were retired after scoring three runs. Singles by Leffingwell, Morin, and Moore, and a double by Mills accounted for the scoring in this frame. The score:

ASHLAND LOSES TO SUB. BASE IN NINTH

Saturday afternoon at Morgan park, New London, the Ashland A. A. lost a hard fought game to the first Sub. Base team, 3 to 2.

Stanley of the mound for Ashland, and Weiduert for the Sub. Base, both pitched nice ball, each allowing five hits.

Ashland scored in the first when Joe Gilbert singled to center, took second on a sacrifice and scored on a sacrifice and scored on a wild peg over third.

In the fifth the Base scored two runs on a hit and error and a squeeze play. Ashland tied the score in the first half of the ninth when Bill Liberty singled to center and scored on Benjamin's single.

In the last half of the ninth, with a man on second and first, and two out, "Lefty" Harrell hit a smashing single over second, putting the game away.

Ashland will meet the Sub. Base in the second game of the series at Ashland park next Sunday.

REGARDING THE UMPIRING OF MR. BENOIT SATURDAY

In regards to the article about the umpiring of John B. Benoit in the game at Taftville Saturday, after looking the piece over, the sports editor has come to the conclusion that his comment on the umpiring was rather raw and he apologizes to Mr. Benoit for the caustic remarks made on the article. Mr. Benoit interviewed the sports editor and showed him that his umpiring was by no means as bad as the article made it appear. Regarding umpiring it is very difficult for the spectator to see close plays and snap judgment from the sidelines is by no means as certain as that of the umpire who is over the play, hence the cause for criticism. Mr. Benoit in speaking of the decision at home plate says the runner missed the plate by several inches, but to the spectator it looked as though he touched it. This would make Mr. Benoit's decision correct.

In regard to the Giants being robbed of the game, there was nothing personal intended in these remarks any more than a spectacular catch would have robbed them of a victory. If the fans who read the article are under the impression that we intended to reflect upon Mr. Benoit's integrity as an official they are wrong, for nothing personal was intended in the article. Therefore, we wish to correct this impression.

BRAVES WIN THIRD CONSECUTIVE SHUTOUT GAME

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Boston won its third consecutive shutout game today when Larry Benton held St. Louis to five hits and the braves defeated the Cardinals, 5 to 0. INDIANS MAKE HITS COUNT TO BEAT SENATORS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Although Cleveland was outbatted 14 to 9, it defeated Washington today, 7 to 5, its third victory in the four games with the champions. Not an Indian reached first base for three innings but Speaker hit a home run with two on in the fourth while Cleveland bunched enough hits in the fifth to score four more.

The Nationals drove Smith from the box in the seventh but Miller proved an effective relief pitcher.

RUTH AND LAZZERI HIT HOMERS AS YANKS WIN

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Koenig's muff of Tavener's easy fly in the ninth inning with two men out, opened the road to a four-run Tiger rally today that fell one short of a tie, the Yanks winning 9 to 8. Ruth and Lazzeri hit home runs, Lazzeri's blow scoring two ahead of him, while Ruth found only one man on the bases when he made his 36th homer of the season.

Detroit used four pitchers in an effort to check the league leaders, Smith proving effective. Jones went along for eight and two-thirds innings without trouble, but after Koenig's error that put a man on base in the ninth, Jones walked Bassler, Blue tripled and Neun walked. Braxton pitched to only one batsman, Manush, who singled, but Shawkey retired the side by getting Fothergill on an easy fly. Score:

DEMPSEY AND TUNNEY TO APPEAR BEFORE LICENSE BOARD TODAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney expect to find out tomorrow whether or not they will be permitted to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world at the Yankee stadium on September 16.

The champion and his challenger, matched by Tex Rickard for the first title match in three years will appear personally before the state athletic commission and its all-powerful license committee in an effort to obtain the necessary licenses for their pending battle.

The commission has already approved the match, by a two to one vote, but the attitude of the license committee, has been shrouded in such doubt that virtually all preparations for the bout have been delayed. This committee acts independently of the commission.

There were at least three distinct sets of opinions tonight among "cauliflower row" on what tomorrow's decision will be. One faction held that the license powers would follow the lead of the commission and issue the permits, "on the advice of those higher up." Another just as convincingly argued that Colonels John J. Phelan and D. W. Wear, the license commissioners, had all along opposed the Dempsey-Tunney match and would register their disapproval by turning down the bids for licenses tomorrow.

Still a third section of opinion professed "inside knowledge" to the effect that Tunney, as a war veteran and popular ringman would receive his license, but that Dempsey would be turned down on the ground that he has refused to accept the challenge of Harry Wills and otherwise failed to heed the dictations of the commission.

Colonels Phelan and Wear, have maintained a consistent silence on their attitudes—except to say that the licenses would receive the same consideration as others. Not so J. A. Farley, chairman of the commission, and his associate, George Brower. Farley, who has the minority vote on the question of approving the Dempsey-Tunney match, has repeatedly asserted his conviction that the license committee would not grant the permits. On the other hand, Brower, whose unexpected switch resulted in approving the bout for New York, has maintained that licenses can be refused only on legal grounds and that in this case no basis exists for refusal.

Tex Rickard believes the licenses will be forthcoming but he is prepared for arventualities. After a conference with Dempsey today the promoter declared:

"The fight will be held on September 16, whether or not the licenses are granted for it, here. You can bet your bottom dollar on that. I'm not prepared to say what I'll do if the licenses are refused. I'll want to know on what grounds such action is based first before proceeding further."

It is believed Rickard will turn to his Jersey City arena, Boyle's Thirty Acres, if he is unable to utilize the Yankee stadium. He also has a bid to stage the bout in the sesqui-centennial stadium at Philadelphia. Court action to force the issuance of licenses also was a possible avenue of procedure if the permits are refused.

Dempsey filed his formal application for a license today after a visit to the offices of the athletic commission to find out what procedure was necessary. He was accompanied by his business manager, Gene Normile, who filed an application to act as a second.

This afternoon the champion put in an hour's brisk workout in a gymnasium, boxing seven rounds with four opponents, including two each with Sid Terris, lightweight title contender and Ted Moore, English middleweight.

Tunney is expected to arrive in New York tomorrow from his Adirondack training camp. His manager, Billy Gibson, announced today he had engaged Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul lightweight, as a sparring partner. Delaney, a protege of Mike Gibbons, has fought Tunney twice in the middle west.

PLAYGROUNDS SPORTS

Baseball

On Wednesday afternoon at the Academy campus, the Greeneville and Elizabeth St. playgrounds baseball teams are scheduled to clash in a National league contest. A fast game is expected from start to finish as both the charges of Coaches Sheridan and Sullivan are confident of victory. This game is slated to start at 3 p. m. sharp.

Track

On Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Thamesville, Laurel Hill and East Side playgrounds are scheduled to meet in the third and last of the preliminary meets of the season. All three of the grounds have some exceptional talent included in their rosters and no doubt a fast meet should be the result when the trio meet on the Academy campus track.

Trial heats were run off at the Academy campus on Monday afternoon for the children of the local playgrounds who wish to compose the team that will represent the local playgrounds at the Police Field day meet to be held at Lighthouse Point, at New Haven on Wednesday. These trials will be continued through today (Tuesday) and Instructor John P. Murphy will pick the team that will represent the local playgrounds. The local playgrounds youngsters are makeing the trip in conjunction with the Duwell A. A. of this city, who will have a team representing them in this meet.

ZIVIC SCORES TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT OVER LEE

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Putting up a game fight with one hand after injuring his left arm in the first round, George "Kid" Lee of Worcester was forced to accept defeat in the form of a technical knockout at the hands of Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh here tonight. Their scheduled ten round bout was stopped at the end of the fourth round, when it became apparent that Lee was unable to use his left hand even for blocking.

Young Bedell of Portland, Me., battered Newport Johnny Brown of Boston into submission in the second round of a scheduled eight round preliminary. Jack Katkish of Pitts

WESTERLY

CASE OF A. B. PRENTICE CONTINUED TO FRIDAY

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 9—Arthur B. Prentice of 141 Mohican avenue, New London, was presented this afternoon before Judge Oliver H. Williams in a special session of Third District court, charged with operating a motor vehicle on High street, Westerly Saturday. Coming from the Westerly hospital, where he was taken with a fractured nose Saturday night, Prentice appeared in court with a plaster on his face. He entered a plea of not guilty. He told the judge that he would be ready for trial next week, but Town Solicitor Ferguson asked that next Friday be the date set so that the docket might not be congested, and this date was agreed to by the respondent.

His court appearance followed the head-on crash of the Hupmobile sedan driven by Prentice with the Chevrolet sedan of John Wood, of Clarkeville. His bail was set at $500 and he was placed in the custody of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, who preferred the complaint.

HUSBAND AND WIFE AGREE TO TRY AGAIN

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 9—Arthur J. Lussier, 20, who was brought back to Westerly on a non-support charge Saturday night from Pawtucket, by Chief of Police Brown had hearing continued from the noon to afternoon session of court. At the noon court session he entered a plea of guilty to the complaint of the abandonment of his wife and children, who might become public charges. At the afternoon session his wife and children appeared in court when, in tears, the respondent described his home life. His wife told the court that she was willing to live with her husband if he would abstain from liquor and to this the husband responded, "You want to live right! I come from a good home!"

Judge Williams asked defendant if he could come to him and report on his own initiative as to how his home life was progressing. Sentence was suspended and the case was continued three months and Lussier was restored to his family.

James Carlesi of Narragansett avenue, Westerly, was found guilty, at the session of court of being involved in an automobile accident and proceeding without returning to the site of the accident. A fine of $150 and costs was imposed.

The automobiles involved in the accident Sunday night at about 9:30 near McGowan's Corners on the Bradford road were the Paige sedan of the defendant and the Buick roadster of Vincent Faillace, R. F. D., No. 2, of Pawcatuck. Motorcycle Officer George L. Madison investigated the accident.

In Stonington town court before Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck, Monday morning five cases were heard. Clinton Caverley of the Road District, Stonington, was charged with non-payment of personal taxes from 1922 to 1925 inclusive, amounting to $9.48. The court ordered him to pay the tax and interest, which amounted to $9.48, together with the costs of the court, $11.51. Caverley paid.

D. Everett Hoxie, collector of the town of Stonington, is making an effort to collect all taxes, real and personal, which are unpaid.

John Law, charged with speeding on the Stonington-Westerly highway, was found guilty and fined $10 and costs amounting to $14.31. The arrest was made by State Policeman Albright.

Lewis H. Whitney was charged with breach of the peace. He pleaded not guilty. The court decided that he was not guilty and he was discharged from custody.

George W. Sherman, charged with breach of the peace on August 2, was found not guilty and discharged.

Robert W. Chesebro of Groton was also charged with breach of the peace and pleaded not guilty. The court found him guilty and he was fined $1 and costs of $10.46. He paid.

The cases of Whitney, Sherman and Chesebro came about by the last named visiting the Whitney home in Old Mystic in an effort to secure of jug of cider. He was intoxicated it was alleged, and Mr. Whitney refused to give it to him. He then created a disturbance, in which the three men took part. The evidence showed that Chesebro was the aggressor in the matter.

Mary E. Barbour, 95, widow of Clark D. Crandall, died Sunday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William E. Spear, 36 Lester avenue, Pawcatuck. Mrs. Crandall was born in Westerly March 11, 1831, the daughter of Capt. Henry M. and Mary Bliven Barbour, and was the oldest of several children. Her education was received in the Westerly schools. Aug. 27, 1849, she married Clark D. Crandall, who conducted a paint and paper hanging establishment in this town. Five children were born to them.

For many years she was a member of the Woman's Relief Corps and was associated with the Broad Street Christian church. She was active until a few months before her death and was confined to her bed only a week. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William E. Spear, of this town, two sons, Albert Crandall of Boston and Henry of Roxbury, Mass., a grandson, William A. Spear and a great-grandson, Albert W. Spear, both of Bridgeport, Conn.; three sisters, Mrs. J. F. Farnsworth and Mrs. Emma J. Sisson of this town, and Mrs. Joseph Pendleton of New Haven, Conn., and three brothers, Edward, Horace and Courtland Barbour, all of Westerly.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie G. Zerbarini, widow of Angelo J. Zerbarini, was held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from her home, 11 Summer street. Requiem high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Frederick White, S. M. During the service Martin H. Spellman sang "Face to Face," and Thomas V. Clancy sang "Calvary." A large number of relatives and friends were in attendance and there were beautiful flowers. Burial was in River Bend cemetery, where the committal service was by Fr. White. The bearers were Charles Fontaine, M. Walter Flynn, Jr., Patrick E. McNally, Daniel Whalen, James McMahon and Joseph Gervasini.

Mrs. A. M. Sanders of 23 Greenman avenue sustained a fracture of the collar bone near the left shoulder and other injuries Sunday night when she fell down several steps while descending the stairs in her home. The accident occurred at about 9:30 o'clock and although Mrs. Sanders fell but a few steps, she crashed against the door jamb at the foot of the flight. After receiving medical treatment at her home she was taken to The Westerly hospital. He rcondition is reported favorable.

DOLLING UP OLD ENGINE FOR NEW LONDON PARADE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NOANK, Aug. 9.—The Noank Fire Co. is getting ready for the big firemen's parade in New London, Aug. 20. About 30 members will make the trip, leaving the village on the 8:30 o'clock train, marching from the firerroom to the railroad station. The old gasoline engine is now getting painted up and the company will have it decorated. It will leave for New London the night before the parade; it will be drawn by two horses. The gasoline engine came from St. Paul, Minn., about 15 years ago. It was in use at the ship yard fire a few years ago, when the new engine failed to pump for 13 hours without a let-up. It also did great work at the fire in Mystic about ten years ago at the Gilbert block. The men on the committee for the convention are chairman, Albert Banks, Neil Morrison, Edward Morgan.

Capt. Henry Langworthy of New York is spending a few days at his home.

Miss Annie Williams of Groton Long Point will spend a week in Hartford.

Mrs. Edward Rollins has returned from a visit with Saybrook friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Park of Lewiston, Maine, spent the week end in Noank.

Carl Ebbetts of New York will spend his vacation in Noank with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ebbetts.

Stunt and tag day will be held at Groton Long Point on Saturday, Aug. 21 instead of Aug. 14 as planned by the committee. On account of the tide tide for swimming races to be held in the morning at the board walk and in the afternoon at Club House Point dock; boat races and diving will be the afternoon sports. The people of the Point are trying to make this the biggest day ever at Groton Long Point.

All cottages will be decorated and in the casino that evening prizes will be awarded those taking part in the races. A large loving cup is ready for the boy or girl having and making the most points this month. Nearly all the cottagers are interested. Last year a boat parade was held early in the evening but new plans have been arranged for this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rathbun of Waterbury are visiting the former's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Walter Rathbun for a week.

A new swimming raft has been built for Groton Long Point at Webster Eldrigh's boat shop and will be towed over this week. It is to be used on the big beach, as the other raft is not large enough for the people who go in swimming. When a large crowd gets on it, it will go out of sight and many have to jump into the water. Each day at the beach the crowd gets larger and on Sunday about 200 were in the water.

Robert Lowell, after a visit in Boston, has returned home.

POETRY

A Dream

When in my walks I meet some ruddy lad—
Or swarthy man—with gray beside head,
Whose smile entreats and or his visage sad,
To buy the images he molds for bread

I think that—though his poor Greek slave in chains,
His Venus and her boy with plaster dart,
Be, like the organ-grinder's quavering strains,
But farthings in the currency of art.

Such coins a kingly effigy still wear,
Let metals base or precious in them mix;
The painted vellum hallows not the prayer,
Nor ivory nor gold the crucifix.

—Samuel Ward.

The Poet's Secret

The poet's secret I must know,
If that will calm my restless mind,
I hail the seasons as they go,
I woo the sunshine, brave the wind.

I scan the lily and the rose,
I nod to every nodding tree,
I follow every stream that flows,
And wait beside the steadfast sea.

I question melancholy eyes,
I touch the lips of women fair;
Their lips and eyes may make me wise,
But what I seek for is not there.

In vain I watch the day and night,
In vain the world through space may roll;
I never see the mystic light
Which fills the poet's happy soul.

Through life I hear the rhythmic flow
Whose meaning into song must turn,
Revealing all he longs to know,
The secret each alone must learn.

—Elizabeth Stoddard.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Rural Magistrate: "I'll have to fine ye a dollar, Jeff."

Jeff: "I'll have to borrow it off-a ye, judge."

Magistrate: "Great snakes. It was only to git a dollar that I was fining ye. Git out. Ye ain't guilty, anyway."—Buffalo Bison.

"Yes sir; I be the oldest inhabitant."

"What's your age?"

"Ninety-seven last June, sir. And I reckon if it hadn't been for strikes and this 'ere puttin' the clock back each year, I'd a been a centenarian by now."—Birmingham Gazette and Express.

Native—I am the oldest man in the three counties.

Visitor—And your nerves are still in good condition, I suppose.

Native—Well, yes, but I wouldn't dare to marry again, you know.—New Bedford Standard.

Uncle: "George, what are you going to be when you grow up?"

George: "I'm going to be a philanthropist, uncle. Those people always seem to have a lot of money."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Every time he was hurled aside the collie returned to the attack, successfully defending the man.

Experiments have been made in Hull, England, with a new radio apparatus for overcoming deafness. It is said that 80 per cent. of the children in a Hull deaf and dumb institution have heard speech and music for the first time as the result of the invention, which has the appearance of a small wireless set without aerial or ground connection. The results are achieved by transmission of sound to the inner ear. It does not succeed with all sufferers, but only with a large proportion.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes that she became so weak and rundown that she was not able to do her housework. She saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to her husband, "I will try that medicine and see if it will help me." She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better.

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women past fifty, say they owe their health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SOME chaps are satisfied with their home-made radio set . . . until they hear a bigger and better set at their neighbor's. It's much the same with tobacco. You may think your present brand is the last word. But, until you smoke Prince Albert, you don't know how good that pipe can taste!

Among the biggest boosters this grand old tobacco has are the converts who figured: "Maybe I'm not getting all my pipe can give me in deep-down smoke-satisfaction. I'm going to try P. A." They did try Prince Albert and they've stuck. Tear a leaf out of their book.

No other tobacco is like Prince Albert. Buy a tidy red tin, throw back the hinged lid and breathe deeply of its wonderful fragrance. That's real tobacco! Cool when you smoke it . . . cool and sweet and fragrant as the breeze from an old-fashioned garden.

Why be satisfied with less than perfection! Go now to that nearby smoke-shop and get a tidy red tin of P. A.—the tobacco that has brought pleasure to so many men that it is known as the National Joy Smoke. Load up and light up. Your face will light up with the smile that P. A. regulars know so well.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

There was marked activity in building lines in Norwich during the past week as indicated by the number of permits granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. During the past week 13 permits were granted within three of the number for the whole month of July. These permits include a number for new dwelling houses as well as for a brick and hollow addition to the United Congregational church and two additions to the Community house on Church street.

Besides the permits issued good progress was made on local projects now in hand and at the site of the new home for the Dime Savings bank work on the foundation has progressed favorably. Here the excavation work for the east and south walls is practically complete and the forms for the cement work have been erected.

At the Tuberculosis Sanatorium the work on the new building is well along. The east and west walls have been erected and the roof is now being put on, and work on the north wall has been started.

The permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton during the past week are as follows:

To Hipolit Lukowski to build an addition to the present frame barn at 125 Elizabeth street. The addition will be 8x10 feet.

To Tetranela Sumseska to make alterations to the present frame building at 21 Hickory street. An addition 4x8 feet, will also be built.

To Mrs. Jennie Shulman to erect a frame garage, 20x25 feet, at 25 Peck street.

To Peter Dargewicz to erect a frame piazza to the present house at 158 Central avenue. The piazza will be 3x13 feet.

To Amede Lusignan to erect on the land of Peter Lusignan at 115 Dunham street a frame 2-story house. The house will be 24-28 feet with concrete foundation. The exterior will be in shingles and clapboards. The interior will be in hard finish plaster and pine trim. There will be six rooms and bath.

To Benjamin F. Mieger to erect a frame 2-story dwelling house at No. 12 Yantic street. The house will have concrete foundation and underpining and will be 24x26 feet

To Contractor W. S. Spencer to make alterations to the building owned by William Disco at 491 Main street. The present wood front will be removed and replaced with brick piers and steel girders and plate glass windows.

To W. S. Spencer to alter and extend the present house at 23 Broad street for Mrs. Helena M. T. Church One additional room will be built on the house and part of the present veranda will be enclosed to form part of room.

To W. S. Spencer to alter and add to the present frame house owned by Madeline Driscoll at 79 Warren street. The alterations will include making the present house into a 2-family house and building two additions, one 7x9 feet and the other 7x8 feet.

To Sam Chinigo to erect a 2-family frame house on Bromley street for Annie Yeitz. The house will be 21x34 feet with five rooms and bath on each floor.

To Archibald Torrance to build an addition to the United Congregational church at the corner of Broadway and Chestnut street. The addition will extend along the north side of the church to the stone retaining wall. The addition will be one story with concrete foundation and brick and concrete tile walls. The addition will be used as Sunday school class rooms.

To Archibald Torrance to erect two additions to the present stone building owned by the United Congregational church and known as the Community house. The addition will be on the west side of the building and will be 11x14 feet and 15x17 feet, each one story. The additions will have concrete foundations and floors with the side walls of hollow tile and stucco finish.

To Samuel W. Loskin to erect a frame garage 16x16 feet at 79 Mt. Pleasant street.

To Angelo Del Grosso to alter the present frame building on Baltic street for Antonio Cetrone into a six room house.

To Angelo Del Grosso to alter brick building at 17 Thames street for James Di Gangi. A new stone front with plate glass windows will be installed.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were eight sales of real estate, one more sale than for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $13,190 and $158,925.

In New London there were three sales of real estate as compared to 14 sales for the same week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the rrespective weeks were $78,750 and $337,473.

Building in New England

The Federal Reserve figures dealing with building activity would seem to indicate that construction work in the New England states as a whole is at a somewhat slower rate than for the State of Connecticut. Here in this state building activity during July was about on a par with the same month last year. The Connecticut figures for June show an increase in the number of permits issued but a decrease in total estimated construction costs. The value of contracts awarded in New England during the first two weeks of July averaged considerably lower than in the same period of 1925, according to the Federal Reserve agent. A seasonal decline somewhat greater than usual was reports in total contracts awarded in total contracts awarded during June, the figure being nine per cent. below June last year. Cumulative figures of contracts awarded in New England for all classes of construction during the first half of 1926 showed a decline of less than one per cent. from the same period last year.

Mystic

The foundation has been started for a house in Mystic for Vittorio Cini, of Mystic. The dwelling, which will be on Brown St., will be 24x36 feet. A Dutch colonial residence has been started on Edgecomb St. for Arthur S. Burrows and Alfred E. Osborne has broken ground for a cottage on Burrows St.

Jordan School Addition

The H. Wales Lines Co., Mercer building, have been awarded the contract for the proposed addition to the Jordan school, Jordan Village, Waterford, plans for which were prepared by Architect L. H. Goddard. The addition, as reported before in these columns, will provide four new rooms The design is in conformity with the architecture of the present building

New London

General observation in the building situation about New London shows builders are enjoying consistent prosperity with evidence of this prosperity continuing for some months to come. The number of applications for building permits for smaller jobs continues to be above the average while several major constructions are under way and several more contemplated.

Work will be available for a large number of building tradesmen for several weeks on the Connecticut Power Co. project in Water street on the Mercer addition in State and Meridian streets and on the office and store part of the Garde building in State street.

Future work includes the construction of a large office structure for the Southern New England Telephone Co. in Washington street, tentative plans for a large apartment, store and another large garage in automobile row, Broad street, for Messrs. Saltman and Rakosky.

Although there is nothing to justify a prediction that residential construction will start on a heavy scale in the Pequot section this fall it is generally expected that the many new owners of lots recently purchased in realty developments there will begin to build this fall to have the houses available next spring.

Extensive alterations to the Hotel Royal at 7 Bank street are planned by Frederick H. Gavitt, proprietor and plans have been prepared for the work by Architect Fred S. Langston. The first floor of the hotel will be arranged for two stories with hardwood floors, tile entrances and new fronts of plate glass and copper. A new hotel entrance will have marble stairs. The second floor will be remodeled with a tile floor and marble wainscoting. In addition to the alterations there will be a one story addition 4 by 28. The alteration plans also call for new plumbing, heating and electric wiring and fixtures.

The H. Wales Lines Co. has been awarded the contract for the enlargement of quarters of the Mariners Savings bank and has started work there. The rear of the store occupied by the United Music Co. in the Marsh building, will be utilized by the bank and will provide 50 per cent. additional space for the use of the bank. Plans specify that the enlargement shall be of design to conform with the present bank interior.

Work has started on a frame cottage for Fred Danz in Arrow court. Plans call for a structure 24 by 28 one story high. The cost is estimated to be about $3,000.

Ground has been broken for two frame cottages, each 24 by 24 feet in Warren street for Arthur and Annie Beckman. The work is being done from private plans.

The foundation work is nearing completion on the two-story cottage being built for Byron E. Wilkinson at Evergreen and Ocean avenues.

The frame work is going up on the two-family residential structure being built by H. R. Griswold at Garfield and Connecticut avenues. Plans call for a structure 27 by 40 with modern improvements.

The frame addition, 35 by 46, being built at 133 Mohegan avenue is now inclosed and work below pushed on the interior for Dorothy Marvin.

Work is nearing completion on the two-family frame dwelling being built for Elizabeth Boyle at Ocean and Dell avenues. Plans specify a structure 52 by 28 with modern conveniences.

The two-family frame cottage being built for Henry Coogan in Fitch avenue is nearly completed.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Queer Rock

To be too sure is most unwise,
And sometimes leads to a surprise.
—Old Mother Nature.

Reddy Fox often met Jimmy Skunk on the beach. They were very good friends. You see, there was plenty to eat, so there was no occasion to quarrel over food. Now and then, they would find a dead fish washed up on the shore which was big enough for a whole party. So it happened that they often dined together.

Early one morning, just after sunrise, when the tide was very 'way out, Reddy was exploring down near the water's edge. There had been a heavy storm a day or two before and many things had been washed up on the beach. Reddy discovered tha:

"That's a queer-looking rock,' said Reddy

Jimmy Skunk was before him. Jimmy was poking about something black at the water's edge and Reddy went over to see what it was. He looked at it curiously. It appeared to him to be nothing but a queer rock. Part of it was smooth and attached to this, and, as he supposed, a part of it, were a number of queer projections. Some were small and some were nearly as big as a man's hand. They were very rough.

"That's a queer-looking rock," said Reddy. "What are you fooling about that for?"

Jimmy's eyes twinkled. "Just wishing that one of these fellows would open just enough for me to scoop him out," said he.

Reddy looked all about curiously. "What fellows?" he demanded. "I don't see anything that could open around here."

Jimmy put a paw on one of the rough pieces of the queer-looking rock. "One of these," said he.

"That's nothing but a piece of rock," said Reddy.

Jimmy's eyes twinkled more than ever. "Guess again," said he. "This isn't a rock. It's an oyster."

"What's an oyster?" grunted Reddy.

"An oyster," replied Jimmy, "is an appetizer. You eat one and it gives you an appetite."

"Huh!" sniffed Reddy. "I don't have to eat any oysters to give me an appetite. But how do you eat a thing like that?"

"You don't the way it is," replied Jimmy, "any more than you eat a clam with the shells closed. This fellow is just like a clam and has two halves to its shell. If you are lucky enough to find one open and can scoop the oyster out before it can close the shell, you've got something better than a clam. But there isn't a chance when the oysters are shut up the way these are. You see, all these oysters became attached to this stone when they are tiny, and have grown up together in a bunch. They do that sometimes. I suppose that storm washed them up here. It's tantalizing. That's what it is, tantalizing.

Reddy poked the oysters over. He certainly couldn't imagine anybody succeeding in opening those shells. "I suppose," said he, "that those oysters are just about as safe as anybody could be. I don't suppose that they have any enemies that they need fear at all. Look at that queer thing down there in the water, Jimmy."

Jimmy looked. Just beyond, and where they could look right down into it, was a pool of water. On the bottom lay two or three oysters. A big starfish was close to one of these oysters. The starfish was the queer thing Reddy had seen.

A Drastic Reduction in Frigidaire Prices!

Today, we announce a sweeping reduction in the prices of Frigidaire Electric Refrigerators.

The tremendous volume of Frigidaire sales (greater than all other electric refrigerators combined), and a vastly increased production capacity, have resulted in economies that now put electric refrigeration within the reach of every home and store.

No other electric refrigerator could offer such value. No other offers you the guarantee of General Motors, the endorsement of 200,000 users, the proven dependability, long life and economical operation of Frigidaire, nor the easy payment plan of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

Price reductions are as much as $90, including both the complete metal cabinet Frigidaires and Frigidaire units for ordinary ice-boxes. Come in today, or mail the coupon.

These drastic price reductions affect both household and commercial models of Frigidaire. Whether you want Frigidaire for your home or place of business—whether you want one of the complete metal cabinet models or a mechanical unit for installation in your present ice-box—you can take advantage of new low prices that offer greater values than ever before.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

News of 75 years ago in Norwich and surrounding country as taken from the files of The Norwich Courier of 1851 is printed in part as follows:

Tuesday, Aug. 5, 1851—The cornerstone of a new church edifice was laid in Hartford on Saturday. It is called the Pearl Street Congregational church. The society forming the church is drawn from several other Congregational churches in that city. The new structure is to be 115 feet in length and of proportionate width, and the material used is to be Chatham freestone. The steeple is to be 200 feet in height.

The Grand lodge of Pennsylvania of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows has under its jurisdiction about 435 lodges, numbering about 43,000 members. The increase of members during the past year has been about 5,000.

The following persons from eastern Connecticut took part in the late commencement at Yale college: Oration, Theoretical Reformers, Salmon McCall of Lebanon.

The reduction of postal rates is being felt in the increased sales of stamps at the local office. In Boston $1,700 worth of stamps were sold Saturday in spite of the fact that one person was limited to a three-dollar purchase.

Thursday, Aug. 7, 1851—A somewhat serious collision occurred on the Sound, off Saybrook, last Tuesday night, between the steamer Connecticut of the Norwich and New York line and the Commodore of the Stonington line, the ships traveling in opposite directions before the crash.

Just before the accident a dense fog was encountered and both boats sounded the steam whistles. The captain of the Connecticut heard the whistle of the Commodore and swung sharp to the right to avoid a crash, but it was inevitable. The Commodore had her guard cut through abreast of the boiler, a hole made in her boiler and her smoke chimney canted to an angle of 45 degrees. The hull was not damaged. The Connecticut lost her guards and bulwarks for a distance of 40 feet forward of the wheel and broke an A-brace by which the water wheel is supported.

The Empire State on her way to Fall River accompanied the Connecticut to New London, while the Knickerbocker, sister ship to the Connecticut, towed the Commodore to New York, after taking off her passengers.

Captain Williams was in charge of the Connecticut and although Boston and New York papers were inclined to blame him at first, they changed their attitude when facts became known.

Messrs. Albert Converse and Joseph Brewer of this city returned from California on the Empire City, thus escaping the fire which caused over three millions in damage in San Francisco, when ten whole squares and a major part of six others were destroyed. The loss of life was heavy in the fire and many people have since been killed by the vigilance committee when found looting burned houses and robbing dead people.

Saturday, August 9, 1851—At the meeting of the court of common council this week Mayor Foster presided and much business was transacted. Ebenezer Learned, Jr., was elected recorder for the ensuing year, following compliance with the law recently passed by the state legislature. The board then elected the officers of the fire department for the ensuing year as follows: N. C. Brakenridge, chief engineer; William Tubbs, first assistant; D. W. Perkins, second assistant. F. W. Treadway and others were granted the exclusive right to manufacture coal gas or oil gas for a term of 15 years in this city. A petition was received for the layout of a highway on Central Wharf between the buildings the postoffice and savings bank were notified to remove porches and other obstructions that a sidewalk might be laid on that section of the street.

The corporators of the Norwich & Westbrook railroad held their first meeting yesterday and voted to look further into the matter to ascertain costs of construction and possible revenue from the line.

The name of the postoffice at Pottersville, New London county, has been changed to Mystic River.

Lafayette S. Foster of Norwich had his pocket picked of $50 on the cars between New Haven and Hartford early this week.

An unidentified man was killed in an automobile accident in North Haven and William G. Nill, 24, of 44 North Third street, Meriden was arrested by the New Haven police.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Questions and Answers about "What Makes a Good Tire?"

Question—Does any one single feature make a good tire?

Answer—No.

Question—Then what does make a good tire?

Answer—The perfection of all the different operations that are necessary in producing the finished product from tree to tire.

Question—As for example?

Answer—The success of the United States Royal Cord Balloon in delivering true balloon cushioning and comfort, and yet giving long-lasting service is largely due to these six important factors:

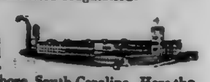
Plantations

The United States Rubber Company owns and operates scientific Rubber Plantations in Sumatra and Malaya. Has 7,000,000 rubber trees, all yielding Latex now, from which this Company produces its Sprayed Rubber and its Latex-treated Web Cord.

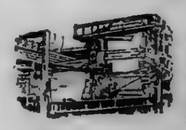
Sprayed Rubber

Of the greatest importance, because of its fine quality, and its freedom from acid and smoke. Briefly, the Latex is sprayed into a chamber containing hot, dry air, which dries out the liquid from the Latex, leaving the pure, solid rubber. This does away with the old methods of smoke-drying and acid coagulation.

Uniform Cotton Cord



To insure absolute uniformity and high quality of the cotton cord used in United States Tires, the United States Rubber Company operates its own cotton mills at Winnsboro, South Carolina. Here the choicest grade cotton is made into cords to meet the rigid requirements of the tire factories where it is used to produce Latex-treated Web Cord.



Latex-treated Web Cord

Also an invention of the United States Rubber technicians. The cords are laid parallel without tie-threads, and soaked in virgin rubber Latex, which forms an elastic web through and through and between the cords. Important because it gives the cord structure maximum strength and maximum flexibility.

Flat-Band Method of Building Tires

Do not miss the importance of this revolutionary improvement in tire-building. The way it works is highly technical. But the result is that each cord in a United States Royal Cord is made to lie in exactly the right position, under precisely the right tension, and to take its due share of the work.

Searching Tests from the Tree to the Tire

United States Tests begin with the raw materials—and these tests never stop. Many tests are made during the process of manufacture and finished tires undergo various factory tests such as the "Tread Wear Test" illustrated. Even after the tires are sold and in use, their performance on the road is being checked by factory-trained experts stationed all over the country.

MONDAY MORNING CASES OVERCROWD NEW LONDON COURT PRISONERS' PEN

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 9—Police court business struck a pace this morning with more than a score of cases before it, that threatened an all-day session. The number of accused persons was so great that they were provided with reserved seats and given the places of the elect, for they were seated within the rail which separates the sheep from the goats. The prisoners' pen was full to overflowing (as were some of those within its confines Sunday when they were taken into custody.) Those in the pen were men who had become besotted from the use of liquor. They were young and old, the weak and the strong physically. Every one pleaded guilty when arraigned, for they realized that the evidence against them was as near complete as it could be. They were arrested while intoxicated, or while begging in the highways of the city. They were uniformly fined, though the fines were not all of similar amount. There was one black man among the group of drunks and vagrants. He had a double dose coming to him, for he was arrested Saturday and on Sunday for intoxication and was prosecuted for both offenses. He had a $20 penalty with the costs of trial attached when he left the police station in the hurryup wagon for the county jail. The man is Josh Hubbard, who has been cavorting in the fast section of the city known as John street. He has landed in the court before, as recently as last week, but he has not learned his lesson, unless his experience today shall have taught it to him.

The attraction of the session that created the greatest interest were the cases against Lila Taylor, a dusky dame who has apartments at 16 John street, a house in which there are other apartments, the occupants of which have been called on to plead to serious offenses in the recent past. Lila pleaded guilty of maintaining a house with an unsavory reputation. She had with her a couple of perfume-scented girls in gaudy garb who seem to have had a fascination for white men. Two soldiers from camp at Niantic and a sailor in the service of Uncle Sam, got into the Taylor house and were pestered with the colored girls there when Town Sergeant Sullivan and a squad of police men called at 11 o'clock Sunday night. The police department had Officer Wheeler keeping an eye and an ear on the house while he was in plain clothes. The visitors did not think strange of seeing a civilian pass their way, so when they found the colored members outside the house and they engaged the white men in conversation the men entered. The soldiers are from Company B, New Haven and they were not at all diffident in relating the facts of their visit. The sailor was much more reserved and showed a modesty that was at least indicative of better breeding than the soldiers manifested. The negresses who resorted at the place set up a defense, but as it was weak it fell down of its own weight, and fines were imposed. Lila was ordered to pay a fine of $50. She paid it and said it didn't hurt much to make the payment. The frequenters were released without a fine as they aided the state by giving the evidence they handed up.

Several auto law violators were penalized. Morris Feldman ran his car into that of Thomas A. Kenefick, a federal agent, at Ocean Beach, and then endeavored to escape responsibility, for he drove away without ascertaining what injury he had inflicted upon the car his machine collided with. But there was a motorcycle officer at the beach and Mr. Kenefick described the colliding car and the operator of it with the result that Feldman was overtaken up the road while he was adjusting his mudguard which was bearing on the tire because it was bent out of shape. Feldman sought to prove that the Kenefick car ran into his machine, but that did not pass as the truth, nor did it excuse Feldman for not stopping to ascertain what damage had been occasioned. He was fined $50.

Boleslaw Haberek was fined for operating a car without possessing a license so to do. He wisely offered no excuse.

Walter R. Radicioni speeded his truck along Pequot avenue at a 32 mile clip and attracted the attention of other autoists. For that he was regarded as reckless and was fined $50.

Harry Beevan was found operating a car without having a license. He came from Roxbury, Mass., and declared that in the Bay State it was permissible to operate a car from another state, if a license from any state was possessed. Judgment was suspended in his case.

Neil Herbert Bailey, of Hartford, has sold to Jean Mackinnon Creighton, a house and lot on Chapel street.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Philip Adel, 27 Denison avenue. Commissioner Stoeckel also approved of the right to operate of Oliver Woodworth Jr., Fair Harbor place. The latter license was ordered suspended several weeks ago following the young man being convicted of violation of the motor vehicle law.

Mrs. Frederick Damon, of 823 Ocean avenue; Alfred Lejeune, Torrington; Mrs. Vincenza Salutico, infant daughter, 25 Ledyard avenue, Groton; Master Jesse Foster, 536 Bank street; Mrs. George Chapman and infant son, Waterford; Eno Koski, Quincy, Mass.; Mrs. Kyle Sheffield, Gardner avenue; Mrs. Fannie Richmond, 177 North Bank street and Mrs. Charles Glassenberg, 33 Squire street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Frederick Bitters, 68, of Quaker Hill, died Sunday at Lawrence hospital. Besides his wife, he is survived by several children. Mr. Bitters was admitted to the hospital three weeks ago, at which time he underwent an operation. It was believed that the operation was a success, but about a week ago the patient suffered a change. Mr. Bitters was born at Quaker Hill, and had always resided there.

Mrs. E. G. Huddle, 34 Fort street, Groton, made complaint to the New London police this morning, alleging that the driver of automobile N-418, Connecticut issue, was guilty of evasion of responsibility. Mrs. Huddle stated that the automobile had struck and damaged a bicycle belonging to her son, on Main street, and then drove away without stopping to determine the extent of the damage occasioned. The automobile is registered in the name of David Seaman, of Poquonoc Bridge.

BUMPED FIRE CHIEF'S CAR PAGE APPEALS FROM $100 FINE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 9—Arthur J. Page, driver of a New Haven Dairy truck was penalized in the police court this morning for reckless driving a month or more ago, when the truck he was operating ran down the fire department chief's corner of Green and Pearl streets. The bump was such that Chief Rose was hurled from the car and sustained a fractured leg that kept him in the hospital for several weeks. He was in court today to be present when a judgment should be rendered. Page was fined $100. He appealed to the court of common pleas. The testimony in the case had all been taken when the case was offered this morning. It was understood that maps showing the site of the accident were to be offered to aid the court in understanding just how and where the crash occurred, but no maps were shown.

David Leifer, a roomer at 182 North Bank street, made complaint to the police this morning that a fellow lodger, Jack Mansfield, a Hebrew, had stolen $30 from the former and that Mansfield later took a train for Worcester. Leifer and Mansfield had occupied the same room two nights. During Sunday night, Mansfield arose while Leifer slept and going to the latter's trousers, removed the money, then leaving the house and boarding the train for Worcester.

Mrs. Max Lewyant, 125 Bank street, who is engaged in business during the summer at the corner of Bentley avenue and Westerly place, Ocean Beach, made complaint to the police last night that her home had been burglarized either Friday or Saturday night and named several articles taken. Mrs. Lewyant had not been at her home since Friday morning and when she returned there yesterday afternoon she discovered that entrance had been gained, a door being forced during her two days' absence.

The body of the man killed last evening by being struck by the east bound Federal express near Waterford station, and who was believed last night to be John Kellen, of Rosemary street, Waterford, a paving block cutter employed at Booth Bros., Hurricane Isle quarry, was positively identified today as Kellen. Identification was made by employes of the quarry.

PASSED WORTHLESS CHECK— ALSO STOLE A CAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 9—A young man representing himself as Raymond Brown negotiated a worthless check on a State street merchant this afternoon, the check being made payable for $50. Brown received a suit of clothes valued at $35 and $15.

Brown went to the New York Clothing company Crocker House block, about 2 o'clock and requested to be shown suits of clothes. He was given several suits to inspect and after having decided to purchase one of them he made it known that the only way that he could purchase the clothes was by check which was made payable to him and purporting to be the issue of Elmer R. Brown, proprietor of a Bank street restaurant and drawn upon the New London City National bank. The employe of the store finally agreed to accept the check as payment of the clothes and then tendered Brown the difference between the price of the clothes and the face of the check, $15. Brown left the store and took his purchase with him. The proprietor of the store then decided to learn whether the check was a legitimate one and went to the bank where he found that the check was worthless as the restaurant proprietor did not have an account there.

This evening it was discovered that Brown, whose home is on Howard street, had stolen a Pontiac coach, owned by W. M. Meek.

COUNCILOR WOODRUFF IS PRESIDING OFFICER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 9—There were but five members of the city council in attendance at the meeting this evening and the session was short. Mayor Fox and Councilor Murray were absent. Councilor Woodruff was called to the chair, presided with dignity and kept the business moving along in orderly form. He has been a member of the council two years and this evening for the first time directed the proceedings. There were eight applications for permission to build and all had the approval of the building inspector, William Gunn, Jr., and permission was granted. Two buildings are to be erected, a two-family house and a bungalow. The other applications were for garages, or for alterations. Chester Lyon was granted permission to remove a building in Harris court from one location to another. M. Luchansky was practically granted permission to use two feet of the sidewalk at 437 Bank street for the display of his goods. The permit is to be granted under police supervision, as all other such permits have been granted.

The council accepted an invitation from the Officers' association of the fire department to attend a chowder to be served at Ocean Beach at 6:30 on the afternoon of the 19th of August, also to review the parade of fire companies on the 20th inst at 10:30 a. m.

John Reagan, 62, died this evening at his home, 30 West Colt street. He had been ill but a few days; he suffered a shock last Wednesday and until that time he had been constantly employed. He is survived by his wife and by three sons, David, William and James Reagan and a daughter, Miss Mary Reagan, all of this city. Mr. Reagan was employed by the F. H. & A. H. Chappell company many years as a teamster and prior to his employment there worked for the Central Coal company.

Lloyd Dewey will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning charged with reckless driving. He was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy on a warrant issued by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky. Dewey, it is alleged in the complaint, operated a motor vehicle through the streets July 31 at a rate of speed that endangered the life and limb of the pedestrians who were using the highways.

Mrs. Ward, proprietress of The Outlook, a summer boarding house at Ocean Beach, made complaint to the police this afternoon that a canoe belonging to her was stolen from Alewife cove last night.

Lieut. Waters, athletic officer at the submarine base, made complaint to the police this afternoon that last night, presumably, for the theft was not discovered until this noon, 17 golf sticks and three dozen golf balls were stolen from the base. It is believed that the theft was committed by one or more sailors stationed at the military reservation, who have already or will endeavor to dispose of the golf sticks and balls at a sacrifice.

FIREMEN GET THEIR HOLIDAY FROM THE CITY COUNCIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 9—New London is to give the firemen a helping hand in making a success of the Connecticut State Firemen's meeting here on the 19th and 20th inst. A week ago the acting fire chief asked the council to declare the 19th a general holiday, but he asked that which could not be done. The city council is without authority to make a holiday. Councilor Scott, himself a member of the fire department, asked that the communication of Acting Chief Shipman, which was tabled a week ago should now be taken up and be farther considered and acted upon. That was done and Councilor Scott secured an endorsement of the plan for a holiday on the part of merchants and others. He said he was assured that some 62 fire companies would be in the procession that moves through the streets on the 19th inst. and that the procession would be some two miles in length. The council agreed with him that the firemen were deserving of the small need of encouragement sought and gave its sanction to the holiday phase of the celebration.

MOTT-NEPTUNE AV. RULING DEEMED FAIR BY CITY MANAGER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 9—Councilor May came to the front this evening at the council meeting as the servant of the public for the public good and announced his motto "pro bono publico." He was exercises over the attempt of the city council to limit parking on Mott and Neptune avenues to residents of those highways only. He made his position clear in a prepared address which he delivered with force and energy. The city manager, after a hearing in the council chamber a week ago, placed signs in the avenues mentioned forbidding parking there except by residents. This was what Councilor May objected to. He declared the action to be unwarranted and without right in law. Manager Holt admitted the force of that statement and declared that the signs were placed in Mott and Neptune avenues only for the moral effect they would have. He pointed out that the residents there had gone to considerable expense to have the avenues kept as streets in which there should not be parking to the extent that residents would be inconvenienced. The quiet of the place would be maintained and the general good of the neighborhood would be advanced by the action taken in prohibiting parking there. Mr. Holt admitted that the city could not discriminate, but he believed that the general good would be enhanced by the restricting of parking, so far as the signs would accomplish that.

Councilor May was not satisfied with the explanation and declared that if he could not bring about adherence to law in so far as the rights of all the people were protected that he would go elsewhere and seek to have the signs removed and equal rights accorded to all. He moved that the matter be refered to the council for further consideration, but the members would not sustain the position he has taken. So it remains now for the councilor to do as he has said he will do and have the restrictions removed. Councilor Scott sustained the position of Councilor May, in so far as he admitted that the city had no right to restrict parking to residents in the streets named, but he took the view of the matter-the city manager held and said the moral effect would be healthful in preserving order and maintaining the quiet of the section.

GOLF WON OVER PIANO FOR WOMENS CHAMPION

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9, —(AP)— Marion Turple, eighteen year old Southern Women's golf champion, would rather have her fingers about a mashie than upon the keys of a piano.

When a wee Scotch lassie the new champion was given an opportunity to become a pianist like her mother or follow the footsteps of her father in golf.

George Turpie, now professional at the St. John's club here, had golf clubs in his daughter's hands ten years before she won the southern womens title. Mrs. Turpie saw in her daughter a great pianist and singer and the practice in music went hand with two hours practice at golf each day. But the golf game was better, for she has not won a southern music championship, although she was the applauded pianist and singer at an Eastern Star concert the week before she won the golf title.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Band Concert in Taftville

The St. Jean Baptiste band is giving a concert on the Ponemah Street club lawn in Taftville this week Wednesday evening. It is hoped the public will show their appreciation of these concerts for if well attended several more will be given.

Broadway Theatre

At the Broadway theatre today and Wednesday are two features, entirely different in every respect.

The main attraction is from the novel by Peggy Gaddis, entitled "The Other Woman's Story."

A good murder mystery drama with society atmosphere, in which the identity of the person who committed the crime is ingeniously concealed until the climax comes. It is the type of picture which has a universal audience appeal, particularly so because the suspense is tightened as events progress, and the on-lookers are utterly unable to anticipate the finish. It isn't often that you get a court-room scene on the screen that doesn't seem as though it could be largely improved by cutting out 50 per cent of the details. Not in this case, however: The trial stuff is mighty well done and, though perhaps a legal sharp would probably find a few things to criticise, movie-patrons in general will be deeply impressed by it. They utilize flashbacks a lot in constructing the episodes prior to the killing, with satisfactory results. The acting throughout is high-grade, Alice Calhoun, in the wife role; Helen Lee Worthing, as the other woman; and Robert Frazer as hero, give excellent performances. Gertrude Short scores as night-nymph Gertie.

Philo McCullough, who alternates his screen characterizations between hero and villain, plays a featured role in "The Devil's Partner" as the leader of a daring band of cattle rustlers. McCullough is one of the most proficient riders in the picture colony, and gives concrete evidence of his ability in this picture. Action is replete with fast horses and daring moments. This is the interesting second feature on the bill while a new Kinograms tops off these fine productions.

Prices of Frigidaire Reduced

DAYTON, O., August 9, 1926—Drastic price reductions effective immediately on all lines of Frigidaire were announced today. The cut in price ranges from $20 to $90. Increased demand for Frigidaire, followed by increased production, is assigned as the reason by E. G. Biechler, president and general manager of Frigidaire.

"Through anticipated production increases we expect to materially lower our production costs," said Mr. Biechler commenting on the announcement. "We have sold more than 200,000 Frigidaires to date—a larger number than has been sold by all other makers of electric refrigerators combined. We feel that the public will demand Frigidaire in ever increasing quantities and now it is time to pass on the savings that will be accomplished."

Frigidaire recently announced a $25,000,000 factory expansion program which will give it an output of 600,000 refrigerator units next year. This new General Motors plant will be completed within a short time and will be in production early in 1927.

The price cut affects Frigidaire metal cabinet models, residential and commercial installations and also cooling units designed for use in the standard makes of ice boxes.

"Retail sales for the first seven months of 1926 indicate that we will pass far beyond the $80,000,000 market set as our goal for this year," Mr. Biechler said. "We have every reason to believe that cold weather sales will run many times higher than last year for the public is just beginning to realize that it is summer in the kitchen the whole year round and that adequate refrigeration is needed every day in the year.

"During the past twenty years, the expectancy of the average American citizen has been prolonged ten years. This has been done through dissemination of knowledge of sanitation and health safeguards, plus the fine work done by the government in supervising the preservation of foods in transit. Better refrigeration in the home is the next logical step."

Rapid strides are being made by Frigidaire in the commercial refrigeration field. Sales to grocers, restauranteurs, meat dealers, druggists and florists have more than doubled in the past year. The tremendous increase in this field is altogether due to the great economies and added convenience afforded by electric refrigeration, Mr. Biechler stated.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Talbott White who operates a public service car in Stafford and vicinity pleaded guilty to the charge of failing to give right of way to a car approaching from his right and was fined $5 and costs amounting in all to $18.10 by Judge Heald in the borough court Monday morning. White was driving up West Main street Saturday afternoon when his car collided with a car operated by John D. Griffiths, coming out of High street. Both cars were considerably damaged but there were no personal injuries.

At the same session of court five boys whose ages range from 15 to 18 were presented on a charge of shooting craps. The state police received a complaint about the boys Sunday and Officers Hulburt and Taylor found the gang in the Stafford Springs cemetery busy with the game. They were ordered to appear in court and Judge Heald imposed a fine of $3 and costs in each case. There were a number of boys and one girl, all under 16, in the crowd, some of whom it is said were also throwing the dice. They were not formally presented in court but Judge Heald took advantage of the opportunity to give them some sound advice.

Mrs. Mary Ashe, 67, widow of Nicholas Ashe and a former resident of Stafford Springs died at the home of her son, Nicholas Ashe in Rockville, Saturday. She was born in Ireland and came to Stafford Springs when a young woman. She remained here until about a year ago when she moved to Rockville. She is survived by two sons, John of Providence, R. I., and Nicholas of Rockville.

Miss Helen Elizabeth Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton of Stafford Springs and Walter Stewart of Canandagua, N. Y., were married at St. Joseph's church in Staffordville, Monday morning by Rev. Felix J. O'Neill. Miss Ethel Hamilton, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Hugh Hamilton, the bride's brother was best man. The bride wore white georgette with silver lace inserted and wore a picture hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid was attired in a gown of woodland rose georgette, wore a picture hat and carried sweet peas. The ushers were J. M. O'Brien of Wincoosbi, Vt., and Gavin Hamilton of Waterville, Maine. The bride's gift to her maid was a pair of rhinestone buckles and the groom's gift to the best man was a pair of white gold cuff-links. A breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, on East street, following the ceremony at the church, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left later in the day for a brief wedding trip, after which they will reside in Geneva, N. Y.

DIPLOMATIC HOMES ABROAD TO BE "WHITE BUILDINGS"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—(AP)—In the construction of new diplomatic building" program of the Capitol city planning to adhere to the "white building" program of the Capitol city which had its inception in the White House.

Chairman Porter of the house foreign affairs committee belives that under this policy it will not be long "before a white building will be looked upon as an American building."

"It also will aid our tourists who, upon arriving in a strange port or foreign capital, will guess at once that the white structure is the American building," said Mr. Porter.

Mr. Porter also favors making the interior of each diplomatic building an exhibit of American decorating and furnishing.

TURKISH BATHS GROW IN POPULAR ESTEEM

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—(AP)—The Turkish bath to a certain extent has replaced the cocktail as refreshment after a busy day, if the increased number of these establishments here is a criterion. Swimming is a close second.

Turkish, Russian and other vapor baths have increased in popularity until at least one hotel includes them with the room, and others are equipped for this service.

These new facilities have not endangered the general business as evidenced by the new and larger buildings erected on Forty-second street by the largest Turkish baths in the city.

Large numbers of women patronize the places, special hours being reserved for them in the daytime. The evenings and nights are reserved universally for men.

Hawaiian Pineapple Pack

HONOLULU, Aug. 9—(AP)—The 1926 Hawaiian pineapple pack will have a value between $34,000,000 and $35,000,000. This figure has taken as basis for fixing the 1926 opening prices. Last year's pack was valued at $35,000,000.

Railroad Once Had $35.45

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Ranking well among the leaders today in the railroad field, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad when founded did not contain enough money in its treasury to pay for a month's ice bill, as now consumed on any one of its leading Pullman trains.

The road's treasurer at the time of its foundation contained but $35.45 in actual cash. Today its monthly payroll alone approximates $6,500,000.

MARKET WAS BULLISH

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Bullish enthusiasm ran rampant in today's stock market. With Wall street literally flooded with rumors of mergers, stock split ups and increased dividends, speculators for the advance, aided by relatively easy money rates, had little difficulty in marking up scores of issues 1 to 18 points. At the close the average of 20 leading industrial issues stood at a new high level for all time while the average of 20 leading rails was at the highest figure since 1913. Commission houses reported a marked expansion in public interest, which was reflected in total sales of well over two million shares.

General Motors common and U. S. Steel common again established new record high prices at 225 3-4 and 155 1-4, respectively. Motors later sold down to 222, where it was up five points on the day, while U. S. Steel common closed at 154 3-4, up 3 1-4. Directors of the General Motors corporation met Thursday, and Wall street hears that a stock dividend of 50 or 100 per cent will be declared, together with an extra cash dividend of at least $4. Buying of steel was influenced by predictions that the July unfilled tonnage statement to be issued at noon tomorrow, would show an increase of around 500,000 tons, which would be the first gain this year.

Publication of another series of semi-annual dividend statements disclosed that not all companies had shared in the widespread prosperity of the first half of 1925 were Foundation, Ludlum Steel, Fairbanks, International Cement and National Enameling and Stamping. On the other hand, substantial gains were reported by American Steel Foundries, Schulte Stores corporation and National Public Service corporation.

Special movements developed in a wide assortment of industrials. Air Reduction was marked up over 12 points to a new peak price at 145 1-2 on reports of unusually large earnings in the first six months of the year. Dupont, which has large General Motors holdings, touched a new record top at 312 and then dropped back to 310 1-2, up 5 3-4 net. American Railway Express, Bayuk Cigars, Butterick, Threshing, Case Threshing Machine, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Loose-Wiles, Mack Trucks, Remington Typewriter and Union Bag and Paper all showed net gains of 3 to 6 points, several touching new peak prices for the year.

Some striking gains also were recorded in the rail group. "Big Four" soared 18 points to a new top at 250. Atchison touched the best price ever recorded at 143 1-2 and New York Central topped all quotations for the last two decades by selling at 139 1-4 although it later slipped back to 138. Union Pacific, Southern Railway and Chesapeake & Ohio also reached new high ground.

An extreme break of $4 a bale in the cotton prices on publication of a bearish government report showing an estimated yield of 15,621,000 bales, or about 1,000,000 more than was expected, featured the commodity markets. Wheat advanced slightly in response to an unexpected demand in Liverpool. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound and coffee prices closed 13 to 19 points higher.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent but was marked up to 4 1-2 at the close coincident with the calling of a moderate amount of loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Demand sterling was slightly firmer around $4.85 13-16. French francs dropped over 7 points to around 2.93 1-2 cents, presumably on weakness inspired by the announcement that the Coolidge administration regarded the French debt settlement negotiations as closed. Spanish pesetas rallied nearly 20 points to around 15.30 cents, but most of the other continental exchanges showed slight recessions.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Tuesday, August 10, 1926

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was over Nebraska Sunday night has advanced to northwestern Missouri, St. Joseph 29.72, whence it will move northeastward. High pressure prevails over the middle Atlantic states, Elkins $0.10 and in the region of Bermuda $0.18.

The outlook is for showers on Wednesday in the middle Atlantic states. Elsewhere, the weather will be fair Tuesday and Wednesday in the states east of the Mississippi river. Temperatures will rise slowly over middle and northern districts.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate west and northwest and fair weather Tuesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate west over north portion and southeast and east over south portion and weather fair Tuesday.

Forecast

For northern and southern New England: Fair Tuesday and Wednesday followed by showers Wednesday night; not much change in temperature.

TAFTVILLE

Hines-Adams

The marriage of Miss Eva Elizabeth Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adams of Merchants avenue, and Howard Lucian Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hines of Norwich avenue, was solemnized Monday morning at 8 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of the church, who also sang the nuptial high mass that followed. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends of the bridal couple present.

The bride wore a gown of white satin crepe with pearl trimmings, with veil of white silk, also trimmed with pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas. Her maid-of-honor, Miss Rose Fink, was gowned in peach georgette with hat to match, and carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds. The best man was Philip Adams, brother of the bride. Mendelsohn's wedding march was played on the organ by Miss Alice Frechette, organist at the church, and during the ceremony Omer Tellier sang.

The church ceremony was followed by a reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adams of Merchants avenue. The home decorations were very beautiful. Gifts of cutglass, linen, money, household furniture and silver were received by the bride.

Mr. Hines is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hines of Norwich avenue and is employed at the Norwich plant of the United States Finishing Co. His bride has always resided in Taftville where she is well known and has numerous friends. During the afternoon the young couple left for a tour to the White mountains, the Green mountains and to Maine, and upon their return will be at home to their many friends at 172 Norwich avenue.

A surprise party in honor of Charles F. Nolan was held Sunday evening at his home, 150 Merchants avenue. About 40 attended, and the affair was a most enjoyable one, games and music being enjoyed. Harmonica selections were given by Albert Nolan, and violin solos by William Daley. During the evening, James Nolan, in behalf of the assembled company, presented Mr. Nolan with a beautiful parlor clock. Refreshments were served by Miss Eleanor Crowley, Miss Jennie Sebastian, Miss Mildred Connell, Miss May Connell, Miss Frances McCarthy and Miss Annie O'Neil.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Stone of New Haven have been recent guests of Mr. Stone's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Stone of South A street.

Herbert Rennard of Norwich avenue was a Sunday visitor at Atlantic Beach.

Cards are being received in town from Miss Emily Pollard of South Second avenue, who is spending the summer abroad. Miss Pollard is registered at the Glen Helen hotel, Isle of Man.

Edmund Hindle of North Third avenue has returned from a week end trip to Providence. Returning with him were Mrs. Hindle and son, Master Edmund H. Hindle, who have been spending a week in Providence, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Singleton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead have returned to their home on Boswell avenue after a stay of several weeks at the home of their son, Thomas Whitehead and family of Westerly, R. I.

The dirigible Los Angeles was visible to Taftville people Monday afternoon. The big airship could be seen to turn around and start back in the direction from which it came.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader, Miss Agnes Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Heap and son, Edwin, and daughters, Elsie and Edith, of Taftville and Mr. and Mrs. George J. Moyer and son, George W., and daughter, Flossie M., and Jack Ely of Lisbon motored to Poquonnoc Saturday to spend the afternoon. The party passed the afternoon digging clams, swimming and rowing.

HALF MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE GOES TO THOMAS S. RATHBUN OF COLCHESTER

Thomas Swan Rathbun of Colchester, father of Mrs. Harry E. Higgins of No. 3 Sachem Terrace, this city will receive $518,076.48, the entire estate of his sister, Mrs. Sarah Manwaring who died in East Haddam, July 5th. This became known Monday with the filing of the inventory in East Haddam probate court by the appraisers, Elmer N. Peck and Marshall Empons. Mrs. Manwaring died without leaving a will.

This is the second largest estate ever probated in the district of East Haddam. The largest was Judge Albert E. Purple's estate, which inventoried nearly $1,100,000.

The bulk of the estate is in bonds and stocks, which total $357,528.

Among the larger bond holdings are $21,722.36 in U. S. government bonds; $7,143.75 in Pac. Tel. & Tel. Co.; $5,360 of Providence Sec. Co. debentures and $5,000 of Southern Pacific Equipment. The remainder of the bonds are in smaller denominations.

Of the larger stock holdings are 44 shares of the American Tel. & Tel. valued at $6,226; 76 General Electric, $26,220; 13 Hartford Fire Insurance, $6,630; 210 United Fruit, $25,625.35; Union Pacific $6,715.75; Electric Bond & Security $5,206; 104 Cons. Gas Elec. Lt. & Pr. of Baltimore, $5,386; 89 Pennsylvania railroad $4,733.75; 40 Duquesne Light Co. preferred $4,615.

Nearly $150,000 was deposited in 46 savings banks in Connecticut. The largest deposits in any one savings bank are: Bristol Savings bank $10,000; Essex Savings bank, two accounts $12,888.16; Savings Bank of New London two books, $26,698.17; Farmington Savings bank, $5,687.93; Deep River Savings bank $4,647.33; Middletown Savings bank, $4,506.39; Moodus Savings bank $2,534.25; Dime Savings bank, Wallingford $4,432.83; Farmers & Mechanics' bank, Middletown, $4,995; Litchfield Savings society $3,370.86; Mechanics Savings bank, Winsted $5,351.12; Bridgeport Savings bank $3,026.95. Among the savings bank deposits was one of $12,931.58 in the Savings Bank of New London, standing in the name of Daniel S. Swan.

The dwelling house and lot at East Haddam are appraised at $6,000; mortgage $750; deposits in the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company $8,386.94; National Bank of New England $963.95.

The household furniture and effects were appraised at $583.25; a melodion at $5; jewelry and old silver $60, cash $40.

The Hartford-Connecticut Trust company of Hartford is the administrator of the estate.

WILL LIMIT FRESHMAN CLASS AT 154

The freshman class at Connecticut college is this year to be limited to 154 which is a smaller number than in previous years. The applications for entrance are already greater in number than they were last year at this time, and it is expected that by the time college opens next month there will be 400 more applicants than can be accommodated. Enrollment at the college must be kept at a low figure because of the physical limitations of the institution. The maximum number of students who can be allowed at the college is 530. Last year 516 were students there.

Trinity college, which last year had a total enrollment of 288, expects about that number this fall. The entering class is limited to approximately 100 and at least 175 upperclassmen are expected to return to the institution. The average enrollment at Trinity has been 275 for some years. The college does not believe in size but in quality. The limitation on the number of freshmen is not a rigid one and if acceptable candidates appear after 100 have been certified for admission they will probably be accepted.

At Wesleyan there have already been over 300 applicants for admission to the freshman class but the number of first year men who will be certified is strictly limited to 185. Wesleyan's total enrollment is expected to be about 575, approximately the same as last year.

The Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs has allimited enrollment which undoubtedly will be filled. Last year it was decided to limit the total number of students at the college to 500, and there was an enrollment of 493. It is thought certain that the full 500 students will be in attendance this year. Last year 210 freshmen were in attendance at Storrs and about 200 are expected next month. Already 120 applications have been accepted and 65 applications for entrance are being considered.

OFFERING GIVEN TO NORWICH Y. M. C. A.

At the Sunday morning service at the Brooklyn, New York, Y. M. C. A. camp at Gardner Lake General Secretary Edwin Hill of the local Y. M. C. A. was the speaker. There were 150 boys present and also several parents of the boys.

Mr. Hill told the story of the Bible character Naaman, emphasizing the fact that the only way that Naaman could get rid of his leprosy was to follow the suggestions of the prophet of God and wash in the river, and that likewise the only way for boys and men to be free from the sins of life was to line up with the great Christ of God.

A pleasant thing happened in connection with the service. When it was time for the offering to be taken, Mr. Roberts, the camp director, stated that it was customary to give the offerings to worthy causes and that the offering on this occasion by the wish of the boys would be given to the Norwich Y. M. C. A. for the kindness shown the boys of the camp when they visited the Norwich "Y" building. This money will be used to purchase something needed for the local association. The Norwich Y. M. C. A. management has been pleased to cooperate in every possible way with the boys from Brooklyn Y. M. C. A.

NORWICH "OLD SCOUTS" CLOSE CAMP AT BEACH POND

The "Old Scouts" camp at Camp Tippecan, Norwich Boy Scout camp at Beach pond, came to a close Sunday when tents were struck and the campers prepared for the trip home after an outing that will long be remembered. Eight of the men remained through the final day and Chef John Jencks served a delicious chicken dinner. At camp the men had opportunity to see the needs of the camp before another season begins. New boats are badly needed and other things in camp require attention.

While the "Old Scouts" camp was being held, 38 men from Norwich enjoyed one or more days in camp. It is believed that the 1927 camp will be larger and attended by many more men from the city than the camp this year.

In making the camp a success the council is indebted to Charles W. Taggart, Dr. J. J. Donohue, Dr. Clarence G. Thompson, Charles I. Smith, Edwin V. Rose, William Bottomley, Earle Taggart, John Jencks, Scout Executive Bielefeld and Scouts Manning and Browning.

LOS ANGELES PASSED OVER SUBMARINE BASE

A number of Norwich people who occupied vantage point, saw the navy dirigible Los Angeles as she sailed over the Submarine Base about 2.40 o'clock Monday afternoon. The ship was flying low as she passed over the base.

Discharged from Hospital

Anna Donnelly, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Donnelly of Bundy Hill road, Lisbon, was discharged Sunday afternoon as a patient from the Backus hospital. The girl had been a patient at the hospital for several weeks following an assault made on her recently as she was returning home from work from the Ponemah mills.

No clue to the identity of her assailant has been secured. The state police are working on the case.

ELLINGTON FARMERS HOLD FIELD DAY

That agriculture is one of the most important occupations in which those who come to America can engage was the thought brought out in the address delivered at the Ellington Farmers Field day by Herman Bernstein of New York, editor of the "Jewish Tribune." Mr. Bernstein said that the greatest blessing that this country confered on those who came here to make their homes was the privilege of engaging in the occupation of their choice. He contrasted the condition in czaristic Russia where Jews were forbidden to own land or to engage in farming, with conditions in this country where every one, Jew and Gentile alike, are free to pursue the occupations of their choice. He said that the reason for the Jew having become a merchant and a middleman in the mass was that they had always been prohibited from engaging in the producing trades. No sooner, however, did the Russian immigrant find it possible to acquire land than he eagerly embraced the opportunity.

The radio market reports were described in detail as a very far reaching service to farmer in the state by Philo T. Platt, state commissioner of agriculture. The commissioner also spoke of the other services of the state department of agriculture and invited the farmers to take advantage of these services.

Clifford E. Hough, manager of the Connecticut Milk Producers association likened the four factors underlying successful dairying to the four wheels of a wagon. These factors are the right cattle, the right kind of milk produced in the right amounts, with the right kind of feed and the product marketed in the right way. He said that the last of these factors was well taken care of by the marketing association in this state.

A thousand acres of tobacco are being grown by Jewish farmers in the Connecticut valley today as against less than two hundred some 18 years ago, when Gabriel Davidson, the general manager of the Jewish Agricultural society, was last in Ellington, Mr. Davidson said.

"In contrast to holdings representing $100,000 at the earlier period, the real estate and equipment held by Jewish farmers in the valley today is worth over $1,250,000.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR ALFRED SUSSMAN

The body of Alfred Sussman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sussman of No. 38 Grove street, Norwich, who was drowned Sunday afternoon at the beach between Weekapaug and Atlantic beach, was recovered about 6 o'clock Monday morning not far from shore near where he was seen to disappear. Chief Thomas Brown of the Westerly police and Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, medical examiner, went to the beach and the remains were removed to Westerly undertaking rooms.

Funeral services for the young man were held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of his parents, No. 38 Grove street, this city. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, many coming from out of town to pay final tribute to the memory of one whom they had dearly loved and whose promising career had been so suddenly ended.

The service was conducted by Rabbi Max Stamm of the Congregation United Hebrew Brothers synagogue. Burial was in the Jewish cemetery at Brewsters Neck, the bearers being the following school chums, Eli L. Cramer, Edwin Land, Martin Gilman, Alfred Levine, Herman Goldberg and Daniel Polsky.

Old Home Day

August 12th will be Old Home day in East Killingly. A shore dinner and clam bake will be provided and the Sayles orchestra will furnish the music. The speakers will include Rev. E. C. Drake, Sterling; Rev. J. C. Armstrong, Danielson; Rev. C. A. Downes, Goodyear.

POULTRY MEN TO TOUR EASTERN CONN.

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 9—The annual automobile tour of the Connecticut Poultry association, in which chicken men of the state visit modern and successful poultry farms as a means of gaining new ideas to incorporate in their own enterprises, will this year come Aug. 24-27 inclusive.

Approximately 200 miles in the eastern part of Connecticut will be covered by the poultrymen, and the itinerary is such as to provide for entertainment as well as education.

Roy E. Jones, poultry specialist in the extension service of Connecticut Agricultural college is planning the trip in cooperation with several county agents. These include Ernest E. Tucker, Tolland county; Walter T. Clark, New London county; Raymond T. Clapp, New Haven county; and Sidney E. Edwards, Middlesex county.

"We plan to make these tours a vacation with a financial return," said Mr. Jones here today in commenting on plans for this year's trip, "each farm visited embodies some good feature in management, layout or stock that makes it worth our study.

"The cost of a trip like this is moderate indeed; we estimate this year a figure of $15 per person including hotel and meals. Transportation must be added to this of course. Each year there has been extra car space available, and for those who do not own machines we will be able to place them in another car. They pay the owner two and a half cents for each mile of the tour.

"The first night we will stay at Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, the second at New London and the third at New Haven. There will be a banquet in the evening at New London.

The tour will begin at 10.15 a. m., d. s. t., Tuesday Aug. 24 from the North Coventry road, near Belknap church, just east of Bolton Notch. Cars from the north will leave from Main square, Rockville, in charge of County Agent E. E. Tucker.

A. J. Gazman's at Vernon will be the first farm visited. There the poultrymen will see 6000 White Leghorn pullets in one house, and where they have been in one flock since they were four weeks old. Next the White Leghorn farm of Frederick Miller in North Coventry will be visited, where 1000 laying hens and 3000 chicks are kept. Box lunch will be eaten on Mr. Miller's lawn.

The first stop in the afternoon will be at Charles Schroeder's farm in South Coventry, winner of the Connecticut home egg laying contest in 1925 with an average of 218 eggs per bird. Mr. Schroeder keeps 1200 white leghorns. A short run will then be made to Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, where the Storrs egg laying contest and the college poultry plant will be inspected.

From Storrs the party will drive to the farm of Prof. Wm. F. Kirkpatrick in Mansfield, a 1000 hen commercial egg farm with winter broilers as a sideline. Next the party will return to the college for supper, after which a visit will be paid to WCAC, the college radio station. In the evening there will be an entertainment in Hawley Armory.

A. E. Anthony's breeding plant in Mansfield with 2000 White Leghorns will be visited first Wednesday morning, after which the one-man plant of Harold Storrs in Willimantic will be visited. Next the party will drive to the large Rhode Island Red farm of Fellows Brothers in Norwich Town, where they will see 6000 laying hens, and an incubator that holds 47,000 eggs. The last stop of the morning will be at Fred L. Kanahan's at Jewett City, a farm of 2000 White Leghorns. A box lunch will be served on Mr. Kanahan's lawn.

A diversion in form of a visit to the submarine base at Groton comes first on the afternoon program. Here the poultrymen will be guided about and opportunity will be given to go inside one of the submarines. The White Leghorn plant of Christopher Chrisso's at Groton will be visited next.

Then the party will stop at Branford Farms at Groton, where 6000 hens and 20,000 chickens make up the poultry flock. Fort Griswold and Groton Monument will also be visited after which the party will put up at Mohican hotel in New London. A tanquet will be held for the poultrymen in the evening.

The White Rock farm of Louis C. Bonfoey's, at Deep River will be visited first Thursday morning, after which the party will drive to Hammonasset Beach for a swim and lunch. In the afternoon, the first stop will be at the farm of F. L. Perry of Guilford, where White Leghorns and Barred Rocks are kept to supply the demand for eggs and day-old chicks. W. W. Ham's in Branford will be visited next, and there the poultrymen will see an example of a one-man market egg farm. The Sagal Lou farm, also in Branford will also be visited. On this place there are 2000 hens in double-deck laying houses, 10,000 chickens, and a 150-cow dairy. The party will stay at Hotel Garde in New Haven for the night. Evening entertainment will be furnished by the New Haven Poultry club.

Sperry and Barnes Packing house in New Haven will be the first stop Friday morning, and there the poultrymen will have the opportunity to "Follow the pig from the squeal to the table." Flick's Live Poultry Market will also be visited, where the party will see how 4000 chickens are shipped and handled in one car.

Peabody Museum at Yale university will draw the attention of the party next, after which a drive will be made to West Rock for lunch. The plant of Gastler Brothers at Durham, the largest Barred Rock farm in Connecticut will be visited next. The Brookfield Farm birds in the same town will be inspected, and then the party will move to the egg and broiler farm of G. W. Roberts, also in Durham. Here the tour will be brought to a close.

BAKER TRANSFERRED TO OHIO PRISON

Information has been received at Hartford that Guy L. Baker, former assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Putnam, has been transferred from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., to the United States prison farm at Chillicothe, Ohio. He was sentenced to Atlanta, February 23, by Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the United States district court of Connecticut for a term of three years.

The reason for Baker's sudden removal to the middle western penitentiary is not given out. It is disclosed, however, that the plan breaks up a reunion of Baker and former State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric, of Putnam, who was Baker's immediate superior in the Putnam bank and is serving a 15 years term for the same offense, embezzlement of the funds of the bank.

Gilpatric and Baker were put together soon after the latter's arrival at the Atlanta penitentiary. Gilpatric, being blind as the result of the bullet by which he tried to end his life when discrepancies in his accounts were discovered exactly two years ago had had as an attendant in the prison a former New York banker who had been sentenced for a "million-dollar embezzlement."

TELLS HOW TO COMBAT COMMON HOUSEHOLD INSECTS

What are the common insects of the household and how may they be controlled? This question is answered for Connecticut housewives in a bulletin recently published by Connecticut Agricultural college, in which the author, J. A. Manter of the zoology department gives a detailed description of the various insects found, together with means of holding them in check.

The house-fly, silverfish, book louse, house centipede, mosquito, bedbug, fleas, clothes moths, carpet beetles, house ants, cock roaches and head louse are a few of these mentioned by Mr. Manter that may go a long ways towards wrecking an otherwise peaceful home.

Describing household insects as those which entirely or in part spent their lives in close relationship with men and chose his dwelling as their home, the statement is made that no home can permanently escape infestation of at least some of those insects. Besides being a constant source of irritation, household insects are dangerous in that some species carry disease [illegible].

It is no disgrace to find bedbugs in the home, says the bulletin, as there are various ways in which it can enter; the disgrace lies in allowing them to stay and increase. Benzine, kerosene and gasoline, or hot water when used where it will not cause damage, are recommended for the control of bedbugs.

An infestation of fleas can in most cases be traced to animal pets says the bulletin. They attack man on the ankles, hopping up from the floors. Dipping the cats or dogs which harbor the fleas, in a three per cent solution of some coal tar product like creolin is recommended.

FRENCH ASSEMBLY VOTES TO CREATE SINKING FUND

French Senate and Chamber of Deputies Adopted the Amendment of Premier Poincare—Measure Was Voted 671 to 144 After Communists by Obstreperous Tactics Had Caused Suspensions of the Assembly—Action Removes Monopoly and Part of the Proceds of the Inheritance Tax From Political Conflict the Income From the Tobacco

VERSAILLES, France, Aug. 10—(AP)—Amid the most tumultuous scenes ever witnessed in the national assembly, that body, made up of the chamber of deputies and the senate in joint session, late this evening endowed France with a sinking fund having a sound constitutional basis.

This sinking fund, had to be incorporated into the organic law of the land and therefore the vote of the national assembly was necessary. The fund will be used to effect amortization of the country's floating debt, and is one of the schemes with which the government hopes to relieve the tangled financial situation.

The triumph of the Poincare government by a vote of 671 to 144 came after suspensions of the assembly because of the obstreperous tactics of the communists. At one time there were fist fights between the extreme right and extreme left members. The one-armed General Pellettier, acting as sergeant-at-arms, mounted the rostrum to drag down the communist deputy Doriot, while other communists sang the internationale.

After Deputy Doriot's expulsion and the subsequent resumption of the sitting, the communists banged the desks and shouted insulting remarks at M. De Selves, president of the national assembly. Thanks to the vociferous applause of the non-communist members, M. De Selves finally succeeded in having the government's sinking fund measure voted upon. The communists by singing, and then by stuffing the ballot boxes with extra vote slips, caused a third suspension of the sitting.

After the obstruction of the communists was quelled, one fact stood out—that France's supreme legislative body had decided that the commission which will have at its disposal the income from the tobacco monopoly and part of the proceeds of the inheritance tax, shall be removed from all political conflict. It made it a part of the constitution, thus guaranteeing it against the changing fortunes of parliamentary politics. The government and the majority which voted for the measure say it assures the sinking fund against leakage, against going astray.

Opponents of the measure, led by Leon Blum, the socialist leader, before the communists intervened, took a different view. They declared that an amendment to the constitution was a useless effort to apply constraint on the chamber and senate. They held that the lower house, even though the sinking fund commission was provided for in the constitution, would pass what legislation it likes irrespecting the tobacco monopoly and amortisation of the debts.

Emphasizing the necessity of the national assembly adopting the sinking fund plan and making it part of the constitution, Premier Poincare pointed out that by this action "our creditors will find proof that we are determined to pay all our debts in the measure or our capacity."

"Then, with we take here to wipe out our debts," he added, "will be heard throughout our country and abroad."

Limiting the agenda of the national assembly to the single question of the sinking fund, promised to make the session a humdrum affair, until the communists sprang their surprise. Consequently, there was not a great crowd to witness the scene. Only a few representatives of Paris society were in the galleries.

Two senators who were conspicuous by their absence from the national assembly were former President Millerand and M. Caillaux, former finance minister.

EARLY RETURNS FROM VARIOUS STATE PRIMARIES

In Ohio Pomerene Leads

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 10.—(AP)—On the basis of returns from 1,689 precincts out of 3,634 for the democratic nomination for U. S. senator, at today's primary, Atlee Pomerene, former U. S. senator had a lead of less than 5,000 votes over Florence E. Allen, supreme court justice.

The totals were: Pomerene 16,011; Allen, 11,465.

Senator Frank B. Willis, apparently was an easy winner for re-nomination in a field of eight candidates with less than one fifth of the state reported. Senator Willis had a plurality of more than 24,000 votes over C. Q. Hildebrand, his closest opponent.

Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, maintained a lead in the field of 12 candidates for the republican nomination for governor at midnight, when returns from almost one fourth of the state had been tabulated. In 1908 precincts out of a total of 8,634 Brown led Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati by almost 6,000.

Governor A. V. Donahey, on the basis of returns from 867 precincts was believed to be a sure winner of the democratic gubernatorial nomination with a total of 11,921 more than 10,000 votes ahead of his nearest opponent.

Martineau Leading In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 10.—(AP)—John E. Martineau, judge of the first chancery district, was leading Governor Tom J. Terral for the democratic nomination for governor in today's Arkansas primary, by more than two to one in scattering returns from 12 of the state's 75 counties.

The first six precincts coming from all parts of the state, but mostly from territory generally regarded as being strongly for the Little Rock chancellor, gave Terral 2,037 votes and Martineau 5,451.

Record Vote in Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Indications from all sections of the state tonight pointed to a record vote being polled in today's democratic primary to nominate a successor for Senator Oscar W. Underwood and to nominate a governor, four congressmen and county officers.

While there were a few minor fights at the polls, no blood was shed during the day.

Due to the number of ballots cast and the length of many county tickets it as expected to be longer than usual before complete returns are in.

Returns from Nebraska

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 10.—(AP)—County and congressional contests, some of them of local interest because of The local Klan issue, brought out a fairly heavy vote in Nebraska's primary election today.

Governor Adam McMullen took the lead in the race for the republican gubernatorial nomination when the first ten precincts gave him 40 votes to 236 for Fred Johnson of Hastings and 62 for Robert Ross, Lexington.

Charles Bryan, who sought the vice presidency on the 1924 democratic national ticket, was unopposed for the democratic nomination for governor. Osmond F. Byron, Pender attorney, LaFollette independent candidate and Roy M. Harrp, Omaha, progressive, also are unopposed for the gubernatorial nomination on their tickets.

Three of the six congressional incumbents have no opposition.

GANG FIGHT IN BUSY STREET IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—(AP)—Gangsters made a battle ground of Chicago's smartest business section today, trading shots on Michigan avenue. One spectator was wounded, traffic was stampeded and pedestrians dashed to cover.

Vincent Drucci, long a figure in feuds, was attacked by gunmen as he walked up the avenue carrying $13,-200 in currency.

With a torrent of bullets flying at him he dodged. Emptied his own gun at his assailants, and was about to make his escape in a car whose driver he threatened with his empty weapon, when police captured him.

Police arrested Paul Valerie, 29, as a possible party to the shooting. Drucci who is under indictment for alleged intimidation of primary election officials and who lately was suspected of complicity in an $80,000 gem hold-up at a downtown hotel. Immediately started habeas corpus action to win his release. Police say Drucci belongs to the gang once led by Dion O'Bannion, slain many months ago by enemy guns.

TWO PERSONS ARE SWIMMING THE CHANNEL

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 10—(AP)—Having failed in the first attempt, Mme. Jane Sion, the French swimmer, is determined to try to be the second woman to conquer the English channel. At 10:05 tonight she took the water here in an attempt to swim across the waterway to the English coast, although the weather was not promising an hour later she was two miles out going strong.

Omer Perrault, of Canada, started to swim the channel at the same time as Mme. Sion and at 11 o'clock he also was two miles out.

Wins Divorce From "Love Farm" Founder

Mary Wrenn ... and Suit Was Uncontested by Eccentric ... naire.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Aug. 10—(AP)—Mary Wrenn Garland today won her liberty from the marriage which her eccentric millionaire husband, Charles T. Garland, had termed "unfortunate" in one of the last letters he wrote her from the Allentown, Pa., jail. Less than twenty minutes were required for the reading of his letter, a brief recital by Mrs. Garland of the important dates of her life, and the testimony of Paul Scott, of New Jersey that Garland had lived with Bettina Hovey in the April farm colony in Allentown.

Then Judge Colten C. Campbell granted the uncontested divorce, gave Mrs. Garland the custody of the four small children, and secured her promise that Garland, exponent of simple living and free love, should have proper opportunities to visit them.

Garland's letter, written May 5, 1926 from the jail where he was serving a 60 day sentence for his relations with Miss Hovey, was the feature of the brief session. Scott had testified that the relations between Garland and Miss Hovey were open and known throughout the colony.

Garland began his letter by saying: "To feel, as I have told you, that it is unfortunate for us to be legally married. So far as a divorce by itself is concerned, I should want to get one if you feel it would be for the best. I am not concerned with the divorce as I am about what our relations would be afterward. I have nothing to say, except that nothing should bind us in the future.

"Perhaps some day you will realize that I have cared for you not less than you expected but more than you hoped for, and, while our old life has died perhaps from neglect, a much greater life has been born from sorrow and devotion."

Garland in the same letter expressed the belief that he and his wife would have been happier if the "laws of their ancestors had been thrown overboard" and said "the law is a wolf in sheep's clothing." He protested great affection not only for Mrs. Garland but the children and urged that she would not consider the Pennsylvania affair a measure of his regard.

Garland, now about 2[illegible] was the son of James A. Garland and descendant of the Ludor Kings, educated at Eton, England, St. Paul's and Harvard, he married in 1917 while a freshman at college. He later inherited sums totalling more than $1,600,000. From the foundation he endowed, $20,000 has been loaned to the Sacco-Vanzetti defense, and the Scopes and Bimba defense funds were aided by donations.

The publicity which followed his legacies, was renewed when in 1922, he founded a "love farm" in Carver, Doris Benson and Alice Edgerton, two young women, lived there and aided him in the farm work. At one time he was reported to have declared he could share his love with 20 women and at another he announced that his mother's secretary, Lillian Conrad, was his soul mate.

SCORE MADE HOMELESS BY FIRE IN CENTRAL FALLS, R. I.

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., Aug. 10—One hundred tenement residents were driven to the street, more than a score were made homeless and damage estimated at $50,000 was caused by fire which destroyed a rag and waste shop and spread to other buildings early tonight.

Irving I. Pratt, a local ladder lieutenant, was injured when the roof and two walls of the rag plant collapsed. The falling debris which cut and bruised him also set fire to an adjoining six family tenement house and a small cottage.

The sudden shift for a time threatened to develop a conflagration in the congested district, but the entire Central Falls department, aided by engines from Pawtucket and Valley Falls, brought the flames under control in an hour and a half. The rag plant and tenement were total losses.

Joseph Caron, owned of the cottage, narrowly escaped death when he entered his house to take stock of the damage just as the rag plant chimney tottered and crashed through the roof of his home. He was pinned under a mass of timbers, but firemen expecting to find him dead, pulled him from the wreckage uninjured.

PRODUCTION FORECASTS OF IMPORTANT CROPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—Production forecast of the country's important crop, as indicated by their condition on August 1 and announced today by the department of agriculture, placed the corn crop at 2,576,936,000 bushels, as compared with 2,660,780,000 bushels forecast a month ago and 2,-905,053,000 bushels harvested last year.

A preliminary estimate placed the winter crop at 636,482,000 bushels, compared with 567,762,000 bushels forecast a month ago and 395,610,000 bushels harvested last year.

The spring wheat crop was forecast at 212,719,000 bushels compared with 199,555,000 forecast a month ago and 270,575,000 bushels harvested last year.

BODY MAY BE THAT OF WALTER S. WARD

PIERREPONT, N. Y., Aug. 10—(AP)—State troopers today investigated a theory that the body of an unidentified man taken from the river here, may be that of Walter S. Ward, Westchester millionaire who has been missing several months.

The man's features were said to correspond to those of Ward, but his hair was darker. On this point, the undertaker having charge of the body said tonight the hair had turned considerably darker since the body was taken from the water.

REMAINS IN JAIL RATHER THAN PAY FINES OF $6.82

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 10—(AP)—After 72 hours in a cell, the pleadings of relatives today failed to change the decision of Mrs. Anna Beck, 32, who is determined to remain in jail rather than pay taxes of $6.82.

Mrs. Beck has been urged either to pay the assessments or to permit her husband to do so. She insisted she would remain in jail until "the end of the world," rather than pay. Mrs. Beck said the tax bill was unjust.

Mexicans Arlarmed By Slump in Silver

Deadlock Continues Between Catholic Church Authorities and the Government.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 10—(AP)—The Mexican business world, whose nerves already are on edge as a result of the economic boycott called by adherents of the Roman Catholic's cause in the present religious controversy, today felt additional alarm at the continued slump of silver.

Today's silver exchange showed the silver peso reaching a 4.30 per cent. discount as compared with yesterday's 3.50 to 4 per cent.

Bankers, however, repeated their denials the depreciation of the silver peso, in terms of the gold peso, has been caused by the boycott which Catholics hope will create a business depression sufficiently acute to cause the government to modify its religious policy.

Meanwhile a government committee of financial experts is in completing its organization to investigate the economic situation on the disordered exchange.

The boycott continues to reduce the luxury trade, the women's apparel trade and the motion picture theatre attendance in Mexico City. It is reported to be operating more severely in other portions of the republic although Mexico City is without anything even pretending to represent accurately general conditions elsewhere.

The deadlock over enforcement of the new religious regulations continues between the Catholic church authorities and the government. The government expresses determination not to modify its stand while the church authorities express equal resolution not to accept the religious regulations.

CATHOLICS LOYAL TO MEXICAN GOVERNMENT

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 10—(AP)—In an exclusive statement to the Associated Press tonight the Mexican Episcopate declares that if a situation should develop whereby Mexico would be faced with the prospect of an armed conflict with the United States or any other country, the Catholic church in Mexico would be found absolutely loyal to and supporting the Mexican government.

VIKING SHIP ERICKSON BROUGHT INTO SOUTH BOSTON

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Four modern Vikings enfered Boston harbor tonight in a tiny ship modelled after that in which Leif Erickson of old crossed the rough Atlantic. In tow of a coast guard cutter the Viking ship Leif Erickson, Bergen to Philadelphia, was brought up to the army base in South Boston to take on water and supplies.

The cutter had found the vessel becalmed early today 60 miles southwest of Cape Ann.

Captain Gerhard Folgero, playing the role created by Erickson 900 years ago said he and his crew of three men and a dog had been in no distress, but had accepted the tow offered by the cutter Redwing because water and food had run short. All were well, comfortable and in good spirits, the captain said.

The little sailing craft, 43 feet in length, was built at Bergen, Norway, on the lines of Erickson's tenth century vessel, and was designed for exhibition at the sesqui-centennial celebration in Philadelphia. She is of 13 feet beam, is six feet deep and is open decked except for about ten feet at each end housed for sleeping quarters. In this cookie-hell Captain Folgero and his men crossed the North Atlantic following as closely as possible the route taken by Erickson.

WITNESSES QUESTIONED IN HALL MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Twelve witnesses were questioned today by investigators charged by the state with the task of solving the Hall-Mills murder mystery.

Charlotte Mills, 19 years old now but only 15 when the body of her mother, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, was found beside that of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, in September, 1922, was among those questioned. She was grilled two hours by state troopers and detectives. Investigators said she had simply retold the story she related in 1922 of her knowledge of the relations of her knowledge of the relations of her mother and the rector, adding a few details.

Meanwhile, troopers and detectives said they questioned Mrs. Jane Gibson, woman pig raiser, at her farm house near the spot where the pastor and his inamorata were found beneath a crab apple tree. Mrs. Gibson, who said her real name was Mrs. William Easton, would not confirm the investigators statement that they had questioned her.

Other witnesses were four doctors present during autopsies, a bridgetender who saw two automobiles speeding from near the spot where the bodies were found and heard two women scream, an undertaker, a man who previously testified he heard the murder shots and a woman justice of the peace.

KARDUS MUST SERVE THREE YEAR SENTENCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—A three year battle in the courts ended unsuccessfully today for Louis Montgomery Kardos, Jr., who was ordered taken to the penitentiary to begin a three-year sentence.

Kardos was convicted and sentenced in December, 1924, following the bankruptcy of his firm in February, 1922, but successive appeals brought about confirmation of his sentence by the court of appeals last month.

The spectacular bankruptcy of the brokerage firm caused heavy losses to their customers in those cities. Bankruptcy schedules filed in the United States district court in October, 1923, showed liabilities amounting to $2,-156,985 and assets of $258,760.

After the commitment to jail of the youthful speculator, who was convicted on the charge of trading against the account of a customer, Judge Mancuso in general sessions court, directed that five additional indictments returned against him on the same charge be kept alive and that bench warrants be lodged at the penitentiary for service at the completion of this sentence.

500,000 GAL. OF GASOLINE AND OIL CONSUMED BY FIRE

More Than 100,000 Persons Were Attracted to Spectacular Blaze in South Baltimore—Five Firemen Were Seriously Burned When They Were Caught in a Series of Explosions—Many More Were Overcome by Smoke.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10—(AP)—A huge pall of dense black smoke hung over South Baltimore tonight as fire slowly consumed 500,000 gallons of gasoline, and lubricating oil stored in tanks, tank cars, and the warehouse of the American Oil company. Five firemen were seriously burned when they were caught in a series of explosions that shook the section after the fire started. Many more were overcome by smoke.

Over a full city block, flames shot high into the air and presented a spectacle that drew 100,000 people to the scene. Eight tanks of gasoline and kerosene, ranging in capacity between 30,000 and 40,000 gallons, six tank cars of gasoline and the company warehouse filled with drums of lubricating oil, burned themselves out.

Firemen were abled to prevent the spread of flames to nearby houses although several were badly damaged by water sond heat. The plants of the Standard Oil company and the Consolidated Gas company nearby were said to be out of danger.

WHY WORRY ABOUT WASTE OF OUR NATURAL RESOURCES?

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 10—(AP)—Berating the "alarmists" who excite the public over the exhaustion of natural resources, John E. Teepie, treasurer of the American Chemical society, today pictured plants and the sea as the future saviors of mankind if the earth's present stores should be exhausted.

He spoke before the Institute of Politics, where previous speakers have stressed the importance of conserving present deposits of coal, oil and other natural resources essential to modern life.

"If coal and oil should disappear from the world," said Mr. Teepie, "we'd get along somehow. The law of supply and demand would make us find something.

"There's no use worrying about waste of non-essentials, only a few elements, in the chemical sense, are vital to life— carbon, oxygen, hydrogen, nitrogen, sulphur and phosphorus —which are present in all plants, and a few others found in abundance in the sea. Nothing else matters in the least in the long run for as necessity requires it, international agreements will have to be made or substitutes found for non-essentials. It is possible to change the habits of civilization, as regards raw materials in a generation, and life cycles are so adjusted that the vital elements are either returned to the air or to the sea, and hence cannot be exhausted.

"There's no use saving for the next generation. They probably won't want it. The use of our non-essntial products is only a convenience for our civilization, and when they are exhausted the future generations won't know anything about them. That might change chemistry and civilization somewhat, but the change might be all for the good, and the chances are we'd find something better."

REP. STATE CONVENTION IN HARTFORD, SEPT. 13-14

HARTFORD, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Decision to have the republican state convention held in Foot Guard hall, Hartford, Monday and Tuesday, September 13 and 14, was made by the republican state central committee at a meeting tonight at the Country club, Farmington.

Primaries, or caucuses, for the election of delegates from the several towns to the state convention were ordered held Friday, August 27. At the same primaries, or caucuses, delegates to the congressional, senatorial, county and probate district conventions will be elected.

In cities holding primaries, city conventions for the same purpose must be held Saturday, August 28. Senatorial district conventions for the election of two delegates each to the various conventions will be held Monday, August 30, in districts comprising two or more towns. In towns having one or more senatorial districts within their limits, delegates from the senatorial districts will be elected by delegates to the city conventions from the various wards comprising each senatorial district. Senatorial district delegates are required to be residents of the districts they are elected to represent in any of the conventions.

FEAR LOSS OF CREW OF 26 OFF NOVA SCOTIA COAST

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Captain John Mosher and 25 members of the crew of the auxiliary schooner, Sylvia Mosher, which is lying a wreck on the outer bar on the north side of Sable Island, "the grave yard of the Atlantic," are missing.

Word was received here tonight that the bodies of six of the crew had been washed ashore on the island and fears were expressed that all the 26 men had been lost in one of the worst disasters off the Nova Scotia coast in years. It is thought the Sylvia Mosher was carried ashore in the hurricane last Saturday night.

The captain and sailors on the schooner, which was the high liner of the Lunenberg fishing fleet, were all Nova Scotians. The wreck was sighted this morning by members of the island life saving staff. There was no signs of any of the ship's crew. Throughout the day the islanders searched the beach and scanned the waves without discovering any trace of the missing men.

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP)—The miners, in the fourteenth week of their strike, have rejected the peace plan put forward by the church leaders a few weeks ago. Thus, the miners, much to the general surprise, ignored the advice of their accredited leaders, who recommended adoption of the plan.

The miners' vote, announced today was: For the church plan 583,36; and against the plan 867,656.

CRASH IN PRICES OF LEADING INDUSTRIAL STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.— (AP) —Bear traders "pulled the plug" from undertoday's stock market and prices of high priced industrial issues crashed from 4 to 16 points. Wall street, which is never without a "reason" to explain market movements, blamed the reaction on the stiffening of call money rates following the heavy calling of loans by out of town banks, the sharp increase in brokers' loans and speculative disappointment over the increase of only 123,880 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corportion last month.

It was the first severe setback since the present "bull movement" started nearly three months ago. In view of the unusually swift advance in many high priced stocks recently and the wild public speculation of the last few days, the decline was not entirely unexpected, and was widely regarded as a natural correction of a weakened speculative position.

General Motors, which has advanced over 110 points since the first of April, was the hardest hit. The first sale was a block of 18,000 shares at the "spread" price of 213 to 211 1-2 as against the recent high of 225 3-4 established yesterday. The next few sales carried it up to around 214 but it sold down to 209 before the end of the first hour. By early afternoon it had rallied to around 218, only to break to 206 in another tremendous wave of selling in the last hour, closing at 206 1-2 for a net loss of 15 1-2 points on the day.

Dupont also broke 15 1-2 points to 296, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Case Threshing Machine fell back about nine points each, and more than a score of others, including United States Steel common, Hudson Motors, Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, American Express, Foundation company and Texas Gulf Sulphur closed 2 to 5 points lower.

Total stock sales [illegible] 2,161,700 shares.

HEARING ON GAMBLING AT SARATOGA SPRINGS

BALLSEON SPA, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Justice Christopher J. Heffernan, presiding over the Saratoga Springs gambling investigation, used a stern hand today with reluctant witnesses. Three who answered subpoenas but refused to testify were sent to jail and officers of the court were sent to Saratoga to bring into court a number of witnesses who failed to appear, among them Mayor Clarence H. Knapp of that city.

Late in the day Mayor Knapp appeared and told of visiting the dining rooms at Riley's Arrowhead and the Brook, but had seen no gambling.

Earlier in the day Justice Heffernan heard conflicting testimony regarding conditions at Saratoga Springs. James L. Sullivan, chief of police, testified that after he had heard of gambling at Brophy's, Riley's Arrowhead, Byrnes, The Brook and No. 16 Philadelphia street, he directed officers to visit the places. They reported they found no evidence of gambling, he said.

On the other hand, John M. Hutchen, whose affidavit charging gambling at Saratoga Springs was laid before the governor when the proceedings were started, insisted he had seen gambling at Brophy's on July 12 this year. On cross examination he admitted arrests for public intoxication.

EVIDENCE OF IMPROVEMENT IN THE STEEL INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Tangible evidence of recent improvement in the steel industry was shown today in the announcement of the first increase this year in unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation.

The total at the end of July stood at 7,603,523 tons, a gain of 123,880 tons over the low mark reached at the close of June.

HOW COOLIDGE STANDS ON MEXICAN MATTERS

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 10—(AP)—Although President Coolidge expects that James R. Sheffield, American ambassador to Mexico, will come to the United States this summer, he does not assume that the ambassador is coming to make any direct report which is than not already made or would make in the ordinary discharge of his duties.

Mr. Coolidge, it was said at the executive offices today, has no direct or definite information concerning Mr. Sheffield's plans this summer, nor has he been informed that the state department at Washington has dispatched any note to Mexico City in the immediate past on the land question.

Directions for a general policy, it was explained, have been laid down by the president for the guidance of the state department on the land questions in accordance with agreements entered into by the United States and Mexico when recognition was accorded the government of the latter country three years ago, and notes are sent as conditions arise requiring such action. If any communication has been sent recently, on the land question, it requiring special instructions from the president, it was not of a character public knowledge.

The views of Mr. Coolidge concerning the Mexican situation were made known during a visit of the chief executive to the executive offices where he attended to a number of routine matters that had accumulated during his absence at Plymouth, Vt. He was accompanied by Senator Ernst, republican, Kentucky, who was a guest at White Pine camp last night and who went today for his home state by way of Washington to enter the campaign in which he is seeking re-election.

EFFORT TO SAVE LIVES OF THREE MURDERERS

BOSTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—Counsel for the three murderers of James H. Fersea, aged Waltham carbarn watchman, just before the court closed today struck two more blows seeking to save their lives. They are under sentence to die in the electric chair this week. One petition filed in the supreme court here sought a writ of mandamus to compel the governor and council to grant a respite until complete determination is made of the sanity of John J. Devereaux, one of the three convicted men. The other action, simultaneously, was brought in the Middlesex superior court in East Cambridge, where the conviction was obtained, seeking a new trial on the allegation that Devereaux is insane.

These identical petitions seeking a respite for each of the men, were presented to the supreme court, Judge Henry K. Braley will consider them tomorrow morning when a hearing on a petition for a habeas corpus writ, also based on the insanity plea, is scheduled.

The fight has centered during the last few days around the mental condition of Devereaux, who admitted that he stabbed Fersea to death. Edward J. Hemstin and John J. McLaughlin, who took part in the robbery, received equal sentences.

WILL NOT GRANT REPRIEVE FOR SLAYER WHITTEMORE

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Governor Albert C. Ritchie, announced late today he would not grant a reprieve to Richard Reese Whittemore [illegible] specifically advised to do so by the attorney general in view of pending court action. Whittemore is scheduled to die on the gallows Friday morning, a few minutes after midnight for the murder of a penitentiary guard.

DUEL OF ELDERLY MEN ENDED IN DEATH OF BOTH

SWEETWATER, Tex., Aug. 10—(AP)—Two men, old enough to be grandfathers, settled their differences with automatic rifles today at Camp Spring, 35 miles north of here, and both died within an hour.

C. D. Ware, 70, lived on a farm owned by W. S. Reed, 65, and ill feeling is said to have arisen between them some months ago. Both are survived by large families. They lived within 100 yards of each other.

Ware is said to have fired first, but only one shot. Reed then emptied his gun. They were only a few feet apart, and no one was close enough to make out the heated conversation preceding the shooting.

Reed had had trouble with his tenant about crops, neighbors said. Reed was an "old timer" in the section, but Ware had lived in the county only three years, and on the Reed farm only this year.

Witnesses could not hear the heated conversation as the aged men squared off a few feet from each other, and Ware suddenly hoisted his gun and fired the first shot. Reed, wounded, levelled his own weapon and loosed a volley. Neither lived more than an hour.

TWO DARING DAYLIGHT ROBBERIES IN NASHVILLE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Two daring daylight raids on branch banks by a band of seven dandits netted them $6,172, resulted in the death of George Parker, 19, bookkeeper, and serious wounding of Frank Gabler, fruit dealer. The bandits escaped.

The first robbery was staged at the First and Woodlawn branch of the Fourth and First Bank and Trust Company, where seven men covered employes of the bank and gathered up all the currency in sight, $2,450, calmly walked to their machine and drove away.

WHEELS OF TENDER OFF IRON, TRAIN DELAYED TWO HOURS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 10—The wheels of the tender of the engine on passenger train No. 119, Boston to New York, via Hartford, Waterbury and Willimantic, left the tracks, on a downgrade, a mile north of North Windham and the train, due here at 11:20 a. m. Tuesday was two hours late. The train was brought to a stop within four hundred yards from the North Windham station after the tender wheels had ridden on the ties for about a thousand yards. The engine and the coaches remained on the rails. There were no injuries and but little damage done to the roadbed. Some of the ties were split or forced out of place and repairs were immediately started by section workmen. A local freight engine was despatched from Hampton and the train was hauled back to Clark's Corner where the coaches were switched to the east bound tracks and taken on to this city arriving here at 1:30.

GOLFERS ARE PREPARING FOR NORWICH CLUB'S VISIT

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 10—Louis H. Lincoln, chairman of the tournament committee of Willimantic Country club, stated Tuesday that a beginners' tournament would be held soon for members who joined this year. Sunday, August 15, and Saturday, August 21, tourneys will be held to select a team which will represent the club, when the Norwich club play here, September 4.

Dissatisfaction with the manner in which the elms in the city were sprayed was expressed at the lengthy common council session, Monday night and the bill for the work was ordered tabled until an investigation is made. Alderman Martineau was among those to state that, although he knew nothing about the spraying of trees, it appeared that the work had been done hurriedly and carelessly, the houses being sprayed as thoroughly as the trees. Alderman Martineau also appeared as champion for Tree Warden Blanchette, who is alleged to have been done out of considerable work of late by other sources. An investigation in his behalf will be made. Alderman Beebe and other councilmen who have been making a study of permanent roads in this and other states reported that the penetration road, widely used in Rhode Island, was superior to the concrete in cost, durability and comfort. Their work has to do with the permanent surfacing of upper Main street. Before this is done and sewers are installed on the street the matter of removing the trolley tracks of the Connecticut company branch line from this city to South Coventry will have to be settled. According to alderman a verbal promise was given previously that the company would tear up the tracks whenever the city was ready to proceed with its sewer and street work. A similar delay is being met with in the laying of sewers on Ann and Hope streets as permission is being awaited to cross through land of the Standard Oil company and beneath the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad tracks, opposite Chapman street. Alderman Jackson raised a point which met with wholehearted approval when he moved that the chief of police be instructed to remove all privately owned "No parking" signs from the city streets. A new set of rules for the fire department was introduced by Alderman Walter R. King and adopted. The rules are generally the former ones revamped to meet more modern demands, the only addition of importance being to make it prohibitive to operate a fire truck at a rate of speed greater than 25 miles per hour. By another resolution the fire committee was instructed to consider the matter of a pension for the firemen and bring in a report. The repeal of one ordinance and adoption of another ruling relating to the taxicab parking situation, as explained in Tuesday morning's issue, was the signal for heated remarks, mostly directed by Aldermen Fenton and Martineau at the street committee which, however, was finally voted with the burden of trying out other schemes.

Henry Rothblat, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Rothblat, of 25 Whiting street, this city, was one of the nine Connecticut boys attending the citizens' military training camp at Camp Devens, Mass., to prove himself adapted to the rigors of army life and the ability to direct others, with the result that he has been honored with the rank of acting lieutenant. There are 250 student officers at the camp. Delphis G. Boucher, Jr., also of this city is at Camp Terry, Plum Island, N. Y., another of the nine camps of the First Corps area.

A brief summer schedule meeting of Willimantic Rotary club was held in the Y. M. C. A. at noon Tuesday, President James P. Bath presiding. The club is to have charge of the outing at the breakfast, Wednesday, September 29, during the fall conference at the Aspinwall Hotel, Lenox, Mass. The committee to arrange the musical numbers is composed of Justice George E. Hinman, chairman, John F. Ahern, Harry W. Standish, Gerard E. Loiselle, G. Everett Harrington and Dr. R. Bullock Jones. Having just returned from a vacation in the Adirondacks, Harry Branch was given a welcome. The club is planning, on invitation of Alme J. Martineau, to hold a clambake next month on the grounds of his home. It is expected that a special program will be prepared for the event.

Jacob Starr of North Windham, was charged with operating an automobile without his driver's license, at the session of police court Tuesday morning. After hearing the evidence Prosecuting Attorney Thaucher's suggestion that the case be nolled was accepted by the court. Starr paid the costs of $5.15. Starr got into an accident late Monday night when his machine left the road at the foot of Prospect street on Jackson street and crashed into a tree. Starr suffered a wrenched right knee.

Morris Goldstein of Hebron has instituted civil proceedings against Louis Ellenberg, also of Hebron, claiming damages of $3,000 on the allegation that Ellenberg has slandered him and defamed his character by making public statements that he, Goldstein, had "poisoned my cows". Last spring there was a series of mysterious poisonings on the Ellenberg farm in Hebron which caused the death of five of the animals. It was found that the fodder had been sprinkled with Paris green. Ellenberg was in New York city for the winter and his farm was in charge of a hired man. Investigations were conducted by the state police and detectives, but the identity of the culprit was never made known. Goldstein claims that Ellenberg made statements blaming him for the poisoning. An attachment has been placed on defendant's farm by Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink. The case is returnable before the Tolland county superior court the first Tuesday in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge M. Dodge and sons, Stewart and Gardner Dodge, of this city, participated in the all-states' motor parade held in Denver, Col., Aug. 3rd as part of the observance of Colorado's semi-centennial. They purchased their car in Denver.

WESTERLY

ALLEGED RIVER OBSTRUCTION CONSIDERED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Aug. 10—Hearing of the case, United States vs. Max Novogroski of Westerly, before United States Commissioner Russell Corcoran at the customs house in New London this afternoon, was delayed about an hour and did not start until about 3 o'clock, due to the fact the automobile of United States District Attorney George E. Cohen had a flat tire, coming down from Hartford. Max Novogroski, who has been having caissons placed in the Pawcatuck river on the south side of the Pawcatuck river bridge for the purpose of placing a business block from the Pawcatuck side to nearly the center of the river, was arraigned on a charge of "obstructing a navigable stream." The main point involved in the question raised, said Mr. Cohen, was the navigability or non-navigability of the Pawcatuck at this point. He said that no demurrer had been filed by Judge Herbert D. Rathbun or Attorney Frank L. McQuire of New London, who represented the defendant. Mr. McQuire interrogated "What navigation has been obstructed?"

Nearly 20 Westerly citizens were present, among some 50 persons who crowded into the commissioner's little office in front of the customs house building. Among those present were Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Westerly Highway Engineer Adolph L. Leon, Charles S. Fowler, of the Westerly Textile company, D. Harold Rogers, Westerly truckman. Representative George Benjamin Utter, Edward Corey, Pawcatuck river fisherman, Hary E. Austin, clamdigger and eelcatcher, Arthur George Lussier, lobsterman and fisherman, R. Joseph Rooney, Westerly barber, W. Burdick, Fred A. Holdsworth, E. Howard Clark, Charles H. Holdredge, Judge William A. Wilcox, Arthur L. Perry, Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey, and Attorney Henry Harris.

When the session closed at 5 o'clock, adjournment was taken to 11 o'clock D. S. T. in the customs house on Thursday morning. Arthur L. Perry, vice president and treasurer of the Washington Trust company, Westerly, familiar with the location for the past 35 years, who was the first witness for Mr. Novogroski, was the last witness of the afternoon. He said that he had never seen any navigation in the river at this point except simply for pleasure, and estimated the depth at low water as two feet. In closing he told the commissioner that sides had been taken on this question and that he thought it would "help the looks of the town to have the building on the bridge."

KILLINGLY SEDAN BUMPED ON BRIDGE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Aug. 10—An automobile collision occurred this afternoon about a quarter of 5 at the West End of the Pawcatuck river bridge between a Chevrolet touring car operated by Benson Burdick, of North Stonington and a Chandler sedan of Walter A. Friese of Sayles avenue, Killingly, as they attempted to pass in opposite directions. Slight damage was done the touring car, but the sedan sustained bent axle and broken steering gear had to be towed to a garage. Patrolman Carl Wilson Brown of Pawcatuck investigated the accident.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk are the following transfers:

"Too Tired to Move"

HOW often we hear a woman use this expression! She is in a weakened and run-down condition, not fit to do her work. Bravely she struggles on. She becomes nervous and discouraged.

Whether she lives in a luxurious apartment, a cozy bungalow or a crowded city flat, every woman can understand the handicap of poor health. The woman in moderate circumstances suffers more, of course, than her well-to-do friend because she cannot afford to hire help.

In spite of her efforts, her house begins to look neglected. Her children say, "Mother is so cross."

Eagerly she listens when a neighbor tells her of other women who found the road to health and happiness.

Health! That's the answer to so many of our problems. Without health, a woman cannot make her home the happy haven she dreams of.

MRS. GOLDIE SHOUP of May View, Illinois, is one of the many women who have improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was in a run down condition which caused her much unhappiness.

MRS. SHOUP says, "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried." She declares that she is now in better health than ever before.

Chrysler Standardized Quality

Guarantees Greater Value to the Car Buyer

CHRYSLER "70" Leader of the New Trend

Large quantity production has long been standardized—quality standardization has been accomplished for the first time in motor car manufacturing by Walter P. Chrysler.

Merely building several cars is one thing. Building four lines of cars under one name and one management in one unified group of plants on a rigid system of quality standardization is a totally different thing.

Chrysler manufacturing, like Chrysler engineering, is different from ordinary manufacturing—radically and immeasurably different in principle and practice.

50, 60, 70, Imperial 80—These car numerals attached to the name Chrysler mean miles per hour and they mean something vastly more important than that in creating value.

They mean a common basis of quality for all four lines of cars—a rigid system of close measurement and fine manufacturing applied alike to each and every one of the four lines—a common source of engineering skill—a division of overhead and operating costs—a combination of buying resources—a magnificent system of special machines and special processes devised to insure invariable accuracy in the manufacture of all four lines of cars—a positive protective process of guaranteeing the owner exactly the same basic quality no matter what price he pays or which Chrysler car he buys.

Certainty of unsurpassed performance is thus built into every Chrysler car, no matter what its price classification.

The Chrysler plan makes possible greater value for the investment than has heretofore been dreamed by the automobile buyer.

At one step it eliminates "purchaser's risk" and makes possible the purchase of either the lowest-priced or the highest-priced Chrysler with the positive assurance that the quality in each is equally unquestionable.

The production of the Chrysler "70" marked the first step in Walter P. Chrysler's great plan of standardized quality.

It immediately assumed a leadership that is more emphatic today than ever before—despite the fact that there is scarcely a motor car of importance that does not reflect in design or practice the influence of Mr. Chrysler and his engineers.

Certainly not one of the hundreds of thousands of owners who have experienced the extraordinary results it gives in brilliant performance, in riding and handling ease, in safety, in economy of operation, in dependability and in proved long life will ever, again willingly accept less than Chrysler "70" offers.

A demonstration of these superiorities will readily add you to the new thousands every week who are securing in Chrysler "70" the greatest satisfaction and value which the Chrysler Standardized Quality plan makes possible.

DANIELSON

TOOK COPPER BONDING FROM UNUSED TROLLEY RAILS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 10—George LaFontaine, 22, resident here, will be before the town court Wednesday to answer to a charge that he was engaged in removing copper bonding from the trolley rails, at a point between Fall Brook, on the Danielson-Wauregun state highway, and the powerhouse of the Connecticut company at the Dyer dam, two miles south of here, when arrested by State Officer A. W. Williams early this afternoon. LaFontaine had a hammer and chisel and was working along a part of the line back of the home of Omer LaBarre, when arrested. The bonding he is alleged to have removed weighs 18 pounds.

The Connecticut company has previously lost bonding copper since it abandoned operation of the trolleys through this section, November 30 of last year, and an effort has been made to apprehend anyone who might be responsible. Some of the previous losses are believed to have been due to boys. LaFontaine, who has been a residence here about 18 months, hails from Southbridge and is employed with a section crew of the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. company. He worked until 11 a. m. Tuesday and then went away on sick leave. He was arrested within two hours thereafter.

YOUTHS HELD FOR TRIAL FOR LAW-BREAKING IN MAY, 1925

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 10—William Culley 18, and Linwood Stillwell, 18, who live in the East Killingly section of the town, were ordered held for trial at the superior court, after a hearing before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning. Bonds of $1,000 was required in each case. In default of that sum the youths were committed to the county jail at Brooklyn.

The charges on which the youths are held pertain to alleged activities on their part occurring about May 6 of last year. Certain circumstances have delayed prosecution of the case up to now. Meanwhile Stillwell had left town and had been working at Savin Rock, New Haven. He has just been released from jail where he served a short time working out a fine for having been an accessory in a tire thieving operation.

In the Killingly court the charges against Culley and Stillwell have to do with representations that, in May of last year, they entered the garage of George Winslow at East Killingly with the intent to take the machine, but found it not in running order, so took a motor meter and some other things off the car. They are also charged with entering the garage of Cyrus Lewis at East Killingly, after cutting telephone wires leading into his house, and making off with his car, which was found the next day abandoned in not dissimilar woods fcountry. The youths have pleaded guilty to the charges made against them in the Killingly court.

Tuesday morning the funeral of Miss Eugenia Meunier was held from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Demonie Meunier, Franklin street, with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. James' church. Rev. Alpherie Chartier, S. S., a cousin of Miss Meunier, was celebrant of the mass, the other officers of which were Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., Rev. Alphonse Hebert, M. S., and Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends, including a delegation from the Children of Mary, of which Miss Meunier was a member. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, the committal service being conducted by Rev. Fr. Chartier and Rev. Fr. Richards. The bearers were Gerald Bourgeois, Robert Morin, Antonio Poirier, William Gingras, Abel Bernier and Theodore Reeves. Honorary bearers, representing the Children of Mary, were the Misses Anna Mailhot, Philomene Gazeau, Cecilie Regis and Asmelda Guimont. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The restless sea of life cast up a fascinating bit of human wreckage in Danielson Monday evening. Answering a ring at his doorbell, Rev. Leonard R. Richards, rector of St. Alban's church, answered to meet a man of 39, who inquired if there was any work he might do to earn sufficient money to pay for a night's lodging and something to eat.

That outstanding something that marks a person of culture, no matter what his present environment of state of being, immediately attracted the attention of the rector, who invited him into his study and engaged him in conversation. A conversation that continued through the hours developed the fact that the stranger is a graduate of Cambridge university, information he divulged after inquiring and learning that the rector is a graduate of Oxford. The mental brilliancy of this strange derelict developed as the talk progressed. He discussed the Einstein theory and other such abstruse subjects with a keenness and depth of knowledge that was profound. The talk brought to light that he holds the degree, among others, of Doctor of Physics from Cambridge university.

His mentality unimpaired, this cultured man, estranged from his wife, is now physically weakened as the result of long illness that hospital treatment has failed to relieve and is, in a strange land, without funds or many friends. However, he did not leave the rectory without assurance of a comfortable hotel room for the night, a substantial breakfast and his fare to Providence for Tuesday morning.

The annual Field Trip of the Windham County Farmers' association, Thursday, August 12th, promises to be well attended by people from all over Windham county. Everyone who is interested in agriculture is being invited to take part in this most instructive agricultural event. The trip starts at Hampton Hill at 9:15 a. m. (standard time). The vegetable farm of C. B. Jewett & Son, Hampton and the poultry farm of Oliver Brothers, Hampton, will be visited.

The trip will return to Hampton Hill and after a basket lunch and listening to band music, will hear a speaking program. Rush Lewis of New York, the Billy Sunday of the milk world, a man who inspires and talks understandingly, will, undoubtedly, thrill the Field Trip audience with his energetic and convincing delivery.

Below is the speaking program which will begin at 1:45 p. m. (standard time) at Hampton Hill.

9:15 a. m.—Cars assemble, Hampton Hill. 9:45—Farm of C. B. Jewett, Hampton. Fifteen varieties of vegetables; greenhouse; packages and truck. 11:30—Farm of Oliver Brothers, Hampton. 1,000 hens, modern poultry houses; high producing birds on exhibition. 12:45 p. m.—Hampton Hill, basket lunch, speaking.

The speaking program includes: 1:45 p. m.—Charles F. Brenn, president, Windham County Farmers' association; 1:55—Whitman Danielson, secretary treasurer Windham County Farmers' association; 2:05—Frank L. Davis, county agricultural agent; 2:15—Roy E. Jones, extension poultry specialist; 2:30—Rush Lewis—"Putting Business Methods into Agriculture"; 3:30—Start for home after a profitably spent day.

The Windham County Farmers' association officers are: Charles F. Brenn, president; Alexander Maitland, vice-president; Whitman Danielson, secretary and treasurer.

Field trip committee: A. H. Amidon, chairman, Abington; John Z. Labelle, Killingly; Clarence Salmon, Brooklyn; C. B. Jewett, Hampton; George A. Cook, Windham; Thomas Mara, Windham; Frank L. Davis, county agent, co-operating.

Relatives and friends crowded the home of Frank A. Chase, at East Brooklyn, Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to attend his funeral services, conducted by Rev. C. J. Armstrong, of Danielson Baptist church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Everett Colvin, DeForest Wells, Frank M. Bedard, Herbert Lyman, Frank Stimson and Courtland Greene, all representing Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Veterans. There were beautiful floral pieces. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A proposal that appeared at the week end to have been about definitely decided—that of closing the South Killingly school and transporting pupils who study there to Danielson—has taken on a new angle. A petition of interested parties is addressed to the town school committee asking that the South Killingly school be maintained and that the project of transporting the pupils to Danielson be abandoned. It is explained by the opposition that some of those who signed an agreement in favor of having the children come to Danielson now realize that they were not fully cognizant of the significance of the move an dnow, understanding the matter more fully, prefer to have their children taught at the school in South Killingly. A principal objection to the transportation to Danielson plan is that it will involve too great a hardship on the younger pupils during the cold weather period of the year. Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools was out of town Tuesday, and no statement was available from him on the new development. However, there is assurance that the wishes of the people of South Killingly will receive careful consideration.

Leonard Herard, Jr., 4, son of Mr. and Mrs Leonard Herard, of Attawaugan, underwent an emergency operation following an appendicitis attack, being operated upon at the Day Kimball hospital, Tuesday. The boy was removed to the home of the parents, in care of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy.

After their Paris stay they go to London for ten days and are scheduled to sail September 2 from Liverpool for Montreal. Mr. Wood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wood of Academy street.

At the office of School Supt. W. E. Parker, in the town hall building, there are four sample auditorium chairs from which one type may be selected for installation in the south addition to the new high school. One of the chairs has met with almost unanimous approval from scores of people who have happened in and have been invited to try the various chairs and express their opinion of them.
